A Jungian Approach to Coaching

The Theory and Practice of Turning Leaders into People

Laurence Barrett

In this book, Laurence Barrett explores the fundamental principles and structures of Jung's model of the mind and considers ways in which these may be applied and extended to a modern coaching and consulting practice. It offers a deep but accessible insight to Jungian theory, supported by a wealth of source materials and rich examples from the author's own work and experience.

A Jungian Approach to Coaching will help experienced coaches to better support individuals, groups, and organizations, in a rediscovery of their humanity and their potential. It will help turn leaders into people.

Anacarnation and Returning to the Lived Body with Richard Kearney

Edited by Brian Treanor, Loyola Marymount University in California, USA and James L. Taylor, European Center for the Study of War and Peace, Croatia

Series: Psychology and the Other

This edited collection responds to Richard Kearney's recent work on touch, excarnation, and embodiment, as well as his broader work in carnal hermeneutics, which sets the stage for his return to and retrieval of the senses of the lived body. Written for scholars and students interested in touch, embodiment, phenomenology, and hermeneutics, this diverse and challenging collection contributes to a growing field of scholarship that recognises and attempts to correct the excarnating trends in philosophy and in culture at large.

Attachment, Sexuality, Power

Oedipal Theory as Regulator of Family Affection in Freud's Case of Little Hans

Jerome C. Wakefield, New York University, USA

Series: Psychological Issues

In Attachment, Sexuality, Power, Jerome C. Wakefield challenges established views of Freudian psychoanalysis by applying Foucault's concept of 'power/knowledge' to Freud's case of Little Hans, illuminating the role that Oedipal theory has played in reorganizing intimate family relationships.

This book's novel and carefully documented articulation of the mechanisms of power by which Oedipal theory exerts its influence on family life will be of interest to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists alike, and essential for scholars in the fields of psychoanalysis, philosophy of science and the history of psychiatry.

Attuned Treatment of Developmental Trauma

Non-abused, High-functioning People Living Outside of Time

Kathleen Adams

Series: Psychoanalysis in a New Key Book Series

This book takes a painstaking look at developmental trauma as it manifests in group, individual, and combined psychotherapies, tracking the growth of non-abused individuals who have courageously addressed overwhelming childhood experiences to make sense of the chaos in their lives.

Using richly detailed clinical material, this book provides invaluable clear examples to illustrate the effects of disorganized states in infancy, making it essential for psychoanalysts, psychotherapists and clinical psychologists working with traumatized patients.

Bion and Intuition in the Clinical Setting

Edited by Antonia Grimalt, Spanish Society (SEP-IPA), Spain

Series: The Routledge Wilfred R. Bion Studies Book Series

Bion and Intuition in the Clinical Setting focuses on Bion's investigation of the intuitive approach to clinical data and lays out how Bion's method encouraged constant effort by the analysts to relinquish its reliance on sensory and conceptual-verbal faculties to make room for intuition. This book will be of key interest to analysts and analytic therapists of all schools and is an essential resource for those that follow the work of Bion.

This book explores the ways in which diversity and experiences of marginalisation are present in forensic mental health care settings around the globe and suggests ways of moving forward. Chapters in this book discuss these crucial and often sensitive problems, such as working with transgender prisoners, the impact of incarceration for children and their families, autism in forensic settings and more. Combining global perspectives from a diverse group of contributors and a wide variety of real-life situations, this book will be essential to all practitioners, researchers and students of forensic mental health.

A Model of Therapeutic Accompaniment

Tomás Casado-Frankel and María Eugenia HerreraSeries: Psychoanalysis in a New Key Book Series*

Through the attentive examination of a single case study, this book weaves together the lived experiences of a clinician in training with those of their teenage patient, as they collectively navigate and overcome the profound effects of early relational trauma on the development of the self.

By giving form to the resilience of both patient and clinician, their mutual strength through "tears of change", this book expounds the behavioral consequences and treatment of psychopathologies associated with early relational trauma. In this way, the book will prove essential for all psychoanalysts and psychotherapists working with traumatized children and adolescents.

Family Systems Theory Simplified

Applying and Understanding Systemic Therapy Models

Bethany C. Suppes

Bethany C. Suppes offers a refreshed perspective of Family Systems Therapy (FST), focusing on the importance of understanding its concepts and demonstrating how models of marriage and family therapy can appear practically in counseling. In Part 1, Suppes begins with a theoretical overview of FST, including the history of development, key theorists, and defining core concepts. In Part 2, she focuses on application and explores nine key components of FST, identifying how various systemic therapy models apply these concepts. Primarily written for those having their first exposure to the ideas of FST, it aims to improve the therapeutic process for both therapist and client.

Internalized Homonegativity Among Same Gender Loving Black Men

An Exploration of Truths

P. Ryan Grant

Series: Leading Conversations on Black Sexualities and Identities

Written from personal and clinical experience, in this book, Patrick Grant defines internalized homonegativity as negative appraisals a person endorses due to their same gender loving identity. The book provides historical context for the development of homonegativity, describes the developmental experiences that Black, cisgender, same gender loving men often encounter, and connects theory and research with qualitative Black same gender loving male experiences.

This book is essential reading for sex therapists, educators, students, and clinical professionals who are seeking to increase their cultural humility in working with Black same gender loving men.

James Joyce and the Internal World of the Replacement Child

Mary Adams

Series: Routledge Focus on Mental Health

This book is an exploration of the internal world of James Joyce with particular emphasis on his being born into his parents' grief at the loss of their firstborn son, offering a new perspective on his emotional difficulties. Mary Adams links Joyce's profound sense of guilt and abandonment with the trauma of being a 'replacement child' and compares his experience with that of two psychoanalytic cases, as well as with Freud and other well-known figures who were replacement children. The book will be of interest to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists, as well as students of English literature, psychoanalytic studies and readers interested in James Joyce.

misReading Plato

Continental and Psychoanalytic Glimpses Beyond the Mask

Edited by Matthew Clemente, Bryan J. Cocchiara and William J. Hendel

Series: Psychology and the Other

This book reorients the scholarship on Plato by returning readers to his most fundamental insights, reflections on the nature of the human psyche, and the human condition. Contributors offer nuanced, non-traditional readings of Plato, readings that analyze and build upon the dialogues by bringing them into conversation with psychoanalysis, phenomenology, and contemporary Continental thought. It addresses a gap in the literature caused by reading Plato as a metaphysician or philosopher and not, primarily, as a psychologist. Psychologists and scholars in philosophy, psychoanalysis, and other humanities disciplines will find this new approach to Plato refreshing, accessible, and innovative.

Mourning and Metabolization

Close Readings in the Psychoanalytic Literature of Loss

Rael Meyerowitz

Series: Tavistock Clinic Series

By bringing together perspectives from psychoanalysis and literary study, and considering the reciprocal relation between ideas about mourning and our internal worlds, this book provides a guide to thinking theoretically about loss and how we deal with it.

Aimed at clinicians as well as readers with a more academic interest in psychoanalytic theory and language, the close-reading format offered by this book will also enable students in psychoanalytic and psychotherapy courses to engage deeply with some central texts and key concepts in psychoanalysis.

Navigating Students' Mental Health in the Wake of COVID-19

Using Public Health Crises to Inform Research and Practice

Edited by James M. Kauffman and Jeanmarie Badar

Series: The Mental Health and Well-being of Children and Adolescents

This book identifies the conditions during any public health crisis that heighten the mental health needs of children and adolescents and suggests the reforms of mental health services needed to better meet the needs of children and youths during and following pandemics and other public health crises. Importance is placed not only on addressing the effects of COVID-19 but on anticipating and preparing for other public health disruptions to the lives of those who have not reached adulthood.

Neoliberalism, Ethics and the Social Responsibility of Psychology

Edited by Heather Macdonald, Sara Carabio-Thopsey and David M. Goodman

Series: Psychology and the Other

This book encompasses critical dialogues that question how the field of psychology is shaped by the current neoliberal political context. Spanning from psychoanalysis to post-colonial theory, the discussions consider how greater ethical responsiveness to human experience and sociopolitical arrangements may reopen psychological discourse.

This book will prove essential for scholars and students across several disciplines including psychology, philosophy, ethics, and post-colonial and socio-cultural studies, as well as practising mental health professionals with an interest in the importance of psychological social theory.

Occultism and the Origins of Psychoanalysis

Freud, Ferenczi and the Challenge of Thought Transference

Maria Pierrri

Series: History of Psychoanalysis

This book traces the origins of key psychoanalytic ideas back to their roots in hypnosis and the occult. Pierrri follows Freud's early interest in 'thought-transmission', now known as telepathy. Freud's private investigations led to discussions with other leading figures like Carl Jung and Sandor Ferenczi, with whom he held a 'dialogue of the unconscious'.

This will be of great interest to psychoanalysts in practice and in training, as well as academics and scholars of Freudian ideas, psychoanalytic theory, the history of psychology and the occult. It is complemented by Sigmund Freud and The Forsyth Case: Coincidences and Thought-Transmission in Psychoanalysis.

On Being One's Self

Clinical Explorations in Identity from John Steiner's Workshop

Edited by Sharon Numa

Series: New Library of Psychoanalysis

On Being One's Self emerges from discussions in John Steiner's Workshop, and investigates the meanings of self and identity, including the many ways in which the development of personal identity can be subverted, interrogating what can facilitate the development of a reasonably stable identity.

The question of 'having' an identity, or the fear of losing it, is a central concern of individuals, and this volume, which will be of interest to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists alike, considers these issues by looking at the deepest conflicts around self and identity as they emerge and are relived in the transference relationship.

On Freud's "Moses and Monotheism"

Edited by Lawrence J. Brown, Boston Psychoanalytic Institute (BPSI) and Massachusetts Institute for Psychoanalysis, MA, USA

Series: The International Psychoanalytical Association Contemporary Freud Turning Points and Critical Issues Series

On Freud's "Moses and Monotheism" discusses key themes in Sigmund Freud's final book, Moses and Monotheism, written between 1934 and 1939. The contributors reflect on the historical context of the time during which the book was written, including Freud's mindset and his struggle to leave Austria to escape the Nazi regime, and investigate its contemporary implications and relevance. This book will be of great interest to all psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists. It will also be of interest to scholars investigating the nature of truth, and social scientists interested in the broader applications of Freud's discussions of the nature of civilization.

Principles of Counseling and Psychotherapy

Learning the Essential Domains and Nonlinear Thinking of Master Practitioners

Paul R. Peluso, Florida Atlantic University, USA

Principles of Counseling and Psychotherapy, 3rd ed, helps students in introductory counseling courses prepare for practice with real clients by learning to think in a new way, rather than simply learning and using a set of steps.

New sections focused on the use of mental models, theory of mind, and concrete strategies for intervention are specifically designed to engage the reader's natural non-linear thinking, and transcript material both from cases and from master therapists themselves are interwoven throughout the text.

Psychoanalysis in a Plague Year

Donald Moss, Member, San Francisco Center for Psychoanalysis and private practice, New York City

Selecting one sentence from each session every day, Donald Moss has provided a record of the words spoken by his patients during one year of 'Covid-time'. The patients' sentences conjure a moving mixture of the mundane and the extraordinary, giving readers a perspective on psychoanalytic practice and treatment during the first year of the COVID-19 pandemic.

As an insightful companion to psychoanalytic practice, the book will interest therapists and analysts in training and in practice, as well as readers intrigued by what happens behind the closed doors of the consulting room.

Psychological Type Therapy

A Practitioner's Guide to Strengthening Relationships

Brian A. Gerrard, Western Institute for Social Research, California, USA and Jacqueline Shinefield

This book uses psychological type as a model for organizing mental health interventions, including assessing how a client's personality is affected within a specific relationship. Chapters demonstrate how to help a client overcome a psychological type challenge using techniques drawn from cognitive-behavioral, humanistic, and family therapy approaches. Techniques are described in explicit how-to format and chapters show the reader how to assess both positive and challenging personality characteristics. The text benefits mental health practitioners who are interested in incorporating personality into their practices to develop more effective interventions in relationship therapy.

Relationality

From Attachment to Intersubjectivity

Stephen A. Mitchell

Series: Relational Perspectives Book Series

This book, first published in the year of the author's death, expresses Mitchell's vision for the theory of Relational Psychoanalysis, and provides his most-developed expression of its foundations. Now republished in this Classic Edition, Mitchell's ideas are brought back to the psychoanalytic readership, complete with a new introduction by Donnel Stern.

Mitchell draws on the multiple dimensions of attachment, intersubjectivity, and systems theory in espousing a clinical approach equally notable for its responsiveness and responsible restraint. This remains a canonical text for all relational psychoanalysts and psychotherapists.

The American Dream and American Cinema in the Age of Trump

From Object Relations to Social Relations

Graham S. Clarke, University of Essex, UK and Ross Clarke
Series: The Psychoanalysis and Popular Culture Series

The American Dream and American Cinema in the Age of Trump uses both film theory and insights from object relations theory in order to examine how recent films address and reflect the state of the 'American Dream'. This fascinating book looks at how the American Dream is one of the organizing ideas of American cinema, and one of the most influential cultural outputs of the twenty-first century, at a time of internal crisis.

Psychoanalysis and Politics in the Interwar Years

Edited by Gertie Bögels

Series: The International Psychoanalytical Association International Psychoanalysis Library

Freud wrote 76 letters to the Dutch psychoanalyst Jeanne Lampl-de Groot between 1921 and 1939. These letters are lively, and compassionate, and convey his respect and caring for Jeanne, who was his patient, pupil, and eventually his professional colleague. The letters are sociohistorical documents that contain Freud's thoughts about issues in psychoanalysis and the interwar sociopolitical situation in Vienna and Germany. This book introduces to its readers a very personable Freud and provides insight into his thoughts about the development of critical psychoanalytic concepts such as the death drive, masochism, lay analysis, and his changing views on the length of a psychoanalysis.

The Physical and Virtual Space of the Consulting Room

Room-object Spaces

Deborah L S Wright, University of Essex, UK
 In this thought-provoking book, Deborah Wright examines the role of both space and objects as they become manifest in the psychoanalytic process and looks at how the role of the consulting room in the therapeutic process is both primitive and transference. The interdisciplinary approach in this book calls on psychoanalytic theory and technique as well as philosophy, history, archaeology, and anthropology, which will be of great interest to all psychoanalytically orientated therapists as well as anyone, clinical or non-clinical, who makes use of psychoanalysis.

The Psychological Effects of Immigrating

A Depth Psychology Perspective on Relocating to a New Place

Robert Tyminski
 Exploring immigration from psychological, historical, clinical, and mythical perspectives, this book considers the varied and complex answers to questions of why people immigrate to entirely new places and leave behind their familiar surroundings and culture.

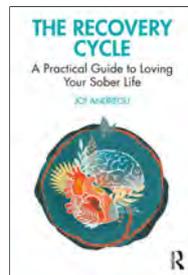

This book will prove essential for clinicians working with refugees and migrants, when in training and in practice, as well as students and practitioners of psychoanalysis seeking to deepen their understanding of migratory experiences.

Therapy and the Postpartum Woman

Notes on Healing Postpartum Depression for Clinicians and the Women Who Seek their Help

Karen Kleiman, Founder, Postpartum Stress Center, USA

Series: Routledge Mental Health Classic Editions

Using a blend of professional objectivity, evidence-based research, and personal, straight-forward suggestions gathered from years of experience, this book brings the reader into the private world of therapy with the postpartum woman. Based on psychodynamic and cognitive-behavioral theories, and on D.W. Winnicott's 'good-enough mother' and the 'holding environment', the book is written by a therapist who has specialized in the treatment of postpartum depression for over 30 years. This classic edition includes a new foreword by Hilary Waller that reflects on changes in the field since the book's first publication.

Transference, Love, Being

Essential Essays from the Field

Andrea Celenza
Through a series of expansive essays, Transference, Love, Being explores the centrality of love in psychoanalytic practice. Starting with the immersion of the analyst, this book reimagines several aspects of the psychoanalytic process, including transference, countertransference, boundaries, embodiment, subjectivity and eroticism.

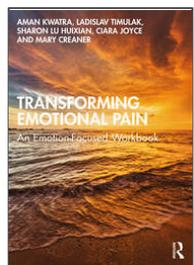

These essays refine theoretical understandings of the irreducible and omnipresent nature of love in psychoanalysis, thereby offering clarity to psychoanalysts, psychodynamic therapists and scholars through the often-prohibited love and eroticism, here viewed as indispensable psychoanalytic theory and practice.

Treating Trauma in Trans People

An Intersectional, Phase-Based Approach

Reese Minshew, Trauma and Gender in Chicago, Illinois, USA

Treating Trauma in Trans People brings together key concepts from both gender-affirming treatment and trauma-focused care, with interventions focused on resolving physiological, intrapsychic, and interpersonal disruptions. Symptoms related to trauma and stress manifest in bodies, psyches, and interpersonal interactions. Gender, too, is impacted by bodies, psyches, and interpersonal interactions. The book then broadens the lens to the systemic, acknowledging the limits of individual interventions when located within a larger framework of systemic oppression and asking clinicians to consider liberation and justice as treatment goals.

A Casebook of Mental Capacity in US Legislation

Assessment and Legal Commentary

Edited by Lynn A. Schaefer, Nassau University Medical Center, N.Y. and Thomas J. Farrer, Duke University Medical Center, Durham, NC

A Casebook of Mental Capacity in US Legislation: Assessment and Legal Commentary employs an applied and accessible approach to the assessment of mental capacity. Through the use of rich vignettes and case examples, the text provides legal commentary to illustrate state laws and ethical principles from varied decision-making capacities in distinct settings to fortify its assessment.

The case presentations and legal commentary underline key areas such as the capacity to consent to medical treatment, make welfare decisions, enter into a sexual relationship, make financial decisions, make or revoke a will, litigate and make a contract, and stand a trial.

Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Colorism

Beyond Black and White

Ronald E. Hall, Professor, School of Social Work, Michigan State University

This timely and unique book explores the concept of colorism, which is discrimination based on the color of a person's skin, in a world where arguably light skin is privileged over dark, and one's wealth, health, and opportunities are impacted by skin color, sometimes irrespective of one's racial background.

In the context of our multi-cultural and increasingly global society, and the historical backdrop of slavery, the text takes a unique approach by moving from personal anecdotes to adopting a scientific perspective grounded in empirical evidence.

Psychological Impact of Behaviour Restrictions During the Pandemic

Lessons from COVID-19

Barrie Gunter, University of Leicester, UK

This volume examines the undesirable or harmful cognitive, emotional and behavioural side-effects of COVID-19, and of the behavioural restrictions imposed by governments on their populations during the pandemic. Looking forward, Gunter also considers how new models might be developed that take into account not just the need to halt the spread of a new virus, but also minimise collateral damage which could be every bit as severe in both the short term and longer term. This is essential reading for students and researchers in psychology, public health and medical sciences, and policy makers assessing government strategies, responses, and performance.

Ratings and Rankings in Higher Education

A New-Materialist Exploration of How They Control Society

Jonas Thiel

Series: Concepts for Critical Psychology

This book critically investigates rating and ranking practices in Higher Education to show how they govern the academic population through the creation of competition and antagonism. The author draws on the work of Barad and Foucault, and shows how tools such as National Student Surveys divide the academic population and make it governable and controllable. The book asserts that there is an urgent need to respond to these boundary-drawing practices, especially in light of rising inequality and ecological collapse. This is fascinating reading for advanced students and academics in psychology, education, sociology, and philosophy.

The Brain-Friendly Museum

Using Psychology and Neuroscience to Improve the Visitor Experience

Edited by Annalisa Banzi, University of Milano-Bicocca, Italy
The Brain-Friendly Museum proposes an innovative approach to experiencing and enjoying the museum environment in new ways, based on the systematic application of cognitive psychology and neuroscience.

It explores our universal cognitive processes and emotions, and how they can be used to engage with and enjoy the museum environment, regardless of the visitor's background, language or culture. The book considers core cognitive processes, including memory, attention, and perception, and how they can successfully be applied to the museum environment, for example, in creating more effective displays.

Theories of Human Development

Barbara M. Newman, University of Rhode Island, USA and Philip R. Newman, University of Rhode Island, USA

Eleven theories of human development that continue to guide research and practice are examined in this engaging text. The theories are grouped into three families: those that emphasize biological systems, those that focus on environmental factors, and those that reflect an interaction between the two. Discussion of each theory includes the cultural/historical context during the theory's development, key concepts and ideas, extensions of the theory in new directions, a research example, an example of how the theory is applied in contemporary practice, and an analysis of how the theory answers six basic questions that a theory of human development should address.

Emotional Development across the Lifespan

Linda A. Camras

Unique in its dual focus on emotion and lifespan development, this text weaves together theory, research, and practical clinical implications for fostering children's emotional well-being. The author examines how emotions are experienced, expressed, understood, and regulated from infancy through later adulthood. Chapters highlight the interrelated influences of temperament, neurobiology, and the social environment, and distinguish universal processes from those that vary across cultures. The book presents current knowledge about specific emotions, probes the causes and consequences of emotional maladjustment, and reviews evidence-based and promising interventions.

Handbook of Wise Interventions

How Social Psychology Can Help People Change

Edited by Gregory M. Walton, Shannon T. Brady, Christopher J. Bryan and Patricia Chen

Precise shifts in the ways people make sense of themselves, others, and social situations can help people flourish. This compelling work synthesizes the growing research on wise interventions: brief, nonclinical strategies that are wise to the impact of social-psychological processes on behavior. Leading authorities describe how pejorative interpretations can undermine people's functioning and how they can be altered to produce benefits in such areas as academic achievement, health, well-being, and personal relationships. Chapters review the development of each intervention, how it can be implemented, its evidence base, and implications for solving personal and societal problems.

Has Your Child Been Traumatized?

How to Know and What to Do to Promote Healing and Recovery

Melissa Goldberg Mintz

When a child has been through an upsetting or stressful event, it can feel overwhelming. Are new behaviors normal, or signs of trauma? What can I do to make my child feel safe again? In this wise guide, psychologist Melissa Goldberg Mintz assures loving parents that the tools necessary for supporting a traumatized child are ones they already possess, from promoting recovery at home, to knowing when professional help is needed. Dr. Goldberg Mintz shares specific, critical information and insights into what trauma looks like at different ages, why some kids exposed to the same event react very differently, and how to help kids recover—and face future challenges with hope and resilience.

If Only...

Finding Freedom from Regret

Robert L. Leahy

It's hard to envision a life without some regrets. We imagine what might have been if we had taken a different path at some key juncture in the past, whether about a relationship, a missed opportunity, or choosing where to live. Regret can make people feel disappointed, ashamed, and immobilized—but it also can be a powerful tool for self-knowledge and change. In this uplifting guide, renowned psychologist Robert Leahy demonstrates how to make regret work to our advantage. Using cutting-edge skills based on cognitive-behavioral therapy, Dr. Leahy shows how to get unstuck from regret and make decisions with more clarity and confidence.

Motivational Interviewing in Health Care

Helping Patients Change Behavior

Stephen Rollnick, William R. Miller and Christopher C. Butler

Series: Applications of Motivational Interviewing

The definitive guide to motivational interviewing (MI) for health care practitioners has been completely revised to reflect important developments and make the approach even more accessible. When it comes to helping patients manage chronic and acute conditions and make healthier choices in such areas as medication adherence, smoking, diet, and preventive care, good advice alone is not enough. This book shows how MI can transform conversations about change. Even brief clinical interactions can serve to build trust, clarify patients' goals as well as reasons for ambivalence, and guide them to take positive steps. Featuring sample dialogues, tips, and scripts, most of the book is entirely new.

Re/Invention

Methods of Social Fiction

Patricia Leavy

From a leader in arts-based research, this is the first comprehensive guide to what social fiction is and how to write it. Leavy explores the unique contribution that novels, series, and short stories can make to addressing qualitative research questions. In-depth discussions of narrative models (such as the three-act structure) and elements (such as plot, metaphor, dialogue) are accompanied by excerpts from Leavy's published fiction, reflections on the writing process, and technical suggestions. The book offers evaluation criteria for social fiction as well as practical publishing advice. Instructive features include "tip bubbles" with additional writing hints and end-of-chapter exercises.

Straight Talk about ADHD in Girls

How to Help Your Daughter Thrive

Stephen P. Hinshaw

Parenting a daughter with ADHD is no easy path—especially because of the myth that the disorder is rare to nonexistent in girls. Pioneering researcher Stephen P. Hinshaw provides parents with vital information in this empathic, empowering guide. Dr. Hinshaw explains what ADHD is, why symptoms often appear differently in girls than in boys, why girls with ADHD behave the way they do, how to get an accurate diagnosis, and what treatments are most effective. There is so much pressure on girls to be "perfect;" for those with ADHD, it feels especially hard to measure up. Parents learn concrete steps they can take to support their daughter's success while nurturing her confidence and self-worth.

The Complete Family Guide to Dementia

Everything You Need to Know to Help Your Parent and Yourself

Thomas F. Harrison and Brent P. Forester

Caring for a parent with dementia presents unique challenges—Mom or Dad so plainly needs assistance, but is confused, sometimes angry, and often resistant to help. How can caregivers get the vital information they need, when they need it? Journalist Thomas Harrison and leading geriatric psychiatrist Brent Forester show that you don't have to be a medical expert to be a good care provider in this authoritative guide. They explain the basics of dementia and offer effective strategies for coping with the medical, emotional, and financial toll. Readers learn to "care smarter, not harder," to help their loved one maintain the best possible quality of life.

What Happens in Mindfulness

Inner Awakening and Embodied Cognition

John Teasdale

Renowned for applying mindfulness to treatment of depression, pioneering researcher John Teasdale now explores the broader changes that people can experience through contemplative practices. What goes on in our minds when we are mindful? What does it mean to talk of mindfulness as a way of being? From a scientific perspective, how do core elements of contemplative traditions have their beneficial effects? Teasdale describes two types of knowing that humans have evolved—conceptual and holistic—intuitive—and shows how mindfulness can achieve a healthier balance between them. He describes how this shift in consciousness can reduce emotional suffering and lead to a transformed sense of self.

Mixed Methods Perspectives on Communication and Social Media Research

Edited by Reynaldo Gacho Segumpan and Joanna Soraya Abu Zahari

This book addresses the need for a discipline-cum-methodology-tailored book that navigates the current research spectrum of communication and social media ("CommSocMed"). It examines contemporary and relevant issues that intertwine the expansive spheres of CommSocMed. This book will serve as an authoritative reference for mixed methods research in CommSocMed and will be highly relevant reading for academics, researchers, postgraduate students and undergraduates in communication (for example, instructional communication, marketing communication, organisational communication, political communication, strategic communication), social media, and social sciences.

Models of Society and Complex Systems

Sebastian Illie

Models of Society and Complex Systems introduces readers to a variety of different mathematical tools used for modelling human behaviour and interactions, and the complex social dynamics that drive institutions, conflict, and coordination. This book is written for any scholar in the social sciences interested in studying and understanding human behaviour, social dynamics, and the complex systems of society. It does not expect readers to have a particular background apart from some elementary knowledge and affinity for mathematics.

Narrative Portraits in Qualitative Research

Edgar Rodríguez-Dorans

This book explains and demonstrates 'narrative portraiture' as an analytical approach to qualitative data. Narrative portraiture brings the relationship between researcher and participants to the fore and by doing so, it highlights the interpretive power of the researcher and the ethical considerations around it. The book focuses particularly on the experiences of LGBTQIA+ people, and shows how narrative portraiture gives us a rich way to conceptualize and explore research participant experiences. Suitable for those interested in narrative methods and qualitative research in health care, education and the social sciences.

Performative Intergenerational Dialogues of a Black Quartet

Qualitative Inquiries on Race, Gender, Sexualities, and Culture

Bryant Keith Alexander, Mary E. Weems, Dominique C. Hill and Durell M. Callier

Series: International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry (ICQI) Foundations and Futures in Qualitative Inquiry

In this volume of creative, performative and autoethnographic texts, four scholars spanning two generations come together to promote and claim the important of intergenerational black dialogues as a 'collaborative spirit-making'. Attending to the fragile strength of Black femininity, Black masculinity, Black queerness, and the importance of Black straight-gay alliances in the Black community, the authors challenge us to ask the question: What is our responsibility to each other? This book will be of interest to scholars, students and activists in a wide range of disciplines across the Social Sciences and Performance studies.

Reimagining Narrative Therapy Through Practice Stories and Autoethnography

Edited by Travis Heath, Tom Stone Carlson and David Epston

Series: Writing Lives: Ethnographic and Autoethnographic Narratives

This book takes a new pedagogy approach to teaching and learning in contemporary narrative therapy, based in autoethnography and storytelling. The individual client stories aim to paint each therapeutic meeting in such detail that the reader will come to feel as though they actually know the two or more people in the room. With thorough examination of the autoethnographic method, reflections on using this method in the stories and showing what therapists can learn for practice through this method, this book is suitable for practitioners and students interested in narrative therapeutic approaches, as well as scholars and students of qualitative and autoethnographic methods.

The Phenomenology of Observation Drawing

Reflections on an Enduring Practice

Rose Montgomery-Whicher

Series: Phenomenology of Practice

Based on research, and grounded in experience, this book offers a view into the minds and hearts of people who draw. Drawing from observation continues to be practiced by professional and amateur artists, a situation that invites the question: what does observation drawing mean in the lives of those who practice it? Montgomery-Whicher concludes that observation drawing warrants a place in general education as well as in the education of artists. This book will be of interest to anyone who has ever wondered about the appeal of drawing, including professional and amateur artists, philosophers and educators.

The Routledge International Handbook of Autoethnography in Educational Research

Edited by Emilio A. Anteliz, Deborah L. Mulligan and Patrick Alan Danaher, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This book presents diverse and rigorous contemporary research at the intersection between autoethnography and educational research. The handbook investigates the bidirectional connection between autoethnography and educational research in relation to four themes: enhancing teaching and teacher education with autoethnography; enlarging doctoral study and supervision with autoethnography; conducting identity work and relationship-building via autoethnography; and promoting social justice through autoethnography. This book will be of use to all researchers, and doctoral and Masters students, using qualitative and autoethnographic methods in Education and related fields.

2nd Edition

Thinking with Theory in Qualitative Research

Alecia Y. Jackson, Appalachian State University, USA and Lisa A. Mazzei, University of Oregon, USA

Thinking with Theory in Qualitative Research, Second Edition demonstrates how to enact various philosophical concepts in practices of inquiry, effectively opening up the process of thought in qualitative studies. In the ten years since the first edition was published, Thinking with Theory has become a vanguard text in the field of postfoundational inquiry for its accessible but thorough introductions to philosophically informed inquiry. This book is for experienced and novice researchers, and students in introductory, general, and advanced qualitative inquiry courses, who may also be first-time readers of philosophy.
