Advancing Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights in Africa

Constraints and Opportunities

Edited by Ebenezer Durojaye, Gladys Mirugi-Mukundi and Charles Ngwena, University of Pretoria, South Africa

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

Despite many positive developments in sexual and reproductive health in recent years, many Africans still encounter challenges, for instance in poor maternity services, living with HIV, and discrimination on the basis of age, gender, sexual orientation or identity. Covering topics such as abortion, gender identity, adolescent sexuality and homosexuality, the chapters in this book discuss the impact of culture, morality and social beliefs on the enjoyment of sexual and reproductive health and rights across the continent, particularly in relation to vulnerable and marginalised groups.

Africa

An Introduction

Eustace Palmer, Georgia College, USA

Africa: An Introduction invites you into Africa: a continent rich with culture and history, with diverse populations stretching from the dense tropical rain forest of the Congo basin, right up to the Sahara Desert in the north, and down to the Mediterranean climates of the far south. This accessible and engaging guide to the African continent guides the reader through the history, geography and politics of Africa. Suitable for high school and undergraduate students studying Africa, this book will also serve as the perfect introduction for anyone looking to understand the history of Africa, and the Africa of today.

Africa's Soft Power

Philosophies, Political Values, Foreign Policies and Cultural Exports

Oluwaseun Tella

Series: Global Africa

This book investigates the ways in which soft power is used by African countries to help drive global influence. Selecting four of the countries most associated with soft power across the continent, this book delves into the currencies of soft power across the region: from South Africa's progressive constitution and expanding multinational corporations, to Nigeria's Nollywood film industry, Kenya's fashion, sport diplomacy, and tourism industries, and finally Egypt's reputation as the cradle of civilisation. The book asks how soft power is wielded by these countries and what constraints and contradictions they encounter.

Afrikaners and the Boundaries of Faith in Post-Apartheid South Africa

Annika Björnsdotter Teppo

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa

This book examines the shifting moral and spiritual lives of white Afrikaners in South Africa after apartheid. It investigates how Afrikaners have mediated the country's shifting boundaries within the realm of religion. Based on long-term ethnographic fieldwork in the Western Cape area, the book investigates what spiritual life after racial totalitarianism means for the members of the ethnic group that constructed and maintained that very totalitarianism. This book will be of interest to scholars of religious and cultural anthropology and African studies.

Africa in a Multilateral World

Afropolitan Dilemmas

Edited by Albert Kasanda, Czech Academy of Sciences, Czech Republic and Marek Hrubec

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

The book analyses how Africans and Africa relate to other parts of the multilateral world, and to the world in general, and how these relations stem from local, national and regional interactions in different parts of Africa. The first part focuses on the assumptions that are necessary to understand the role of Africa on the global stage, especially from the perspectives of political philosophy and global and international studies. The second part of the book looks at both Afropolitan trends and the limits of Afropolitanism. In the third part, the authors focus on specific African global tendencies stemming from the local conditions in several case studies.

Bessie Head and the Trauma of Exile

Identity and Alienation in Southern African Fiction

Joshua Agbo, Benue State University, Nigeria

Series: Global Africa

This book investigates themes of exile and oppression in Southern Africa across Bessie Head's fiction. This book argues that Head's characters are driven to exile as a result of their socio-political ambivalence while still in South Africa, and that this sense of discomfort follows them to their new lives. Investigating themes of trauma and identity politics across colonial and post-colonial contexts, this book also addresses the important theme of black-on-black prejudice and hostility which is often overlooked in studies of Head's work.

Black–Arab Encounters in Literature and Film

Touria Khannous, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, USA

Series: Routledge African Studies

This book investigates how representations of Black Africans have been negotiated over time in Arabic literature and film. Touria Khannous offers direct readings of a representative selection of primary texts, shedding light on the divergent ways these authors understood race across different genres, including pre-Islamic classical poetry, polemical essays, travel narratives, novels, and films. Challenging fundamental assumptions of Black Diaspora studies and post-colonial studies, this book will be of interest to scholars of the African diaspora, Arabic literature, Middle East studies and critical race studies.

Cultures of Change in Contemporary Zimbabwe

Socio-Political Transition from Mugabe to Mnangagwa

Edited by Oliver Nyambi, University of the Free State, South Africa, Tendai Mangena, Great Zimbabwe University and Gibson Ncube

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book investigates how culture is used to reflect on change in Zimbabwe, focusing predominantly on Mnangagwa's 2017 coup, but also uncovering deeper roots for how renewal and transition are conceived in the country. This interdisciplinary volume looks to the (social) media, language/discourse, theatre, images, political speeches, and literary fiction and non-fiction to see how they have reflected on this time of unprecedented upheaval. This book will be of interest to researchers across African history, literature, politics, culture, and post-colonial studies.

Civil Society and Democracy in Nigeria

A Theoretical Approach

Bernard Nwosu, University of Nigeria

Series: African Governance

This book examines the complex relationship between the state and civil society and the impact that this has had on democratization processes in Nigeria from colonial times to the present. Combining the neo-Gramscian framework with discursive perspectives from Habermas and Foucault, the book takes a dialectical approach that traces the incarnations of the state and civil society and relates the mutual connections of the two spaces. This book will be of interest to scholars of African politics, democratization and civil society.

Decolonising Childhoods in Eastern Africa

Literary and Cultural Representations

Oduor Obura, University of Potsdam, Germany

Series: Routledge African Studies

This book deconstructs Eurocentric narratives and showcases local voices to re-examine childhood in Eastern Africa. Taking a chronological approach, the author provides a critical reading of Africanist anthropological research on childhood in eastern Africa before examining writings from the pre-imperial and colonial periods. Moving into the contemporary period, the book reveals the continuity of these portrayals in humanitarian and journalistic discourses, before exploring postcolonial writings on childhood in works by Eastern African novelists.

Cultural Mobilities Between Africa and the Caribbean

Edited by Birgit Englert, Barbara Gföllner and Sigrud Thomsen

Series: Routledge African Diaspora Literary and Cultural Studies

Despite their heterogeneity in terms of cultures, languages, and political and economic histories, the connections between the African continent and the Caribbean are manifold, stretching back to the trans-Atlantic slave trade. This book investigates the cultural connections between Africa and the Caribbean, using the lens of mobility studies to tease out the shared experiences between these highly diverse parts of the world. Bringing the transdisciplinary fields of African Studies, Caribbean Studies and Mobility Studies into dialogue, this book will be of interest to students and scholars across the humanities and social sciences.

Decolonising Political Communication in Africa

Reframing Ontologies

Edited by Beschara Karam, University of South Africa and Bruce Mutsivairo, Auburn University, USA

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book uses decolonisation as a lens to interrogate political communication styles, performance, and practice in Africa and the diaspora. The book interrogates the theory and practice of political communication, using decolonial research methods to begin a process of self-reflexivity and the creation of a new approach to knowledge production about African political communication. Centring African scholarship, the book draws on case studies from across the continent, including Zimbabwe, South Africa, Nigeria and Ghana. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of politics, media and communication in Africa.

Developing Creative Economies in Africa

Spaces and Working Practices

Edited by Brian J. Hraacs, University of Southampton, UK, Roberta Comunian, King's College London, UK and Lauren England, Kings College London, UK

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

Bringing together the experience of academics and practitioners, this book discusses creative economies in Africa, focusing on changing dynamics related to working, co-working and clustering. The contributors in this volume examine how strategies and opportunities such as co-working spaces, clustering and hubs facilitate the emergence of creative industries in a range of African countries including Kenya, Uganda, South Sudan, Nigeria, Tanzania and South Africa. This book will be of interest to students, scholars and professionals researching the creative economies in Africa across the humanities and social sciences.

Gender, Conflict and Reintegration in Uganda

Abducted Girls, Returning Women

Allen Kiconco, University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

This book explores what happened when the tens of thousands of girls (now women) abducted by Lord's Resistance Army and inducted into their campaign of violence against the Ugandan government, returned home. Drawing on extensive original research, the author considers the challenges which the formerly abducted women have encountered upon their return, the strategies which have been used to aid their reintegration, and the enduring stigma of abduction which they continue to suffer from. This book will be of interest to scholars, policymakers and practitioners working in the fields of post-conflict reconstruction, African politics and gender and conflict.

Gender, Judging and the Courts in Africa

Selected Studies

Edited by J. Jarpa Dawuni, Howard University, USA.

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

Drawing on extensive cross-national data and theoretical and empirical analysis, this book provides a timely and broad-ranging assessment of gender and judging in African judiciaries. Bringing together specific cases from Kenya, Uganda, Ghana, Nigeria, Zambia, Tanzania and South Africa, and regional bodies such as ECOWAS and the African Commission on Human and Peoples' Rights, this book will be of interest to scholars, students and practitioners of African law, judicial politics, judicial training, and gender studies. It will also be useful to bilateral and multilateral donor institutions financing gender sensitive judicial reform programs particularly in Africa.

Managing Violent Religious Extremism in Fragile States

Building Institutional Capacity in Nigeria and Kenya

Abosede Omowumi Babatunde, University of Ilorin, Nigeria,

Mahfouz A. Adedimeji, University of Ilorin, Nigeria, Shittu Raji, University of Ilorin, Nigeria., Jacinta Mwendu Maweu,

University of Nairobi, Kenya and John Mwangi Githigaro

Series: African Governance

This book examines how African states can build the institutional capacity to better prevent, manage and cope with the new security challenges posed by violent religious extremism. This comparative study of Nigeria and Kenya reflects on why insurgency in Kenya has not escalated to full blown terrorism as it has with Boko Haram in Nigeria. The book interrogates the policy and institutional responses that have been put in place in both countries to address security challenges, and the extent of their efficacy in light of the intricate networks of politics, governance, corruption, poverty and violence and the relative fragility of state institutions.

Media Diversity in South Africa

New Concepts from the Global South

Edited by Julie Reid

Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series

This timely book argues that the Global North's research methods and traditional assumptions are not valid to the media landscapes and audiences of the Global South. With South Africa as the focus, the authors offer a new understanding of media diversity along an audience-centred approach. The authors offer a holistic analysis of the ineffectuality of key media policymaking processes, projects and institutions – while also suggesting how these could be transformed to create a more diverse and broadly accessible media landscape.

Memories of Violence in Peru and the Congo

Writing on the Brink

Gilbert Shang Ndi, University of Bayreuth, Germany

Series: Routledge African Studies

The book presents an intertextual and comparative analysis of memories of violence in Peruvian and Congolese Literature. Examining a variety of novels that offer insightful representation of violence in their respective historical settings, the author argues that similar historical experiences between Latin America and Africa engender ethical/aesthetic responses and enhance trans-continental critical dialogues in comparative literary studies. This book will be of interest for scholars working on how violence is explored and represented in literature and other art forms.

Mobility in Contemporary Zimbabwean Literature in English

Crossing Borders, Transcending Boundaries

Magdalena Pfalzgraf, Saarland University, Germany

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This monograph explores the concept of mobility in Zimbabwean works of fiction published in English between the introduction of the controversial Fast Track Land Reform Programme and the end of the Mugabe era. Situating Zimbabwe's recent literary developments in a wider context of Southern African writing and history, this book focuses on texts which portray movement within Zimbabwe's cities, between village and city, to South Africa, and overseas. Setting out a rich dialogue between literary criticism and mobility studies, this book will be of interest to researchers of African Literature, Southern Africa, migration and mobility.

Oral Literary Performance in Africa

Beyond Text

Edited by Nduka Otiono, Carleton University, Canada and

Chiji Akoma, Villanova University, USA

Series: Routledge African Studies

This book delivers an admirably comprehensive and rigorous analysis of African oral literatures and performance. It provides a range of contemporary interdisciplinary perspectives in the study of oral literature and its transformations in everyday life, fiction, poetry, popular culture, and postcolonial politics. The book looks back to the trailblazing legacies of Ruth Finnegan, Harold Scheub, and Isidore Okpewho. Ambitious in scope and incisive in its analysis, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of African literatures and oral performance as well as to general readers interested in the dynamics of cultural production.

Post-Colonial Kenya

The Rise of an Authoritarian and Predatory State

Rok Ajulu

Series: Contemporary African Politics

This engaging reassessment of postcolonial Kenyan political history develops a theory of historical change and the role of leading figures in it. Combining political economy with political sociology it demonstrates how violence following the contested presidential election of 2007 represented, to a much more extreme extent, a continuation of the pattern of political contestation that has repeated itself throughout Kenya's political history.

Publics in Africa in a Digital Age

Edited by Sharath Srinivasan, University of Cambridge, Stephanie Diepeveen, University of Cambridge and George Hamandishe Karekwaivanane, University of Edinburgh

Across Africa, digital media are providing scholars with a reason and opportunity for revisiting the question, and the analytical lens, of publics with new vigour and less normative baggage. This book brings together a rich set of empirically grounded analyses of the diverse digital spaces and networks of communication springing up across the Eastern African region.

This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Eastern African Studies.

Race, Class and Christianity in South Africa

Middle-Class Moralities

Edited by Ibrahim Abraham, Australian National University

Series: Routledge Studies on Religion in Africa and the Diaspora

The author offers a theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich study of middle-class Christians in contemporary South Africa, as they seek to live good lives and build a good society. Focused on the city of Cape Town, drawing upon ethnographic research in conservative and progressive multiracial Protestant churches, furnished with critical analysis of South African literature and popular culture, this timely study explores expressions of ambition and anxiety that are both spiritual and material.

Radio, Public Life and Citizen Deliberation in South Africa

Edited by Sarah Chiumbu, University of Johannesburg, South Africa and Gilbert Motsaathebe, University of Johannesburg, South Africa

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa

This book critically analyses the important role of radio in public life in post-apartheid South Africa. The contributors demonstrate that whilst print and television media often serve elite interests and audiences, the low cost and flexibility of radio has helped it to create a 'common' space for national dialogue and deliberation. The book also investigates the ways in which digital technologies have enhanced the consumption of radio and produced a sense of imagined community for citizens, including those in marginalised communities and rural areas.

The Life and Times of Chinua Achebe

Kalu Ogbaa

Series: Global Africa

The Life and Times of Chinua Achebe introduces readers to the life, literary works, and times of arguably the most widely-read African novelist of recent times, an icon, both in continental Africa and abroad. The book weaves together the story of Chinua Achebe, a young Igbo man whose novel Things Fall Apart opened the eyes of the world to a more realistic image of Africa, a continent warped by generations of European travelers, colonists, and writers. In this book Kalu Ogbaa, an esteemed expert on Achebe and his works, draws on extensive research and personal interviews with the great man and his colleagues and friends, to tell the story of Achebe and his work.

The Politics of Biography in Africa

Borders, Margins and Alternative Histories of Power

Edited by Anaïs Angelo, University of Vienna, Austria

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

Bringing together historians, political scientists, and literary analysts, this volume shows how biographical narratives can shed light on alternative, little known or under-researched aspects of state power in African politics. Part 1 shows how biographical narratives breathe new life into subjects who, upon decolonization, had been reduced to silence - women, workers, and radical politicians. Part 2 reflects on the act of (auto-)biography writing as an exercise of power, one that blurs the lines between truth and invention. Part 3 focuses on female leadership during and after colonization, exploring on how women gained, lost, or reinvented "power".

Transnational Africana Women's Fictions

Edited by Cheryl Sterling

This book explores the works of women writers and filmmakers across the African and African Diaspora world, reflecting on how the transnational sphere can serve to highlight voices that were at the margins of gender and race hierarchies. The book demonstrates how in discourse and theory Africana women are the centers of their own knowledge production and agency. Their multiperspectivism leads to avenues of selective mutuality and influence, to generate transformative creative work, scholarship, and practices. Over the course of the book, the contributors critically explore and update the canon on women in the African and African Diaspora Literary sphere.

The Politics of Contemporary Ethiopia

Ethnic Federalism and Authoritarian Survival

Yohannes Gedamu

Series: African Governance

This book investigates the role of ethnic federalism in Ethiopian politics, reflecting on a long history of division amongst the country's political elites. The book argues that these patterns have enabled the resilience and survival of authoritarianism in the country, and have led to the failure of democratization. Focusing largely on the last 27 years under the EPRDF and on the political changes of the last few years, but also stretching back to historical narratives of ethnic grievances and division, this book is an important guide to the ethnic politics of Ethiopia and will be of interest to researchers of African politics, authoritarianism and ethnic conflict.

West African Women in the Diaspora

Narratives of Other Spaces, Other Selves

Rose A. Sackeyfio

Drawing on works by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, Buchi Emecheta, Ama Ata Aidoo, Sefi Atta, Chika Unigwe and Taiye Selasie, this book interrogates the ways in which African diaspora women's fiction portrays the realities of otherness, hybridity and marginalized existence of female subjects beyond Africa's borders. Overall, the book demonstrates that life in the diaspora is an uncharted journey of expanded opportunities along with paradoxical realities of otherness. Providing a vivid and composite portrait of African women's experiences in the diasporic landscape, this book will be of interest to researchers of migration and diaspora topics, and African, women's and world literature.

Climate Change in the Middle East and North Africa

15,000 Years of Crises, Setbacks, and Adaptation

William R. Thompson and Leila Zakhairova

Environmental factors in the Middle East and North Africa have played a crucial role in the historical and social development of the region. The book delves into a broad set of historical literature from the past 15,000 years that neglected to consider environmental factors to their full effect.

Emphasizing regional dynamics, the central question deals with the role of climate change in the rise and decline of the MENA region. The book will be a key resource to students and readers interested in global warming including academics and policy makers.

Emplaced Resistance in Palestine and Israel

The Cases of Hebron, Silwan and al-Araqib

Marion Lecoquierre, University of Helsinki, Finland

Series: Routledge Studies on the Arab-Israeli Conflict

Acknowledging space as a central tool of domination used by the Israeli authorities, this volume sheds light on the way space can become both a resource for and an outcome of protest, with an emphasis placed on the way it is used and produced through practices of resistance by subaltern groups.

Providing an original comparison between flashpoints of the Palestinian resistance against the Israeli politics of dispossession and expulsion, the book is a key resource for scholars and readers interested in political geography, political science, sociology, and the Israel-Palestine conflict.

Iran's Green Movement

Everyday Resistance, Political Contestation and Social Mobilization

Navid Pourmokhtari, University of Alberta, Canada

Series: Iranian Studies

This book examines the emergence and development of the 2009 Green Movement in Iran. The approach emphasizes the context and the local and historical specificities in which mass oppositional movements arise, develop and conduct their operations. Meanwhile, it foregrounds an account of multiple modernities that work to transcend modernist assumptions.

Marking a particular historical phase in the development of a home-grown democracy in post-revolutionary Iran, the Green Movement is transforming the country's political landscape. This book is a key resource to students and scholars interested in comparative politics, Iranian studies and the Middle East.

Israeli Theatre

Mizrahi Jews and Self-Representation

Naphtaly Shem-Tov, Open University of Israel, Israel

Series: Routledge Jewish Studies Series

This book conceptualizes Mizrahi (Middle-Eastern Jewish) theatre, unfolding its performances in the field of Israeli theatre with a critical gaze. It covers the conceptualization and typology, not along a chronological axis, but rather through seven theatrical forms. The author suggests a definition of Mizrahi Theatre that has fluid boundaries and it can encompass various possibilities for self-representation onstage.

Critically surveying Mizrahi theatre in Israel, the book is a key resource for students and academics interested in theatre and performance studies, Jewish and Israeli studies.

The Foreign Policy of Smaller Gulf States

Size, Power, and Regime Stability in the Middle East

Máté Szalai, Corvinus University of Budapest, Hungary

Series: UCLA Center for Middle East Development (CMED)

This book studies how smaller Gulf states managed to increase their influence in the Middle East, oftentimes capitalising on their smallness as a foreign policy tool. By establishing a novel theoretical framework (the complex model of size), this study identifies specific ways in which material and perceptual smallness affect power, identity, regime stability and leverage in international politics. Analysing the often neglected small Gulf states, the volume is an important contribution to international relations theory making it a key resource for students and academics interested in small state studies, Gulf studies and political science of the Middle East.

Secularization of Islam in Post-Revolutionary Iran

Mahmoud Pargoo, Deakin University, Australia

Series: Iranian Studies

Examining the trajectory of the secularization of Islam in Iran, this book explains how efforts to Islamize society led, self-destructively, to its secularization. The research engages a range of debates across different fields, emphasizing the political and epistemological instability of the basic categories such as Islam, Sharia and secularism.

Bringing together area studies (Iran), religious studies (Islam), and political theory (secularism), this interdisciplinary volume places findings in a broader narrative that is both specific to Iran but broad enough to engage a global readership.

Women and Resistance in the Maghreb

Remembering Kahina

Edited by Nabil Boudraa and Joseph Ohmann Krause

Series: UCLA Center for Middle East Development (CMED)

This book studies women's resistance in the three countries of the Maghreb, concentrating on two questions: What has been the role of women artists since the 1960s in unlocking traditions and emancipating women on their own terms? Second, why have Maghrebi women rarely been given the right to be heard since Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia gained national independence?

The variety of periods and disciplines in this collection allow for a coherent and general understanding of Maghrebi societies since decolonization. The volume is a key resource to students and scholars interested in women's studies, the Maghreb and

Middle East studies.

B.R. Ambedkar and Social Transformation

Revisiting the Philosophy and Reclaiming Social Justice

Edited by Jagannatham Begari, School of Social Sciences, Central Gujarat of Gujarat, Gandhinagar

This book revisits the philosophy of B.R. Ambedkar in the context of the present socio-economic-political realities of India. It examines the philosophical and theoretical interventions of Ambedkar, as well as his egalitarian principles of equality, liberty, fraternity and morality. Noting the current shift in state policy from welfarism to neoliberalism, the book argues that the measures, interventions and recommendations that Ambedkar made are highly appropriate and concrete to face challenges and can be considered as practical solutions to existing problems.

Domestic Economic Abuse

The Violence of Money

Supriya Singh

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Singh tells the stories of 12 Anglo-Celtic and Indian women in Australia who survived economic abuse, describing the lived experience of coercive control underlying economic abuse across cultures.

Each story shows how the woman was entrapped and lost her freedom because her husband denied her money, appropriated her assets and sabotaged her ability to be in paid work. These stories are about silence, shame and embarrassment despite professional and graduate education. These stories show the importance of studying economic abuse in the cultural context of the gender and morality of money.

A vital read for scholars of domestic abuse and family violence.

Split Waters

The Idea of Water Conflicts

Edited by Luisa Cortesi, Erasmus University, The Hague, The Netherlands and K. J. Joy, Society for Promoting Participative Ecosystem Management, India

Limited, finite, contaminated, unavailable or expensive, water divides people all around the globe. We all cannot do without water for long, but can for long enough to fight for it. This commonsensical narration of water conflicts, however, follows a pattern of scarcity and necessity that is remarkably unvaried despite different social and geographical contexts. Through in-depth case studies from around the globe, this volume investigates this similarity of narration—confronting the power of a single story by taking it seriously instead of dismissing it. In so doing, the invites to rethink water conflicts and how they are commonly understood and managed.

The Crisis of Climate Change

Weather Report

Edited by Ravi Agarwal, Toxics Link, New Delhi, India and Omita Goyal, Chief Editor, IIC Quarterly, the Journal of the India International Centre, New Delhi, India

This volume outlines the specific conditions and responses to climate change in India. It discusses various aspects of the planetary crisis with a global urgency: global warming induced by anthropogenic emissions, largely owing to the fossil fuel-based economic growth model; severe environmental decline; and its catastrophic consequences. It will be useful to scholars and researchers of environmental and sustainability studies, natural resources, environment and technology, sociology of development, development studies, public policy, energy and environment, and urbanisation. It will also interest practitioners, policymakers, think tanks and NGOs working on climate change issues.

The Routledge Companion to Dance in Asia and the Pacific

Platforms for Change

Edited by Stephanie Burridge

This Companion documents and celebrates artistic journeys within the framework of rich and complex cultural heritages and traditional dance practices of the Asia-Pacific region. It looks at various dance forms from Australia, Cambodia, China, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Taiwan, Singapore, the South Pacific, and Thailand. Drawing on extensive research and decades of performative experience as artists, choreographers, producers, teachers, and critics, the authors approach issues of dance and cultural diversity through a theoretical perspective, while at the same time exploring change, process, and transformation through dance.

Transnational Civil Society in Asia

The Potential of Grassroots Regionalization

Edited by Simon Avenell and Akihiro Ogawa

Series: Routledge Contemporary Asia Series

This edited volume addresses how transnational interactions among civil society actors in Asia and its sub-regions are helping to strengthen common democratic values and transform dominant processes of policymaking and corporate capitalism in the region. Investigating the role of such networks through a range of interdisciplinary approaches, it brings together case studies on Asian transnationalism from South, Southeast, and Northeast Asia and will appeal to students and scholars of international relations, politics and Asian studies.

Women Refugee Voices from Asia and Africa

Travelling for Safety

ActionAid Association

The book presents experiences of women refugees in a variety of contexts across Asia and Africa and builds a framework to ensure robust and effective mechanisms to safeguard refugees' rights. It highlights the structural challenges that women who are forcibly displaced face and the inadequacies of the response of governments and other stakeholders, irrespective of the country of origin, ethnicity, and religion of the refugee community. With first-hand accounts from women refugees and interventions, it will be a must read for scholars and researchers of migration and diaspora studies, development studies, sociology and social anthropology, and politics and

Women Reinventing Development

The Odisha Experience

Edited by Asha Hans, Amrita Patel, Bidyut Mohanty and Swarnamayee Tripathy

Women in the State of Odisha have played an important role in development, however they remain mostly invisible in policy and research. This anthology undertakes a journey from the States' rich historical tradition to its present stage of development to locate women's spaces in this process. Through discussing areas of health, education, employment, migration and political role of women in decision-making institutions, the authors suggest that only when women or any oppressed groups gained substantially on these fronts, would it have greater dignity and power in society.

Zainichi Koreans and Mental Health

Psychiatric Problem in Japanese Korean Minorities, Their Social Background and Life Story

Kim Taeyoung, Toyo University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary Japan Series

So-called "Zainichi" Koreans living in Japan have a higher suicide rate than native Japanese, or than any other ethnic group within Japan, a country which has one of the highest suicide rates in the world. Kim explores the challenges facing these individuals, including the dilemmas of ethnic education, the discrimination against them by mainstream society, and the consequent impacts on their mental health. An insightful read both for scholars of Japanese culture and society and for anthropologists and sociologists with an interest in the effects of marginalization on ethnic minority citizens more broadly.

Language Education

Teaching English in India

Edited by Nishevita Jayendran, Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai, Anusha Ramanathan and Surbhi Nagpal

Series: Principles-based Adaptive Teaching

This book situates the teaching and learning of language in general, and English in particular, within the socio-cultural context of India. It engages with current scholarship in literacy studies, and the pedagogies of language acquisition and learning. The volume discusses the cultural, discursive and socio-political functions of language education and the teaching of English in Indian schools. It examines the importance of adopting flexible pedagogical and multimodal strategies in teaching vocabulary, grammar, literary genres like fiction, poetry and drama, rhetorical discourses, and communicative English to learners for whom English is not one of their home language(s).

Language, Education, and Identity

Medium in South Asia

Edited by Chaise LaDousa, Hamilton College, New York, USA, and Christina P. Davis, Western Illinois University, USA.

This book examines medium of instruction in education and studies its social, economic, and political significance in the lives of people living in South Asia. It provides insight into the meaning of medium and what makes it so important to identity, aspiration, and inequality. It questions the ideologized associations between education and social and spatial mobility and discusses the gender- and class-based marginalization that comes with vernacular-medium education. The volume also considers how policy measures, such as the Right to Education (RTE) Act in India, have failed to address the inequalities brought by medium in schools.

The Psychology of Teaching Critical History

Shalini Dixit

This book delves into the psychology of teaching and learning history. It provides insight into the cognitive processes by which individuals imbibe history and how identity associations can shape our interpretation of histories. It discusses various themes such as the instrumentality of history in nation-building; psychological features and development of Historical Understanding; and the marginalisation of community history. It also provides suggestions on how teachers can reconcile with the developmental stages and multiple versions of history, while teaching tolerance and acceptance without compromising on nation-building commitments.

Cold War Cities

The Politics of Space in Europe and Asia during the 1950s

Edited by Tze-ki Hon

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book is a dynamic study of the range of experiences of the Cold War in Europe, East Asia and Southeast Asia in the twentieth century. It underscores the global scope of the Cold War to examine overlapping local, national, regional, and international rivalries that ultimately divided the world into two opposing camps. By also comparing experiences in various cities, this book critically examines the ways in which the bipolar system was not uniform and could be circumvented or transformed – particularly in places where the line between the Free World and the Communist World was unclear.

Political Continuity and Conflict in East Timor

A History of the 2006 Crisis

Ruth Nuttall

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book examines the history of political continuity and conflict in East Timor between 1974 and 2006, and the origins of an unexpected crisis in 2006 which caused an international military intervention and several more years of UN missions. Providing a fresh and empirical political history to explain the crisis, the book offers new dimensions to the understanding of East Timor, its independence struggles, political transition and politics after independence in 2002.

Planting Parliaments in Eurasia, 1850–1950

Concepts, Practices, and Mythologies

Edited by Ivan Sablin and Egas Moniz Bandeira

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

Parliaments are often seen as Western European and North American institutions, and their establishment in other parts of the world as a derivative and mostly defective process. This book challenges such Eurocentric visions by retracing the evolution of modern institutions of collective decision-making in Eurasia. Breaching the divide between different area studies, the book provides nine case studies covering the area between the eastern edge of Asia and Eastern Europe, including the former Russian, Ottoman, Qing, and Japanese Empires as well as their successor states.

Sanskrit and the British Empire

Rajesh Kochhar, Panjab University Mathematics Department, Chandigarh

This book focuses on the career of Sanskrit in British India. Europe's discovery of Sanskrit was a development of far-reaching historical significance in terms of intellectual curiosity, evangelical considerations, colonial administrative requirements, and political compulsions. The volume critically analyses this interplay between Sanskrit texts and the imperial and colonial presence in India. It goes beyond the question of what the discovery of Sanskrit meant for the West and examines what this collocation meant for India.

The Middle Class in Colonial Malabar

A Social History

Sreejith K.

Members of the middle class in colonial Malabar left behind a copious amount of writings which can be found in magazines, autobiographies and diaries. This book explores the social history of the middle class in the region during the British period on the basis of these writings in combination with archival sources. It delves into how they conceptualized domesticity, forged new friendships cutting across caste, and sometimes, even racial lines, and the new forms of leisure they envisaged.

Claiming the City in South African Literature

Meg Samuelson, The University of Adelaide, Australia

Series: Transdisciplinary Souths

This book demonstrates the insights that literature brings to transdisciplinary urban studies, and particularly in the study of cities of the south. It surveys more than a century of South African writing – from the origins of the industrial city to the first two decades of democracy – with the aim of tracing the forms through which the city has been constituted and refigured in literature. It focuses on the extractive and enclaved city that was produced from the inaugural claim staked by mining capital in the late nineteenth century and tracks the ways in which the literature issues various counter claims in order to reimagine the city as a place of assembly and attachment.

Convivial Worlds

Writing Relation from Africa

Tina Steiner

Series: Literary Cultures of the Global South

This book discovers everyday forms of conviviality in fiction and life writing from Eastern and Southern Africa. It focuses on ordinary moments of recognition, of hospitality, of humour and kindness in everyday life to illuminate the significance of repertoires of repair in a world broken by relations of power. Through readings of specific capacities of living with difference, the book excavates ideas of world-making, personhood and the possibilities of alternative social imaginaries from African perspectives. It will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of Literary and Cultural Studies, especially Postcolonial Literature, African Studies and Indian Ocean Studies.

Literature and Nation-Building in Vietnam

The Invisibilization of the Indians

Chi P. Pham, Vietnam Institute of Literature, Hanoi, Vietnam

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

This book analyses why Indians have been made invisible in Vietnamese society and historiography. It argues that their invisibilization originates in the formulaic metaphor Vietnamese nation-makers have used to portray Indians in their quest for national sovereignty and socialism.

Lyric Eye

The Poetics of Twentieth-Century Surveillance

Tyne Daile Sumner, The University of Melbourne, Australia

This book presents the first detailed study of the relationship between poetry and surveillance. It critically examines the close connection between American lyric poetry and a burgeoning U.S. state surveillance apparatus from 1920 through the 1960s. The book explores the myriad ways that poets explored a developing and fraught environment in which the growing power of American investigative agencies, such as the FBI under Hoover, imposed new pressures on cultural discourse and personal identity. Ground-breaking and prescient, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of literature, politics, surveillance and intelligence studies, and Digital Humanities.

Thinking Past 'Post-9/11'

Home, Nation and Transnational Desires in Pakistani English Novels and Hindi Films

Jayana Jain, University of Munster, Germany

This book offers new ways of constellating the literary and cinematic delineations of Indian and Pakistani Muslim diasporic and migrant trajectories narrated in the two decades after the 9/11 attacks. Focusing on four Pakistani English novels and four Indian Hindi films, it examines the aesthetic complexities of staging the historical nexus of global conflicts and unravels the multiple layers of discourses underlying the notions of diaspora, citizenship, nation and home.

Brexit and Liberal Democracy

Populism, Sovereignty, and the Nation-State

Amir Ali, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India

This book analyses Brexit in the larger context of the crisis in liberal democracies and the continuing rise of 'nationalism'. With electoral verdicts favouring right-wing populists across the world, the book argues that Brexit becomes a key event in understanding global political currents, as well as emerges as a watershed moment in the current political climate. A nuanced reading of a key event, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of politics, especially political theory, political sociology, and history.

Claiming Citizenship and Nation

Muslim Politics and State Building in North India, 1947–1986

Aishwarya Pandit, Assistant Professor, Jindal Global Law School, New Delhi

The book provides insight into the changing nature of Muslim politics and the ideas of citizenship in independent India. It studies the electoral mobilization of minority groups across North India, particularly in Uttar Pradesh where Muslims have been demographically dominant in various constituencies. The volume discusses themes such as the making and unmaking of the 'Congress heartland' and the threat of revival of 'Muslim communalism', alongside issues of representation, property, language politics, rehabilitation and citizenship, politics of Waqf, personal law and Hindu counter-mobilization.

Clientelism and Nationality in an Early Soviet Fiefdom

The Trials of Nestor Lakoba

Timothy K. Blauvelt, Ilia State University, Tbilisi, Georgia

Series: Imperial Transformations – Russian, Soviet and Post-Soviet History

Based on extensive original research, this book tells the astonishing story of early Soviet Abkhazia and of its leader, the charismatic Bolshevik revolutionary Nestor Lakoba. A tiny republic on the Black Sea coast of the USSR, Abkhazia became a vacation retreat for Party leaders and a major producer of tobacco. Nestor Lakoba became the unquestioned boss of Abkhazia, constructing a powerful local ethnic "machine" that became an influential component of Soviet patronage politics, engaging along the way in nepotism, corruption, blood feuds, embezzlement, racketeering, and extrajudicial murder on a scale that shocked even hardened Communist Party investigators.

Deliberative Democracy in Asia

Edited by Baogang He, Deakin University, Australia, Michael Breen, Deakin University, Australia and James Fishkin, Stanford University, USA

Series: Politics in Asia

Featuring cases from India, China, Nepal, Japan, South Korea, Singapore and Malaysia, the contributors to this book take a comparative perspective on the emergence and evolution of deliberative practices in Asia, and their relationships with democracy. They analyse the main motivations for introducing public deliberation in different political regimes and the effectiveness of public deliberation in Asian countries for solving problems and improving governance. In doing so they evaluate whether deliberative democratic tools, can apply to all societies regardless of their political and cultural differences.

Nelson Mandela

Peace Through Reconciliation

Neera Chandhoke, Centre for Equity Studies, New Delhi

Series: Peacemakers

This book reflects on the life and politics of Nelson Mandela (1918–2013), and his efforts to broker peace and reconciliation in a deeply divided country. Through examples from apartheid South Africa, it explores conflict and methods for realising peace, social justice and democracy. In the most violent phase of the country's history, Mandela offered to both communities peaceful means to ensure equality, justice and inclusivity. The author highlights the extraordinary challenges which Mandela faced in mobilising consent and persuading both the black and the Afrikaner community to acquiesce to peace and the transfer of power.

Partition as Border-Making

East Bengal, East Pakistan and Bangladesh

Sayeed Ferdous, Jahangirnagar University, Dhaka, Bangladesh

This book critically analyses Partition experiences from East Bengal in 1947 and its prolonged aftermath leading to the creation of Bangladesh in 1971. It looks at how newly emerged borderlands at the time of Partition affected lives and triggered prolonged consequences for the people living in East Bengal/Bangladesh. The author brings to the fore unheard voices and unexplored narratives, especially those relating the experience of different groups of Muslims in the midst of the falling apart of the unified Muslim identity.

Political Theory and South Asian Counter-Narratives

Maidul Islam

Series: Routledge Studies in South Asian Politics

This book evaluates the promise of human progress and secularism in grand political narratives of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, comparing counter-narratives of South Asia within the context of the twenty-first century. Embracing a broad range of sources and theoretical approaches that include philosophy, film and ideological discourse analysis, this book examines what went wrong in terms of secularism and distributive justice throughout India and the wider South Asian region. It critiques Enlightenment visions of democracy and global capitalism, instead proposing a progressive vision of a secular future of the Indian people.

Reimagining Arab Political Identity

Justice, Women's Rights and the Arab State

Salam Hawa, McMaster University, Canada
Series: Durham Modern Middle East and Islamic World Series
 This book discusses the idea that Arab cultural and political identity has been suppressed by centuries of dominance by imperial outsiders and by religious and nationalist ideologies with the result that present day Arab societies are characterised by a crisis of identity where fundamentalism or chaos seem to be the only available choices. Tracing developments from pre-Islamic times through to the present, the book analyses the evolution of Arab political identity through a multi-layered lens, including memory and forgetting, social and cultural norms, local laws, poetry, dance, attitudes to women, foreigners and animals, ancient historical narratives and more.

The Artistic Foundations of Nations and Citizens

Art, Literature, and the Political Community

Edited by Ann Ward, Baylor University, USA

This book examines politics through the lens of art and literature. Through discussion on great works of visual art, literature, and cultural representations of political thought in the medieval, early modern, and American eras, it explores the relevance of the nation-state to human freedom and flourishing, as well as the concept of citizenship and statesmanship that it implies, in contrast to that of the 'global community'. ## The Writing of the Nation by Its Elite

The Politics of Anglophone Indian Literature in the Global Age

MK Raghavendra

Series: Literary Cultures of the Global South

This volume examines the idea of India as it emerges in the writing of its anglophone elite, post-2000. Drawing on a variety of genres, including fiction, histories, non-fiction assessments, this book maps the explosion of English-language writing in India after the economic liberalisation and points to the nation's sense of its growing importance as a producer of culture. A major intervention on how postcolonial India is written about and imagined in the anglophone world, it will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of cultural studies, literature, history and South Asian studies, as well as to general readers with an interest in India and Indian writing.

The Imbecile's Guide to Public Philosophy

Edited by Murzban Jal, Indian Institute of Education, India, Jyoti Bawane and Muzaffar Ali

This book studies the role of serious philosophizing in everyday life and looks at how authoritarianism negates philosophical and public reason. It sheds light on how philosophy can go beyond its life as a discipline limited to an esoteric group of academia to manifest itself via radical discursive practices in public life which enable us to understand and resolve contemporary socio-political challenges. It studies philosophy as a discipline which deals with one's orientations based on experience, the logic of reasoning, critical thinking, and most of all radical and progressive beliefs.

Theory, Policy, Practice

Development and Discontents in India

Edited by Suman Nath and Debraj Bhattacharya

This book explores the meanings and perceptions of development and the dialectics of theory, policy and practice. It looks at how theory translates into policy, and the disconnections in its design and implementation in the Indian context. The book focuses on the influence of capitalist globalization, democratization, decentralization, and neoliberal economic reforms on the development discourse in India and how these have challenged the traditional role of the 'state', the meaning of citizenship, and public participation.

Weak States, Vulnerable Governments, and Regional Cooperation

An ASEAN Case Study

Atena Ștefania Feraru, National Chung Hsing University, Taiwan

Series: New Regionalisms Series

Feraru advances a new perspective on states' external behavior, informed by the insight into the specific experience of weak states derived from the work of Joel S. Migdal. She examines whether the common approach to internal affairs Migdal identifies manifests externally into a pattern of regional cooperative behavior. The features, which collectively suggest general reluctance to integrate regionally, are then tested in relation the Organization of African Unity/African Union (OAU/AU), the Organization of American States (OAS), and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

Placating the Demons

Ritual Practices among Sri Lankans

Gananath Obeyesekere, Emeritus Professor of Anthropology at Princeton University, USA

This book critically examines dominant ceremonial practices in Sri Lanka. It presents key ideas and symbolic systems that exist to this day, in similar shapes or in different guises. It looks at issues such as misfortunes caused by demons (yaksa dosa), an important ceremonial practice known as the puna-yāgaya, ideas pertaining to spirit possession, trance, and mediums. It also deals with classical Ayurvedic theories of disease, urban ceremonial practices such as cases of the apotheoses from demon to divinity, as well as multiple forms of Buddhist ceremonial practices that are part of the Sri Lankan consciousness and have found their way into public cultural performances in Sri Lanka.

Routledge Handbook on Islam in Asia

Edited by Chiara Formichi, Cornell University, USA

The Routledge Handbook of Islam in Asia offers both new and established scholarship on Muslim societies and religious practices across Asia, with chapters covering South, Central, East and Southeast Asia, as well as Africa-Asia connections. Presenting work grounded in archival, literary and ethnographic inquiry, contributors paint a picture of Islam as deeply connected to and influenced by Asia. This handbook sets an agenda against the 'centre-periphery' dichotomy, as well as syncretism that has dominated conversations on Islam in Asia, demonstrating new scholarly approaches to the study of Islam within the 'Asian context'.

The Nature of Sufism

An Ontological Reading of the Mystical in Islam

Milad Milani

Series: Routledge Religion in Contemporary Asia Series

This book explores how Sufis approach their faith as Muslims, upholding an Islamic worldview, but going about making sense of their religion through the world in which they exist, often in unexpected ways. Using a phenomenological approach, the book examines Sufism as lived experience within the Muslim lifeworld, focusing on the Muslim experience of Islamic history. It draws on selected case studies ranging from classic Sufism to Sufism in the contemporary era mainly taken from biographical and hagiographical data, manuscript texts and treatises.

Theories of the Self, Race, and Essentialization in Buddhism

The United States and the Asian "Other", 1899–1957

Ryan David Anningson

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Religion and Philosophy

This book analyzes Buddhist discussions of the Aryan myth and scientific racism and the ways in which this conversation reshaped Buddhism in the United States, and globally. It traces the development of notions of Aryanism in Buddhism through Buddhist publications from 1899-1957, focusing on this so-called "yellow peril," or historical racist views in the United States of an Asian "other." The book will be of interest to academics working on Buddhism, race and religion, and American religious history.

Empowering Women in Bangladesh

Gender and the Politics of Reserved Seats

Shajeda Aktar

This book investigates the deep linkages between gender and grassroots politics. It studies how women candidates in Bangladesh are elected in reserved seats in the local government bodies and explores the challenges that they face both from within the domestic unit and from the government administration. The book focuses on grassroots-level governance and provides a comparative study between selected rural and urban local government institutions in different socio-economic, educational, and cultural contexts. It also documents loopholes in the system of quota seats for women, allocation of electoral constituency, and elected representatives' rights and responsibilities.

Asia and Europe in the 21st Century

New Anxieties, New Opportunities

Edited by Rahul Mishra, University of Malaya, Malaysia, Azirah Hashim, University of Malaya, Malaysia and Anthony Milner, University of Melbourne, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies on Asia in the World

This volume discusses emerging critical issues in international relations, including the Indo-Pacific constructs, China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), and the progress of established regional security mechanisms like the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation. It compares western and non-western approaches to these issues, with a holistic perspective on the origins and evolutions of these approaches. This book presents implications of the changing politico-security dynamics in the two regions from the perspectives of both Asian and European scholars and theoretical traditions. A must-read for scholars of International Relations with a focus on relations between Asia and Europe.

Europe, Russia and the Liberal World Order

International Relations after the Cold War

Timofei Bordachev

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book analyses Russia-Europe/EU relations by exploring their practical essence and conceptualizing them in terms of the main categories of international relations research. It argues that the liberal world order, established in Cold War days, whereby international relations are underpinned by a global balance of power and a highly institutionalized framework of international relations, thereby balancing power and morality, continued after the Cold War, with high hopes in the early 1990s for a new order of security and cooperation for all Europe, including Russia.

Soviet Films of the 1970s and Early 1980s

Conformity and Non-Conformity Amidst Stagnation Decay

Edited by Marina Rojavin and Tim Harte

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book explores a new character archetype that permeated Soviet film during what became known as the era of Stagnation, a stark period of loneliness, disappointment, and individual despair. This new type of character was neither negative nor positive, but nevertheless systematically undermined Soviet norms of behaviour, hairstyle, dress, lifestyle, and perspective, in stark contrast to Socialist Realism's traditional, positive hero who fought for Soviet values and who vanquished the enemies of socialism.

Russia in Manchuria

A Problem of Empire

Paul Duker

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Russia and Eastern Europe

Manchuria, the name given to China's Northeastern provinces by foreign powers, has been contested by China, Russia and Japan in particular over many centuries. This book surveys the history of Manchuria, focusing particularly on the Russian and Soviet perspective. It outlines early colonisation of the region and examines the importance of the Chinese Eastern Railway, a branch of the Trans-Siberian Railway, and the remarkable railway city of Harbin for consolidating the Russian presence in the region and for developing the region's economy.

Jonathan D. Oldfield

This book argues that the Soviet Union was a highly influential actor in furthering understandings of society-nature interaction on the international stage and played a key role in helping to shape, conceptualize and assess the relationship between humankind and the Earth system. It considers how humankind's capacity to affect physical and biological systems at a global scale was acknowledged and studied by Soviet scientists, discusses how the interaction between Soviet and Western scientists stimulated the development of new technologies.

Transitions in Post-Soviet Eurasia

Identity, Polity and Strategic Choices

Edited by Archana Upadhyay, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

This book discusses the ideological and historical relevance of the term 'Eurasia' as a concept in the global geopolitical and ethno-cultural discourse. It focuses on the contested meanings attached to the idea and traces its historical evolution and interpretations. It further examines the contours and characteristics of power politics in the Eurasian landscape by exploring the dynamics of the contending and competing interests that have come to occupy the region, particularly in the aftermath of the disintegration of the Soviet Union.

China Debates Its Global Role

Chinese Scholars on Chinese Scholarship

Edited by Shaun Breslin and Ren Xiao, Fudan University

In this book, leading Chinese specialists outline how their colleagues are studying and interpreting different dimensions of China's evolving global role – opening these Chinese language debates to a new audience. Collectively they show that while some ideas and ways of thinking are more prominent than others, there is no homogeneity of scholarship and no single conception of what China thinks and wants.

Cambodia's China Strategy

Security Dilemmas of Embracing the Dragon

Chanborey Cheunboran

Series: Routledge Security in Asia Pacific Series

This book explores the tensions within Cambodia's foreign policy between a tight alignment with China, on one hand, and Cambodia's commitment to ASEAN as well as its delicate foreign policy diversification towards other major powers, on the other hand. It traces the long history of Cambodia's quest for survival from its bigger and historically antagonistic neighbours – the Thai and the Vietnamese – and its struggle for security and independence from the two neighbours and external major powers, particularly the United States and China.

China during the Tang-Song Interregnum, 878–978

New Approaches to the Southern Kingdoms

Hugh Clark

Series: Asian States and Empires

This book challenges the long-established structure of Chinese history around dynasties, adopting a more "organic" approach which emphasises cultural and economic trends that transcend arbitrary dynastic boundaries. It argues that with the collapse of the Tang court and northern control over the holistic empire in the last decades of the ninth century, the now-autonomous kingdoms that filled the political vacuum in the south responded with a burst of innovative energy that helped set the stage for the economic and cultural transformations of the following Song dynasty.

China in the Asian Financial Crisis

Peter Nolan, University of Cambridge, UK

Series: Routledge Studies on the Chinese Economy

The widely-held view of the Asian Financial Crisis is that it had no substantial impact on China. In fact, the country was far more vulnerable than most people realized, due to the high possibility of financial contagion entering the system from Hong Kong through Guangdong province. This book analyzes the severe policy challenge that it presented for China's leaders. China was able to avoid disaster by astute and difficult policy choices, in the face of fierce pressure from outside the country, as well as from different domestic interests at many different levels.

China's Communication of the Belt and Road Initiative

Silk Road and Infrastructure Narratives

Carolijn van Noort

Series: Routledge Series on the Belt and Road Initiative

This book examines how China's international political communication of the Belt and Road Initiative comprises narratives about infrastructure and the Silk Road. By carefully selecting infrastructure modalities and Silk Road representations, it is argued that China's aesthetic production of the Belt and Road Initiative advances China's image as an infrastructure and standards-setting power, conjures up a historical continuation of friendly and cooperative relations, and forges China's identity as good neighbor, good friend, and good partner.

China's Energy Security and Relations With Petrostates

Oil as an Idea

Anna Kuteleva

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book examines the development of bilateral energy relations between China and the two oil-rich countries, Kazakhstan and Russia. Challenging conventional assumptions about energy politics and China's global quest for oil, this book examines the interplay of politics and sociocultural contexts. It shows how energy resources become ideas and how these ideas are mobilised in the realm of international relations.

China's Western Frontier and Eurasia

The Politics of State and Region-Building

Zenel Garcia, St. Lawrence University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies on Asia in the World

Since the founding of the People's Republic, Chinese Communist Party leaders have sought to increase state capacity and exercise more effective control over their western frontier through a series of state-building initiatives. By presenting three phases of Chinese domestic state-building and region-building from 1988-present, Garcia shows how region-building projects have enabled China to increase state capacity, control, and development in its western frontier. Recommended for scholars of China's international relations and development policy.

China's Globalization from Below

Chinese Entrepreneurial Migrants and the Belt and Road Initiative

Theodor Tudoroiu

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book analyzes the Chinese-centered globalization 'from below' brought about by China's entrepreneurial migrants and conceived of as a projection of Chinese power in the Belt and Road Initiative partner states. It identifies the features of this globalization 'from below,' scrutinizes its mutually reinforcing relationship with China's globalization 'from above,' and shows that these two globalizations are intrinsically related to the construction of a Chinese-centered international order.

Chinese Foreign Policy Toward the Middle East

Kadir Temiz, Istanbul Medeniyet University, Turkey

This book examines how the rise of China has influenced its cross-regional foreign policy towards non-Arab countries in the Middle East between 2001-2011, analyzing contemporary international crises in the Middle East such as the Iran nuclear crisis, the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, and the Cyprus question.

The study assesses fieldwork carried out in Beijing and Shanghai, and Chinese sources that are critical in understanding both official and academic perspectives. The book is a key resource for students, academics and analysts interested in China and the Middle East relations, foreign policy, and politics, as well as contemporary political historians.

Chinese Ideology

Edited by Shiping Hua, University of Louisville, USA

Series: Routledge Studies on Comparative Asian Politics

This book traces ideological trends in China through a range of historical and comparative perspectives, spanning the ancient belief systems of Confucianism, Legalism, and Taoism to political ideologies of the present day. Chapters in this edited volume are divided into four parts: traditional Chinese ideology, ideology of the Republic, Maoism as an ideology and post Mao ideology, zoning in on specific historical periods from the Qing and Republic periods to the reform era, as well as the period after the founding of the PRC – through which Mao Zedong's political thought is notably discussed from the perspective of epistemology and the global impact of Maoism.

Chinese Theatre Troupes in Southeast Asia

Touring Diaspora, 1900s–1970s

Beiyu Zhang, University of Macau, Macau

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

A detailed account of the cultural history of the Chinese diaspora focusing on five different kinds of theatre troupes from China and their respective travels in Singapore, Bangkok, Malaya and Hong Kong. Zhang examines their different travelling experiences and divergent cultural practices. She thus sheds light on how transnational mobility was embodied, practised and circumscribed in the course of troupes' travelling, sojourning and interacting with diasporic communities. These troupes communicated diverse discourses and ideologies influenced by different social political movements in China, and these meanings were further altered by transmission.

Chineseness and the Cold War

Contested Cultures and Diaspora in Southeast Asia and Hong Kong

Edited by Jeremy E. Taylor, University of Sheffield, UK and Lanjun Xu

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book explores contested notions of "Chineseness" in Southeast Asia and Hong Kong during the Cold War, showing how competing ideas about "Chineseness" were an important ideological factor at play in the region. After providing an overview of the scholarship on "Chineseness" and "Diaspora", the book sheds light on specific case studies, through the lens of the "Chinese cultural Cold War", from Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya, Thailand, Indonesia and Vietnam.

Civil Society in China

How Society Speaks to the State

Runya Qiaoan

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

Chinese civil society groups have achieved iconic policy advocacy successes. This book examines why some groups are successful within the authoritarian context, while others fail. A mechanism of cultural resonance is introduced as an innovative framework to systematically compare interactions between Chinese civil society and the government in different movements. It is argued that civil society advocacy results depend on whether advocates can achieve cultural resonance with policymakers and the mainstream public through social performances.

Daoism in Modern China

Clerics and Temples in Urban Transformations, 1860–Present

Edited by Vincent Goossaert, Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes, France and Xun Liu, Rutgers University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Taoism

This book questions whether temples and Daoism are two independent aspects of modern Chinese religion, or if they are indissolubly linked. It presents a useful analysis as to how modern history has changed the structure and organisation of religious and social life in China, and the role that Daoism plays in this. Using an interdisciplinary approach combining historical research and fieldwork, the book focuses on urban centres in China, as this is where socio-political changes came earliest and affected religious life to the greatest extent, and also where the largest central Daoist temples were and are located.

Ethnic Identity of the Kam People in Contemporary China

Government versus Local Perspectives

Wei Wang, The University of Sydney, Australia and Lisong Jiang, Southwest University, China

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

Against the backdrop of the rapid transformation of the socio-economic environment in the ethnic minority areas in China, the identity of the Kam people has been severely challenged, while they have increasingly adapted to the majority Han people's lifestyle and language. Taking the remote Zhanli Village in Guizhou as the site for empirical research, Wang and Jiang explore how the traditional identity of the Kam people has transformed with the social, political and cultural changes in contemporary China.

Homeownership in Hong Kong

House Buying as Hope Mechanism

Chung-kin Tsang, Hong Kong Shue Yan University

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book studies the cultural framework of the connections between homeownership and social instability in Hong Kong. By studying the history of homeownership in Hong Kong over a period of four decades, Chung-kin Tsang proposes that homeownership is inseparable from the social imagination of the future, conceptualizing this framework as "hope mechanism". Given its unique approach, specifically its use of 'hope' as an analytical category, this book will prove to be a useful resource for scholars in economic culture and financialization, and Asian Studies, especially those working on the cultural, sociopolitical and economic history of Hong Kong.

How China Escaped Shock Therapy

The Market Reform Debate

Isabella M. Weber

Series: Routledge Studies on the Chinese Economy

China has become deeply integrated into the world economy. Yet, gradual marketization has not been accompanied by wholesale assimilation to global neoliberalism. This book uncovers the fierce contest about economic reform that shaped China's path: should China destroy the socialist system through shock therapy, or use the institutions of the planned economy as market creators? Based on extensive research, including interviews with key participants, the book charts this important debate. It also reveals the intellectual foundations of state-market relations through a longue durée lens, and delivers an original perspective on China's economic model and its continuing contestations.

New Chinese Immigrants in New Zealand

Floating families?

Liangni Sally Liu, Massey University, New Zealand and Guanyu Jason Ran

Series: Routledge Series on Asian Migration

This book focuses on new immigrant families from the People's Republic of China (PRC) to New Zealand and investigates how these new Chinese migrants have adapted to NZ immigration policy regime, which does not accommodate their cultural preference to live as multi-generational families. A significant theoretical contribution to the theory of transnational family formation in contexts where restrictive immigration policies result in members of multi-generational families living across different countries, this book will be of interest to academics in the fields of sociology, anthropology, race and ethnic studies as well as Asian and Chinese studies.

The Imperial Network in Ancient China

The Foundation of Sinitic Empire in Southern East Asia

Maxim Korolkov

Series: Routledge Studies in the Early History of Asia

This book examines the emergence of imperial state in East Asia during the period ca. 400 BCE – 200 CE as a network-based process, showing how the geography of early interregional contacts south of the Yangzi River informed the directions of Sinitic state expansion. Drawing from an extensive collection of sources including transmitted textual records, archaeological evidence, excavated legal manuscripts, and archival documents from Liye, this book demonstrates the breadth of human and material resources available to the empire builders of an early imperial network throughout southern East Asia – from institutions and infrastructures, to the relationships that facilitated circulation.

Understanding China through Big Data

Applications of Theory-oriented Quantitative Approaches

Yunsong Chen, Nanjing University, China, Guangye He, Nanjing University, China and Fei Yan, Tsinghua University, China

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Chen, He and Yan present a range of applications of multiple-source big data to core areas of contemporary sociology, demonstrating how a theory-guided approach to macrosociology can help to understand a society, especially where traditional approaches are limited by constrained and biased data. These include social stratification, social networks, medical care, and online behaviours among many others. An essential read for sociologists with an interest in quantitative and macro-scale research methods, which also provides fascinating insights into Chinese society as a demonstration of the utility of its methodology.

Agrarian Development in Colonial India

The British and Bihar

Peter Robb, Emeritus Professor, SOAS South Asia Institute, London, UK

This book looks at agriculture, development, poverty and British rule in India, especially in the Patna Division in Bihar between c.1870–1920. It traces the economic influence of British policies and maps the impact of legal, administrative and scientific interventions to rural conditions and norms in the state. The book discusses British theories and policies of 'improvement', comparing them with Bihar's agricultural practice and socio-economic conditions to draw conclusions about rural impoverishment. It further examines the economic role of governments, Eurocentric development theories and the complex impact of development policy on agriculture and society in Bihar.

Astrology in India

A Sociological Inquiry

Nupurnima Yadav, University of Delhi, New Delhi

This book critically examines the larger world of astrology in India, its ubiquity and relationship with religion, and its impact on economy, gender, class, religion, and caste. It looks at astrology through an empirical and phenomenological lens, analyzing different meanings and questions associated with it. How do people see astrology—as magic, science, religion, or a knowledge system? The volume analyses the role of astrology in religious and social ceremonies; the interplay of faith and fear; beliefs, practices, mysticism, and skepticism in middle class households; and, gendered negotiations in everyday life.

Children and NGOs in India

Development as Storytelling and Performance

Annie McCarthy

Series: Routledge/Asian Studies Association of Australia (ASAA) South Asian Series

This book is an ethnographic exploration of slum children's participation in NGO programs that centres children's narratives as key to understanding the lived experience of development in India where 50% of the population is under the age of 25. Weaving theoretical and methodological interventions from anthropology, childhood studies and development studies with children's own narratives and images, the author foregrounds children's lifeworlds whilst documenting the extent to which these lifeworlds are shaped by the twin forces of marginalisation and aspiration.

India and the Arab Unrest

Challenges, Dilemmas and Engagements

Prasanta Kumar Pradhan

Series: Routledge Studies on Think Asia

This book is a study of India's political, diplomatic and security challenges faced by the changing geopolitical and security dynamics in the Middle East and North Africa.

Like many other countries, India has been deeply affected by the unrest in the Arab world. As India has several long-term economic, political, security stakes in the region, it has adopted extreme caution in its responses towards the developing situation in the Middle East since the Arab unrest. This book examines India's policy of non-intervention and opposition to military intervention in the internal and regional affairs in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region.

Indo-US Relations

Steering through the Changing World Order

Edited by Shveta Dhaliwal

This book maps Indo-US relations from the turn of the last century. Amidst the changing world order, the bilateral ties between two of the world's greatest democracies have evolved from the thorny exchanges post-nuclear testing to present-day's bonhomie. The essays in the volume include perspectives from political scientists, policymakers, and strategic studies experts which renew discussions on Indo-US collaborations and negotiations. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of political science and international relations. It will also be of use to foreign policy and diplomacy practitioners, career bureaucrats, and government think tanks.

Indian Anthropology

Anthropological Discourse in Bombay, 1886–1936

Edited by Lancy Lobo, Centre for Culture and Development, Vadodra and A. M. Shah

This volume is an important contribution to the history of Indian anthropology, focusing on its formative period. It looks at the political economy of knowledge production and the anthropological discourse in Bombay during the late nineteenth century. This seminal volume highlights the much forgotten and ignored contribution of the Bombay Presidency anthropologists, many of whom were Indians, from different backgrounds, much before professional anthropology was taught in India. It will be useful to students and researchers of anthropology, sociology, public administration, modern history, and demography, Indian culture and society, and South Asia

Kings, Spirits and Memory in Central India

Enchanting the State

Aditya Pratap Deo, University of Delhi, India.

Part anthropological history and part memoir, this book is a unique study of the polity of the colonial-princely state of Kanker in central India. The author, a scion of the erstwhile ruling family of Kanker, delves into the oral accounts given in the ancestral deity practices of the mixed tribe-caste communities of the region to highlight popular narratives of its historical polity. As he struggles with his own dilemmas as ethnographer-king, what comes into view is a polity where the princely state is drawn out amidst a terrain of gods and spirits as much as that of law courts and magistrates, and political power is divided, contested and shared between the raja/state and the people.

India's North-East and Japan

Engagement through Connectivity

Edited by Mayumi Murayama, Japan External Organization (JETRO), Tokyo, Japan, Sanjoy Hazarika, Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative (CHRI), New Delhi, India and Preeti Gill, Independent literary agent, New Delhi, India

This book examines the complex and connected past, present and future of Northeast India and Japan. It looks at the intricate political geography and ethnolinguistic diversity of India's Northeast, and its historical and strategic relationship between Japan. From the theatre of the Second World War to a potential economic corridor to the Indo-Pacific, the Northeast, which shares a border with China, Nepal, Bangladesh, Bhutan and Myanmar, has emerged as an area of central importance in India–Japan relations.

Liberalised India, Politicised Middle Class and Software Professionals

Anshu Srivastava

This volume explores the emergence, evolution, and definition of the Middle Class in India. This volume analyses this class phenomenon through a close study of a new metropolitan middle class in India — the software professionals, emblematic of the 'new India'. It discusses this emerging class as a political category and their engagements with the state, democracy, political parties, issues of gender, basic necessities, and social justice. A fresh perspective on India's political milieu, this volume will be of interest to scholars and researchers of sociology, modern Indian history, political science, economics, and South Asia studies.

New Perspectives on the Indian Diaspora

Edited by Ruben Gowricharn, Professor of Indian Diaspora Studies, VU-University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands

This book critically examines new perspectives on the transformations in Indian diaspora. The volume highlights the transformation of the old Indian diaspora into a new ensemble in which economic, ideological and cultural forces predominate and interact closely. It looks at various themes including Indian indentured emigration to sugar colonies, comparisons between labour migration from India and China, the Girmitya diaspora, Indian diaspora in Africa and the rise of racial nationalism, India's soft power in the Gulf region, and the repurposing of the 'Hindutva' idea of India for Western societies, undertaken by diaspora communities.

Reading India in a Transnational Era

The Works of Raja Rao

Edited by Rumina Sethi and Letizia Alterno

This anthology demonstrates the significance of Raja Rao's writing in the broader spectrum of anti-colonial, postcolonial and diasporic writing in the 20th Century. In addition to highlighting Rao's significant presence in Indian writing, the volume presents a range of previously unpublished material which contextualises Rao's work within 20th-century modernist, postmodernist and postcolonial trends. A literary volume that discusses gender and identity on both socio-political grounds, apart from dealing with Rao's linguistic experimentations, this book will be of interest among scholars and researchers of English, postcolonial and world literature, cultural theory and Asian studies.

Rethinking the Local in Indian History

Perspectives from Southern Bengal

Edited by Kaustubh Mani Sengupta, Bankura University, West Bengal, India. and Tista Das, Bankura University, West Bengal, India.

This volume looks at the concept of the 'local' in Indian history. Through a case study of Bengal, it studies how worldwide currents—be it colonial governance, pedagogic practices, or intellectual rhythms—simultaneously inform and interact with particular local idioms to produce variegated histories of a region. It examines the processes through which the idea of the 'local' gets constituted in different spatial entities. The chapters in the volume explore a variety of themes— textual representations of the region, epistemic practices and educational policies, as well as administrative manoeuvres and governmental practices which helped the state in mapping its people.

The Routledge Handbook of Post-Reform Indian Economy

Edited by Rajesh Raj S.N., Sikkim University, India and Komol Singha, Associate Professor of Economics, Sikkim University, Gangtok, India

This handbook presents a comprehensive study of the post-reform Indian Economy, three decades after the economic liberalization started in the early 1990s. The volume evaluates the contribution of the reforms to social transformation, social inclusion, sustainability, and human development, and deliberates on the gains, blind spots and limitations. With contributions from scholars across the country, case studies and comparative analyses that draw on data analysis, econometric evidence and historical sensibility, this indeed is an authoritative volume on the reforms of the 1990s and their impact on the Indian economy and people.

The Social Model of Disability in India

Politics of Identity and Power

Ranjita Dawn, University of Calcutta, Kolkata

This book presents various paradigms and debates on the diverse issues concerning disability in India from a sociological perspective. It studies disability in the context of its relationship with concepts such as culture/religion, media, literature, and gender to address the inherent failures in challenging prevalent stereotypical and oppressive ideologies. The volume challenges the predominant perception of disability being only a medical or biological concern and provides deeper insight into the impact of representation through an analysis of the discourse and criteria for 'normalcy' in films from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Transdisciplinary Ethnography in India

Women in the Field

Edited by Rosa Maria Perez and Lina M. Fruzzetti
 Series: Routledge Contemporary South Asia Series

This book familiarises readers with a new way to treat the subject of gender, foregrounding the real voices of women, their experiences doing ethnographic work, and their courage in sharing their stories publicly for the first time in the context of India. A useful companion to more theory-based anthropological studies, the book connects ethnographic data to what eventually becomes theories formed from the field.

Women Voters in Indian Elections

Changing Trends and Emerging Patterns

Edited by Sanjay Kumar, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies (CSDS), Delhi, India.

This book looks at different dimensions of political participation of women voters in India. Elections in India have witnessed increasing electoral participation of women, both as political actors as well as voters. Taking note of this positive development, the book studies what has contributed to this increased turnout among women voters in Indian elections and discusses in detail the factors that facilitate or hinder this participation.

Commemorating Meiji

History, Politics and the Politics of History

Edited by D.V. Botsman, Yale University and Adam Clulow, University of Texas at Austin

The chapters in this volume highlight the politics of memory as they played out across a series of milestones over the twentieth century. Together they show the pressing need to look more closely at issues of commemoration as a key topic in their own right.

Dōwa Policy and Japanese Politics

Edited by Ian Neary

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

This book locates the development of Dōwa policy projects within their historical and political context, from its origination in the pre-war period to the 21st century. Chapters provide a historical review supplemented by analyses of policy process and implementation at national and local levels. Topics covered: left-wing Buraku Liberation League demands, the Special Measures Law for Dōwa Policy Projects and the evolution of human rights based Dōwa policy. Evaluating successes and failures to improve infrastructure and opportunities for marginal communities, this book invites comparative analysis with broader discrimination policies across Asia and the West.

Meiji Japan in Global History

Edited by Catherine L. Phipps, University of Memphis

This book examines Meiji Japan (1868–1912) to demonstrate the complex interplay between Japanese nation-building and the country's engagement with global processes. Basing their inquiries on the idea of Meiji Japan in global history, the authors examine Japan's rise on the modern world stage, focusing on the individuals—whether government leaders, intellectual elites, indigenous communities, or colonial migrants—who both shaped and were shaped by this era of global connectivity.

Japanese Animation in Asia

Transnational Industry, Audiences, and Success

Edited by Marco Pellitteri and Wong Heung Wah

Series: Routledge Culture, Society, Business in East Asia Series

Anime, involving hand drawn or computer animation, and often characterised by colourful graphics, vibrant characters and fantastical themes, is a quintessentially Japanese form of art and entertainment. Distributed through cinema, television and over the internet, it has an enormous following, not only in Japan but also, more widely, in Asia. This book provides a comprehensive survey of the historical development, industrial structure, and technical features of Japanese animation and of the overall dynamics of its globalisation.

Memories of the Japanese Empire

Comparison of the Colonial and Decolonisation Experiences in Taiwan and Nan'yō-gunto

Edited by Yuko Mio, Keio University, Japan

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

The contributors to this book examine and compare the colonial and decolonisation experiences of people in Taiwan and Nan'yō Guntō– Micronesia – who underwent periods of rule by the Greater Japanese Empire.

How did these ruled nations construct their cultural and historical awareness in areas where the strategic design of Japan's "civilising mission" was not convincing? How did Japan's reign affect the formation of historical awareness and cultural construction of present day communities in these two regions? The fascinating ethnographic insight offered will be of great interest to historical anthropologists of Taiwan, Japan and the Pacific.

Sweden, Japan, and the Long Second World War

1931-1945

Edited by Pascal Lottaz, Waseda Institute for Advanced Study, Japan and Ingemar Ottosson, Lund University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Studies in Second World War History

Lottaz and Ottosson explore the intricate relationship between neutral Sweden and Imperial Japan during the latter's fifteen years of warfare in Asia and in the Pacific. This book explores the reasons for that and thereby provides a study on the rationale and the value of neutrality in the Long Second World War.

Prostitutes, Hostesses, and Actresses at the Edge of the Japanese Empire

Fragmenting History

Edited by Nobuko Ishitate-Okunomiya Yamasaki

Analysing materials from literature and film, this book considers the fates of women who did not or could not buy into the Japanese imperial ideology of "good wives, wise mothers" in support of male empire-building. The roles of marginalized women, such as sex workers, women entertainers, hostesses, and hibakusha have rarely been analyzed. This book addresses this intellectual lacuna by closely examining lived experiences in Japan, but also in Shanghai, Manchukuo, colonial Korea, and the Pacific. An appendix presents the first English translation of a memorable statement on comfort women by former Japanese propaganda actress, Ri Kōran / Yamaguchi Yoshiko.

Tenkō: Cultures of Political Conversion in Transwar Japan

Edited by Irena Hayter, George T. Sipos and Mark Williams

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

This book approaches the concept of tenkō (political conversion) as a response to the global crisis of interwar modernity, as opposed to a distinctly Japanese experience in postwar debates. Tenkō connotes the expressions of ideological conversion performed by members of the Japanese Communist Party, starting in 1933, whereby they renounced Marxism and expressed support for Japan's imperial expansion on the continent. Although tenkō has a significant presence in Japan's postwar intellectual and literary histories, this multi-authored volume is one of the first in English-language scholarship to approach the phenomenon.

Rethinking Locality in Japan

Edited by Sonja Ganseforth and Hanno Jentzsch

Series: Nissan Institute/Routledge Japanese Studies

This book inquires what is meant when we say 'local' and what 'local' means in the Japanese context. Through the window of locality, it enhances an understanding of broader political and socio-economic shifts in Japan. This includes demographic change, electoral and administrative reform, rural decline and revitalization, welfare reform, as well as the growing metabolic rift in energy and food production, relevant for Japan specialists, but also connected with scholarly debates further afield.

China and Human Rights in North Korea

Debating a "Developmental Approach" in Northeast Asia

Edited by Baogang He, Deakin University, Australia, David Hundt and Chengxin Pan

Series: Politics in Asia

China's human rights record has been extensively scrutinized and justly criticized, nevertheless its human rights record compares favourably to that of North Korea and shows overall improvement compared with its own past in the area of economic and social rights. Whether and how its approach might be relevant to the North Korean context has been neglected. He and his contributors address this question by bringing together expertise on human rights in both North Korea and China. This study contributes new knowledge to the existing debate on North Korean human rights, which has been dominated by Western-centered perspectives.

Interviews with North Korean Defectors

From Kim Shin-jo to Thae Yong-ho

Lim Il and Adam Zulawnik, Monash University, Australia

Series: Routledge Advances in Korean Studies

Originally compiled and written by North Korean defector and author Lim Il, this English-language edition, thoroughly annotated by Dr. Adam Zulawnik, is a fascinating collection of thirty-four interviews with highly prominent North Korean defectors residing in South Korea. The book is a valuable testament to North Korean defector-residents and unique in that it provides a candid account of each individual's experience. It will prove to be especially useful to students and scholars seeking to understand the complex dynamics of North Korean society and the status of exiles in South Korea, and a vital resource for students of Korean Studies.

The Korean War and Postmemory Generation

Contemporary Korean Arts and Films

Dong-Yeon Koh

Series: Routledge Advances in Korean Studies

This pioneering volume navigates cultural memory of the Korean War through the lens of contemporary arts and film in South Korea. Cultural memory of the Korean War has been a subject of persistent controversy in the forging of South Korean postwar national and ideological identity. Applying the theoretical notion of 'postmemory', this book examines the increasingly diversified attitudes toward memories of the Korean War and Cold War from the late 1990s and onwards.

The New Dynamics of Democracy in South Korea

Edited by Chae-Han Kim, Hallym University, South Korea

South Korea has been through important changes since its democratization in the late 1980s, most recently in 2016-17 when the candlelight protests led to the ousting of Park Geun-hye and the election of Moon Jae-in. Taking a thematic approach to understanding South Korean democracy, each chapter in this textbook is written by a leading Korean expert on a different element of South Korean politics and government.

The New Dynamics of Democracy in South Korea is an invaluable textbook for students of Korean politics, which will also be a useful resource for scholars of comparative democracy.

ASEAN and Regional Order

Revisiting Security Community in Southeast Asia

Amitav Acharya

Series: Politics in Asia

Founded in 1967, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has emerged as one of the most successful regional organisations in the world. This book discusses the future of ASEAN against a backdrop of a growing US-China rivalry and the security implications of COVID-19. Chapters move through a detailed history of ASEAN and its multilateral institutions, including the ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF) and the East Asia Summit (EAS). Key concepts and terms are unpacked throughout, focussing on changing international and regional environments, economic insecurities, and extensive analysis of the factors challenging the principle ASEAN Centrality and the Indo-Pacific security Architecture.

Bilateral and Multilateral Cooperation in South Asia

Edited by Adhuri Subramanyam Raju, Pondicherry University, India

This book examines how bilateralism and multilateralism serve as cornerstones in bringing countries together to enhance regional cooperation. It explores the unfolding dynamics of bilateral and multilateral relationships in South Asia and looks at how factors like absence of shared identities or common threats from external sources, lack of trust, and suspicion are manifesting as obstacles for regional cooperation in the region.

Democratisation of Myanmar

Nehginpao Kipgen, Political scientist, Jindal School of International Affairs, Sonapat, Haryana, India

On 1 February 2021, Myanmar's military coup abruptly ended a decade of a civilian-military hybrid regime — a massive setback for the democratization process. Citizens from all walks of life took the streets and protests erupted over the following weeks, and Myanmar became the centre of global attention. This book brings up to date how the story of Myanmar's experiment with democracy unravelled over the last few years. It traces the political transition of Myanmar from a military rule of nearly five decades to a short-lived democratic experiment and outlines the factors that contributed to this transition and the circumstances in which it took place.

Exploring South Asian Urbanity

Edited by Urvi Mukhopadhyay, West Bengal State University, Barasat, India and Suchandra Ghosh, University of Hyderabad, India

This book looks at the typologies of cities and ideas of urbanity. Focusing specifically on cities in South Asia, it analyses the unique planning concepts, archaeology, art, culture, life and philosophy of various cities of ancient and modern South Asia. The book explores the concept of urbanity and the idea of an ideal city; it interrogates general notions of urbanity by juxtaposing city-life in various periods and geographies of South Asia.

Rethinking Bihar and Bengal

History, Culture and Religion

Birendra Nath Prasad

This book unravels some significant aspects of history, culture and religion of Bihar and Bengal: two regions that were connected through an intricate network of rivers. Themes delved into are: early historic urbanisation in Northern Bihar; the social history of Brahmanical religious institutions and Buddhist monasticism; the integration of a local goddess into the institutional fabric of Mahayana Buddhism; the survival of Buddhism in the 13th and 14th century AD; and the debate on the Islamisation of medieval eastern Bengal.

Safe Migration and the Politics of Brokered Safety in Southeast Asia

Sverre Molland

Series: Routledge Series on Asian Migration

The book investigates how the United Nations, governments and aid agencies mobilise and instrumentalise migration policies and programmes through a discourse of safe migration. Since the early 2000s, numerous non-governmental organizations (NGOs), UN agencies and governments have warmed to the concept of safe migration, often within a context of anti-trafficking interventions.

The US-Thai Alliance and Asian International Relations

History, Memory and Current Developments

Gregory Raymond and John Blaxland

Series: Routledge Security in Asia Pacific Series

This book, based on extensive original research, explores the current state of US-Thai relations, paying particular attention to how the United States is perceived by a wide range of people in the Thai defence establishment, highlighting the importance of historical memory. The book outlines how the US-Thai relationship has been complicated and at times turbulent, discusses how Thailand is deeply embedded in multi-faceted relationships with many Asian states, not just China, and examines how far the United States is blind to the complexities of Asian international relations by focusing too much on China.

The Vagabond in the South Asian Imagination

Resilience, Agency and Representation

Avishek Ray, Department of Humanities & Social Sciences, National Institute of Technology, Silchar, Assam, India

This book discusses the epistemic foundation of the heuristic construct 'vagabond' and the convergence between the politics of itinerancy and that of dissent in the context of South Asia. It describes the fraught relationship between 'native' itinerant practices and techniques of governmentality which have furnished different categorizations and taxonomies of mobility. The volume demonstrates the historical seismic breaks—from the Orientalist to the post-Orientalist, from the pre-modern to the modern, and from the colonial to the post-colonial—in the representation of the vagabond in the juridico-political imagination, in historiography and cultural articulation.

Resounding Taiwan

Musical Reverberations Across a Vibrant Island

Edited by Nancy Guy

Series: Routledge Research on Taiwan Series

This book vibrantly demonstrates how the study of music allows for identification and interpretation of the forces that form Taiwanese society, from politics and policy to reactions to and assertions of such policies. Contributors to this edited volume explore how music shapes life — and life shapes music — in Taiwan, focusing on subjects ranging from musical life under Japanese colonial rule (1895–1945) through to the contemporary creations of Indigenous musicians, popular music performance and production, Christian religious music, traditional ritual music and theatre, sound and noise.
