Rethinking African Agriculture

How Non-Agrarian Factors Shape Peasant Livelihoods

Edited by Goran Hyden, University of Florida, USA, Kazuhiko Sugimura, Fukui Prefectural University, Japan and Tadasu Tsuruta, Kindai University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

Drawn from the hitherto largely unknown Japanese research on the subject, this book argues that rural communities in Africa are shaped by non-agrarian factors in livelihood strategy and social formation. The ethnographic fieldwork focuses on the micro environment of the producers and the broader historical context in which they live and work. The contributors argue that, in comparison with other regions, Africa has never passed through an agrarian revolution that would change the mode of production from within. This book will be of interest to social scientists and anthropologists focusing on African development, agriculture and agrarian societies.

Genocide in Libya

Shar, a Hidden Colonial History

Ali Abdullatif Ahmida

This original research on the forgotten Libyan genocide, specifically recovers the hidden history of the fascist Italian concentration camps (1929 – 1934) through the oral testimonies of Libyan survivors. This book links the Libyan genocide through cross-cultural and comparative readings to the colonial roots of the Holocaust and genocide studies.

Based on the survivors' testimonies, which took over ten years of fieldwork and research to document, this new and original history of the genocide is a key resource for readers interested in genocide and holocaust studies, colonial and post-colonial studies and African and Middle Eastern studies.

Geographic Realities in the Middle East and North Africa

State, Oil and Agriculture

Edited by George Joffe and Richard Schofield

Series: History and Society in the Islamic World

Celebrating the work of Keith McLachlan, a well-known and much-admired geographer of the Middle East and North Africa, this book combines three interrelated topics that define the region. The Middle East has been integral to the growth of the global oil industry, an aspect of its evolution since 1908 which has had profound geopolitical implications as well.

Examining agriculture, oil and state construction, this volume offers an insight into how the contemporary Middle East was constructed after the collapse of the Ottoman Empire. It is a key resource for scholars and students interested in geopolitics and the geography of the Middle East.

Good Governance and Civil-Security Relations

A Comparative Study of Turkey and Egypt

Ahmed Abd Rabou

Series: Routledge Studies in Middle Eastern Democratization and Government

Developing the traditional civil-military relations approach to include security actors, the book compares the style of civil-security relations in both Egypt and Turkey. The book comprehends the competition between civilian actors and military and security actors to impose control over the political regimes in transition and how this is related to the issue of good governance and democratization.

Focusing on civil-security relations within the broader context of good governance and democracy in Egypt and Turkey this book will be a key resource for students and scholars interested in political science, specifically comparative government studies and Middle East studies.

Knowledge and Beauty in Classical Islam

An Aesthetic Reading of the Muqaddima by Ibn Khaldūn

Giovanna Lelli

Series: Routledge Studies in Islamic Philosophy

This volume offers an aesthetic reading of the Muqaddima by Ibn Khaldūn (d. 1406), a text that has been studied up to the present as a work on historiography. It argues that the Muqaddima is also a comprehensive treatise on classical Arab-Islamic culture and provides a picture of classical Arab-Islamic aesthetics in its totality.

Offering a comparative approach, the volume is a key resource to scholars and students interested in Arabic and Islamic studies, philosophy, aesthetics and global history.

Limited Statehood and Informal Governance in the Middle East and Africa

Edited by Ruth Hanau Santini, Università L'Orientale, Italy, Abel Polese and Rob Kevlihan

Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series

This book explores this phenomenon drawing on examples from the Middle East and Africa. It considers the different sorts of actors – state and non-state, public and private, national and transnational – which possess power, examines the dynamics of the relationships between central authorities and other actors, and reviews the varying outcomes. The book provides an alternative view of the way in which governance has been constructed and lived, puts forward a conceptualisation of various forms of governance which have hitherto been regarded as exceptions, and argues for such forms of governance to be regarded as part of the norm.

Palestinian Women and Popular Resistance

Perceptions, Attitudes and Strategies

Liyana Kayali

Series: Routledge Studies on the Arab-Israeli Conflict

This book explores Palestinian women's views of popular resistance in the West Bank and examines factors shaping the nature and extent of their involvement. Despite the signing of the Oslo peace accords in 1993, the Occupied Palestinian Territories in the contemporary period have experienced tightened Israeli occupational control and worsening political, humanitarian, security, and economic conditions. Undertaking a gendered analysis of conflict and resistance, this volume highlights significant changes over the course of a long-running resistance movement.

Social Change in Syria

Family, Village and Political Party

Sulayman N. Khalaf

Series: Routledge / St. Andrews Syrian Studies Series

Studying a rural village in northern Syria during a period of tremendous social and political change (1940s to 1970s), this book offers a unique perspective on how agrarian transformations in land distribution and its use deeply affected social and political relations among a rural community.

Focusing on the village community of Hawi Al-Hawi, this intensely knowledgeable and personal account — a rare combination — brings village life in Syria strikingly close. The volume is an important contribution to the fields of anthropology, social sciences, Syrian and Middle East studies.

Structural Dividers in the Qur'an

Edited by Marianna Klar

Series: Routledge Studies in the Qur'an

This volume showcases a wide range of contemporary approaches to the identification of literary structures within Qur'anic surahs. Recent academic studies of the Qur'an have taken an increasing interest in the concept of the surah as a unity and, with it, the division of complete surahs into consecutive sections or parts.

Bringing a combination of different approaches to Qur'an structure into a single book, written by well-established and emerging voices in Qur'anic studies, the work will be an invaluable resource to academics researching Islam, religious studies, and languages and literatures in general.

JRD Tata and the Ethics of Philanthropy

Sundar Sarukkai

This book introduces readers to the ethics of philanthropy, particularly in the Indian context. Drawing on JRD Tata's philosophy and approach to business, it shows how business and philanthropy were intrinsically related for him. JRD Tata was arguably one of the most influential businessmen in post-independence India, known for his impact on the conduct of business as well as his support for research and education. By discussing ideas such as trusteeship, the notion of profit, the relation between public and private, and social welfare, the book offers an original view of their significance for an ethics of philanthropy in general and Corporate Social Responsibility.

Policy Entrepreneurship

An Asian Perspective

Edited by Michael Mintrom, Dayashankar Maurya and Alex Jingwei He

This book is the first ever comprehensive compilation of research on policy entrepreneurship in Asia, and focused on policy change in China, India, Indonesia, Singapore and Thailand. All the studies gathered here assess the agency of policy entrepreneurs within broader structures that present them with both opportunities and constraints. In their different ways, each chapter explores how structural changes, specific strategies used by policy entrepreneurs, and the practice of boundary spanning shape policy agendas.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Asian Public Policy.

Privatizing Peace

How Commerce Can Reduce Conflict in Space

Wendy N. Whitman Cobb, Associate Professor, Political Science, Department of Social Sciences Cameron University, Lawton, OK, USA

This book explores the privatization of space and its global impact on the future of commerce, peace and conflict. This volume addresses the new rhetoric of space race and weaponization, with a focus on how the costs of potential conflict in space would discourage open conflict and enable global cooperation. It highlights the increasing dependence of the global economy on space research, its democratization, plunging costs of access, and growing economic potential of space-based assets. Reversals of Fortune

Why the Hierarchy Of Nations So Often Turns Topsy-Turvy

Ashok Sanjay Guha, Professor Emeritus, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India

This book examines why has history so often turned the economic and political hierarchy of nations topsy turvy. It argues that the quality of institutions that societies possess nor their capacities for technological innovation matter for the economic and political success of a country. Instead, it is the interaction between current technological knowledge and global demand on the one hand and its geography and the population it inherits from its past on the other. In the process of examining the patterns that inform the fates of nations over time, the book charts the economic histories of Western Europe and Asia from the sixteenth century to the present day.

Theorizing Cohesive Development

An Alternative Paradigm

Edited by Sunil Ray, Neetu Choudhary and Rajeev K Kumar

This volume proposes an alternative development paradigm to the existing capitalist extant one, and studies how it is distinctly different from the older system. Rooted in the principles of solidarity between humans, as well as between humans and nature, this alternative paradigm replaces the methodological individualism of capitalism by 'reciprocal altruism', a new logic of capital, to give pace and direction to the development process. Reframing the Environment

Resources, Risk and Resistance in Neoliberal India

Edited by Manisha Rao, University of Mumbai

This volume unravels the underlying power relations that are masked in the present discourse of ecological sustainability and conflicts over natural resources in India. It looks at the inter-linkages of discourse, resources, risk and resistance in the contemporary neoliberal world, and intersections of conservation and management, science and gender, community politics and governance policies. It will interest students and researchers in sociology, environmental studies, environmental history and anthropology, political ecology, politics, geography, law and human rights, economics, and development studies as well as environmental activists, policymakers, and those in media and journalism.

A Political Biography of Aung San Suu Kyi

A Hybrid Politician

Michał Lubina

Series: Politics in Asia

This book is the first political biography of Aung San Suu Kyi covering both her years in opposition and all her years in power from 2016 onwards. It offers a new interpretation of Aung San Suu Kyi by presenting a balanced and thorough account of Suu Kyi's policies. In the last 30 years there has not been a person in global politics who has risen so high and fallen so low – and so quickly – as Aung San Suu Kyi.

Arms in Academia

The Political Economy of the Modern UK Defence Industry

Elliot Murphy

This book studies how the arms trade has continued to receive generous state subsidies, along with less direct forms of financial and intellectual support from academia in the UK. It examines the ways in which arms dealing has contributed to the violation of human rights in the Middle East, North Africa, South America, and Indochina. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of military and strategic studies, international relations, human rights, and the social sciences in general. It will also be of interest to policy analysts and defence professionals.

ASEAN as a Method

Re-centering Processes and Institutions in Contemporary Southeast Asian Regionalism

Edited by Ceren Ergenc, Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University, China

Series: Politics in Asia

This edited volume proposes that an understanding of ASEAN – its development and institutionalisation – is invaluable to our conception of International relations theory in the Asian context. ASEAN is a hub institution for the greater Asian region, yet its importance and influence are not limited to the policy world. ASEAN is both a test case for regional institutionalization, and for non-Western centric theory building. Combining chapters on ASEAN's internal cooperation, and on its relations with its neighbours and partners, this book provides an interdisciplinary and diverse approach to understanding ASEAN.

Geopolitics in the Era of Globalisation

Mapping an Alternative Global Future

Yogendra Kumar

This book presents an alternative roadmap for a world characterised by geopolitical uncertainty. It surveys the intellectual discourse, the attempts to redesign the global institutions, and the geopolitical trends since the end of the Cold War to understand the contemporary geopolitics, and analyses contemporary geopolitics, the seeming intractability of the global challenges, and the ongoing discourse about preventing their further deterioration. Global Capital and Social Difference

Edited by V. Sujatha

This volume offers insights into ongoing, global socio-economic transformations by directing attention to the significance of labour, work, craft, community, social institutions, social movements and, emergent subjectivities in different parts of the world. This is in contrast to theories that project globalisation as a process driven exclusively by global capital and technology, a scheme in which some parts of the world forever will be 'peripheries'. This book will be of interest to scholars and researchers of sociology, globalisation studies, anthropology, economics, development studies, and Area studies.

Information Regimes During the Cold War in East Asia

Edited by Jason Morgan, Reitaku University, Japan

Series: The Cold War in Asia

This book develops the concept of the Information Regime as a way to understand the use, abuse, and control of information in East Asia during the Cold war period. More important than military might, or economic influence, was the creation of "information regimes" - swaths of territory where a paradigm, ideology, or political arrangement obtained. Information regimes are not necessarily state-centric and many of the contributors to this book focus on examples which were not. Doing so allows us to see that the East Asian Cold War was not really "cold" at all, but was the epicentre of an active, contentious birth of information as the defining element of human interaction.

Pakistan's Security and the India-US Strategic Partnership

Nuclear Politics and Security Competition

Syed Shahid Hussain Bukhari

Series: Routledge Studies in South Asian Politics

This book explores the relationship between the developing India-United States strategic partnership and Pakistan's security. It assesses India and the United States' areas of cooperation to show that the partnership will bring drastic changes for India's military capabilities and modernization of its forces. The book shows that, in addition to enhancing India's domestic nuclear stockpiles through the nuclear cooperation agreement, collaboration in high-tech areas such as space and innovative technologies will enable India to acquire sophisticated delivery systems as well as surveillance capacity.

Paradigms of Justice

Redistribution, Recognition, and Beyond

Edited by Denise Celentano and Luigi Caranti

This book explores the relation between two key paradigms in the contemporary discourse on justice. Partly inspired by the debate between Nancy Fraser and Axel Honneth, it investigates whether the paradigms, redistribution and recognition, are complementary, mutually exclusive, insufficient or essentially inadequate accounts of justice. The chapters engage with concepts such as universal basic income, property-owning democracy, poverty, equality, and self-respect, all of which have an impact on citizens' recognition and distributive policies. The volume will be useful to scholars of politics, law, human rights, economics, social justice, as well as policymakers.

Spies and Their Masters

Intelligence–Policy Relations in Democratic Countries

Matteo Faini

This book delves into the secret histories of the CIA, the FBI and British and Italian intelligence to study how policymakers can control intelligence agencies and when these agencies will try to remove their own government. This book introduces subversion paradox theory to provide a social scientific explanation of the unequal power dynamic resulting from an often-fraught relationship between agencies and their 'masters'. Peace and Conflict Studies

Perspectives from South Asia

Edited by Anindya Jyoti Majumdar and Shibashis Chatterjee

Series: Contemporary Issues in Social Science Research

This volume explores how we theorize, politicise, and practice peace and conflict discourses in the social sciences. As concepts, peace and conflict are intricately interwoven into a web of complementary discourses where states and other actors are able to negotiate, deliberate, and arbitrate their differences short of the overt and covert use of physical violence. Stupidity in Politics

Its Unavoidability and Potential

Nobutaka Otobe

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

Undertaking a theoretical investigation of stupidity, this book challenges the assumption that stupidity can be avoided. Otobe argues that the very ubiquity of stupidity implies its unavoidability - that we cannot contain it in such domains as error, ignorance, or "post-truth." What we witness is rather that one's reasoning can be sound, evidence-based, and stupid. In revealing this unavoidability, he contends that stupidity is an ineluctable problem not only of politics, but also of thinking.

The Decline of the Western-Centric World and the Emerging New Global Order

Contending Views

Edited by Yun-han Chu and Yongnian Zheng

The Western liberal democratic world order, which seemingly triumphed following the collapse of communism, is looking increasingly fragile as populists and nationalists take power in the United States, Europe and elsewhere, as the momentum of democratization in developing countries stalls, and as Western liberal establishments fail to deal with economic stagnation, worsening political polarization, social inequality, and migrant crises.

The Postcolonial Age of Migration

Ranabir Samaddar, Calcutta Research Group, Kolkata, India

This book critically examines the question of migration that appears at the intersection of global neoliberal transformation, postcolonial politics, and economy. It analyses the ways in which colonial relations are produced and reproduced in global migratory flows and their consequences for labour, human rights and social justice. It discusses issues such as transborder flows among countries of the South; migratory movements of the internally displaced; growing statelessness leading to forced migration; border violence; refugees of partitions; labour flows and immigrant labour; and relationships between globalisation, nationalism, citizenship, and migration in postcolonial regions.

The Making of Kropotkin's Anarchist Thought

Disease, Degeneration, Health and the Bio-political Dimension

Richard Morgan

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book argues that the Russian thinker Petr Kropotkin's anarchism was a bio-political revolutionary project. It shows how Kropotkin drew on late nineteenth- and early twentieth-century European and Russian biosocial-medical scientific thought to the extent that ideas about health, sickness, insanity, degeneration, and hygiene were for him not metaphors, but rather key political concerns. It goes on to discuss how for Kropotkin's bio-political anarchism the state, capitalism, and revolution were medical concerns whose effects on the individual and society were measurable by social statistics and explainable by biosocial-medical knowledge.

Classical Buddhism, Neo-Buddhism and the Question of Caste

Edited by Pradeep P. Gokhale, Departments of Philosophy and Pali, Savitribai Phule Pune University, Pune, India

This book examines the interface between Buddhism and the caste system in India. It discusses how Buddhism in different stages, from its early period to contemporary forms (Theravāda, Mahāyāna, Tantrayāna and Navayāna) dealt with the question of caste, along with class and gender. It looks at the interaction between Hinduism and Buddhism and focuses on the radical challenge posed by B. R. Ambedkar's Navayāna Buddhism or neo-Buddhism. The book will be useful to scholars and researchers of Indian philosophy, Buddhist studies, Indology, literature (Sanskrit and Pali), exclusion and discrimination studies, history, political studies, women studies, sociology, and South

Islam, Blasphemy, and Human Rights in Indonesia

The Trial of Ahok

Daniel Peterson

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book analyses whether a 2010 decision of Indonesia's Constitutional Court has rendered the liberal democratic human rights guarantees contained in Indonesia's 1945 Constitution ineffective. Key legal documents, including the indictment issued by the North Jakarta Attorney-General and General Prosecutor, the defence's 'Notice of Defence', and the North Jakarta State Court's convicting judgment are examined.

The Reality behind Quantum Theory

RW Boyer, Independent researcher

This book examines how major interpretations of quantum theory are progressing toward a more unified understanding and experience of nature. It offers subtle insights to address core issues of wave-particle duality, the measurement problem, the mind-body problem, determinism/indeterminism/free will, and the nature of consciousness. It draws from physics, consciousness studies, and 'ancient Vedic science' to outline a new holistic interpretation of quantum theory.

Accessible and thought-provoking, it will be profoundly integrating for scholars and researchers in science and technology, in philosophy, and also in South Asian Studies.

Edited by Jagpal Singh, IGNOU, New Delhi

This book examines the politics of social, cultural and political recognition of caste groups in North India. It explores the factors that make some castes politically influential, while others continue to remain socially and economically marginalized. The author utilizes a multicultural framework to understand why and when various castes have sought to achieve recognition and redistributive justice; to what extent different castes have been able to achieve these goals; and how civil society has engaged with these issues. The volume will be of great interest to scholars of social exclusion, development studies, sociology and social policy, politics, and South Asian studies.

Edited by Koki Seki, Hiroshima University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book examines the actual workings and effects of contemporary political economic shifts in the Global South, and implications for reconfiguring social networks, conceptions and practices of governance, and burgeoning social movements. While drawing on diverse viewpoints in the Philippines, the authors analyze the impact of these processes through the conceptual framework of "emergent sociality," a purported connectedness among individuals fostered through interactions, copresence, and conviviality over a long duration. Case studies in this volume suggest, illuminate, and debate insecurities that may be commonly shared among populations in the Philippines and the Global South.

Gandhi and Architecture

A Time for Low-Cost Housing

Edited by Venugopal Maddipati, School of Design at Ambedkar University Delhi

Gandhi and Architecture: A Time for Low-Cost Housing chronicles the emergence of a low-cost, low-rise housing architecture that conforms to M.K. Gandhi's philosophical emphasis on the need to establish finite boundaries and limits on one's everyday actions. Drawing from rich archival material, the book explores Gandhi's personal human religiosity and the British Spiritualist, Madeline Slade's creation of his low-cost hut, Adi Niwas, in the village of Segaon in the 1930s.

Ranna

Gadāyuddham – The Duel of the Maces

Edited by Akkamahadevi, R.V.S. Sundaram and Ammel Sharon

The Gadāyuddham (The Duel of the Maces) is a kāvya (poetry) composed in classical Kannada literary style at the turn of the eleventh century. It is written in campū, a genre that developed in the tenth century as a mixture of poetry and prose; Ranna employs 'flashbacks', a technique called simhāvalōkana, that is, a lion turning casually to glance behind him. The duel occupies only a short space in the eighth canto, but Ranna takes this time to fill in past episodes and reflect on the impact of war. This thousand-year-old poem will interest scholars as well as lay readers; Please note: Taylor & Francis does not sell or distribute the Hardback in South Asia.

Studies on the Social Construction of Identity and Authenticity

Edited by J. Patrick Williams, Nanyang Technical University, Singapore and Kaylan C. Schwarz, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This volume offers readers insight into social constructionist approaches to identity and authenticity. It focuses on the processes of identification and authentication, rather than on subjective experiences of selfhood. Chapters provide exemplars of contemporary research on identity and authenticity, with significant diversity among them in terms of the identities, cultural milieu, geographic settings, disciplinary traditions, and methodological approaches considered. Contributors introduce readers to a number of established and emerging identity groups from sites around the world, from yogis and punks to fire dancers and social media influencers.

The Calcutta Kerani and the London Clerk in the Nineteenth Century

Life, Labour, Latitude

Sumit Chakrabarti, Professor in Department of English, Presidency University, Kolkata.

This book examines the location and representation of the colonial clerk or the kerani within the cultural and social space of nineteenth century colonial India. It provides a comparative history of the clerk in Calcutta vis-à-vis the clerk in contemporary London in order to understand the manifestations of modernity in these two disparate but intimately related spaces.

The Social Context of Technological Experiences

Three Studies from India

Anant Kamath

Series: Science and Technology Studies

This book demonstrates how technology and society shape one another and that there are intrinsic connections between technological experiences and social relationships. It employs an array of theoretical concepts and methodological tools to examine the technology-society nexus among three urban groups in India (traditional caste-based handloom weavers, subaltern Dalit communities, and informal female labour). It will interest researchers in development studies, science and technology policy and innovation studies, public policy, management, social work, economics, sociology, social exclusion and subaltern studies, besides non-governmental organisations, activists and policymakers.

Travel Culture, Travel Writing and Bengali Women, 1870–1940

Jayati Gupta

This book chronicles travel writings of Bengali women in colonial India and explores the intersections of power, indigeneity, and the representations of the 'self' and the 'other' in these writings. It documents the transgressive histories of these women who stepped out to create emancipatory identities for themselves. The author draws attention to their personal histories, which informed their views on education, womanhood, marriage, female autonomy, family, and politics in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

What is Pluralism?

Edited by Volker Kaul and Ingrid Salvatore

Series: Ethics, Human Rights and Global Political Thought

This book traces the origins of pluralism in contemporary political thought, and presents new, original interpretations of the idea by contemporary philosophers. The essays in the volume bring clarity into an ongoing fractious debate and reveal the underlying roots and fissures in our understanding of a dynamic and contested idea. A key text, this volume will be essential reading for scholars and researchers of politics, political theory and philosophy, and social theory.

Violence against Women and Girls

Understanding Responses and Approaches in the Indian Health Sector

Edited by Sangeeta Rege, CEHAT, Mumbai, Padma Bhate-Deosthali, CEHAT, Mumbai and T K Sundari Ravindran, Sree Chitra Tirunal Institute for Medical Sciences and Technology, Thiruvananthapuram, India

This book discusses the pervasiveness of violence against women (VAW) in India and traces its evolution as a public health concern. It highlights the fundamental relationship between health and violence and identifies institutional gaps, which hinder comprehensive healthcare and support to VAW survivors. It brings together in-depth case studies from various states and civil society organisations on their initiatives to help bring adequate support and health services to women affected by VAW and bring VAW into the public health discourse.

Writing Gender Writing Self

Memory, Memoir and Autobiography

Edited by Aparna Lanjewar Bose

This book engages with the challenges faced by life writings/narratives and studies in gender, turning our customary gaze towards women especially marginal, enabling us to interrogate the established pedagogical practices that accentuates the continuing denial of their agency.; This edited volume brings together 21 essays on life writings produced by both well-established and emerging writers in the field of literature. Many of the essays in this book focus on how the progress of the self is often impeded by the society it finds itself in.

What is Critical in Language Studies?

Disclosing Social Inequalities and Injustice

Edited by Solange Maria de Barros and Dánie M. de Jesus

This volume examines the notion of criticality in language studies. Drawing on the work of the Frankfurt School — Adorno and Horkheimer, Marcuse, Habermas, among others — the essays in the volume examines a variety of linguistic contexts: from gender activism to web journalism, from the classroom to the open streets. This book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of language studies and linguistics, philosophy, politics, and sociology and social policy.

Duelling, the Russian Cultural Imagination, and Masculinity in Crisis

Amanda DiGioia

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Russia and Eastern Europe

This book, written from a feminist perspective, uses the focus of duelling to discuss the nature of masculinity in Russia. It traces the development of duelling and masculinity historically from the time of Peter the Great onwards, considers how duelling and masculinity have been represented in both literature and film and assesses the high emphasis given in Soviet times to gender equality, arguing that this was a failed experiment that ran counter to Russian tradition.

Late Tsarist Russia, 1881–1913

Williams Beryl

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Russia and Eastern Europe

This book brings together the large volume of work on late Tsarist Russia published over the last thirty years, to show an overall picture of Russia under the last two tsars - before the war brought down not only the Russian empire but also those of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey. It turns the attention from the old emphases on workers, revolutionaries and a reactionary government, to a more diverse and nuanced picture of a country which was both a major European great power, facing the challenges of modernization and industrialization, and also a multi-ethnic and multi-confessional empire stretching across both Europe and Asia.

Russia's Food Revolution

The Transformation of the Food System

Stephen K. Wegren

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book analyses the food revolution that has occurred in Russia since the late 1980s, documenting the transformation in systems of production, supply, distribution, and consumption. It examines the dominant actors in the food system, explores how the state regulates food, considers changes in patterns of food trade interactions with other states and discusses how all this and changing habits of consumption have impacted consumers.

Orthodox Revivalism in Russia

Driving Forces and Moral Quests

Milena Benovska

Series: Routledge Religion, Society and Government in Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet States

This book, based on in depth ethnographic fieldwork, explores the social background and moral attitudes of the "little flock" of believers who actively participate in religious life. It reveals that the complex moral beliefs of the faithful have a disproportionately high impact on Russian society overall; that among the faithful there is a strong emphasis on striving for personal perfection; but that also there are strong collective ideas concerning religious nationalism and the synergy between the secular and the religious.

China's Commercial Health Insurance

China Development Research Foundation

Series: Routledge Studies on the Chinese Economy

This book examines the financing of China's health system, argues that present arrangements are not adequate and proposes an increased role for commercial health insurance as a way of overcoming the difficulties. The book highlights that China's present social medical insurance system can only cover basic medical services, with the results that many Chinese people with higher income are going abroad for high-quality medical services and that doctors are not bringing in the salaries and obtaining the social status they expect.

China's International Socialization of Political Elites in the Belt and Road Initiative

Theodor Tudoroiu

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book argues that China's international socialization of the political elites of Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) partner states is an exceptionally effective instrument of China's current foreign policy. It shows how the BRI-related process of socialization generates shared beliefs in the legitimacy and therefore in the acceptability of a Chinese international order among target elites and how in turn the policies and actions of states controlled by these elites tend to become aligned with the norms 'taught' by the Chinese socializer.

China's Quest for Sporting Mega-Events

The Politics of International Bids

Marcus P. Chu, Lingnan University, Hong Kong

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book vividly elucidates the inseparable nature between politics and sport in China. The findings provide an in-depth account of (1) how domestic and international political factors determine the state leaders' blessing and silence as well as the central government's backing, indifference and opposition, and (2) how the bids for the sporting mega-events are used to serve the broader political goals of the Chinese authorities at home and abroad. Additionally, they shed light on the political strategies to boost the Chinese cities' chance of success, and the political reasons for their win, loss and discontinuation, in the bidding contests.

Chinese Energy Companies in Africa

Implications for the Foreign Policy of an Authoritarian State

Kasandra Behrndt-Eriksen, University of Copenhagen, Denmark

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

Over the last decade, Chinese energy companies have engaged in acquisitions of oil and gas in Africa. This book investigates the activities of Chinese energy companies throughout African countries, including Nigeria, Angola, Sudan and Tunisia. Based on empirical research and interviews with Chinese government and company members, original ground is broken in understanding the domestic interest groups in foreign policy. This is also the first publication to focus on the foreign policy behaviour of an authoritarian state. It will serve as a valuable resource for those involved in the fields of foreign policy, international security and international relations.

Doing Labor Activism in South China

The Complicity of Uncertainty

Darcy Pan

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

With a focus on labor NGOs in South China and Western funding agencies, this book investigates the dynamics of state control in post-socialist China since the 1970s, in which rapid economic and social transformations have cultivated an environment of uncertainty.

This book offers an ethnography of the Chinese state that reveals an intimate and complicit modality of self-governing, demonstrating how neoliberal ideas are at once represented by international development and deflected in grassroots development. It will be useful to students and scholars of Social Anthropology and Urban Ethnography, as well as Political

Chinese Hinterland Capitalism and Shanxi Piaohao

Banking, State, and Family, 1720-1910

Luman Wang

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book examines Shanxi piaohao – private financiers from the Chinese hinterland – in the economic history of late imperial China, forming the original theory of Chinese hinterland capitalism. The book foregrounds the expansionist role played by Shanxi piaohao, transforming China from an agrarian empire to a modern nation state. In a departure for economic history, it also narrates the histories of the people and their lifeworlds behind financial institutions, previously erased by universal capitalist narratives. This book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese and economic history, anthropology and post-colonial studies more generally.

Chinese People's Diplomacy and Developmental Relations with East Asia

Trends in the Xi Jinping Era

Edited by Lai To Lee, Mae Fah Luang University, Thailand

Series: Politics in Asia

Since the rise of Xi Jinping China has become more open to share its development experiences with its neighbours. This has become an important part of China's diplomatic relations with the other countries of East Asia. Beijing has also placed an emphasis on people-to-people diplomacy, with outward tourism and other exchanges of peoples seen as an important part of building stronger relations with its neighbours. The chapters in this book all address different elements of this strategy, looking at China's bilateral relationships with other East Asian countries in terms of developmental relations and the increasing mutual exposure of their citizens.

India and China

Economics and Soft Power Diplomacy

Edited by Geeta Kochhar, Assistant Professor (Chinese) at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi and Snehal Ajit Ulman

Series: Routledge Critical Perspectives on India and China

This book looks at the changing dynamics of diplomacy of the two emerging global powers—India and China. It examines trade relations, cultural ties and economic engagements of both countries and their shifting influence in the region surrounding them. It reflects on the challenges the two countries face over bilateral trade negotiations, the BRICS, China's Silk Road project along with other issues of foreign policy. The book underlines the decisive role of the soft power approach and greater people-to-people contact in the global strategies of India and China and in fostering greater cooperation in the region.

2nd Edition

Lives in Exile

Honey Oberoi Vahali, University of New Delhi, India

This book explores the devastating consequences and psychological ruptures of refugeehood as it evocatively recounts the life histories of dislocated Tibetans expelled from their homes since 1959. Following the genre of a story, the book offers dynamic understandings of unconscious processes and the intergenerational transmission of trauma across generations of an exiled and internally displaced people. The author in this new edition highlights and explores the art, artists, and poetry in the exiled community.

Living in the Margins in Mainland China, Hong Kong and India

Edited by Wing Chung Ho, The City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong and Florence Padovani, University of Paris 1 – Sorbonne, France

Series: Margins of Development

Since the financial crisis in the late 2000s, the world seems to have entered an epoch of anxiety featuring populism with varying degrees of protectionism and nationalism. What is the nature of this populist mood as a backlash against globalisation? How do people feel about it and act upon it? Why should specific intellectual attention be paid to the increasingly marginalised by the recent macroscopic structural changes? These are the questions addressed by the contributors this book, illustrated with specific cases from mainland China, Hong Kong and India, all of which have undergone substantial populist or nationalist movements since 2010.

Macau 20 Years after the Handover

Changes and Challenges under "One Country, Two Systems"

Edited by Meng U leong, University of Macau, Macau

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book outlines the major social and political changes in the city of Macau during its first 20 years under the "One Country, Two Systems" arrangement with Mainland China. Despite its return, it retains a unique social, economic and political character, distinct both from the Mainland of China, and from its larger neighbour, Hong Kong. The chapters in this book examine the detail of this uniqueness from a range of perspectives, including the gambling industry, police-society relations, media usage patterns, and protest movements. Analysing the state of affairs 20 years after the return to China, they also attempt to anticipate its future trajectory.

Modern Art for a Modern China

The Intellectual Debate in China, 1900–1930

Yiyan Wang, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

Wang analyses two key areas in the intellectual history of Republican China. The first is China's art reform in the early decades of the 20th century. The second is the connection and intersection between colonialism, nationalism and cosmopolitanism, and their direct impact on the development of art and art practice in China. 'Modern art for a modern China' was the catch-cry of Chinese intellectuals, many of whom were artists, critics, writers, poets and educators. This book discusses how they discussed and implanted changes in China's concept and practice of art. An invaluable resource for scholars and students of China's 20th century intellectual history.

Queer China

Lesbian and Gay Literature and Visual Culture under Postsocialism

Hongwei Bao

Series: Literary Cultures of the Global South

This book analyses queer cultural production in contemporary China to map the broad social transformations in gender, sexuality and desire. It examines queer literature and visual cultures in China's post-Mao and postsocialist era to show how they not only function as context specific and culturally sensitive forms of social activism, but also produce unique gender and sexual subjectivities. It contributes to literary and cultural studies, media and communication studies, film and screen studies, contemporary art, theatre and performance studies, gender and sexuality studies, China/Asia and Global South studies, political theory and the study of social movements.

Reading China Against the Grain

Imagining Communities

Edited by Carlos Rojas and Mei-hwa Sung

Through an analysis of contemporary Chinese literature from inside and outside of China, this volume considers some of the ways in which China and Chineseness are understood and imagined. It contains chapters offering new perspectives on well-known authors, as well as authors rarely included in discussions of contemporary Chinese literature. Invested in issues ranging from identity and representation, translation and grammar, it devotes comparable attention to authors from Mainland China and throughout the global Chinese diaspora. It will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese studies, sinophone studies, and comparative literature.

Regional Inequality in Transitional China

Haifeng Felix Liao, University of Idaho, USA, Yehua Dennis Wei and Li Huang

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book investigates uneven regional development in China – with particular focus on the case of Guangdong province – since economic reform and the ‘opening-up’. It represents one of the first studies to present a picture of inequality, built upon a multi-scale and multi-mechanism framework examining both patterns and mechanisms of regional development and inequality in provincial China. Its authors consider the interplay between local and state, global forces and geographies. Regional Inequality in Transitional China will appeal to scholars and students of geography, economics and Chinese studies more broadly.

Reporting Mental Illness in China

Guy Ramsay, University of Queensland, Australia

Series: Routledge/Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA) East Asian Series

This book examines how Chinese-language newspapers across greater China report on severe mental illness, and why they do so in the ways they do, even that reporting in local newspapers can strongly influence how Chinese readers view the illness.

Employing a well-tested, transparent discourse analytic approach, the book also includes numerous Chinese-English bilingual news report extracts to illustrate its claims. As such, Report Mental Illness in China will be of interest to sinologists, discourse analysts, mental health professionals and public health authorities across the globe, especially in places where there are large Chinese-speaking populations.

Ritual and Economy in Metropolitan China

A Global Social Science Approach

Carsten Herrmann-Pillath, Witten/Herdecke University, Germany, Guo Man and Feng Xingyuan, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, China

Series: Routledge Studies in the Growth Economies of Asia

This book focuses on Shenzhen, one of China's most globalized metropolises, a leading centre of high-tech industries and, as a melting pot of migrants from all over China, a place of vibrant cultural creativity. While in the early stages of Shenzhen's development this vibrant cultural creativity was associated with the resilience of traditional social structures in Shenzhen's migrant 'urban villages', today these structures undergird dynamic entrepreneurship and urban self-organization throughout Shenzhen, and have gradually merged with the formal structures of urban governance and politics.

Social Relations and Political Development in China

Change and Continuity in the “New Era”

Edited by Zhengxu Wang and Dragan Pavličević

Series: Routledge Studies on China in Transition

As China enters its proclaimed ‘New Era’ under President Xi Jinping, this book examines changes and continuity in social relations and political development. Presented as a volume of studies, authors examine structural factors that continue to exert influence on developments in China. Remaining outside many scholarly discussions is a larger backdrop of continuity, into which policies of Xi Jinping's administration are inserted to further shape social, economic and political trajectories, enabling readers to estimate future trends in the ‘New Era’ and beyond. It will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese studies, political science and sociology.

Suzhou in Transition

Edited by Beibei Tang, Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University, China and Paul Cheung

Series: Routledge Studies on China in Transition

Through the lens of the city of Suzhou, this edited volume presents views on the complex interaction between the central state, market agents, local governments and individuals who have shaped the development of Chinese cities and urban life. Featuring a range of disciplinary perspectives, contributors to this volume have all undertaken research in one municipality – Suzhou – to consider how history and culture has evolved during the modernisation of Chinese cities and the transformation of urban space, as well as shifting rural-urban relations and urban life during the reform era.

The Chinese Internet

The Online Public Sphere, Power Relations and Political Communication

Qingning Wang

Series: Media, Culture and Social Change in Asia

This book discusses the use of the internet in China, the complicated power relations in online political communications, and the interactions and struggles between the government and the public over the use of the internet. It argues that there is a "semi-structured" online public sphere, in which there is a certain amount of equal and liberal political communication, but that the online political debates are also limited by government control and censorship, as well as by inequality and exclusions, and moreover that the government rarely engages in the political debates.

The Shenzhen Phenomenon

From Fishing Village to Global Knowledge City

Richard Hu, University of Canberra, Australia

The Shenzhen Phenomenon is a comprehensive and systematic study about how Shenzhen, the world's fastest growing city, has developed into an international metropolis from scratch within 40 years. It unravels the decision and policy making, planning, design, and development processes that have enabled the city's rapid growth, and associated problems and paradoxes. It also reveals the politics and power that have propelled this experimental city to spearhead Deng Xiaoping's 'reform and opening-up' agenda, which has made the city and remade the nation. Produced at the 40th anniversary of Shenzhen, this timely volume offers a comprehensive and systematic chronicle of the city.

Avant-Garde Art and Non-Dominant Thought in Postwar Japan

Image, Matter, Separation

K. Yoshida

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

This book offers a reassessment of how 'matter' – in the context of art history, criticism and architecture – pursued a radical definition of 'multiplicity', against the dominant and hierarchical tendencies underwriting post-fascist Japan. Through theoretical analysis of works by artists and critics such as Okamoto Taro, Tsuruoka Masao, Kawaguchi Tatsuo and Muraoka Saburō, this highly illustrated text identifies formal oppositions frequently evoked in the Japanese avant-garde, between cognition and image; self and other; human and thing; one and many, in mediums ranging from painting and photography, to sculpture and architecture.

Censorship in Japan

Heung Wah Wong and Hoi Yan Yau

Series: Routledge Culture, Society, Business in East Asia Series

This book explores censorship, particularly film and video censorship, in Japan in modern times. It shows how most censorship has been the industry exercising self-censorship, but how this system has been problematic in that it has allowed dominant players to impose their own standards and exclude independent film makers. It outlines notable obscenity cases, and discusses how industry self-censorship bodies have been undermined both by industry outsiders setting up alternative regimes, and by the industry self-censorship bodies themselves being prosecuted for obscenity. The book also examines the conflict between the obscenity law and the freedom of speech law.

Child Guidance Centres in Japan

Alternative Care, Social Work, and the Family

Michael Rivera King, Ashinaga Association, UK

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

In contemporary Japan, 85% of children in alternative care remain housed in large welfare institutions, as opposed to family-based foster care. This publication examines how Japan has been isolated from global discourse on alternative care, urging a shift in social work and alternative care policies. As the first ethnographic account from inside child guidance centres, it makes a key contribution towards understanding the closed world of Japan's social services, with reference to detailed case studies and discussions around the organisational cultures of the child guidance centres.

Eisaku Sato, Japanese Prime Minister, 1964-72

Okinawa, Foreign Relations, Domestic Politics and the Nobel Prize

Ryuji Hattori and Graham B. Leonard

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book is a biography of Eisaku Satō (1901-75), who served as prime minister of Japan from 1964 to 1972, before Prime Minister Abe the longest uninterrupted premiership in Japanese history. The book focuses on Satō's management of Japan's relations with the United States and Japan's neighbours in East Asia, where Satō worked to normalize relations with South Korea and China. It also covers domestic Japanese politics, particularly factional politics within the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), where Satō, as the founder of what would become the largest LDP faction, was at the centre of LDP politics for decades.

New Directions in Japan's Security

Non-U.S. Centric Evolution

Edited by Paul Midford and Wilhelm Vosse

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

While the US-Japan alliance has strengthened since the end of the Cold War Japan has, almost unnoticed, been building security ties with other partners, in the process reducing the centrality of the US in Japan's security; this book explains why this is happening. New Directions in Japan's Security is an essential resource for scholars focused on matters of Japan's national security. It will also interest on a wider basis those wishing to understand why Japan is developing non-American directions in its security strategy.

Popular Culture and the Transformation of Japan–Korea Relations

Edited by Rumi Sakamoto, University of Auckland, New Zealand and Stephen Epstein, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

Series: Asia's Transformations

This book presents essays exploring the ways in which popular culture reflects and engenders ongoing changes in Japan–Korea relations. From the colonial period to the contemporary, its contributors link several key areas of interest in East Asian Studies, including conflicts over historical memories and cultural production, grassroots challenges to state ideology, and the consequences of digital technology in Japan and South Korea. Taking recent discourse on Japan and South Korea as popular cultural superpowers further, this book expands its focus from mainstream entertainment media to the lived experience of daily life, in which sentiments and perceptions of the 'popular' are formed.

Routledge Handbook of Japanese Cinema

Edited by Joanne Bernardi, University of Rochester, USA and Shota T. Ogawa, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA

This handbook provides a timely and expansive overview of Japanese cinema today, through cutting-edge scholarship that reflects the hybridity of the field. It recasts traditional questions of authorship, genre, and industry in broad conceptual frameworks such as gender, media theory, archive studies, and neoliberalism. This is the first anthology of Japanese cinema scholarship to span two hundred years from the vibrant magic lantern culture of the nineteenth century, through to the formation of the film industry in the twentieth century, and culminating in cinema's migration to gaming, surveillance video, and other new media platforms of the twenty first century.

Social Change in Japan, 1989-2019

Social Status, Social Consciousness, Attitudes and Values

Edited by Carola Hommerich, Naoki Sudo and Toru Kikkawa

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

Based on extensive survey data, this book examines how the population of Japan has experienced and processed three decades of rapid social change from the highly egalitarian high growth economy of the 1980s to the economically stagnating and demographically shrinking gap society of the 2010s. It discusses social attitudes and values towards, for example, work, gender roles, family, welfare and politics, highlighting certain subgroups which have been particularly affected by societal changes.

The Representation of Japanese Politics in Manga

The Visual Literacy Of Statecraft

Edited by Roman Rosenbaum, University of Sydney, Australia

Series: Routledge/Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA) East Asian Series

This edited volume explores political motives, discourses and agendas in Japanese manga and graphic art with the objective of highlighting the agency of Japanese and wider Asian story-telling traditions within the context of global political traditions. Highly illustrated chapters presented here investigate the multifaceted relationship between Japan's political storytelling practices, demonstrating that manga and the mediality of graphic arts have begun to actively incorporate political discourses, undermining hegemonic cultural constructs that support the status quo or emerging brands of Japanese neonationalism.

Against the Empire

Polity, Economy and Culture during the Anglo-Kuki War, 1917-1919

Edited by Ngamjahao Kipgen, Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati, India and Doungul Letkhojam Haokip, Department of History, Gauhati University, Assam, India

This book explores the Kuki uprising against the British Empire during the First World War in Northeast frontier of India (then Assam-Burma frontier). It sheds light on how the three-year war (1917–1919), spanning over 6,000 square miles, is crucial to understanding present-day Northeast India. It taps on a variety of sources — from civilizational discourse to indigenous readings of the war, from tour diaries to oral accounts, and will be of great interest to scholars of South Asian Studies, modern history, military and strategic studies, insurgency and counterinsurgency studies, tribal warfare, and politics.

Ambedkar's Vision of Economic Development for India

Edited by Gummadi Sridevi

This book discusses Ambedkar's engagements with the issues of social justice, economic development, and caste enclosures. Through an analysis of Ambedkar's interdisciplinary works, the book discusses issues of rural poverty, lagging infrastructure growth, the persistence of an exploitative ruling class, and the economic and social marginalisation of the downtrodden which are still relevant today. Further, it offers solutions for a restructuring of the society under democratic principles which would recognise the basic right of all to social dignity, and devise means to insure against social and economic insecurity.

ASEAN and Power in International Relations

ASEAN, the EU, and the Contestation of Human Rights

Edited by Jamie D. Stacey

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book analyses the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) as a powerful actor in International Relations by examining how the ASEAN community has evolved, looking specifically at its relationship with the EU with regards to human rights. The book adds to important contemporary debates within constructivist theory, shedding light on the need for 'critical' constructivism that emphasises language and contestation and what that may entail.

City Planning in India, 1947–2017

Edited by Ashok Kumar, Sanjeev Vidyarthi and Poonam Prakash

This book is a comprehensive history of city planning in post-independence India. It explores how the conceptualization of city-planning, the challenges of urban development and policymaking have evolved in the changing socio-political context over the past hundred years in India and the global south. It focuses on the development, scope and significance of professional planning work in the midst of rapid economic transition, migration, social disparity, and environmental degradation. The volume also highlights the need for inclusive planning processes which can provide clean air, water and community spaces to large, diverse, and fast-growing communities.

Crossover Stars in the Hindi Film Industry

Globalizing Pakistani Identity

Dina Khdaer

This book explores the cultural politics of Pakistani crossover stardom in the Hindi film industry as a process of both assimilation and 'Otherness'. It analyses the career profiles of three crossover performers—Ali Zafar, Fawad Khan, and Mahira Khan. As the first comprehensive study of Pakistani crossover stardom, it captures intersections between political economy, cultural representation and nationalist discourse, at the same time reflecting on larger questions of identity and belonging in an age of globalization. It will be indispensable to researchers of film studies, media and cultural studies, peace and area studies, and South Asian studies.

Cultural Histories of India

Subaltern Spaces, Peripheral Genres, and Alternate Historiography

Edited by Rita Banerjee

Series: Routledge Studies in South Asian History

Examining cultural encounters between Europeans and Indians during the pre-colonial and colonial periods, the book analyses European, especially English, efforts to exoticize or investigate the social practices of the Other. It also presents the culturally conditioned Indian subject's perspective on Europe and the imperial society. The book engages with narratives of suppressed movements of tribals and Dalits, of erosion of culture and history of ancient communities, and recovers the local narratives of marginalized groups in Andaman and Malabar, which get superseded by the larger narrative of nation-building.

English Education in India, 1715-1835

Half-Caste, Missionary, and Secular Stages

Rajesh Kochhar, Panjab University Mathematics Department, Chandigarh

This book identifies and describes the first stage in the advent and growth of English education in India. The first schools in India were the charity schools, asylums and orphanages opened under the auspices of the Church of England for religious instruction, training and care of 'half-caste' or mixed-race children, the progeny of Protestant fathers from Indian women. It examines the influence of the 'half-caste' community and the missionaries on the growing Indian demand for English education and opportunities for employment.

Indian Migrants in Tokyo

A Study of Socio-Cultural, Religious, and Working Worlds

Megha Wadhwa

Series: Routledge Studies on Asia in the World

The number of Indians in Japan is increasing. The links between Japan and India go back a long way in history, and the intricacy of their cultures is one of many factors they have in common. Japanese culture and customs are among the most distinctive, unique and complex in the world, and it is often difficult for foreigners to get used to them. Wadhwa focuses on the Indian Diaspora in Tokyo, and analyses their lives as Indians there using a combination of interviews and participant observation as well as secondary data. She examines their lifestyles, fears, problems, relations and expectations as foreigners in Tokyo and how living in Tokyo affects their identity as Indians.

Indian Perspectives on Consciousness, Language and Self

The School of Recognition on Linguistics and Philosophy of Mind

Marco Ferrante

Series: Routledge Hindu Studies Series

This book examines the theory of consciousness developed by the school of Recognition, an Indian philosophical tradition that thrived around the 10th c. CE in Kashmir, and argues that consciousness has a linguistic nature. It situates the doctrines of the tradition within the broader Indian philosophical context and establishes connections with the contemporary analytic debate. The book focuses on Utpaladeva and Abhinavagupta (tenth c. CE), two Hindu intellectuals belonging to the school of Recognition, Pratyabhijñā in Sanskrit.

Power, Presence and Space

South Asian Rituals in Archaeological Context

Edited by Henry Albery, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany, Jens-Uwe Hartmann,

Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany and Himanshu Prabha Ray, Distant Worlds Programme, Ludwig Maximilian University in Munich, Germany

Series: Archaeology and Religion in South Asia

Patterns of ritual power, presence, and space are fundamentally connected to, and mirror, the societal and political power structures in which they are enacted. This book explores these connections in South Asia from the early Common Era until the present day. This volume argues for the need to redress historical neglect in identifying and theorising ritual and religion in material contexts within archaeology. Further, it challenges existing forms of documentation to propose new ways of understanding rituals in history. It will be of great interest to scholars of South Asian history, religion, archaeology, and historical geography.

Rising Islamic Conservatism in Indonesia

Islamic Groups and Identity Politics

Edited by Leonard C. Sebastian, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, Syafiq Hasyim, UIN Jakarta, Indonesia and Alexander R. Arifianto, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Series: Politics in Asia

This edited volume argues that the rise of Islamic conservatism poses challenges to Indonesia's continued existence as a secular state, with far-reaching implications for the social, cultural and political fortunes of the country. It contributes a model of analysis in the field of Indonesian and Islamic studies on the logic of Islamic conservative activism in Indonesia. This volume presents informative case studies of discourses and expressions of Islamic conservatism expressed by leading mainstream and upcoming Indonesian Islamic groups and interpret them in a nuanced perspective.

Personal Narratives, Social Forces and Negotiations

Edited by Achla Pritam Tandon, Gopi Devdutt Tripathy and Rashi Bhargava

This book is a collection of autobiographical narratives by leading social scientists working across South Asia. It explores the linkages between their personal experiences and academic pursuits, and analyses how personal, political and professional choices shape knowledge production and effect social transformation. The narratives revisit long standing debates on objectivity and subjectivity, and attempt to collapse the binaries that have informed the social sciences till now. The volume will be indispensable to researchers of sociology, anthropology, history, creative writing, biography studies, and South Asian studies.

Spatial Imaginings in the Age of Colonial Cartographic Reason

Maps, Landscapes, Travelogues in Britain and India

Nilanjana Mukherjee, Department of English, Shaheed Bhagat Singh College, University of Delhi

This volume explores how India as a geographical space was constructed by the British colonial regime in visual and material terms. It sheds light on the primary dominance of cartographic reason in the age of European Enlightenment which framed aesthetic and scientific modes of representations and imaginings. Rethinking colonial constructions of modern India, this volume will be of immense interest to scholars and researchers of modern history, cultural geography, colonial studies, English literature, cultural studies, art, visual studies and area studies.

The 2018 and 2019 Indonesian Elections

Identity Politics and Regional Perspectives

Edited by Leonard C. Sebastian, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Alexander R. Arifianto, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

The 2018/19 Indonesian elections were among the most divisive elections in Indonesian history, where identity politics and ethno-religious sentiments were prevalent not just during the 2019 presidential election, but also during the 2018 regional executive elections as well. Contributors to this edited volume analysed the dynamics between identity politics, national, and local politics and produce findings and insights that will inform prospective readers regarding the future of identity politics and how it may affect Indonesian politics for the intermediate future.

True Crime Writings in Colonial India

Offending Bodies and Darogas in Nineteenth-Century Bengal

Shampa Roy

This book deals with true crime writings of the late 1800s published by 'lowbrow publishing houses' — infamous for publishing 'sensational' literature — which had an avid genteel readership. It focuses on select translations of true crime writings by Bakaulah and Priyanath Mukhopadhyay who worked Detective Inspectors in the police department in mid-late 19th century colonised Bengal. It will be of much interest to scholars and researchers of comparative literature, translation studies, gender studies, literary theory, cultural studies, modern history, and lovers of crime fiction from all disciplines.

Understanding Governance in South Asia

Edited by Adluri Subramanyam Raju

This book discusses governance in South Asia and argues that since post-colonial administrative system in the South Asian countries is built upon pre-colonial administrative traditions, good governance in the region demands that these countries develop and adopt an indigenous model of administration rather than simply borrowing models and ideas from the West. South Asian countries can learn from each other's experiences in order to find pragmatic solutions to the challenges of good governance. ; Please note: T&F does not sell or distribute the Hardback in South Asia.
