An Intersectional Feminist Theory of Moral Responsibility

Michelle Ciurria, University of Missouri-St. Louis, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This book develops an intersectional feminist approach to moral responsibility. It accomplishes four main goals. First, it outlines a concise list of the main principles of intersectional feminism. Second, it uses these principles to critique prevailing philosophical theories of moral responsibility. Third, it offers an account of moral responsibility that is compatible with the ethos of intersectional feminism. And fourth, it uses intersectional feminist principles to critique culturally normative responsibility practices.

Confucianism and the Philosophy of Well-Being

Richard Kim, Saint Louis University, USA
Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

This book develops a Confucian account of well-being, considering contemporary accounts of ethics and virtue in light of early Confucian thought and philosophy. It is original in integrating philosophical accounts of Confucianism with contemporary empirical psychology to develop an account of well-being.

Derek Parfit's Reasons and Persons

An Introduction and Critical Inquiry

Edited by Andrea Sauchelli, Lingnan University, Hong Kong
Derek Parfit (1942 - 2017) is widely considered to be one of the most important moral philosophers of the Twentieth Century. Reasons and Persons is arguably the most influential of the two books published in his lifetime and hailed as a classic work of ethics and personal identity.

This outstanding introduction to and assessment of Parfit's book - by leading scholars of ethics, metaphysics and of Parfit's work - is ideal for students of ethics, metaethics, metaphysics and anyone interested in Derek Parfit's philosophy.

Higher-Order Evidence and Moral Epistemology

Edited by Michael Klenk, Delft University of Technology, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology

This book offers a systematic look at current challenges in moral epistemology through the lens of research on higher-order evidence. Fueled by recent advances in empirical research, higher-order evidence has generated a wealth of insights about the genealogy of moral beliefs. This volume explores how these insights have an impact on the epistemic status of moral beliefs. It will be of interest to researchers and advanced graduate students working in epistemology and metaethics.

The Repugnant Conclusion

A Philosophical Inquiry

Christopher Cowie, University of Durham, UK

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

The Repugnant Conclusion is a controversial theorem about population size. It states that a sufficiently large population of lives that are barely worth living is better than a smaller population of high quality lives. This is highly counter-intuitive. It implies that we can improve the world by trading quality of life for quantity of lives. Can it be defended?

Highly recommended for those interested in ethics, applied ethics and population studies The Repugnant Conclusion will also be of interest to those in related disciplines such as economics, development studies, politics and international relations.

Understanding Digital Ethics

Cases and Contexts

Jonathan Beever, Rudy McDaniel and Nancy A. Stanlick,
University of Central Florida, USA

Rapid changes in technology and the growing use of electronic media signals a need for understanding both clear and subtle ethical and social implications of the digital, and of specific digital technologies. Understanding Digital Ethics: Cases and Contexts is the first book to offer a philosophically grounded examination of digital ethics and its moral implications. Essential reading for students and scholars of philosophical ethics, those working on topics related to digital technology and digital/moral literacy, and practitioners in related fields.

Well-Founded Belief

New Essays on the Epistemic Basing Relation

Edited by J. Adam Carter, University of Glasgow, UK and
Patrick Bondy, Brandon University, Canada

Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology

Epistemological theories of knowledge and justification draw a crucial distinction between one's simply having good reasons for some belief, and one's actually basing one's belief on good reasons. This book brings together leading epistemologists to explore the epistemic basing relation. Section I covers the nature of this relation and articulates defensible accounts of what it takes to believe on the basis of a reason. Section II explores the kind of things that can be reasons on the basis of which we hold beliefs.

Hegel's Civic Republicanism

Integrating Natural Law with Kant's Moral Constructivism

Edited by Kenneth R. Westphal, Bogaziçi University, Turkey

Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth-Century Philosophy

This book argues that Hegel developed a robust form of civic republicanism. It identifies the proper genre to which Hegel's Philosophical Outlines of Justice belongs and to which it so prodigiously contributes, which he calls Natural Law Constructivism, an approach developed by Hume, Rousseau, Kant, and Hegel. It brings to bear Hegel's adoption and augmentation of Kant's Critique of rational judgment and justification in all non-formal domains to his moral philosophy. Westphal argues that Hegel's justification of the standards of political legitimacy successfully integrates Rousseau's Independence Requirement into the role of public reason within a constitutional republic.

Kant and the Continental Tradition

Sensibility, Nature, and Religion

Edited by Sorin Baiasu, Keele University, UK and Alberto Vanzo, University of Warwick, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Eighteenth-Century Philosophy

This book features original essays on three central themes in Kantian and post-Kantian philosophy: sensibility, nature, and religion. Half of the essays aim to disentangle complex exegetical knots that emerge in the interpretation of Kant's own views of the character of sensibility, the unity of nature, and the constitution of symbolic representation in religion. The other chapters explore the interactions that arise, in these three thematic areas, between Kant and prominent Continental philosophers such as Hannah Arendt, Jacques Derrida, Luce Irigaray, and Jean-François Lyotard.

Levinas and Analytic Philosophy

Second-Person Normativity and the Moral Life

Edited by Michael Fagenblat, Open University of Israel and Melis Erdur

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

This volume examines the relevance of Emmanuel Levinas's work to recent developments in analytic philosophy. Contemporary analytic philosophers working in metaethics, the philosophy of mind, and the metaphysics of personal identity have argued for views similar to those espoused by Levinas. Often disparately pursued, Levinas's account of "ethics as first philosophy" affords a way of connecting these respective enterprises and showing how moral normativity enters into the structure of rationality and personal identity.

The Sartrean Mind

Edited by Matthew Eshleman, University of North Carolina - Wilmington, USA and Constance Mui

Series: Routledge Philosophical Minds

Jean-Paul Sartre was one of the most important philosophers of the twentieth century. His influence extends beyond academic philosophy to areas as diverse as anti-colonial movements, youth culture, literary criticism, and artistic developments around the world.

Beginning with an introduction and biography of Sartre, this book comprises 42 chapters by a team of international contributors, covering all the major aspects of Sartre's thought.

It is essential reading for students and researchers in philosophy, as well as for those in related disciplines where Sartre's work has continuing importance such as literature, French studies, and politics.

Wittgenstein and the Limits of Language

Edited by Hanne Appelqvist, University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Philosophy

This collection provides a comprehensive overview of the various ways in which Wittgenstein appeals to the limit of language at different stages of his philosophical development. The essays connect the idea of a limit of language to the most important themes discussed by Wittgenstein—his conception of logic and grammar, the method of philosophy, the nature of the subject, and the foundations of knowledge—as well as his views on ethics, aesthetics, and religion. The essays also relate Wittgenstein's thought to his contemporaries, including Carnap, Frege, Heidegger, Levinas, Moore, and Russell.

7th Edition

Core Questions in Philosophy

Elliott Sober

Writing in an engaging lecture-style format, Elliott Sober shows students how philosophy is best used to evaluate many different kinds of arguments and to construct sound theories. Well known arguments and problems from the history of philosophy are discussed and analyzed, not as a means to honor the dead or merely to discuss what various philosophers have thought, but to engage with, criticize, and even improve ideas from the past. In addition—because philosophy cannot function apart from its engagement with the wider society—traditional and contemporary philosophical problems are brought into dialogue with the physical, biological, and social sciences.

Three Volume Set

Ernst Cassirer and S. G. Lofts, King's University College, University of Western Ontario, Canada

Series: The Philosophy of Symbolic Forms

Cassirer occupies a unique space in Twentieth-century philosophy, and The Philosophy of Symbolic Forms is his most important work. In it he presents a radical new philosophical worldview - at once rich, creative and controversial - of human beings as fundamentally "symbolic animals", placing signs and systems of expression between themselves and the world.

This major new translation, the first for over fifty years, brings Cassirer's magnum opus to a new generation of students and scholars. Correcting errors in previous English editions, it reflects the significant advances in Cassirer scholarship over the last thirty years.

Jaroslav Peregrin, Institute of Philosophy of the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book addresses the development of modern logic, especially its introducing various kinds of artificial languages and moving from the study of natural languages. This book addresses the new kinds of philosophical problems intertwined with this development. Peregrin analyzes the rationale behind the introduction of the artificial languages; classifies the tools which were adopted to build such languages; summarizes the kinds of languages introduced in the course of modern logic; discusses what can be achieved by relocating the problems of logic from natural language into them; and reaches certain conclusions about the possibilities and limitations of the formal turn of logic.

John N. Martin, University of Cincinnati, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Seventeenth-Century Philosophy

This book sets out for the first time in English and in the terms of modern logic the semantics of the Port Royal Logic, perhaps the most influential logic book in the 17th and 18th centuries. Its goal is to explain how the Logic reworks the foundation of pre-Cartesian logic so as to make it compatible with Descartes' metaphysics. The book aims to detail how the Logic reoriented semantics so that it centered on the notion of intentional content. Another recurring theme is the degree to which the Logic hews to medieval theory. This interpretation is at odds with what has become a standard reading among French scholars.

An Introduction to Implicit Bias

Knowledge, Justice, and the Social Mind

Edited by Erin Beeghly and Alex Madva

An interdisciplinary exploration of implicit bias, the volume brings together philosophical perspectives with the perspectives of the social sciences to develop rich lines of inquiry. It is written in a non-technical style, using relatable examples that help readers understand what implicit bias is, its significance, and the controversies surrounding it. Each chapter includes discussion questions and additional reading suggestions.

Neurofunctional Prudence and Morality

A Philosophical Theory

Marcus Arvan

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

This book outlines a theory of prudence and morality that unifies a wide variety of findings in neuroscience with philosophically sophisticated normative theorizing. The author shows how human moral and prudential cognition and motivation are known to involve over a dozen brain regions and capacities. He then outlines a detailed normative philosophical theory of prudence and morality based on neuroscience and lived human experience. The result demonstrates how this theory coheres with and explains the behavioral neuroscience, showing how each brain region and capacity interacts to give rise to normatively prudent and moral behavior.

Empathy

Heidi Maibom, University of Cincinnati, USA

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

Empathy is one of the most talked about and widely studied concepts of recent years. Some argue it can help create a more just society, improve medical care and even avert global catastrophe. Others object that it is morally problematic. Who is right? And what is empathy anyway?

In this thorough and clearly-written introduction to the philosophy of empathy Heidi Maibom explores these questions and more. It is essential reading for students of philosophy of mind and psychology, psychology, and cognitive science, as well as for those in related subjects such as art, literature and politics.

Philosophy of Mind: The Basics

Amy Kind, Claremont McKenna College, USA

Series: The Basics

Philosophy of Mind: The Basics is a concise and engaging introduction to the fundamental philosophical questions and theories about the mind. Written by a leading expert in the field, Amy Kind examines and explains key questions such as:

What is the nature of the mind? What is the relationship between the mind and the brain? Can machines have minds? What is the future of the mind?

With a glossary of key terms and suggestions for further reading this book is an ideal starting point for anyone seeking a lively and accessible introduction to the rich and complex study of philosophy of mind.

Inference and Consciousness

Edited by Timothy Chan, University of Oslo, Norway and Anders Nes, University of Oslo, Norway

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

Inference has long been a central concern in epistemology, as well as a key notion in influential psychological accounts of mental capacities. Consciousness, on the other hand, has arguably been the defining interest of philosophy of mind over recent decades. Comparatively little attention, however, has been devoted to the significance of consciousness for the proper understanding of the character and role of inference. This book brings together original essays that showcase how several current debates in epistemology, philosophy of psychology, and philosophy of mind can benefit from more reflection on these and related questions about the significance of consciousness for inference.

The Complex Reality of Pain

Jennifer Corns, University of Glasgow, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book employs contemporary philosophy, scientific research, and clinical reports to argue that pain, though real, is not an appropriate object of scientific generalisations or medical intervention. Each pain experience is complex and idiosyncratic in a way which undermines scientific utility. In addition to contributing novel arguments and developing a new position on the nature of pain, the book provides an interdisciplinary overview of dominant models of pain. The author lays the needed groundwork for improved models and targeted treatments at a time when pain science, pain medicine, and philosophy are explicitly searching for both and failing to find them.

The Developing Mind

A Philosophical Introduction

Stephen Butterfill, University of Warwick, UK

The first book to critically introduce and examine philosophical questions concerning children's cognitive development and considers the implications of scientific breakthroughs for the philosophy of developmental psychology.

Throughout the book, Stephen Butterfill draws on important case studies, including experiments with children on objects and their interactions, 'false belief tasks', and the process by which children come to see other people, not just themselves, as purposive agents. Additional features, such as a glossary and extensive bibliographic references, provide helpful tools for those coming to the subject for the first time.

Moral Theory and Climate Change

Ethical Perspectives on a Warming Planet

Dale E. Miller and Ben Eggleston

In this volume, nine leading ethicists in nine separate chapters each present a major ethical theory and discuss the implications of that theory for our responses to a rapidly warming planet. Each chapter first provides an exposition of the theory before working out the implications of the theory for dealing with climate change. In addition, two initial stage-setting chapters review the state of the art in climate science and the related ethical quandaries that we face.

4th Edition

Philosophy of Science

A Contemporary Introduction

Alex Rosenberg and Lee McIntyre

Series: Routledge Contemporary Introductions to Philosophy

Any serious student attempting to better understand the nature, methods, and justification of science will value this book. Weaving lucid explanations with clear analyses, the volume is as a much-used, thematically-oriented introduction to the field. The new edition has been thoroughly rewritten based on instructor and student feedback, to improve readability and accessibility, without sacrificing depth. It retains all of the logically structured, extensive coverage of earlier editions, which the journal Teaching Philosophy called, "the industry standard" and "essential reading" in a 2010 review.

The Aesthetics of Science

Beauty, Imagination and Understanding

Edited by Milena Ivanova, University of Cambridge, UK and Steven French, University of Leeds, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Science

This volume builds on two recent developments in philosophy on the relationship between art and science: the notion of representation and the role of values in theory choice and the development of scientific theories. Its aim is to address questions regarding scientific creativity and imagination, the status of scientific performances—such as thought experiments and visual aids—and the role of aesthetic considerations in the context of discovery and justification of scientific theories. It will be of interest to researchers and advanced students in philosophy of science and aesthetics, as well as other subdisciplines such as epistemology and philosophy of mathematics.

Creating Future People

The Ethics of Genetic Enhancement

Jonathan Anomaly

A fast-paced primer on how new genetic technologies will enable parents to influence the traits of children. Jonathan Anomaly deftly explains the science of gene editing and embryo selection, and motivates the moral questions it raises with colorful language and a brisk style. The author takes seriously the diversity of preferences parents have, and the limits policymakers face in regulating what may be a global market for reproductive technology.

Between Deontology and Justice

Chinese and Western Perspectives

Genyou Wu, Professor, School of Philosophy, Wuhan University, China and Yong Li

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Chinese Philosophy

The book explores some essential elements of Chinese ancient political philosophy, such as the ideas of rights, foundations of law, the transference of power, democracy and other political issues as exemplified in classical Chinese political philosophy. Drawing on comparisons between Chinese and Western political philosophy, the author also discusses how to establish a Chinese modern state and how to promote Chinese culture today so that it can influence more and more people around the world. Scholars of Chinese philosophy, political philosophy and Chinese culture will find this book resourceful and enlightening.

Injustice for All

America's Dysfunctional Criminal Justice System and How to Fix It

Chris W Surprenant and Jason Brennan

Injustice for All systematically diagnoses why and where American criminal justice goes wrong, and offers functional proposals for reform. By changing who pays for what, how people are appointed, how people are punished, and which things are criminalized, we can make the US a country which guarantees justice for all. Fully integrates tools from philosophy and social science, the book shows how bad incentives, not "bad apples," cause the dysfunction in American criminal justice.

Commutative Justice

A Liberal Theory of Just Exchanges

Carl David Mildenberger, University of St. Gallen, Switzerland

Series: Political Philosophy for the Real World

This book develops a liberal theory of justice in exchange. It identifies the conditions that market exchanges need to fulfill to be just. It also addresses head-on a consequentialist challenge to existing theories of exchange, namely that, in light of new harms faced at the global level, we need to consider the combined consequences of millions of market exchanges to reach a final judgment about whether some individual exchange is just. The author argues that, even if we accept this challenge, the effect of it is minimal.

Political Phenomenology

Experience, Ontology, Episteme

Edited by Thomas Bedorf, FernUniversität in Hagen, Germany and Steffen Herrmann, FernUniversität in Hagen, Germany

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

In recent years phenomenology has become a resource for reflecting on political questions. While much of this discussion has primarily focused on the ways in which phenomenology can help reformulate central concepts in political theory, the chapters in this volume ask in a methodological and systematic way how phenomenology can connect first-person experience with normative principles in political philosophy. The chapters cover the phenomenology of political experience, the phenomenology of political ontology, and the phenomenology of political episteme.

How Propaganda Became Public Relations

Foucault and the Corporate Government of the Public

Cory Wimberly, The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book pulls back the curtain on propaganda: how it was born, how it works, and how it has masked the bulk of its operations by rebranding itself as public relations. It uses archival materials and wide variety of sources—Foucault's work on governmentality, political economy, liberalism, mass psychology, and history—to mount a genealogical challenge to two commonplaces about propaganda. First, modern propaganda began as a for-profit service for businesses. Further, propaganda does not operate mainly through lies and deceit as many believe; it works by transforming the subjectivity of the publics, so that they willingly undertake the conduct that businesses want.

The Prison House of Alienation

Murzban Jal, Indian Institute of Education, India

This book is an exploration of the humanist theme of alienation that Marx theorized in his Economic and Philosophic Manuscripts of 1844. It relates this theme of alienation with the themes of haunting in the Manifesto of the Communist Party and accumulation of capital that he outlined in his magnum opus Capital. Placing the human condition at the centre for alternative 21st century politics the book reveals that there can be no science without art and no politics without humanity. It will be of great interest to scholars of philosophy and politics.

Theories of Distributive Justice

Who Gets What and Why

Jeppe von Platz

This book provides a thorough introduction to the main theories of distributive justice and reveals the underlying sources of our disagreements about economic policy. It argues that the universe of theories of distributive justice is simple, yet complicated. It is simple in that there are just four main theories of distributive justice; yet complicated in that it is possible to spin innumerable new theories from the elements of the four main theories.

Consequences of Reference Failure

Michael McKinsey, Wayne State University, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book defends the Direct Reference thesis in philosophy of language regarding proper names and indexical pronouns. It makes an important contribution by explicitly addressing the consequences that follow from DR regarding failure of reference. McKinsey argues that only a form of neutral free logic can capture a revised concept of logical truth that is consistent with the fact that any sentence of any form that contains a directly referring genuine term can fail to be either true or false on interpretations where that term fails to refer. He also explains how it is possible for there to be true sentences that contain non-referring names, even though this seems inconsistent with

DR.

Disability in Medieval Christian Philosophy and Theology

Edited by Scott M. Williams, University of North Carolina Asheville, USA

This book uses the tools of analytic philosophy and close readings of medieval Christian philosophical and theological texts in order to survey what these thinkers said about disability. It surveys disability across a range of medieval Christian writers from Augustine up to Francisco Suarez. The essays also compare what these medieval authors say with modern and contemporary philosophers and theologians. This dual approach enriches our understanding of the history of disability in medieval Christian philosophy and theology and opens up new avenues of research for contemporary scholars working on disability.

Philosophical Perspectives on Contemporary Ireland

Edited by Clara Fischer, University College Dublin, Ireland and Áine Mahon, University College Dublin, Ireland
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This is the first book to bring a philosophical lens to issues of socio-political and cultural importance in twenty-first century Ireland. It explores a variety of themes, including: diaspora, exile, return; women's bodies and autonomy; historic injustices and national healing; remembering and commemoration; institutionalisation and containment; colonialism and Ireland as "home"; conflict and violence; Northern Ireland and the peace process; nationalism, patriotism, and masculinities; race, ethnicity, and identity; and art and culture. This bookmarks a significant contribution to contemporary theorizations of Ireland by incorporating both Irish and transatlantic perspectives.

Philosophy and the Human Paradox

Essays on Reason, Truth and Identity

Alan Montefiore, Balliol College, Oxford, UK and Danielle Sands, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

This book collects essays, half of which are previously unpublished, by Alan Montefiore on the role philosophy plays in the formation of the self, and how philosophical questions regarding the nature of reason, truth, and identity inform ethics and politics. Throughout his 70-year career, Montefiore sought to bridge the analytic/continental divide and develop a new way of thinking about philosophy. This book offers a comprehensive overview of Montefiore's influential, non-dogmatic philosophical voice. The first group of essays focuses on the nature of philosophy, while the second addresses the relationship between philosophy and moral and political responsibilities.

Portraits and Philosophy

Edited by Hans Maes, University of Kent, UK
Series: Routledge Research in Aesthetics

The essays in this volume are grouped into thematic sections, each of which is guided by numerous research questions relevant to the genre of portraiture. Part I explores the boundaries of portraiture. Part II responds to questions about empathy and emotion in portraiture. In Part III, the contributors address questions about fiction and depiction. Finally, Part IV grapples with the following question: What are the moral dimensions of the relation between artist, sitter, patron, and audience? This book tangles with deep questions about the nature and effects of portraiture in ways that will substantially advance the scholarly discussion of the genre.

Reading Brandom

On A Spirit of Trust

Edited by Gilles Bouché, Free University - Berlin, Germany
In A Spirit of Trust, Brandom presents the fruits of his thirty-year engagement with Hegel. He submits that the Phenomenology of Spirit holds not only many lessons for today's philosophy of language, but also a moral lesson much needed in today's increasingly polarized societies, in the form of a postmodern ethics of trust.

In this outstanding collection, leading philosophers examine A Spirit of Trust. Essential reading for all students and scholars of Brandom's work and those in philosophy of language. It will also be important reading for those studying nineteenth-century philosophy, particularly Hegel and the Phenomenology of Spirit

The Routledge Handbook of Collective Responsibility

Edited by Saba Bazargan-Forward and Deborah Tollefsen
Series: Routledge Handbooks in Philosophy

The Routledge Handbook of Collective Responsibility comprehensively addresses questions about who is responsible and how blame or praise should be attributed when human agents act together. Such questions include: Do individuals share responsibility for the outcome or are individuals responsible only for their contribution to the act? Are individuals responsible for actions done by their group even when they don't contribute to the outcome? Can a corporation or institution be held morally responsible apart from the responsibility of its members?

The African Other

Philosophy, Justice and the Self

Edited by Abraham Olivier

This book addresses a range of questions concerning the othering of Africans in the postcolonial context, specifically by focusing on the philosophical analysis of problems of justice, the effect of injustice on the formation of the self, and strategies of resistance against the injustice of othering. It will be of interest to all those studying the intersectional ways in which colonial injustice is manifested in the postcolony, as well as those seeking greater philosophical reflection on postcolonial justice. This book was originally published as a special issue of Angelaki.

The Metaphysics of Good and Evil

David S. Oderberg

The Metaphysics of Good and Evil is the first, full-length contemporary defence, from the perspective of analytic philosophy, of the Scholastic theory of good and evil – the theory of Aristotle, Augustine, Aquinas, and most medieval and Thomistic philosophers. The book analyses various kinds of goodness, showing how they fit into the Scholastic theory. The privation theory of evil is given its most comprehensive contemporary defence, including an account of truthmakers for truths of privation and an analysis of how causation by privation should be understood.

Christian Ethics: The Basics

Robin Gill

Series: The Basics

Christian Ethics: The Basics sets out clearly and critically the different ways that Augustine, Aquinas and Luther continue to shape ethics today within and across Christian denominations. It assumes no previous knowledge of the subject and can be read by religious believers and non-believers alike. Readers are introduced to Christian ethics from the ground up before being invited to consider some of the most controversial but important questions facing people across the world today.

Concise, readable and authoritative, this is the ideal primer for anyone interested in the study of religious ethics and Christianity.

Paradoxical Virtue

Reinhold Niebuhr and the Virtue Ethics Tradition

Edited by Kevin Carnahan, Central Methodist University, USA and David True, Wilson College, USA

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

The central thesis of this book is that reading Reinhold Niebuhr in the context of virtue ethics is still a profitable undertaking. This is developed by an international panel of contributors over several distinct Parts. These parts cover the Niebuhrian construction of virtue; key virtues related to Niebuhr's work; Niebuhr and the Classical theological virtues; virtues appropriate to the different social roles in Niebuhr's thought; and finally reading Niebuhr in relation to the church and broader political society. This volume will be of great interest to scholars of Niebuhr and Virtue Ethics as well as those working in Philosophy and the Philosophy of Religion more generally.

Disclosing Church

An Ecclesiology Learned from Conversations in Practice

Clare Watkins, University of Roehampton

Series: Explorations in Practical, Pastoral and Empirical Theology

In 2010 Heythrop College, in collaboration OxCEPT, produced the Action Research - Church and Society (ARCS) project. This book is a direct follow up to that significant report, compiled by one of the original authors, providing a systematic analysis of the impact of the "theological action research" methodology.

Including real scenarios alongside the academic discourse, it addresses the need for a more developed theological and methodological account of the ARCS project. This is a book that will be of interest to scholars interested not only Western lived religion, but ecclesiology and theology more generally too.

Racism and the Weakness of Christian Identity

Religious Autoimmunity

David Kline, University of Tennessee, USA

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

Through a systems theoretical and deconstructive account of religion and the political theology of St. Paul, this book traces how the racism and violence of modern Western Christianity is a symptom of its failure to secure its own myth of sovereignty within a complex world of plurality. This wide-ranging and interdisciplinary view of Christianity's relationship to racism will be of keen interest to scholars of Religious Studies, Theological Studies, Cultural Studies, Critical Race Studies, American Studies, and Critical Theory.

Evangelicals and the End of Christendom

Religion, Australia and the Crises of the 1960s

Hugh Chilton, University of Sydney

Series: Routledge Studies in Evangelicalism

Exploring the response of evangelicals to the collapse of 'Greater Christian Britain' in Australia in the long 1960s, this book provides a new religious perspective to the end of empire and a fresh national perspective to the end of Christendom. To illuminate these contemporaneous global shifts, this book takes as a case study the response of Australian evangelical Christian leaders to the cultural and religious crises encountered between 1959 and 1979. Far from being a narrow national study, this book places its case studies in the context of the latest North American and European scholarship on secularisation, imperialism and evangelicalism.

Saints and Sanctity in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam

Striving for remembrance

Edited by Alexandre Coello de la Rosa, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain and Linda G. Jones, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain

Series: Sanctity in Global Perspective

This edited collection looks at the various literary and cultural productions associated with the cult of saints and pious figures, as well as the socio-historical contexts in which sainthood operates. This ambitious study covers sanctity from the Middle Ages until the contemporary period, and has a geographical scope that includes Europe, Central Asia, North Africa, the Americas, and the Asian Pacific. As such, it will be of use to scholars of the history of religions, religious pluralism, and interreligious dialogue, as well as students of sainthood and

Telling Terror in Judges 19

Rape and reparation for the Levite's wife

Helen Paynter

Series: Rape Culture, Religion and the Bible

Telling Terror in Judges 19 explores the value of performing a 'reparative reading' of the terror-filled story of the Levite's pilegess (commonly referred to as the Levite's concubine) in Judges 19, and how such a reparative reading can be brought to bear upon elements of modern rape culture.

Unlocking Orthodoxies for Inclusive Theologies

Queer Alternatives

Edited by Robert E. Shore-Goss and Joseph N. Goh, Monash University Malaysia

Series: Gender, Theology and Spirituality

This book enters a new liminal space between the LGBTQ and denominational Christian communities. It simultaneously explores how those who identify as queer can find a home in church and how those leading welcoming, or indeed unwelcoming, congregations can better serve both communities.

This is a forward-looking and positive vision of a more inclusive theology and ecclesiology. It will, therefore, appeal to scholars of Queer Theology and Religious Studies as well as practitioners seeking a fresh perspective on church and the LGBTQ community.

The Development of Secularity and Non-Religion

Edited by Tomáš Bubík, Palacký University Olomouc, Czech Republic, Atko Remmel, Palacký University Olomouc, Czech Republic and David Václavík, Masaryk University, Czech Republic

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

This book provides the first comprehensive overview of atheism, secularity and non-religion in Central and Eastern Europe in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. In contrast to scholarship that has focused on the 'decline of religion' and secularization theory, the book builds upon recent trends to focus on the 'rise of non-religion' itself. Offering an important geographical perspective to the study of freethought, atheism, secularity and non-religion, this wide-ranging book will be of significant interest

The Crucible of Methodism

Joel Houston, Nipawin Bible College, Canada

Series: Routledge Methodist Studies Series

Was there more to the 'Free Grace' controversy than a simple rehashing of old arguments? This book answers this complex question by setting out the definitive account of the 'Free Grace' controversy in first decade of the Evangelical Revival (1739-49). Centred around the key players in the fracas, John Wesley and George Whitefield, it is a close analysis of the way in which the doctrine of predestination was instrumental in differentiating the early Methodist societies from one another. It will, therefore, be of great interest to scholars of Methodism, Evangelicalism, Theology and Church History.

Memento Mori in Contemporary Art

Theologies of Lament and Hope

Taylor Worley, Trinity International University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Theology, Imagination and the Arts

This book explores how four contemporary artists—Francis Bacon, Joseph Beuys, Robert Gober, and Damien Hirst—pursue the question of death through their fraught appropriations of Christian imagery. By opening fresh arenas of dialogue and meaning-making in our society and culture today, the rich humanity of these artworks promises both renewed depths of meaning regarding our exit from this world as well as how we might live well within it for the time that we have. ## Embodying Youth

Exploring Youth Ministry and Disability

Edited by Wesley W. Ellis and Michael D. Langford

Embodying Youth: Exploring Youth Ministry and Disability seeks to help close the gap between disability theology and youth ministry education.

In this book, scholars and youth workers seek to attend to the questions of youth ministry by putting the experience of disability at the forefront, with hope not only that the church might include young people with disabilities but also that our very understanding of what youth ministry is, and who youth ministry is for might be transformed, for the sake of the gospel. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Disability & Religion.

Strengths in Diverse Families of Faith

Exploring Religious Differences

Edited by David C. Dollahite, Brigham Young University, USA and Loren D. Marks, Brigham Young University, USA

This book explores how religious families draw on their spiritual beliefs, religious practices, and faith communities to help them strengthen their marital relationships and their parenting.

Drawing on a diverse group of religions in America, encompassing several Christian denominations and groups as well as Judaism and Islam, this book will be of interest to those studying individual religious groups, as well as wider ecumenism and inter-religious dialogue. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Marriage and Family Review.

Underground Rap as Religion

A Theopoetic Examination of a Process Aesthetic Religion

Jon Ivan Gill, California State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Hip Hop and Religion

This book contends that many practitioners of underground rap have absorbed religious traditions and ideas, and implement, critique, or abandon them in their writings. This in turn creates processual mutations of God that coincide with and speak to the particular context from which they originate.

This is a unique look at the religious workings and implications of underground rap and hip hop. As such, it will be of keen interest to scholars of Religious Studies, Hip-Hop Studies and Process Philosophy and Theology.

Media and the Science-Religion Conflict

Mass Persuasion in the Evolution Wars

Thomas Aechtner

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

This book examines why the religion-science skirmishes known as the Evolution Wars have persisted into the 21st century. It does so by considering the influences of mass media in relation to decision-making research and the Elaboration Likelihood Model, one of the most authoritative persuasion theories. Contending that persuasive mass media is a decisive component of science-religion controversies, this book will be of keen interest to scholars of Religion, Science and Religion interactions, as well as researchers of Media and Communication Studies more generally.

Theology and Evolutionary Anthropology

Dialogues in Wisdom, Humility and Grace

Edited by Celia Deane-Drummond and Agustín Fuentes,
University of Notre Dame, USA

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

This book sets out some of the latest scientific findings around the evolutionary development of religion and faith and then explores their theological implications.

This is a cutting-edge volume that refuses to commit the errors of either too easy a synthesis or too facile a separation between science and religion. As such, it will be of interest to scholars of religious studies and theology – especially those who interact with scientific fields – as well as academics working in anthropology of religion.

Negotiating Science and Religion In America

Past, Present, and Future

Greg Cootsona, California State University Chico, USA

Science and religion represent two powerful forces that continue to influence the American cultural landscape. This book sketches an intellectual-cultural history from the Puritans to the twenty-first century focusing on the sometimes turbulent relationship between the two. Using the past as a guide for what is happening today, this volume engages research from key scholars and the author's work on emerging adults' attitudes in order to sketch out the contours of the future for this exciting, and sometimes controversial, field.

An ideal volume for students and scholars seeking to understand the relationship between religion and science today.

The Emergence of Religion in Human Evolution

Margaret Boone Rappaport and Christopher J. Corbally

Series: Routledge Studies in Neurotheology, Cognitive Science and Religion

This book uses a multidisciplinary approach to describe millions of years of biological innovations that eventually give rise to the modern trait and its varied expression in humanity's many religions.

This is a cutting-edge examination of the evolutionary origins of humanity's interaction with the supernatural. It will be of keen interest to academics working in Religious Studies, Cognitive Science, Anthropology and Evolutionary Biology.

A New Theist Response to the New Atheists

Edited by Kevin Vallier, Bowling Green State University, USA and Joshua Rasmussen, Azusa Pacific University, USA
Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

In response to the intellectual movement of New Atheism, this volume articulates a "New Theist" response that has at its core a desire to engage in productive and depolarizing dialogue.

This volume is a serious academic engagement with the questions asked by New Atheism. As such, it will be of significant interest to scholars working in the philosophy of religion and theology, as well as those engaged in religious studies generally.

Religion, Neuroscience and the Self

A New Personalism

Patrick McNamara

Series: Routledge Studies in Neurotheology, Cognitive Science and Religion

This book uses neuroscience discoveries concerning religious experiences, the Self and personhood to deepen, enhance and interrogate the theological and philosophical set of ideas known as Personalism.

This book is an innovative combination of the neuroscientific and theological insights provided by a Personalist viewpoint. As such, it will be of great interest to scholars of Cognitive Science, Theology, Religious Studies and the philosophy of the mind.

A Philosophical Theology of the Old Testament

A historical, experimental, comparative and analytic perspective

Jaco Gericke, North West University, S. Africa

Series: Routledge Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Biblical Criticism

This book sets out an approach to something that has been generally considered impossible: a philosophical theology of the Old Testament. Focusing on the nature of Yahweh in the Old Testament, it argues that there is an implicit underlying philosophical framework to belief in God in the Hebrew Bible which is amenable to analytic treatment. This new vision of Biblical and philosophical theology brings them closer together in order that we might understand both more broadly and deeply. As such, it will be vital reading for scholars of Theology, Biblical Studies and Philosophy.

Divine Action, Determinism, and the Laws of Nature

Jeffrey Koperski, Saginaw Valley State University, USA

This book presents a new approach to divine action beyond the current focus on quantum mechanics and esoteric gaps in the causal order.

By bringing a philosophical perspective to an issue often dominated by theologians and scientists, this text redresses an imbalance in the discussion around divine action. It will, therefore, be of keen interest to scholars of Philosophy and Religion, the Philosophy of Science, and Theology.

Catholic Missionaries in Early Modern Asia

Patterns of Localization

Edited by Nadine Amsler, University of Bern, Switzerland, Andrea Badea, German Historical Institute in Rome, Italy, Bernard Heyberger, EHESS, France and Christian Windler, University of Bern, Switzerland

Series: Religious Cultures in the Early Modern World

This book builds on recent ground-breaking research on early modern Catholic missions which has shown that missionaries in Asia cooperated with and accommodated to the needs of local agents rather than being uncompromising promoters of post-Tridentine doctrine and devotion.

Shining a fresh light onto the history of early modern Catholic missions and the early modern Eurasian cultural exchange, this will be an important book for any scholar of Religious History, History of Cultural Contact/Global History and Early Modern History in Asia.

The Religious Formation of John Witherspoon

Calvinism, Evangelicalism, and the Scottish Enlightenment

Kevin DeYoung

Series: Routledge Studies in Evangelicalism

This book explores in unprecedented detail the theological thinking of John Witherspoon during his often overlooked ministerial career in Scotland. This is a fresh re-examination of the intellectual formation of one of Scotland's most important churchmen from the eighteenth century and one of America's most influential early figures. The volume will be of keen interest to academics working in Religious History, American Religion, Reformed Theology and Calvinism, as well as Scottish and American history more generally.

Chinese Buddhist Canons in the Age of Printing

Edited by Darui Long, University of the West, Los Angeles, USA and Jinhua Chen, University of British Columbia, Canada

The study of the Chinese Buddhist Canon – the basic literature of Buddhism – does not have an eminent place in study either in China or in the Western World. For the contributors to this volume, their chapters are the result of decades of dedication to academic research, and they reveal many facets of the Buddhist Canon that were previously unstudied. This book focuses on the communication of the Chinese Buddhist Canon through the medium of print. It enhances our knowledge of how the canon was collated, proofread and printed. This book was originally published as a special issue of Studies in Chinese Religions.

Holocaust Memory and Britain's Religious-Secular Landscape

Politics, Sacrality, And Diversity

David Tollerton, University of Exeter, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

This book provides the first substantial discussion of the interface between public Holocaust memory in contemporary Britain and the nation's changing religious-secular landscape. In the first half of the book attention will be given to the varied meanings of Holocaust memory for Jewish, Muslim, Christian, and post-Christian communities. In its second half, the focus will turn to the ways in which public Holocaust remembrance activities are intertwined with perceptions of sacrality. As such, it will be of keen interest to scholars of Religious Studies, Jewish studies and Holocaust Studies, as well as the Sociology of Religion, Material Religion and Secularism.
