Creating a Successful Digital Presence

Objectives, Strategies and Tactics

Gordon Fletcher, University of Salford, UK and Noel Adolphus

Increasingly graduates, and anyone entering employment, need an individual digital presence to showcase themselves to secure their first professional role. It takes an employability approach to encourage readers to recognise and deliver an effective digital presence. By using a strategic and systematic process, this book draws together academic thinking with practical outcomes. It is essential reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students studying any discipline related to the digital world, particularly digital marketing and digital business, entrepreneurship and strategy, as well as those taking employability and personal professional development programmes.

Social Enterprise

Cases and Analysis for Understanding Social Business

Malcolm Harper, Cranfield School of Management, UK and Nadiya Parekh

This book introduces students and others to the discipline of social entrepreneurship, which encourages the creation of enterprises that are socially inclusive yet economically and ecologically sustainable. In each chapter there are case studies about internationally well-known enterprises and new local enterprises. The book leads its readers to understand and appreciate entrepreneurial issues and to engage themselves in community-based activities. The authors take a pragmatic yet critical approach, and this book should be core or recommended reading for Social Entrepreneurship and Social Enterprise modules at advanced undergraduate, postgraduate and MBA level.

The Business of Less

The Role of Companies and Households on a Planet in Peril

Roland Geyer

The Business of Less rewrites the book on business and the environment. This book introduces new paradigms designed to finally reconcile business and the environment in an accessible way. The first is called 'net green', which means that in these times of ecological overshoot green business activities need to reduce total environmental impact and not just improve the eco-efficiency of individual products. The second paradigm of the book is called 'labor, not materials' and builds on the insight that substituting material and energy inputs with labor is virtually guaranteed to reduce environmental impact.

Abolitionist Leadership in Schools

Undoing Systemic Injustice Through Communally Conscious Education

Robert S. Harvey

Abolitionist Leadership in Schools offers school and district leaders rich insights and approaches for recreating, restructuring, and reorienting their service to students, families, staff, and communities in crisis. This expansive book guides school leaders to provide pre-emptive, premeditated, and progressive leadership while countering the impacts of racism that endure in our schools. Working from an abolitionist lineage, author Robert S. Harvey's radically humane vision explores lessons from our collective national past, provides strategic planning with creativities and contingencies, and fosters liberatory decision-making through accountability, communication, and more.

Lessons from Lockdown

The Educational Legacy of COVID-19

Tony Breslin

Lessons from Lockdown explores the impact of COVID-19 on our schooling systems, on the young people and families that they serve, and on all who work in our schools, and asks what the long-term ramifications might be for the pedagogy and purpose of formal education. Drawing on the voices of over one hundred pupils, parents and professionals, it reveals how teachers, learners and schools are adapting their practice in areas such as curriculum modelling, parental engagement, assessment, home learning, and on-line and blended learning.

The Total Teacher

Understanding the Three Dimensions that Define Effective Educators

Danny Steele

What are the keys to thriving as an educator? This insightful book from bestselling author Danny Steele reveals how the most effective teachers are well-rounded and three-dimensional, 1) grounded in the technical side (classroom management, instruction, and professional growth); 2) dedicated to the relationship work (the purpose of what we do); and 3) committed to the vital role they play in building the school's culture. The book provides strategies, inspirational stories, and helpful examples from educators. Perfect for new and experienced teachers, this unique book will help you reflect on the art of being a teacher and enhance your professional practice.

The Dos and Don'ts of Successful Filmmaking

Common Mistakes and How to Avoid Them

Patrick Winters

Mistakes are easy to make, but often difficult to undo. The greater the knowledge and experience a filmmaker has, the fewer mistakes are made by them. This introductory level guide to filmmaking teaches effective pre-production, production, and post-production with a focus on many of the common mistakes made and how to avoid them. A combination of what to do and what not to do, this is ideal for introductory level filmmaking students, as well as independents just starting out. The online support material includes deal memo templates, walkie talkie lingo, camera and sound reports, 1st AD roll call and additional information on Booming.

Addressing Challenging Moments in Psychotherapy

Clinical Wisdom for Working with Individuals, Groups and Couples

Jerome S. Gans

Series: The New International Library of Group Analysis

This practical and helpful volume details how clinicians can work through various and common challenges in individual, couple or group psychotherapy. Chapters draw upon clinical wisdom gleaned from the author's 48 years as a practicing psychiatrist to address topics such as using countertransference for therapeutic purposes; resistance, especially when it needs to be the focus of the therapy; and a prioritization of exploration over explanation. Written with clarity, heart, and an abundance of clinical wisdom, this is essential reading for all clinicians, teachers, and supervisors of psychotherapy.

ADHD and Asperger Syndrome in Smart Kids and Adults

Twelve Stories of Struggle, Support, and Treatment

Thomas E. Brown

This book offers detailed examples of individuals who have above average cognitive intelligence, but struggle with executive function impairments of ADHD and significant social-emotional impairments of Asperger syndrome. Providing science-based information about ADHD and Asperger syndrome in clearly understandable, accessible language, this text is ideal for clinicians, educators, social workers, medical and mental health service providers, and parents of those struggling with such impairments. It also argues for restoring the diagnosis of Asperger Syndrome to diagnostic manuals of the American Psychiatric Association and World Health Organization.

Couple Sexuality After 60

Intimate, Pleasurable, and Satisfying

Barry McCarthy and Emily McCarthy

Confronting taboos and misunderstandings about sexuality and aging, Couple Sexuality After 60: Intimate, Pleasurable, and Satisfying motivates couples to embrace sex and sexuality after their 60s, using the Good Enough Sex (GES) model. This book places the essence of sexuality in pleasure-oriented touching, not individual sex performance. Barry and Emily McCarthy introduce a new sexual mantra of 'desire/pleasure/eroticism/satisfaction' with the goal of presenting a healthy model of sexuality to replace the traditional double standard that couples learn in young adulthood.

AI vs Humans

Michael W. Eysenck, Emeritus Professor of Psychology in the psychology department at Royal Holloway University of London, UK and Christine Eysenck

The great majority of books on artificial intelligence are written by AI experts who understandably focus on its achievements and potential transformative effects on society. In contrast, AI vs. Humans is written by two psychologists (Michael and Christine Eysenck) whose perspective on AI (including robotics) is based on their knowledge and understanding of human cognition. At a time when human commitment to AI appears unstoppable, this up-to-date book advocates a symbiotic and co-operative relationship between humans and AI. It will be essential reading for anyone interested in AI and human cognition.

Living Your Life with Cancer through Acceptance and Commitment Therapy

Flying over Thunderstorms

Anne Johnson, Claire Delduca and Reg Morris

This is the first book to focus on the scientifically based Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT) approach to self-management for people with cancer. Combining this transdiagnostic approach with the lived experiences of people with cancer, the book covers the range of psychological symptoms and conditions as a result of cancer. With a focus on value-based living as well as reducing distress, the book illustrates thought management methods such as mindfulness and the development of acceptance to provide a foundation for enhancing participation and wellbeing. It is valuable reading for all those living with cancer and their carers, as well as psychological therapists working in oncology.

Do We Have Free Will?

A Debate

Robert H Kane, University of Texas at Austin, USA and Carolina Sartorio, University of Arizona, USA

Series: Little Debates about Big Questions

In this little but profound volume, Robert Kane and Carolina Sartorio debate a perennial question: Do We Have Free Will? Kane introduces and defends libertarianism about free will. Sartorio introduces and defends compatibilism about free will. Simplifying tricky terminology and complicated concepts for readers new to the debate, the authors also cover the latest developments on a controversial topic that gets us entangled in questions about blameworthiness and responsibility, coercion and control, and much more.

Short, lively and accessible, the debate showcases diverse and cutting-edge work on free will.

Free Will: The Basics

Meghan Griffith, Davidson College, USA

Series: The Basics

The issue of whether humans are free to make their own decisions has long been debated, and it continues to be controversial today. In Free Will: The Basics Meghan Griffith provides a clear and accessible introduction to this important but challenging philosophical problem.

This second edition has been revised and updated throughout, with the addition of new sections on dispositionalism, free will as self-organization, and situationism in psychology. Up-to-date suggestions for further reading and a glossary are also included, making Free Will: The Basics an ideal introduction for anyone coming to the subject for the first time.

Is Political Authority an Illusion?

A Debate

Michael Huemer, University of Colorado at Boulder, USA and Daniel Layman, Davidson College, USA

Series: Little Debates about Big Questions

Michael Huemer argues that political authority is an illusion and that no one is entitled to rule over anyone. He discusses and rebuts the major theories supporting political authority's rightfulness: implicit social contract theory, hypothetical contract theories, democratic theories of authority, and utilitarian theories. Daniel Layman argues that democratic governments have authority because they are needed to protect our rights and because they are accountable to the people. Each author writes two replies directly addressing the arguments and ideas of the other.

Is There a God?

A Debate

Graham Oppy, Monash University, Australia and Kenneth L. Pearce, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland

Series: Little Debates about Big Questions

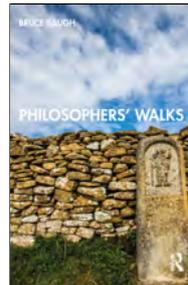

Kenneth L. Pearce argues that God is a real answer to the deepest question of all: why is there something rather than nothing? Graham Oppy argues that we should believe that there are none but natural causal entities with none but natural causal properties—and hence should believe that there are no gods. Beginning from this basic disagreement, the authors proceed to discuss and debate a wide range of philosophical questions, including questions about explanation, necessity, rationality, religious experience, mathematical objects, the foundations of ethics, and the methodology of philosophy.

Why It's OK to Eat Meat

Dan C. Shaha, University of New Orleans, USA

Series: Why It's OK

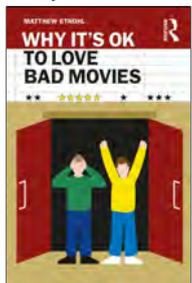

Dan C. Shaha argues it's entirely possible to be an ethical person while continuing to eat meat—and not just the "fancy" offerings but also the regular meat we find at most supermarkets. Shaha argues each of us has broad latitude to choose which of the world's problems to tackle, in what ways, and to what extents, and hence people can decline to take up this particular form of activism without doing anything wrong.

Why It's OK to Love Bad Movies

Matthew Strohl

Series: Why It's OK

Combining philosophy of art with film criticism, Strohl flips conventional notions of "good" and "bad" on their heads and makes the case that the ultimate value of a work of art lies in what it can add to our lives. By this measure, some of the worst movies ever made are also among the best. Strohl argues that so-called "bad movies" are the ones that break the rules of the art form without the aura of artistic seriousness that surrounds the avant-garde. These movies offer rich opportunities for creative engagement and enable the formation of lively fan communities, and they can be a key ingredient in a fulfilling aesthetic life.

Who Rules America?

The Corporate Rich, White Nationalist Republicans, and Inclusionary Democrats in the 2020s

G William Domhoff

At this time when voting rights are endangered, this significantly updated edition shows precisely how the top 1% of the population who own 43% of all financial wealth dominate governmental decision-making. Domhoff details how the corporate rich and the power dominate US policy, despite constant challenges from inclusionary alliances and from Democrats. The book is updated to explain dark attempts to influence public opinion, the machinations of the climate-denial network, and how minority rule and an ultraconservative Supreme Court can now undermine other policies. Despite this concentrated power, it will be the other 99%, not the top 1%, who will decide the fate of the US.

An Introduction to Socioecological Thinking and Practice

Thomas Macias

Series: Routledge Explorations in Environmental Studies

Given its focus on inequality and the constituent elements of the social world, sociology has often been accused of negligence regarding the urgency of the world's environmental crisis. Sociology Save the Planet corrects this mis-perception by integrating the theme of environment and society to highlight the intrinsic value a sociological perspective brings to our understanding of the current ecological crisis. Highlighting how the environment and society are intrinsically linked, this book argues that environmental concerns need to be treated as a core concept in the study of sociology.
