Women, Consumption and Paradox
Edited by Timothy de Waal Malefyt and Maryann McCabe, University of Rochester, USA

Series: Anthropology & Business

Women are the world’s most powerful consumers, yet they are largely marketed to erroneously through misconceptions and patriarchal views that distort the reality of women’s lives, bodies and work. This book examines the contradictions and mismatches between women’s everyday experiences and market representations. It considers how women themselves exhibit paradoxical behaviour in both resisting and supporting conflicting messages. The rich range of ethnographic accounts drawn from countries including the US, Brazil, Mexico, Denmark, Japan and China provide readers with a valuable perspective on consumer behaviour.

Change and Archaeology

Change and Archaeology

Rachel J. Crellin, University of Leicester

Series: Themes in Archaeology Series

Change and Archaeology explores how archaeologists have historically described, interpreted, and explained change and argues that change has been under-theorised. Archaeologists, scholars, anthropologists and historians interested in the theoretical frameworks we use to interpret the past will find this book a fascinating new insight into the way our world changes and evolves. The approaches presented within will be of use to anyone studying and writing about the way societies and their environs move through time.

From Arabia to the Pacific

How our Species Colonised Asia

Robin Dennell

Drawing upon invasion biology and the latest archaeological, skeletal and environment evidence, From Arabia to the Pacific documents the migration of humans into Asia, and explains why we were so successful as a colonising species. Using interdisciplinary source material, From Arabia to the Pacific charts this process and draws conclusions as to the factors which made it possible. It will be invaluable to scholars of prehistory, archaeologists and anthropologists interested in how the human species moved out of Africa and spread throughout Asia.

Old Lands

A Chorography of the Eastern Peloponnesse

Christopher Witmore

Old Lands takes readers on an epic journey through the legion spaces and times of the Eastern Peloponnesse, tracing in the footsteps of a Roman periegete, an Ottoman traveler, antiquarians, and anonymous agrarians. It will be of interest to historians, archaeologists, anthropologists and scholars of the Eastern Peloponnesse. Those interested in the long-term changes in society, technology and culture across time in this region will find this book captivating.

The Archaeology of Seeing

Science and Interpretation, the Past and Contemporary Visual Art

Liliana Janik

This book provides readers with a new and provocative understanding of material culture through exploring visual narratives captured in cave and rock art, sculpture, paintings, and more. The engaging argument draws on current thinking in archaeology on how we can interpret the behaviour of people in the past through their use of material culture, and how this affects our understanding of how we create and see art in the present. Exploring themes of gender, identity and story-telling in visual material culture, this book forces a radical reassessment of how the ability to see makes us and our ancestors human, as such, it will interest lovers of both art and archaeology.

The Archaeology of the Spanish Civil War

The Archaeology of the Spanish Civil War

Alfredo González-Ruibal

The Archaeology of the Spanish Civil War offers the first comprehensive account of the Spanish Civil War from an archaeological perspective, providing an alternative narrative on one of the most important conflicts of the twentieth century, widely seen as a prelude to the Second World War. The book draws on twenty years of research to bring together perspectives from battlefield archaeology, archaeologies of internment, and forensics. It will be of interest to anybody interested in historical and contemporary archaeology, human rights violations, modern military history, and negative heritage.

A People's History of Classics
Class and Greco-Roman Antiquity in Britain and Ireland 1689 to 1939
Edith Hall and Henry Stead
A People's History of Classics explores the influence of the classical past on the lives of working-class people, whose voices have been almost completely excluded from previous histories of classical scholarship and pedagogy, in Britain and Ireland from the late 17th to the earlier 20th century. Making use of diverse sources of information, both published and unpublished, in archives, museums and libraries across the United Kingdom and Ireland, Hall and Stead examine the working-class experience of classical culture from the Bill of Rights in 1689 to the outbreak of the Second World War.

The Art of Elam ca. 4200 – 525 BC
Javier Álvarez-Mon, Macquarie University, Australia
The Art of Elam ca. 4200-525 BC offers a view of, and a critical reflection on, the art history of one of the world’s first and least-known civilizations, illuminating a significant chapter of our human past.

Such a magisterial study of Elamite art has never been written making The Art of Elam ca. 4200-525 BC a ground-breaking publication essential to all students of ancient art and to our current understanding of the civilizations of the ancient Near East.

Approaching Historical Sources in their Contexts

Space, Time and Performance

Edited by Sarah Barber, University of Lancaster, UK and Corinna M. Peniston-Bird, University of Lancaster, UK

Series: Routledge Guides to Using Historical Sources

In this book, twelve academics examine how space, time and performance interact to co-create context for source analysis. Supported by a range of case studies that cover 2000 years and stretch across the Americas and Europe, the contributors embed lessons and methodological approaches that can be adapted and adopted by those working with similar sources, offering students both a theoretical and practical demonstration of how to analyse sources within their contexts. Drawing out common threads to help with the reader’s own historical investigation, this book encourages a broad and inclusive approach to the physical and social contexts of historical evidence.

The Science of Demons
Early Modern Authors Facing Witchcraft and the Devil
Edited by Jan Machielsen, Cardiff University, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Witchcraft, Demonology and Magic Examining individual authors from across the continent, this book reveals the many purposes to which the devil could be put, both during the late medieval fight against heresy and the age of Reformations. It explores what it was like to live with demons, and how careers and identities were constructed out of the battle against them, or against those who granted them too much power. Contributors tell the story of the devil’s emergence during the 1300s and 1400s as a threatening figure who made pacts with human allies and appeared bodily, through to the comprehensive but easily challenged surveys in the early 17th century, when European witch-hunting entered its most deadly phase.

Time in World History
Peter Stearns
Series: Themes in World History
In this book, Peter Stearns presents the fascinating concept of time through a global historical lens. Covering both calendrical time and clock time, the volume shows how significant changes in conceptions of time are in world history, as they translate many key historical developments from religion to industrialization, into daily experience. Time in World History will be of interest to students of world history and sociology, introducing readers to historical forces that continue to shape their lives quite directly.

Innovations and Challenges in Applied Linguistics from the Global South
Alastair Pennycook, University of Technology, Sydney, Australia and Sinfree Makoni

Series: Innovations and Challenges in Applied Linguistics

Alastair Pennycook and Sinfree Makoni provide their cutting-edge perspective on the latest challenges and innovations in applied linguistics from the perspective of the global south. There is a need to revisit and rethink the discipline of applied linguistics, given the last decade’s intense critique of some of its fundamental assumptions. This book takes a critical perspective on southern theories, demonstrating why it is important to view the world from southern perspectives, why such positions must be open to critical investigation, and what the impacts are on approaches to multilingualism, language learning, translation, literacy and diversity, language rights and language policy.

Linguistics for Language Teachers
Lessons for Classroom Practice
Sarah J. Shin, University of Maryland, Baltimore County, USA and Sunny Park-Johnson

This book is an introduction to linguistics specifically tailored for teachers of second, heritage, bilingual, and world language education. The book provides language teacher candidates with enough familiarity with the major aspects of language structure and function to see how they figure in the analyses of language and language learning, as well as to explore issues related to language in society, multilingualism, and language policy. This book trains language teachers to be linguists by guiding them stepwise through the components of language, making linguistics accessible to language teachers, and focusing on the areas of linguistics that is most pertinent for teaching.

Local Language Testing
Design, Implementation, and Development

Slobodanka Dimova, Xun Yan and April Ginther, Purdue University, USA

This much-needed book describes the language testing practice that exists in the intermediate space between large-scale standardized testing and classroom assessment, an area that is rarely addressed in the literature. Covering both theory and practice, the book focuses on the advantages of local tests, fosters and encourages their use, and provides suggested ideas for their development and maintenance. The authors include examples of operational tests with well-proven track records. This book constitutes essential reading for language program directors, graduate students, and researchers involved in language program development and evaluation.

Questions About Language
What Everyone Should Know About Language in the 21st Century

Edited by Laurie Bauer and Andreea S. Calude

This book sets out to answer, in a ready-to-use format, questions which journalists and members of the public ask linguists all the time. With an introduction by the editors, the twelve chapters are each written by an expert linguist and each end with a section on further reading for anyone interested in following up on the topic. This handy guide covers frequently asked questions, from What makes a language a language? to Do people swear because they don’t know enough words? and provides engaging and informative answers. Essential reading for both students new to language and linguistics and the interested general reader.

Researching Discourse
A Student Guide

Edited by Christopher Hart, Lancaster University, UK

This is a ‘how to’ guide to conducting research in discourse analysis. Readers are taken step by step through the research process, working within different approaches to discourse analysis and with different types of discourse data. Each chapter follows a consistent format including: identifying research questions; data collection; ethics; data analysis; interpreting data; and presenting results. Highly student-friendly with pop-out boxes, tasks to check understanding and suggestions for further reading, this is the ideal companion for any student undertaking research in discourse analysis within English language, linguistics, applied linguistics and communication studies.

3rd Edition Theories in Second Language Acquisition
An Introduction

Edited by Bill VanPatten, Michigan State University, USA, Gregory D. Keating, San Diego State University, USA and Stefanie Wulff
Series: Second Language Acquisition Research Series

The third edition of this best-selling book surveys the major theories currently used in second language acquisition (SLA) research, serving as an ideal introductory text for undergraduate and graduate students in SLA and language teaching. Each chapter is written by leading scholars in the field and focuses on a single theory, each incorporating a basic foundational description of the theory, relevant data or research models used with this theory, common misunderstandings, and a sample study from the field to show the theory in practice. New to this edition is a chapter addressing social theory, and a chapter on the implications of SLA research for teaching.

Undoing the Digital
Sociomaterialism and Literacy Education

Cathy Burnett, University of Sheffield Hallam, UK and Guy Merchant, University of Sheffield Hallam, UK
Series: Literacies

This book introduces the socio-material perspective as a way of providing an alternative analysis of literacy in the context of digital communication. Undoing the digital involves rethinking communication and interaction as an emergent interweaving of social, material and semiotic resources. This perspective invites literacy research to focus more on the relations mediated through the process of making meaning. Key reading for all advanced students and researchers of literacy and digital media within Education, Applied Linguistics and Media/Communication studies.

Literature and Materialisms

Frederic Neyrat, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Series edited by Guillermina De Ferrari
Series: Literature and Contemporary Thought

Literature and Materialisms sheds light on the current wave of materialisms and assesses the impact on literary theory and criticism. It maps the similarities and differences between speculative realism, object-oriented philosophy, thing theory and vibrant vitalism. This book analyses the material aspects of literature, its structure and texture, its commodification and its capacity to resist market imperatives. It explores how literary style might be understood as a mediation between the immaternal and the concrete features of a text. This volume provides students and academics with an accessible overview of the study of literature and materialism.

Literature and Social Media

Bronwen Thomas
Series: Literature and Contemporary Thought

Reading social media in relation to literature, but also as a literary form in its own right, this lively guide demonstrates that social media platforms have produced their own unique forms of creative expression. Thomas takes a unique approach examining how authors interact with readers, but also how social media is used to create an ongoing collaborative discourse. This approach to the study of contemporary literary practices, cultures and communities will provide a timely account of the state of art, while also exploring the implications for traditional literary forms and practices and interrogating the rhetoric that so often accompanies discussion of the ‘new’ in this context.

Active Landscape Photography

Theoretical Groundwork for Landscape Architecture

Anne C Godfrey, State University of New York, USA

Photographs are hugely influential in the practice of landscape architecture and design. Through a diverse set of essays and case studies, this text explores the relationship between landscape architecture and photography. It examines the influence of photography on design processes by presenting theoretical concepts from photography, philosophy and cultural theory through the lens of landscape architecture. With over 200 images, this text covers a diversity of photographic practices. This book aims to invigorate a dialogue about how photography influences how landscapes are understood, valued and designed for professionals, academics, students and researchers.

Automating Vision

The Social Impact of the New Camera Consciousness

Anthony McCosker and Rowan Wilken

Automating Vision explores the rise of seeing machines through four case studies: facial recognition, drone vision, mobile and locative media, and driverless cars. Proposing a conceptual lens of camera consciousness, which is drawn from the early visual anthropology of Gregory Bateson and Margaret Mead, Automating Vision accounts for the growing power and value of camera technologies and digital image processing. This book will appeal to students and scholars in media, communication, cultural studies, sociology of media, and science and technology studies.

Media Culture

2nd Edition

Cultural Studies, Identity, and Politics in the Contemporary Moment

Douglas Kellner

In this thorough update of one of the classic texts of media and cultural studies, Douglas Kellner argues that mediated culture is now the dominant form of culture which socializes us and provides and plays major roles in the economy, polity, and social and cultural life. Situating the works of media culture in their social context, within political struggles, and the system of cultural production and reception, Kellner develops a multidimensional approach to cultural studies that broadens the field and opens it to a variety of disciplines. Anyone interested in the nature and effects of contemporary society and culture should read this book.

Developing Virtual Synthesizers with VCV Rack
Leonardo Gabrielli
This book takes the reader step-by-step through the process of developing synthesizer modules. Using the intuitive VCV Rack and its open source C++ API, even the least experienced reader will learn to master efficient DSP coding to create oscillators, filters and complex modules. Covering everything from theory to practice with exercises and example patches in each chapter, the reader will build a library of synthesizer modules to modify and expand. Recommended reading for students of audio engineering, music technology, computer science, electronics, and related courses; audio coding and do-it-yourself enthusiasts; and professionals looking for a quick guide to VCV Rack.

Recording Analysis
How the Record Shapes the Song
William Moylan
This book identifies and explains how the sounds imparted by recording processes enhance the artistry and expression of recorded songs. Moylan investigates how the process of recording a song transforms it into a richer experience and articulates how the unique elements of recorded sound provide essential substance and expression to recorded music. Evaluating the music, lyrics, social context, literary content and meaning, it offers detailed analyses of recording elements as they appear in a wide variety of tracks. Accompanied by a range of online resources, this is an essential read for students, academics and practitioners in record production, song-writing and popular music.

Electronic and Experimental Music
Technology, Music, and Culture

Thom Holmes, Electronic and Experimental Music: Technology, Music, and Culture, Sixth Edition, presents an extensive history of electronic music—from its historical beginnings in the late nineteenth century to its everchanging present—recounting the musical ideas that arose in parallel with technological progress. In four parts, the author details the fundamentals of electronic music, its history, the major synthesizer innovators, and contemporary practices. This examination of the music’s experimental roots covers the key composers, genres, and techniques used in analog and digital synthesis, including both art and popular music, Western and non-Western.

Remixing European Jazz Culture

Kristin McGee, University of Groningen, Netherlands, Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz
Remixing European Jazz Culture examines a jazz culture that emerged in the 1990s in cosmopolitan cities like Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Berlin, London, and Oslo—energized by the introduction of studio technologies into the live performance space, which has since developed into internationally-recognized, eclectic, hybrid jazz styles. This book explores these oft-overlooked musicians and their forms that have nonetheless expanded the plane of jazz’s continued prosperity, popularity, and revitalization in the 21st century—one where remix is no longer the sole domain of studio producers.

Handmade Electronic Music
The Art of Hardware Hacking

Nicolas Collins, The School of the Art Institute of Chicago, Illinois, USA
This book provides a practical and engaging introduction to the craft of making electronic circuits for artistic purposes. With a sense of adventure and no prior knowledge, the reader can subvert devices such as radios and toys to discover a new sonic world. New to this edition are diverse contributions addressing the latest developments in technology and creative trends, as well as an extensive companion website providing media examples, tutorials, and further reading. With a hands-on, experimental spirit, Nicolas Collins demystifies the process of crafting your own instruments and enables musicians, composers, and artists to draw on the creative potential of hardware hacking.

The Soundtrack Album
Listening to Media

Edited by Paul N. Reinsch, Texas Tech University, USA and Laurel Westrup, University of California, Los Angeles, USA, Series: Routledge Music and Screen Media Series
The Soundtrack Album: Listening to Media offers the first sustained exploration of the soundtrack album as a distinctive form of media. The collection’s contributors explore a diverse range of soundtrack albums, from Super Fly to Stranger Things, revealing how these albums change our understanding of the music and film industries and the audio-visual relationships that drive them. An excellent resource for students of Music, Media Studies, and Film/Screen Media courses, The Soundtrack Album offers interdisciplinary perspectives and opens new areas for exploration in music and media studies.

Made in Hong Kong
Studies in Popular Music

Edited by Anthony Fung and Alice Chik, Macquarie University, Australia, Series: Routledge Global Popular Music Series
Made in Hong Kong: Studies in Popular Music serves as a comprehensive and thorough introduction to the history, sociology, and musicology of twentieth and twenty-first century popular music in Hong Kong. The volume consists of essays by leading scholars in the field, and covers the major figures, styles, and social contexts of popular music in Hong Kong. Each essay provides adequate context to readers understand why the figure or genre under discussion is of lasting significance. The book is organized into four thematic sections: Cantopop, History and Legacy, Genres, Format and Identity, Significant Artists, and Contemporary Cantopop.
Creating Future People
The Ethics of Genetic Enhancement
Jonathan Anomaly
A fast-paced primer on how new genetic technologies will enable parents to influence the traits of children. Jonathan Anomaly deftly explains the science of gene editing and embryo selection, and motivates the moral questions it raises with colorful language and a brisk style. The author takes seriously the diversity of preferences parents have, and the limits policymakers face in regulating what may be a global market for reproductive technology.

Empathy
Heidi Maibom, University of Cincinnati, USA
Series: New Problems of Philosophy
Empathy is one of the most talked about and widely studied concepts of recent years. Some argue it can help create a more just society, improve medical care and even avert global catastrophe. Others object that it is morally problematic. Who is right? And what is empathy anyway? In this thorough and clearly-written introduction to the philosophy of empathy Heidi Maibom explores these questions and more. It is essential reading for students of philosophy of mind and psychology, psychology, and cognitive science, as well as for those in related subjects such as art, literature and politics.

Moral Theory and Climate Change
Ethical Perspectives on a Warming Planet
Dale E. Miller and Ben Eggleston
In this volume, nine leading ethicists in nine separate chapters each present a major ethical theory and discuss the implications of that theory for our responses to a rapidly warming planet. Each chapter first provides an exposition of the theory before working out the implications of the theory for dealing with climate change. In addition, two initial stage-setting chapters review the state of the art in climate science and the related ethical quandaries that we face.

Philosophy of Mind: The Basics
Amy Kind, Claremont McKenna College, USA
Series: The Basics
Philosophy of Mind: The Basics is a concise and engaging introduction to the fundamental philosophical questions and theories about the mind. Written by a leading expert in the field, Amy Kind examines and explains key questions such as: What is the nature of the mind? What is the relationship between the mind and the brain? Can machines have minds? What is the future of the mind?

Znd Edition
The Animal Mind
An Introduction to the Philosophy of Animal Cognition
Kristin Andrews, York University, Canada
Andrews introduces and assesses the essential topics, problems and debates as they cut across animal cognition and philosophy of mind, citing historical and empirical data and case studies throughout. This second edition includes a new chapter on animal culture, and new sections on the evolution of consciousness, tool use in animals, mental representation, belief, communication, theory of mind, animal ethics and moral psychology. An indispensable introduction to those teaching philosophy of mind, philosophy of animal minds, or animal cognition. It will also be an excellent resource for those in fields such as ethology, biology and psychology.

The Developing Mind
A Philosophical Introduction
Stephen Butterfill, University of Warwick, UK
The first book to critically introduce and examine philosophical questions concerning children’s cognitive development and considers the implications of scientific breakthroughs for the philosophy of developmental psychology.

Theories of Distributive Justice
Who Gets What and Why
Jeppe von Platz
This book provides a thorough introduction to the main theories of distributive justice and reveals the underlying sources of our disagreements about economic policy. It argues that the universe of theories of distributive justice is simple, yet complicated. It is simple in that there are just four main theories of distributive justice, yet complicated in that it is possible to spin innumerable new theories from the elements of the four main theories.

Why It’s OK to Ignore Politics
Christopher Freiman, College of William & Mary, USA
Series: Why It’s OK
In this book, Christopher Freiman explains why these 100 million need not feel guilty. Why It’s OK to Ignore Politics argues that you’re under no obligation to be politically active. Freiman addresses new objections to political abstention as well as some old chestnuts (“But what if everyone stopped voting?”). He also synthesizes recent empirical work showing how our political motivations distort our choices and reasoning. Because participating in politics is not an effective way to do good, Freiman argues that we actually have a moral duty to disengage from politics and instead take direct action to make the world a better place.

Why It’s OK to Want to Be Rich
Jason Brennan, College of William & Mary, USA
Series: Why It’s OK
In Why It’s OK to Want to Be Rich, Jason Brennan argues that, in general, the more money you make, the more you already do for others, and that even an average-wage earner is productively “giving back” to society just by doing her job. In addition, wealth liberates us to have the best chance of leading a life that’s authentically our own. Brennan also demonstrates how money-based societies create nicer, more trustworthy, and more cooperative citizens. While writing that the more money one has, the more one should help others, Brennan also notes that we weren’t born into a perpetual debt to society. It’s OK to get rich and it’s OK to enjoy being rich, too.

19 PHILosophy
Contemporary European Playwrights

Edited by Maria M. Delgado, Royal Central School of Speech and Drama, UK, Bryce Lease and Dan Rebello, Royal Holloway University, London, UK

Contemporary European Playwrights presents and discusses a range of key writers that have radically reshaped European theatre by finding new ways to express the changing nature of the continent’s society and culture, and whose work is still in dialogue with Europe today. Written for students and scholars of European theatre and playwriting, this book will leave the reader with an understanding of the shifting relationships between the subsidized and commercial, the alternative and the mainstream stage, and political stakes of playmaking in European theatre since 1989.

2nd Edition

Contemporary European Theatre Directors

Edited by Maria M. Delgado and Dan Rebello, Royal Holloway University, London, UK

This expanded second edition of Contemporary European Theatre Directors is an ambitious and unprecedented overview of many of the key directors working in European theatre over the past thirty years, situated lucidly in its artistic, cultural, and political context. Now revised and updated, this is an ideal text for both undergraduate and postgraduate directing students, as well as theatre researchers and directors, who are challenging the contemporary theatre practices, providing a detailed guide to the generation of directors whose careers were forged and tempered in the changing Europe since the end of the Cold War.

Your Body Knows

A Movement Guide for Actors

Meade Andrews, PhD and Jana Tift, MFA

Your Body Knows provides the foundation actors need to move with ease and power. It is a practical guide to movement starting at the very beginning: knowing your body and experiencing how it works.

Through the work of F.M. Alexander, Rudolf Laban, and Michael Chekhov, this book offers basic training in movement fundamentals, focusing on three main areas of exploration: body facts, movement facts, and creative inspiration. This is an excellent resource for acting students and their teachers, promoting a strong onstage presence and awakening unlimited potential for creative expression.

Staging Sex

Best Practices, Tools, and Techniques for Theatrical Intimacy

Chelsea Pace

Staging Sex lays out a comprehensive, practical solution for staging intimacy, nudity, and sexual violence. After an overview of the challenges directors face when staging theatrical intimacy, this book offers practical solutions and exercises, provides a system for establishing and discussing boundaries, and suggests efficient and effective language for staging intimacy and sexual violence. Written for directors, choreographers, movement coaches, stage managers, production managers, professional actors, and students of acting courses, this is an essential tool for theatre practitioners who encounter theatrical intimacy or instructional touch.

2nd Edition

The A to Z of Arts Management

Reflections on Theory and Reality

Ann Tonks

The A to Z of Arts Management, Second Edition covers 97 topics about the management of arts and cultural organisations. Each section offers a theoretical and conceptual introduction to the topic, as well as storytelling and reflections about the meaning and application of such theories in the real world. Written for arts managers, students and board members anywhere in the world, The A to Z of Arts Management provides information about research and academic best practice in arts management alongside stories about the reality of working in the arts and cultural industries.
A Vygotskian Analysis of Children's Play Behaviours

Beyond the Home Corner

Edited by Zenna Kingdon, Wolverhampton University, UK

Series: Towards an Ethical Praxis in Early Childhood

Contributors to this book show how central role-play is in the physical, social, emotional and cognitive development of young children. They seek to look beyond ‘home-corners’ and consider how children can be observed engaging in role-play in many different contexts. Framed in a Vygotskian perspective in which play is considered to be socio-constructivist, the contributors use vignettes to exemplify a range of behaviours identified as play including; sensorimotor play, language play, social contingency play, exercise play, fantasy and object play to name a few. The book takes a praxeological approach, drawing on participatory, ethical research, yet underpinned by theory throughout.

Children's Empowerment in Play

Participation, Voice and Ownership

Natalie Canning, The Open University, UK

Series: TACTYC

Play is vital in the development of empowerment for young children. Focusing on three themes: participation, voice and ownership, this book explores innovative ways of thinking about children’s play and the ways in which it can be promoted in practice. It offers a framework for understanding empowerment in play and how this impacts on development. It aims to help practitioners analyse children’s play patterns and recognise their agendas and motivations in play so they can naturally support their empowerment. Including case study examples of children’s play in a variety of contexts, this book will transform how you understand and engage with children’s experiences and learning.

Culturally Responsive Self-Care Practices for Early Childhood Educators

Julie Nicholson, Mills College, USA, Priya Shimpi Driscoll, Julie Kurtz, Doméncia Márquez and LaWanda Wesley

The first self-care book designed specifically for the early childhood field, this guide is filled with helpful strategies and tools that you can implement immediately. Recognizing that self-care is not one-size-fits-all, the authors present culturally responsive strategies drawn from diverse early childhood staff working in a range of roles across communities and contexts. Through key research findings, effective strategies and personal anecdotes, this accessible guide helps readers understand and engage with the critical role self-care and wellness-oriented practices play in creating strong foundations for high quality early learning programs.

Putting Storytelling at the Heart of Early Childhood Practice

A Reflective Guide for Early Years Practitioners

Edited by Tina Bruce, Lynn McNair and Jane Whinnett

Storytelling is part of being human across all of time, space and cultures. This book gives early years practitioners accessible ways of making stories an essential part of their practice, showing why stories are important and how they work. Contributors explore ways in which children from babyhood, start communicating with others, developing a language of storytelling which spills into literature and non-fiction, enabling them to engage with the process of becoming literate. Making links with recent research on storytelling through critical examination, this book will help create an environment that puts communication, language and literacy at the very centre of learning.

Understanding Gender and Early Childhood
An Introduction to the Key Debates
Jo Josephidou, Canterbury Christchurch University, UK and Polly Bolshaw, Canterbury Christchurch University, UK
This book introduces students to some of the main issues around gender and encourages them to question their own and others’ practices as they engage with key theories and research. Divided into three parts, it examines how gender impacts on children, the workforce and society covering topics such as children’s play, learning and achievement, the gender imbalance in settings and whether parents engage with children in gendered ways. It also looks at the long-term implications of these issues on children’s aspirations and outcomes. Including case studies, reflective questions and checklists, this is an essential text for Early Years and Early Childhood courses.

Working with Young Children in Museums
Weaving Theory and Practice
Edited by Abigail Hackett, Manchester Metropolitan University, Rachel Holmes, Manchester Metropolitan University and Christina MacRae
Series: Global Perspectives on Children in Museums
Young Children in Museums makes a major contribution to the small body of extant research on young children in museums, galleries and heritage sites. Bridging theory and practice, the book introduces theoretical concepts in a clear and concise manner, whilst also providing practical and inspirational insights into everyday programming in museums. It should be of equal interest to researchers and students engaged in the study of museum learning, early childhood education and children’s experiences in museums.

How to Succeed at School
Separating Fact from Fiction

Wendy Berliner, Head of Editorial, Guardian Professional Networks and Judith Judd

This book shines a light on the best research into learning and the brain development that makes it all possible. Written by two distinguished education journalists, it provides an invaluable guide to the latest information for parents seeking to help their children to make the best use of their potential and steer a true course through an often confused, noisy and crowded learning landscape where ideas compete and nothing can seem clear. Summarising the most up to date and significant research in a jargon-free and understandable way, this book provides readers with simple and clear access to knowledge and information about what really helps children learn and flourish.

Recovering Boarding School Trauma Narratives
Christopher Robin Milne as a Psychological Companion on the Journey to Healing

Christine Jack

Unique and powerfully written, Jack takes the reader on a journey into her childhood in Australian boarding school convents in the 1950s and 60s. Comparing her experience to Christopher Robin Milne’s, she interrogates his memoirs illustrating that boarding school trauma knows no boundaries of time and place. Engaging the lenses of history, life-span and Jungian psychology, feminist and trauma theory and boarding school trauma research, this book positions narrative writing as a way of reducing the power of trauma over the lives of survivors.

The Purposes of Education
A Conversation Between John Hattie and Steen Nepper Larsen

John Hattie, University of Melbourne, Australia and Steen Nepper Larsen

What is the purpose of education and what is the relationship between educational research and policy? Using the twin lenses of Visible Learning and educational philosophy these are among the many fascinating topics discussed in extended conversations between John Hattie and Steen Larson. This wide-ranging, entertaining and informative book uses the framework of Hattie’s world famous research to explore the vital questions around education and the development of students in a learning society. Complete with informative cartoons, summary boxes and annotated reading lists, it will inspire teachers, students and parents at all levels of the educational system.

Edward Said and Education

Zeus Leonardo. University of California, Berkeley. University of California, Berkeley, USA

Series: Routledge Key Ideas in Education

This volume offers a deep interpretation of Edward Said’s literary though toward the development of educational criticism. The book draws from four main themes of Said’s work—knowledge construction as part of empire, representations and reconstruction of the intellectual, the exile condition, and contrapuntal analysis. These themes cohere in providing the elements of educational criticism and placing them in the wider context of a rapidly changing sociality and educational system. Edward Said and Education is a valuable teaching resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students of education studies, postcolonial studies, and ethnic studies.

Becoming a Transformative Leader
A Guide to Creating Equitable Schools
Carolyn M. Shields

Grounded in research and real examples, Dr. Carolyn Shields presents an approach to leadership that is engaged, authentic, courageous, and effective in addressing the needs of today’s diverse student bodies. Featuring examples from schools and leaders, questions for reflection, downloadable eResources, and links to useful websites, Becoming a Transformative Leader is an invaluable and practical guide for school administrators, teacher leaders, and district leaders concerned about the uneven educational playing field for students in our schools.

No Outsiders: Everyone Different, Everyone Welcome
Preparing Children for Life in Modern Britain
Andrew Moffat, MBE, Assistant Head Teacher

The No Outsiders programme promotes an ethos of inclusion and intolerance, and aims to prepare children for life in modern Britain. Expanding the scheme published in the 2015 book, No Outsiders in Our Schools, this book is designed to further support educators as they make the No Outsiders ethos part of their school culture at a time when messages of fear and division are rife. Written by a practising teacher whose work to promote equality has been globally celebrated, this book provides lesson plans for use in classes from EYFS to year 6. This is a vital resource for all teachers and trainee teachers as they prepare children for a life where diversity is embraced.

Facebook Mentoring and Early Childhood Teachers
The Controversy in Virtual Professional Identity
Sharryn Clarke, Monash University, Australia

This volume explores concepts of mentoring, leadership and issues faced by early childhood teachers. Foregrounded against inadequate leadership and mentoring training in this sector, this book looks at how mentoring is exercised through Facebook. Mentoring through Facebook provokes a strong sense of freedom in terms of speech and influence. The benefits for using social media in mentoring includes minimizing costs and reaching mass numbers of mentees globally where knowledge can be shared and information gained. Whilst there is also a positive and active approach to mentoring, there is the danger of mentoring that misinforms, disempowers and alienates.

International Deficit Thinking
Educational Thought and Practice
Richard R. Valencia

Drawing from, in part, critical race theory, systemic inequality analysis, and colonialism/postcolonialism, award-winning author and scholar Richard Valencia examines deficit thinking in education in 16 countries (e.g., Canada; Peru, Australia; Australia; England; India; South Africa). He seeks to document and debunk deficit thinking as an interpretation for school failure of marginalized students, offer scientifically defensible counternarratives for race-, class-, language-, and gender-based differences in academic achievement, and provide suggestions for workable and sustainable school reform for marginalized students.
Closing the Reading Gap

Alex Quigley

Despite universal acceptance of the vital importance of reading, the reading gap in our classrooms remains. To close this gap, we need to ensure that every teacher has the knowledge and skill to teach reading with confidence. Closing the Reading Gap explores the science of reading, whilst tackling issues such as dyslexia and the role of technology in reading. It offers practical strategies for teachers at every phase and key stage and addresses crucial topics, such as identifying and addressing barriers to reading, as well as creating a rich, reading culture.

Critical Youth Research in Education
Methodologies of Praxis and Care

Arshad Imtiaz Ali and Teresa L. McCarty

This volume adds to the current conversation on critical studies of youth in educational research, addressing methodological lessons learned in the field. Focusing on "the doing" of critical youth studies, the volume showcases scholars’ research and reflection on the practical strategies used to operationalize their conceptions of knowledge and research projects with youth. By addressing research features, challenges, tensions, and debates of the projects; engagement with communities; and relationality, reciprocity, and responsibility to participants, this volume focuses on qualitative approaches that are humanizing, anti-colonial, and transformative.

John Everatt, University of Canterbury, New Zealand and Amanda Denston

Dyslexia provides an accessible introduction to contemporary dyslexia research. The authors draw on their broad experience from the fields of psychology and education, to present an engaging discussion of the many distinct, sometimes controversial, theories proposed to explain the cause(s), features and manifestations of dyslexia. Discussing the range of psychological and educational assessment practices used to identify dyslexia and how the condition differs from other learning difficulties, this book presents a range of support practices and learning interventions designed to remediate underlying deficits specifically associated with dyslexia.

On Educational Inclusion

Meanings, History, Issues and International Perspectives

Edited by James M. Kauffman
Series: Connecting Research with Practice in Special and Inclusive Education

Professor Kauffman examines the various meanings of inclusion and related terms, the history of the issue in education and how educational exceptionalities are different from other forms of diversity. He also examines the problems experienced for various populations and in various areas of instruction and in several nations, and the international implications of the UN’s Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. With accessible clarity, he also speaks to the particular problems of effective instruction for different levels and types of disabilities and giftedness, and in his conclusion, reflects on how the probable legacies of the inclusion movement are assessed.

2nd Edition

Palin Parent-Child Interaction Therapy for Early Childhood Stammering

Elaine Kelman, Speech and Language Therapist, Michael Palin Centre for Stammering Children and Alison Nicholas

The second edition of this practical manual is a detailed guide to the Palin Parent-Child Interaction Therapy programme (Palin PCI), which builds on the principle that parents play a critical role in effective therapy and that understanding and managing stammering is a collaborative journey between the child, parent and therapist. Based on a strong theoretical framework, this book offers a comprehensive understanding of the Palin PCI approach in order to support generalist and specialist speech and language therapists as they develop their knowledge, skills and confidence in working with young children who stammer and their families.

A Dialogic Teaching Companion

Robin Alexander, University of Cambridge, UK

Drawing on extensive published research, this handbook shows teachers how and why the dialogic approach has a measurable impact on students’ outcomes. Dialogic teaching harnesses the power of talk to engage students’ interest, stimulate thinking, advance understanding, expand ideas, and build and evaluate argument, empowering them for lifelong learning and social and democratic engagement. Building off his groundbreaking work Towards Dialogic Teaching, Alexander’s book aims to support the work of all those who are interested in the quality of teaching and learning, but especially trainee and serving teachers, teacher educators, school leaders and researchers.

Managing Classroom Assessment to Enhance Student Learning

Nicole Barnes and Helenrose Fives, Montclair State University, New Jersey, USA

Series: Student Assessment for Educators

As teachers are required to integrate an increasing number of assessment practices in the classroom, it is crucial that they have effective routines for organizing and evaluating these data. Managing Classroom Assessment to Enhance Student Learning introduces pre- and in-service teachers to the major categories of assessment management and provides empirical and theoretical support for their effectiveness. In-depth chapters consider management in the context of assigning and collecting work, interpreting and organizing assessment results, and providing students with feedback.

Cross-Strait Relations Since 2016
The End of the Illusion

J. Michael Cole
Series: Routledge Research on Taiwan Series

This book examines the situation in the Taiwan Strait since the election of Tsai Ing-wen of the Democratic Progressive Party in the January 2016 general elections. Tracking the pragmatic approach taken by the Tsai administration, it positions the recent developments within a changing geopolitical context and analyzes Beijing’s reactions to an environment which has become increasingly skeptical of its intentions. The first English language book to provide a full assessment of the four years of DPP rule since 2016, it will be useful to students and scholars of Asian Studies and Taiwan Studies, as well as Security Studies, Politics and International Relations.

Rosy Boardman, University of Manchester, UK, Rachel Parker-Strak, University of Manchester, UK and Claudia E. Henninger, University of Manchester, UK

Series: Mastering Fashion Management

Fashion buying and merchandising has changed dramatically over the last 20 years. Aspects such as the advent of new technologies, the changing nature of the industry into one that is faster-paced than ever before, as well as the shift towards more ethical and sustainable practices have resulted in a dramatic change of the roles. This book is ideal for all fashion buying and merchandising students, specifically second and final year undergraduate as well as MA/MSc fashion courses.

Red, White and Radical

What Organisations Can Learn About Change from the Rise of American Conservatism

Warrick Harniess, Scandinavia Stories, UK

This book explores how and why America has become so conservative since World War II. In the process, it offers lessons that professional leaders, regardless of their political stance, should heed if they want their organisational change plans to succeed. Using nine stories from American cultural, political and business history that illuminate how conservatives have pioneered change, the book outlines a change management lesson for professional leaders and explains how to apply that lesson in the workplace. If you’re a passionate business leader who relishes the challenge of delivering true organisational change for the better, then this book is for you.

GDPR: A Game of Snakes and Ladders

How Small Businesses Can Win at the Compliance Game

Samantha Alford

For many small businesses, organisations, clubs, artists, faith groups, voluntary organisations/charities, and sole traders applying the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) has been like playing a game of “Snakes and Ladders”. As soon as you move along the board and climb a ladder a snake appears which takes you right back to where you started. This user-friendly book, written by a Data Protection Officer and business management specialist will help you understand the Regulation, where it applies in your organisation and how to achieve compliance (and win at the compliance game). It is supported by a variety of easy to follow case studies, example documents and fact sheets.

Strategic Digital Transformation

A Results-Driven Approach

Edited by Alex Fenton, University of Salford, UK, Gordon Fletcher, University of Salford, UK and Marie Griffiths

Series: Business and Digital Transformation

Emerging technologies are having a profound impact upon business, as individuals and organisations increasingly embrace the benefits of the ‘always on’ attitude that digital technologies produce. Offering results-driven solutions that successfully transform organisations into data-driven, people-focused businesses capable of sustainably competing at a global level, this textbook is a vital resource for postgraduate and undergraduate students of digital business, innovation and transformation. It will also prepare business owners, business directors and management to take strategic advantage of new and emerging technologies to stay ahead of their competition.
in the 1970s. This 9th edition has been revised to reflect the latest advancements, with the addition of two new chapters on diversity and inclusion in adult learning, and the online adult learner, as well as an updated supporting website for instructors. This is the definitive book on adult learning for any researcher, practitioner, training manager and those involved in human resource development.

The Adult Learner

The Definitive Classic in Adult Education and Human Resource Development
Malcolm S. Knowles, Elwood F. Holton III, Louisiana State University, USA, Richard A. Swanson, University of Minnesota, USA and Petra A. Robinson

How do you tailor education to the learning needs of adults? Do they learn differently from children? How does their life experience inform their learning? These were the questions at the heart of Malcolm Knowles’ theory of andragogy which transformed education theory in the 1970s. This 9th edition has been revised to reflect the latest advancements, with the addition of two new chapters on diversity and inclusion in adult learning, and the online adult learner, as well as an updated supporting website for instructors. This is the definitive book on adult learning for any researcher, practitioner, training manager and those involved in human resource development.

The Making of a GEM

Aaron J. Nurick. Bentley College, USA

What makes a GEM at the dawn of a new decade? The book’s central questions remain: How do the best managers behave? What sets them apart? What impact do they have on their colleagues? The GEM concept stems from the psychological theory of the good enough parent who provides an environment where an infant learns to develop an autonomous and genuine self. Managing people in organizations is an inherently human and fallible endeavor, mainly because it occurs by and through human relationships. Upper-level undergraduate and postgraduate students, as well as practicing managers, will be inspired to rethink their own approaches to management.

The Price of Global Health

Drug Pricing Strategies to Balance Patient Access and the Funding of Innovation
Ed Schoonveld

Global drug pricing is one of the most hotly debated yet least understood aspects of the pharmaceutical industry. This unique book describes the pharmaceutical pricing process and its business, economic and social challenges. The 3rd edition is significantly expanded and updated to reflect today’s environment. The author explains how pharmaceutical prices are determined in a complex global player environment and what factors influence the process. His insights will help a wide range of audiences from healthcare industry professionals to policy makers, consumers, pharmaceutical company leaders and pricing professionals to gain a better understanding of this complex field.
Towards a Better Port Industry

Port Development, Management and Policy

Peter de Langen, Eindhoven University of Technology, The Netherlands

Towards a Better Port Industry provides professionals in freight transport and maritime logistics, and specifically the port industry, as well as students in these fields with a better conceptual understanding of the port industry. This book will broaden professionals' conceptual understanding of the ports industry, and provide insights on the latest developments in this area. Crisis Negotiations
Managing Critical Incidents and Hostage Situations in Law Enforcement and Corrections

Michael McMains, Wayman C. Mullins and Andrew T. Young

Crisis Negotiations, 6th Edition, is an invaluable resource for mitigating, managing, or responding to high-risk negotiation incidents. This revision includes the current research on negotiating high-risk incidents to the classroom and the field. It includes an applied analysis of the value of psychopathology to high-risk perpetrators. It refines the "empirical eclecticism" introduced in the 4th edition to provide a conceptual basis for crisis negotiations. The authors include summary bullet points at the end of each chapter for easy reference when negotiators are in the field, and a review of the literature since the last edition appeared.

The Crimmigrant Other
Migration and Penal Power

Katja Franko, University of Oslo, Norway

This book examines these processes and outlines how the figure of the "crimmigrant other" has emerged not only as a central object of media and political discourse, but also as a distinct penal subject connecting migration and the logic of criminalization and insecurity. Illegality defines not only a quality of certain acts, but becomes an existential condition, which shapes the daily lives of large groups within the society.

5th Edition

Applied International Economics

W. Charles Sawyer, Texas Christian University, USA, and Richard L. Sprinkle, University of Texas, El Paso, USA

This new and streamlined edition offers a modern and accessible treatment of international economics, shifting the emphasis from pure theory to the application of theory by using the standard tools of economic analysis. It makes the real-world application of international economics even more clear than previous editions, and focuses on the basics that students will need in order to analyze information on the world economy throughout their future careers. The new edition has been refocused, revised, and thoroughly updated.

Capitalist Political Economy

Heather Whiteside, University of Waterloo, Canada

A key text, Capitalist Political Economy: Thinkers and Theories analyses the field-forming theoretical contributions to political economy that have defined, debated, critiqued, and defended capitalism for more than three centuries. Grounded in primary and secondary literature, this text contextualizes the legacy of foundational political economists by exploring their life and times and putting them in conversation with other highly influential theorists. Equally, it also considers more contemporary views. This book serves as an indispensable source for academic communities who are interested in the long arc of capitalist development, theories, and theorists.

5th Edition

International Corporate Reporting

Global and Diverse

Pauline Weetman, University of Edinburgh, UK, Ioannis Tsalavoutas, University of Glasgow, UK and Paul Gordon

This textbook provides a comprehensive overview of international corporate reporting which enhances students’ understanding of diversity and convergence in the field. This new edition is fully revised and updated in order to remain essential reading for students of international accounting and corporate reporting globally. The book will be an invaluable resource for postgraduate taught programmes and final-year undergraduate courses in accounting, finance and business studies.

4th Edition

Health Economics

An International Perspective

Barbara McPake, Queen Margaret University, Edinburgh, UK, Charles Normand, Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, Samantha Smith, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland and Anne Nolan, The Economic and Social Research Institute, Dublin, Ireland

Health Economics: An International Perspective is the only textbook to provide a truly international, comparative treatment of health economics. Offering an analysis of health systems across borders, the fourth edition of this key text has been fully updated and revised to take account of changes in a host of countries.

This edition features an expanded introduction, a new section on applied econometrics, more discussion of how the need for healthcare and access to healthcare are defined and measured, and a vastly revised and updated section on the profile and structure of different healthcare systems.

3rd Edition

Principles of Agricultural Economics

Andrew Barkley, Kansas State University, USA and Paul W. Barkley, Washington State University and Oregon State University, USA

Principles of Agricultural Economics, now in its third edition, continues to showcase the power of economic principles to explain and predict issues and current events in the food, agricultural, and agribusiness sectors. This key text introduces economic principles in a succinct format, providing courses with a clear approach to learning how a market-based economy functions. For this edition, new material on agricultural policies, globalization, welfare analysis, and explanations of the role of government in agriculture and agribusiness is included. This book is ideal for courses on agricultural economics, microeconomics, rural development and environmental policy.

4th Edition

Overseas Research

A Practical Guide

Christopher B. Barrett, Cornell University, USA, Jeffrey Cason, Middlebury College, USA and Erin C. Lentz, University of Texas at Austin, Austin, TX, USA

When researching in developing countries, an ability to negotiate a bewildering array of cultural and logistical obstacles is essential. Overseas Research: A Practical Guide distills essential lessons from scores of students and scholars who have collected data and done fieldwork abroad, including how to prepare for the field, how and where to find funding for one’s fieldwork, issues of personal safety and security, and myriad logistical and relational issues.
Principles of Economics in a Nutshell
Lorenzo Garbo, University of Redlands, USA, Dorene Eisenberg, University of Redlands, USA

Principles of Economics in a Nutshell provides a succinct overview of contemporary economic theory. This key text introduces economics as a social science, presenting the discipline as an evolving field shaped within historical context. Chapters on microeconomics introduce concepts of scarcity and tradeoffs, market analysis, and the theory of the firm and market structure. Chapters on macroeconomics begin with an explanation of national income accounting, followed by discussions of macroeconomic theory in the goods market and the money market from both a Keynesian and Classical view. This book will be of great importance to students new to economics.

The Rise of Law and Economics
George L. Priest

This book is a brief history of the rise of law and economics as a field of thought in the US college and law school academy, though the field has expanded to Europe and South America and will expand further as other legal systems develop. It explains the origins and intellectual roots of the field and the sources of its growth during its formative period, as well as the field's relationship to the understanding of the role of the legal system in directing the functioning of the economy. This will be an essential companion of law and economics texts for undergraduate law and economic students and, especially, as a general supplement to first year casebooks for law school students.

The Beatles and Economics
Samuel R. Staley, Florida State University, USA

Series: Routledge Economics and Popular Culture Series

The Beatles are considered the most influential popular music act of the 20th century, widely recognized for their influence on popular culture. The inability of other bands and artists to imitate their fame has prompted questions such as: How did The Beatles become so successful? What factors contributed to their success? Why did they break up? The Beatles and Economics answers these questions using the lens of economic analysis. Economics provides the prism for explaining why their success - while legendary in scale - is not mythic. This essential text is of interest to anyone interested in the economic dynamics and social forces that shape cultural change.

The Costs of Crime and Justice
Mark A. Cohen, Vanderbilt University, USA

Mark Cohen provides a comprehensive review of the theoretical foundations, methodologies employed, and empirical estimates of the costs of the crime. The book clearly demonstrates that a complete characterization of crime costs can be an important tool in formulating criminal justice policy. This second edition has been substantially revised and expanded to include dedicated chapters on key methodological approaches including cost-benefit analysis, hedonic studies and stated preferences, as well as a new ‘Special Topics’ section featuring chapters on white-collar crime, the cost of drug use, the illegal use of force by police and international terrorism.

Climate Justice and Non-State Actors
Corporations, Regions, Cities, and Individuals
Edited by Jeremy Moss, UNSW Sydney, Australia and Lachlan Umbers
Series: Routledge Environmental Ethics
The climate justice literature remains largely focused upon the rights and duties of states. Yet, for decades, states have failed to take adequate steps to address climate change. This has led some to suggest that, if severe climate change and its attendant harms are to be avoided, non-state actors are going to have to step into the breach. This collection represents the first attempt to systematically examine the climate duties of the most significant non-state actors – corporations, sub-national political communities, and individuals.

Intercultural Collaboration by Design
Drawing from Differences, Distances, and Disciplines Through Visual Thinking
Kelly M. Murdoch-Kitt and Denielle J. Emans
Intercultural Collaboration by Design introduces a framework for collaborating across cultures and learning to use multicultural perspectives to address pressing global issues. With over 30 hands-on activities, this book will be of great interest to diverse teams from a variety of disciplines who want to enhance intercultural learning and co-working. Whether in the classroom or workplace, the activities are appropriate for a variety of collaboration contexts, without a need for background in art or design.

Nature-Based Solutions to 21st Century Challenges
Robert C. Bearns
This book provides a systematic review of nature-based solutions and their potential to address current environmental challenges. This book systematically reviews nature-based solutions from a public policy angle, assessing policy developments which encourage the implementation of nature-based solutions to address societal challenges while simultaneously providing human well-being and biodiversity benefits. It will be of great interest to policymakers, practitioners and researchers involved in nature-based solutions, sustainable urban planning, environmental management and sustainable development generally.

Raw Veganism
The Philosophy of The Human Diet
Carlo Alvaro
Series: Routledge Studies in Food, Society and the Environment
Human beings are getting fatter and sicker. As we question what we eat and why we eat it, this book argues that living well involves consuming a raw vegan diet. With eating healthfully and eating ethically being simpler said than done, this book argues that the best solution to health, environmental, and ethical problems concerning animals is raw veganism—the human diet. Exploring the scientific and philosophical aspects of raw veganism, this novel book is essential reading for all interested in promoting ethical, healthful, and sustainable diets.

The Age of Sustainability
Just Transitions in a Complex World
Mark Swilling, University of Stellenbosch, South Africa
Series: Routledge Studies in Sustainable Development
With transitions to more sustainable ways of living already underway, this book examines how we understand the underlying dynamics of the transitions that are unfolding. Without this understanding, we enter the future in a state of informed bewilderment. Shedding light on the highly complex challenge of a sustainable and just transition, this book is essential reading for anyone concerned with establishing a more sustainable and equitable world. Ultimately, this is a book about hope, but without easy answers.

Terrapsychological Inquiry
Restoring Our Relationship with Nature, Place, and Planet
Craig Chalquist
Terrapsychological Inquiry is a qualitative research methodology for students, ecologically oriented academics, ecopsychologists, ecotherapists, vision quest instructors, and environmental activists seeking a form of inquiry that takes seriously our intense inner responses to the state of the natural world. Where traditional qualitative and theoretical research approaches concentrate solely on human life while ignoring where we live and come from, Terrapsychological Inquiry conducts research with Earth in mind.

Ecotourism

David A. Fennell, Brock University, Canada

The new edition focuses on economic, social and ecological inconsistencies that continue to plague ecotourism in theory and practice, and examines the sector in reference to other related forms of tourism, impacts, conservation, sustainability, education and interpretation, policy and governance, and the ethical imperative of ecotourism. An essential reference for those interested in ecotourism, the book is accessible to students, but retains the depth required for use by researchers and practitioners in the field. It will be of interest to students across a range of disciplines including geography, economics, business, ethics, biology, and environmental studies.

Water Resources
An Integrated Approach

Edited by Joseph Holden, University of Leeds, UK

The second edition provides students with a comprehensive overview of natural processes associated with water and the modifications of these processes by humans through climate change and land management, water-related health issues, engineering approaches to water and socio-economic processes of huge importance to water resources. The book contains chapters written by 24 specialist contributors, providing expert depth of coverage to topics. It will be an indispensable guide to undergraduates studying Water Resources and Management, Geography of Water, and Water in the Environment.

2nd Edition

Environment and Economy

Molly Scott Cato, Sheffield Hallam University, UK

Written in an accessible style, this introductory text offers students an engaging account of the way that the various traditions of economic thought have approached the environment, bringing them together for the first time in one volume. It takes a pluralist approach to using economic tools to solve a range of environmental problems: economic growth, resource depletion, pollution, globalisation, climate change, markets vs. commons. The text is complimented by boxes, case studies and recommended reading for each theme addressed. It will be of value to students interested in environmental sciences, geography, green issues and economics.

4th Edition

Green Development
Environment and Sustainability in a Developing World

Bill Adams, University of Cambridge, UK

In print continuously since 1990, Green Development has won a place as a leading account of sustainable development used by generations of undergraduate and graduate students. This authoritative and readable text provides a clear and coherent analysis of sustainable development in theory and practice. The fourth edition of Green Development is fully revised, and up to date. It offers clear insights into the challenges of environmental sustainability, and social and economic development. The book has proved its value to generations of students as an authoritative, thought-provoking and readable guide to the field of sustainable development.

Midwifery

The Basics

Helen Baston, University of Sheffield, UK

Midwifery: The Basics provides an engaging and authentic insight into the midwife’s world. It explores the role of the midwife as a clinician and professional, showing how midwives can support women both to achieve a healthy full-term pregnancy and a smooth transition to motherhood. This book begins with a discussion of the context of birth and parenthood, placing midwifery in its broader social context. This book uses the voices of mothers, fathers and midwives to illustrate the complex world of becoming, being and supporting parents.

Students, teachers, practitioners and policy advocates will value this textbook of social medicine, which goes beyond the usual approaches of texts in public health, medical sociology and health policy. The authors draw upon examples worldwide to show how principles based on solidarity and mutual aid have enabled people to construct health-promoting social conditions. The book enhances learners’ understanding about promoting health through social and individual means; the micro-politics of medical encounters; the social origins and determinants of illness; the influences of race, class, gender, and ethnicity; health and empire; and health praxis, reform, and sociomedical activism.
Developing Sport for Women and Girls
Edited by Emma Sherry, Swinburne University of Technology, Australia and Katie Rowe, Deakin University, US
This is the first book to focus on sport development for women and girls, providing a theoretical and practical framework for readers in the emerging field of sport development. It examines both the development of sport, and development through sport with expert contributions from Australasia, North America, and Europe. The book offers critical analysis of contemporary sport development, from high performance pathways to engaging diverse communities to the use of sport to empower women and girls. This is essential reading for students, academics, researchers and practitioners working in the area of sport development or sport management.

Cultural Events and Risks for Heritage Cities

Zachary Jones
Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

Mega-events have long been used by cities as a strategy to secure global recognition and attract future economic investment. While cultural mega-events have become increasingly popular, cities have begun questioning the traditional model of other events such as the Olympic Games with many candidate cities cancelling bids in recent years. The book highlights this growing trend and positions them within a broader discussion of mega-events, through an examination of three World Heritage cities, Genoa, Liverpool and Istanbul that have hosted the European Capital of Culture.

Architecture and Labor

Peggy Deamer

This book addresses how, not just what, architects produce and focuses not on the past but on the present. It is sympathetic to the particularly intimate way that architects approach their design work while contextualizing that work historically, institutionally, economically, and ideologically. Architecture and Labor is sure to be a compelling read for pre-professional students, academics, and practitioners.

Contemporary Museum Architecture and Design

Theory and Practice of Place

Edited by Georgia Lindsay, University of Colorado Boulder, USA

This book showcases eighteen diverse essays written by people who design, work in, and study museums, offering a variety of perspectives on this complex building type. Throughout, the authors emphasize new kinds of experiences that museum architecture helps create, connecting ideas about design at various levels of analysis, from thinking about how the building sits in the city to exploring the details of technology. Written by an international range of museum administrators, architects, and researchers this collection is an essential resource for understanding the social impacts of museum architecture and design for professionals, students, and museum-lovers alike.

Place Meaning and Attachment

Authenticity, Heritage and Preservation

Edited by Dak Kopec and AnnaMarie Bliss

This edited volume will explore the different meanings and forms of place attachment and meaning based on our histories and conceptualization of material artifacts. Each chapter examines a varied relationship between a given society and the meaning formed through myth, symbols, and ideologies manifested through diverse forms of material artifacts. Topics of consideration examine place attachment at many scales including at the level of the artifact, human being, building, urban context, and region. Covering a broad range of international perspectives on place meaning, this book is an essential read for students, academics and professionals alike.

Interior Design

A Global Profession

Roderick Adams, Northumbria University, UK

This introductory student text challenges the current status quo by identifying the cohesions and specialisations of design communities across the continents. It sets out an international spatial design landscape, identifying and contouring global design practice and design hotspots from a range of case studies, interviews and design practice reviews. Using a range of interior environments, the chapters link the origins, trends and perceptions of the interior to create new insight into trans-global design.
Shadow
the architectural power of withholding light

Simon Unwin
Series: Analysing Architecture Notebooks
Each of these Analysing Architecture Notebooks is devoted to a particular theme in understanding the rich and varied workings of architecture. They can be thought of as addenda to the foundation volume Analysing Architecture, which first appeared in 1997 and has subsequently been enlarged in three further editions.
Shadows may be insubstantial but they are, nevertheless, an important element in architecture. Through history architects have used shadows to draw, to mould form, to paint pictures, to orchestrate atmosphere, to indicate the passing of time… as well as to identify place. Sometimes shadow can be the substance of architecture.

Working Cities
Architecture, Place and Production
Howard Davis
This book is about the importance of production in the life of the city, and the relationships between production, architecture and urban form. Through theoretical arguments, historical analysis, and descriptions of new initiatives, WorkingCities argues that contemporary cities can regain their historic role as places of material production. The book looks toward a future that builds on this revival, providing architectural and urban examples and current strategies within the framework of a strong set of historically-based arguments. The book is illustrated in full colour with archival and contemporary photographs, maps and diagrams especially developed for the book.

Behavioural Science and Housing Decision Making

Helen Bao, University of Cambridge, UK

This book takes a behavioural approach to examine six important housing questions: tenure decision making, neighbourhood decision making, housing prices, housing cycles, housing wealth effects, and housing satisfaction. The first part of the book introduces the questions and provides a behavioural science toolbox before the second part adopts a real-world case study approach with cases from the UK, USA, Hong Kong, and China. This book is ideal supplementary reading on a variety of courses such as housing studies, economics, real estate, research methods and for students and academics who are interested in the application of behavioural science in housing decisions.

Driverless Cars, Urban Parking and Land Use

Robert A. Simons, Cleveland State University, USA

The subject of driverless and even ownerless cars has the potential to be the most disruptive technology for real estate, land use and parking since the invention of the elevator. This book includes new research and economic analysis, plus a thorough review of the current literature to pose and attempt to answer a number of important questions about the effect that driverless vehicles may have on land use in the United States, especially on parking.

Cities of Opportunities
Connecting Culture and Innovation
Edited by Jason Pomeroy
Culture and innovation in cities can potentially take on different complexities if viewed through the lens of academics and practitioners drawn from different geographies, disciplines, or fields of expertise when addressing particular urban challenges. It is through this complexity of views that this book seeks to provide a broad perspective on culture and innovation in the context of global cities today; and a rich cornucopia of insights from thought leaders within their respective fields to shape the cities of tomorrow.

Small-Scale Urban Greening
Creating Places of Health, Creativity, and Ecological Sustainability
Angela Loder, University of Denver, Colorado
Small-scale urban greening projects are changing the urban landscape, shifting our experience and understanding of green spaces in our cities. This book argues that including power dynamics, symbolism, and aesthetics in our understanding of the human relationship to urban nature can help us create places that nurture ecological and human health and promote successful and equitable urban communities. Arguing that wilderness, emotion, and sense of place are key components of our human-nature relationship, this book will be of interest to designers, academics and policy makers.

Taste
A cultural history of the home interior
Drew Plunkett
Democratic in intention and approach, the book will argue that the home interior, as independently created by the ‘amateur’ householder, offers a continuous informal critique of shifting architectural styles (most notably with the advent of Modernism) and the design mainstream. Indeed, it will suggest that the popular increasingly exerts an influence on the professional. Underpinned by academic rigour, but not in thrall to it, above all this book is an engaging attempt to identify the cultural drivers of aesthetic change in the home, extrapolating the wider influence of ‘taste’ to a broad audience.

A for Adoption
An Exploration of the Adoption Experience for Families and Professionals
Alison Roy
Series: Tavistock Clinic Series
The experience of adoption, both adopting and being adopted, can stir up deep emotional pain, often related to loss and early trauma. A for Adoption provides insight and support to both families and individuals facing these complex processes and challenges.

Uniquely, this book addresses the experiences of, and provides support for, both adoptive professionals and families. It focuses on understanding, rather than apportioning blame, and responds to a plea from parents who requested “… a book to help me understand my child better…”.

High-Conflict Parenting Post-Separation
The Making and Breaking of Family Ties
Eia Asen and Emma Morris
Series: The Anna Freud National Centre for Children and Families
High-Conflict Parenting Post-Separation: The Making and Breaking of Family Ties describes an innovative approach for families where children are caught up in their parents’ acrimonious relationship – before, during, and after formal legal proceedings have been initiated and concluded. It is written for professionals who work with high-conflict families and should also be of considerable interest for parents who struggle with post-separation issues that involve their children.

Bion and Thoughts Too Deep for Words
Psychoanalysis, Suggestion, and the Language of the Unconscious
Robert Caper, University of California at Los Angeles, USA
Series: The Routledge Wilfred R. Bion Studies Book Series
This book addresses a range of fundamental questions around the nature of Psychoanalysis. It distinguishes how Psychoanalysis differs from other forms of therapy, explores the ways in which insights into the unconscious can be used to support and help people, and asks questions around any claim for scientific validity. Exploring the relationship between unconscious communication, group dynamics, containment and psychological development in a highly original way, it will be of great interest to psychotherapists, psychologists and psychoanalysts who are interested in the relationship between psychoanalysis and psychotherapy.

Jungian Reflections On Grandiosity
From Destructive Fantasies to Passions and Purpose

Francesco Belviso
Belviso presents a new perspective on grandiosity, examining both what it is and whether it can be a positive force in our lives and in the world. The book explores many aspects of grandiosity, including how grandiose fantasies can also help us discover our passions and how we can discern problematic narcissism from our true callings. Taking a Jungian perspective, Belviso explores the power of personal narratives, character development, inner dialogues and dreams to help us identify and engage with our callings. It also includes examples from the author's clinical practice, mythology, poetry, heroic lives and our everyday decisions about finances, relationships and work.

Moral Injury and Beyond
Understanding Human Anguish and Healing Traumatic Wounds

Edited by Renos K. Papadopoulos, University of Essex, UK, Consultant Clinical Psychologist, Tavistock Clinic, UK
This book brings together ten contributors from the fields of psychiatry, psychology, philosophy, theology, military chaplaincy and acute crisis care to address the phenomenon of moral injury from their own disciplinary perspectives. Focusing on combat veterans but with implications for any population that has survived violent forms of adversity, the authors approach the distress and loss that often follows these experiences. The chapters also address the question of how survivors can regain their hope and faith, and how they can, in time, explore ways that will lead them to grow through their suffering.

Magnificent Sex
Lessons from Extraordinary Lovers

Peggy J. Kleinplatz and A. Dana Ménard
Magnificent Sex is based on the largest study ever conducted with people who are having extraordinary sex. Looking at factors including individual and relational qualities, empathic communication, and the myths and realities of magnificent sex, this book offers accessible and evidence-based guidance for lovers and therapists alike. With frank and often humorous interviews from straight and LGBTQ individuals and couples, those who are ‘vanilla’ and ‘kinky’, monogamous and consensually non-monogamous, and healthy and chronically ill, this illuminating book explores the findings to develop a model that effectively tackles the common problems of low desire and frequency.

Parent-Infant Psychotherapy for Sleep Problems
Through the Night

Dilys Daws, Honorary Consultant Child Psychotherapist at the Tavistock Clinic, London, practicing therapist and Sarah Sutton
This much-needed, compassionate and well-informed guide to helping parents and babies with sleep problems draws on twenty-first century development research and rich clinical wisdom to offer ways of understanding sleep problems in each individual family context, with all its particular pressures and possibilities. It will be treasured by new parents struggling with sleeplessness and is enormously valuable for anyone working with parents and their babies.

3rd Edition

Children as Agents in Their Worlds

A Psychological–Relational Perspective

Sheila Greene, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland and Elizabeth Nixon, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland

This book approaches the topic of children’s agency from a fresh perspective, emphasising what psychological and developmental science can bring to a debate which has been dominated by sociology and anthropology. It reviews research on agency from family, school and wider society domains, pinpointing both strengths and weaknesses and drawing out ways in which theory and practice in relation to children as agents in their own lives might be developed. Combining a psychosocial approach with perspectives from sociology, anthropology and education it offers a stronger theoretical base for research and policy and will be essential reading for students and professionals in these fields.

Intergenerational Contact Zones
Place-based Strategies for Promoting Social Inclusion and Belonging
Edited by Matthew Kaplan, Leng Leng Thang, Mariano Sánchez and Jaco Hoffman
This is the first book to explore the foundations and applications of intergenerational contact zones (ICZs) from an international perspective. The book is filled with poignant examples of how ICZs breathe new life into communities and social practices. It focuses on practical descriptions and developments around ICZ to nurture practitioners’ and researchers’ capacity to translate and infuse the notion of ICZ into their work. Containing over 25 short chapters that showcase a wide range of possibilities with ICZs, this book is a how-to tool kit to help various professionals and user groups as they begin to consider ways to develop and nurture engaging intergenerational spaces.

Leadership and the Ethics of Influence
Terry L. Price, University of Richmond, USA
Series: Leadership: Research and Practice
This book examines the ethics of leader influence. Leaders’ exercise of influence over individuals and groups involves getting followers to engage in behaviors that align with particular interests and goals. Leadership resides conceptually between forcing someone do something and the basic independence that characterizes letting people act on whatever motivations they happen to have. Negotiating the territory between force and independence is the distinctive moral challenge of leadership. Grounded in moral theory and rigorous research, this book also offers practical applications to the distinctive ethical challenges of leadership.

Life After a Rare Brain Tumour and Supplementary Motor Area Syndrome
Alex Jelly, Adel Helmy and Barbara A. Wilson
Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories
This book offers a personal insight into the experience of a survivor of brain injury. It tells the story of Alex, who developed a rare brain tumour which was successfully removed. She was left with supplementary motor area syndrome and associated problems including motor and speech impairments and a temporary psychosis. The book discusses Alex’s struggles and triumphs throughout her rehabilitation and offers an honest account of her journey from diagnosis to recovery, highlighting that life after brain tumour can still be worthwhile.

Life and Suicide Following Brain Injury
A Personal and Professional Account
Alison Norman
Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories
Tom acquired a traumatic brain injury (TBI) aged 22 and took his own life 20 years later. In telling Tom’s story, the author—a professional who works with suicidal clients, and also Tom’s sister—identifies the multiple suicide risk factors, the lack of understanding and inadequate service provision for people with complex needs following TBI. Tom’s story serves as a harrowing example of what can go wrong when timely intervention and support is not forthcoming, providing insight to professionals and academics across health and social care in the risks of suicide associated with TBI. It also provides support for those who have experienced the grief of losing a survivor to suicide.

Living Well with Chronic Illness
Angeliki Bogosian, City University, UK
Living well with a chronic illness is one of the most challenging experiences one can have. This guide to managing both the emotional and physical aspects of chronic illness, from adapting to a diagnosis to how symptoms and the side-effects impact upon mood and perception, is written by a health psychologist in consultation with patient groups and the patients of a range of conditions. Covering self-management of pain, fatigue, stress and lifestyle changes, the book provides an accessible resource that will enable patients and carers to better understand the psychological challenges of chronic illness, and how they can meet these challenges to live more active and fulfilling lives.
Logic and Uncertainty in the Human Mind
A Tribute to David E. Over
Edited by Shira Elqayam, De Montfort University, UK, Igor Douven, Université Paris-Sorbonne, France, Jonathan St B. T. Evans, University of Plymouth, UK and Nicole Cruz, Birkbeck University of London

David Earl Over is a leading cognitive scientist and, with his firm grounding in philosophical logic, he also exerts a powerful influence on the psychology of reasoning. He is responsible for not only a large body of empirical work and accompanying theory, but for advancing a major shift in thinking about reasoning, commonly known as the ‘new paradigm’ in the psychology of human reasoning. This book is therefore important reading for scholars, researchers, and advanced students in psychology, philosophy, and the cognitive sciences, including those who are not familiar with Over’s thought already.

Posthumanist Learning
What Robots and Cyborgs Teach Us About Being Ultra-social
Edited by Cathrine Haase, Aarhus University, Denmark

Posthumanism questions the self-evident status of human beings by exploring how technology is changing what can be categorised as ‘human’, e.g. cyborgs and humanoid robots. In this book, the author applies a posthumanist lens to traditional learning theory, challenging conventional understanding of what a human learner can actually be. Posthuman Learning presents a new, inclusive, posthuman learning theory, designed to keep up with the transformations of human learning resulting from new technological experiences, as well as considering the expanding role of cyborg devices and robots in learning.

Memory Quirks
The Study of Odd Phenomena in Memory
Edited by Anne M. Cleary and Bennett L. Schwartz

Memory Quirks explores the variety of memory phenomena that confound and challenge standard theories of memory processing. While traditional memory research focused on encoding and retrieval, recognition and recall, and semantic memory and episodic memory, there are a myriad of memory phenomena that do not fit into these neat categories. Featuring contributions from leading international researchers, on topics including deja vu, tip-of-the-tongue states, and stolen memory, the book reviews the research and considers why these memory quirks are important to understanding human memory as a whole. It is essential reading for all students and researchers of human memory.

Psychological Perspectives on Radicalization
Allard R. Feddes, University of Amsterdam, Bertjan Doosje, University of Amsterdam, Lars Nickolson, University of Amsterdam and Liesbeth Mann, University of Amsterdam

This innovative new book examines radicalisation from new psychological perspectives by examining the different typologies of radicalising individuals, what makes individuals resilient against radicalisation, and events that can trigger individuals to radicalise or to de-radicalise. It goes beyond previous publications on this topic in that it identifies concrete key events in the process of radicalisation, and offers clear guidelines for interventions aimed at prevention of radicalisation and to stimulate de-radicalisation. This is essential reading for policy makers, researchers, practitioners, and students interested in this topical area.

Teaching Statistics and Quantitative Methods
Edited by Joseph Lee Rodgers, Vanderbilt University, USA
Series: Multivariate Applications Series

This volume has two principal aims. Firstly, it provides innovative, practical and clear guidance for students who are training to teach statistics and quantitative methods to undergraduates or who are already teaching and want to improve their knowledge and skills. Secondly, it inspires students and instructors to think critically about their teaching of statistics and quantitative methods, and to be more aware of, and receptive to, the developments in their field and to be willing to incorporate these developments into their teaching. It will appeal to instructors and graduate students in all behavioral and social science disciplines that require the teaching of statistics.

Reflections of a Cynical Clinical Psychologist
Max Heinrich

In real time accounts from the ‘front line’, this book gives the reader a participant experience of the daily ups and downs of the mental health professional, calling attention to the human realities of the system’s dysfunction. Illustrated by anecdotes based on the author’s 40 years’ experience and observations in the field, the book focuses on the system as the problem, identifying the limitations in the current mental health policy, governed by political priorities and controlled by money, with the emphasis misplaced onto profit rather than optimal patient care. This is important reading for mental health professionals, policy makers and those interested in humanizing social policy.

Current Developments and Understanding

Edited by Carol A. Ireland, University of Central Lancashire, UK, Michael Lewis, University of Central Lancashire, UK, Anthony Lopez, Washington State University, USA and Jane L. Ireland, University of Central Lancashire, UK

The Handbook of Collective Violence covers a breadth of contexts in which collective violence occurs, bringing together perspectives from psychology, criminology and sociology. It captures developments in the field, offering a deep theoretical insight to enhance our understanding of how such collective violence evolves, alongside practical suggestions for management, prevention and intervention. Structured into four key sections: Understanding War; Terrorism; Public order and organised violent crime; and Gang and multiple offender groups, it provides academics and practitioners with an up to date resource that covers core areas of interest and application.

The Story of a Clinical Neuropsychologist

Barbara A. Wilson, Oliver Zangwill Centre for Neuropsychological Rehabilitation, Cambridgeshire, UK

This unique book tells the life story of Barbara A. Wilson, a leading international authority on brain injury rehabilitation. Including insights into the extraordinary lives of brain injured people, the book describes her journey from her disadvantaged childhood to her ultimate success at the top of her field as both a scientific researcher and clinician. The book highlights the trials, triumphs and honours of Professor Wilson's professional career interspersed with her personal story, including the tragic death of her adult firstborn daughter. Her story will be fascinating reading for all clinical and neuropsychologists, as well as those living with brain injury and their families.

2nd Edition
Wired Youth
The Online Social World of Adolescence

Ilan Talmud, University of Haifa, Israel and Gustavo S. Mesch, University of Haifa, Israel

Series: Adolescence and Society

This fully updated new edition offers a research-based analysis of the online social world of adolescence. Combining perspectives from sociology, psychology and education with a focus on social constructionism, technological determinism and social networking, the authors present an empirically anchored review of the field. The book covers topics such as youth sociability, relationship formation, and cyberbullying to examine how young people use the internet to construct or maintain their inter-personal relationships. It is suitable for advanced students of adolescent psychology, youth studies, media studies and the psychology and sociology of interpersonal relationships.
