Our history

Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Bookpoint, or the appropriate overseas agent.

The Transgender Exigency

Defining Sex and Gender in the 21st Century

Edward Schiappa, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

At no other point in human history have the definitions of "woman" and "man," "male" and "female," "masculine" and "feminine," been more contentious than now. This book advances a pragmatic approach to the act of defining that acknowledges the important ethical dimensions of our definitional practices. This is an important text for students and scholars in gender studies, philosophy, communication, and sociology.

Why It's OK to Love Bad Movies

Matthew Strohl

Series: Why It's OK

Combining philosophy of art with film criticism, Strohl flips conventional notions of "good" and "bad" on their heads and makes the case that the ultimate value of a work of art lies in what it can add to our lives. By this measure, some of the worst movies ever made are also among the best. Strohl argues that so-called "bad movies" are the ones that break the rules of the art form without the aura of artistic seriousness that surrounds the avant-garde. These movies offer rich opportunities for creative engagement and enable the formation of lively fan communities, and they can be a key ingredient in a fulfilling aesthetic life.

Awakening

An Introduction to the History of Eastern Thought

Patrick S. Bresnan

Awakening provides the reader with a thorough and valuable overview of the historical development of the major Eastern religious and philosophical traditions, primarily in India, China, and Japan. The book is written in an engaging style that contains a variety of anecdotes, analogies, definitions, and supporting quotes from primary and secondary sources. Awakening helps the reader to recognize the interrelationships that exist among the various traditions, to appreciate the relevance of these traditions to the concerns of modern times, and to understand the major issues of interpretation regarding these traditions.

Intentionality in Sellars

A Transcendental Account of Finite Knowledge

Luz Christopher Seiberth, University of Potsdam, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in American Philosophy

Sellars' theory of intentionality addresses the question of how to reconcile two aspects that seem opposed: the non-relational theory of intellectual and linguistic content, and a causal-transcendental theory of representation inspired by the philosophy of the early Wittgenstein. This book explains how both parts cohere in a transcendental account of finite knowledge. The author claims that this can only be achieved by reading Sellars as committed to a transcendental methodology inspired by Kant. In a final step, he brings his interpretation to bear on the contemporary metaphysical debate on pragmatism and expressivism.

Honouring and Admiring the Immoral

An Ethical Guide

Alfred Archer, Tilburg University, The Netherlands and Benjamin Matheson, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität (LMU) München, Germany.

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

Is it appropriate to honour and admire artists, intellectuals, athletes or politicians if those people have also acted immorally? The authors draw on the latest research from ethics, value theory, philosophy of emotion, social philosophy and social psychology to present reasons both in favor and against honouring and admiring the immoral. They also take on the important matter of whether we can separate the achievements of public figures from their immoral behavior. Ultimately, the authors reject a "one-size-fits-all" approach and argue that we must weigh up the reasons for and against honouring and admiring in each particular case.

Incomparable Values

Analysis, Axiomatics and Applications

John Nolt

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

People tend to rank values of all kinds linearly from good to bad, but there is little reason to think that this is reasonable or correct. This book argues, to the contrary, that values are often partially ordered and hence frequently incomparable. Proceeding logically from a small set of axioms, John Nolt examines the great variety of partially ordered value structures, exposing fallacies that arise from overlooking them. He reveals various ways in which incomparability is obscured: using linear indices to summarize partially ordered data, relying on an inadequately defined concept of parity, or conflating incomparability with vagueness.

The Ethics of Virtual and Augmented Reality

Building Worlds

Erick Jose Ramirez

Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics

This book offers new ways of assessing the impact of virtual reality on its users. It argues that we must go beyond traditional psychological concepts of VR to understand the many varieties of virtual experiences. Virtually real experiences, the author claims, can make virtual relationships meaningful, productive, and conducive to welfare but they can also systematically mislead and manipulate users about the nature of their experiences. Experimental philosophers, moral psychologists, and institutional review boards must become sensitive to the ethical issues involved between designing realistic virtual dilemmas, for good data collection, and avoiding virtually real trauma.

The Limits of Parental Authority

Childhood Wellbeing as a Social Good

Johan C. Bester, University of Nevada, Las Vegas School of Medicine

Series: Routledge Annals of Bioethics

This book re-examines our fundamental assumptions about parenting, parental authority, and a liberal society's role in the raising of children. The author identifies and critiques the problematic assumption that parenting is an extension of individual liberty and shows how we run into problems in medical decision-making for children because of this assumption. He develops an objective conception of what is good for a child in liberal society and constructs a set of things that society and its members owe children. The author then uses practical examples, such as vaccinations, parental leave, and healthcare access, to demonstrate the implications of his theory for public policy.

Value Incommensurability

Ethics, Risk, and Decision-Making

Edited by Henrik Andersson, Lund University, Sweden and Anders Herlitz, Institute for Futures Studies, Stockholm, Sweden

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This book features new research on incommensurability from philosophers who have shaped the field, including Broome, Chang and Rabinowicz. In the first part, the contributors synthesize research on the competing views of how to best explain incommensurability. Part II illustrates how incommensurability can help us deal with seemingly insurmountable problems in ethical theory and population ethics. The contributors address the Repugnant Conclusion, the Mere Addition Paradox and so-called Spectrum Arguments. The chapters in Part III outline problems caused by incommensurability for decision theory. Finally, Part IV tackles topics related to risk, uncertainty and incommensurability.

Human Dignity and the Kingdom of Ends

Kantian Perspectives and Practical Applications

Edited by Jan-Willem van der Rijt, Umeå University, Sweden and Adam Cureton, University of Tennessee, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Eighteenth-Century Philosophy

This book advances our understanding of the nature, grounds and limits of human dignity by connecting it with Kant's notion of an ideal moral community. The chapters focus not only on interpretive issues related to the Kingdom of Ends, but also on practical applications that have the potential to advance discussions about the nature and foundations of rights, the content of moral principles, the importance of moral ideals and the nature of moral motivation. Exploring and connecting the ideas of human dignity and the Kingdom of Ends significantly deepens our moral understanding, advances discussions in moral and political philosophy and enhances our appreciation of Kant's moral theory.

Science and Culture

Lisa Jardine, Jean Michel Massing and Simon Schaffer

Alan Macfarlane

Series: Creative Lives and Works

Creative Lives and Works is a collection of interviews conducted by one of England's leading social anthropologists and historians, Alan Macfarlane. The current volume is on three foremost historians of science.

Lisa Jardine, Jean Michel Massing and Simon Schaffer bring to life their own enriching experiences and show us that the future of science cannot be determined without taking into account its philosophical problems and the study of complexities associated with it.

Holding Wrongoers Responsible

On the Complexities of Blame and Forgiveness

Jeffrey M Blustein

Holding Wrongoers Responsible contests a number of widely accepted, almost standard, claims about blame and forgiveness in the philosophical literature, and their relationship to each other. The book argues that we should be skeptical about the singular importance given to anger in this connection. It argues that blame is just one possible response to wrongdoing and, like other responses, has to be evaluated in against alternatives. It further argues that the continuation of blame after forgiveness is neither conceptually nor morally ruled out. And it makes the case that the image of forgiveness as benevolent and gift-like belies its dark side.

The Divine Nature

Personal and A-Personal Perspectives

Edited by Georg Gasser, University of Augsburg, Germany and Simon Kittle, University of Leeds, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This book is the first systematic treatment of the strengths and limitations of personal and a-personal conceptions of the divine. It discusses whether the concept of God in classical theism is coherent at all and whether the traditional understanding of some of the divine attributes need to be modified. The contributors explore what the proposed spiritual and practical merits and demerits of personal and a-personal conceptions of God might be. Additionally, their diverse perspectives reflect a broader trend within analytic philosophy of religion to incorporate various non-Western religious traditions.

Force, Content, and the Unity of the Proposition

Edited by Gabriele M. Mras, Vienna University of Economics and Business and Michael Schmitz

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

The force-content dichotomy has shaped the philosophy of language and mind since the time of Frege and Russell. Isn't it obvious that, for example, the clauses of a conditional are not asserted and must therefore be something forceless only asserted through a proposition? Recently some philosophers have begun questioning this line of argument. How can a proposition be a unified truth-value bearer rather than just a mere list of words? They argue that the forceful act of a subject takes a position about how things are. The essays in this book address a variety of positions related to this lively debate.

Neglected Virtues

Edited by Glen Pettigrove, University of Glasgow, UK and Christine Swanton, University of Auckland, New Zealand

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This book explores the nitty-gritty details of particular virtues. Most of the virtues discussed—ambition, cheerfulness, creativity, magnificence, pride, wit, wonder—have been almost wholly neglected by contemporary ethicists. The volume includes coverage of other virtues that have received a fair amount of attention in recent years, such as charity, hope, justice, practical wisdom, and temperance. The essays address largely ignored dimensions of these virtues and show how these discussions can enrich our understanding of neglected virtues. The focus on individual virtues will open new avenues for future research in this rapidly growing area of ethics and moral philosophy.

Newton's Third Rule and the Experimental Argument for Universal Gravity

Mary Domski, University of New Mexico, USA

Series: Routledge Focus on Philosophy

This book provides a reading of Newton's argument for universal gravity that is focused on the "experimental" reasoning that Newton associates with his program of experimental philosophy. It defends a novel interpretation of the third of Newton's four Rules for the Study of Natural Philosophy. Second, it argues that this novel interpretation of Rule 3 sheds additional light on the differences between Newton's experimental philosophy and Descartes's "hypothetical philosophy," and that it also illuminates how the practice of experimental philosophy allowed Newton to make a universal force of gravity the centerpiece of his explanation of the system of the world.

Ontogenesis Beyond Complexity

Edited by Cary Wolfe and Adam Nocek

Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities

This book is based upon the collaborative efforts of the Ontogenetics Process Group (OPG) – an interdisciplinary, multi-institutional, multi-national research group that began meeting in 2017 to explore new and innovative ways of thinking the problem of complexity in living, physical, and social systems outside the algorithmic models that have dominated paradigms of complexity to date.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Angelaki.

Philosophical Essays on Divine Causation

Edited by Gregory E. Ganssle, Biola University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This book discusses various aspects of God's causal activity. Traditional theology has long held that God acts in the world and interrupts the normal course of events by performing special acts. Although the tradition is unified in affirming that God does create, conserve, and act, there is much disagreement about the details of divine activity. The essays in this book fruitfully explore historical and contemporary disagreements about divine causation.

Philosophy of Love in the Past, Present, and Future

Edited by André Grahle, LMU-Munich, Germany, Natasha McKeever, University of Leeds, UK and Joe Saunders, Durham University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book features new essays on the philosophy of love. Section I covers Ancient Greek thinkers, namely Plato and Aristotle, as well as Kierkegaard's critique of preferential love and Erich Fromm's mystic interpretation of sexual relations. Section II covers current conceptions and practices of love. These chapters explore how love changes over time, the process of falling in love, envy in romantic partnerships, and a new interpretation of grand-parental love. Section III looks at the future of love, namely technological developments related to love, algorithm-driven dating apps and robotic companions, and the potential of polyamory as a future romantic ideal.

Schopenhauer's Moral Philosophy

Edited by Patrick Hassan, American University in Cairo, Egypt

Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth-Century Philosophy

Schopenhauer has often been overlooked as a contributor to moral philosophy. He was one of the most important critics of Kantian deontology and developed a plausible moral system of his own grounded in compassion. The chapters draw out the relevance and influence of Schopenhauer's ethical program, attempting to demonstrate the as yet untapped wealth of conceptual resources for pressing moral problems. They address topics including: the moral status of animals; the moral permissibility of suicide; the possibility of altruistic action; the nature of virtue and asceticism; how Schopenhauer integrated Western influences with various Indian traditions of moral thinking.

The Jamesian Mind

Edited by Sarin Marchetti, Sapienza Università di Roma, Italy

Series: Routledge Philosophical Minds

William James is regarded as a founding figure of modern psychology and one of the most important philosophers of the 19th and 20th centuries. Renowned for his philosophical theory of pragmatism and turns of phrase, such as 'stream of consciousness' and 'will to believe', he made enormous contributions to an array of philosophical subjects.

This book covers the major aspects of James's thought, from his early influences to his legacy, with over 40 chapters by an outstanding roster of contributors. An indispensable resource for anyone studying and researching James's philosophy, and also interest those in psychology, religion and sociology.

Thomas Aquinas and Karl Barth

A New Conversation

Jeffrey Skaff

Series: Barth Studies

This book argues for substantial and pervasive convergence between Thomas Aquinas and Karl Barth with regards to God's relation to history and to the Christocentric orientation of that history. Specifically, it shows how an account of God's mercy and justice can resolve theological debates most assume require metaphysical speculation.

New Directions in Theology and Science

Beyond Dialogue

Edited by Peter Harrison, University of Queensland, Australia and Paul Tyson, University of Queensland, Australia

Series: Routledge Science and Religion Series

This book sets out a new agenda for science-theology interactions and offers examples of what that agenda might look like when implemented. It explores, in innovative ways, what follows for science-theology discussions from recent developments in the history of science. Reflecting on the balance of power between theology and the sciences, the authors demonstrate a commitment to moving beyond traditional models of one-sided dialogue and seek to give theology a more active role in determining the interdisciplinary agenda.

Phenomenology and the Horizon of Experience

Spiritual Themes in Henry, Marion, and Lacoste

Joseph Rivera

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

This book explores the threshold between phenomenology and lived religion in dialogue with three French luminaries: Michel Henry, Jean-Luc Marion and Jean-Yves Lacoste. Through close reading and critical analysis each chapter touches on how a liturgical and ritual setting or a spiritual vision of the body can shape and ultimately structure the experience of an individual's surrounding world. The volume advances debate about the scope and limits of the phenomenological analysis of religious themes and disturbs the assumption that theology and phenomenology are incapable of constructive interdisciplinary dialogue.

Imagining Far-right Terrorism

Violence, Immigration, and the Nation State in Contemporary Western Europe

Josefín Graef, Independent Scholar, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Imagining Far-right Terrorism explores far-right terrorism as an object of the narrative imagination in contemporary Western Europe. Western European societies are generally reluctant to think of far-right violence as terrorism, but the reasons for this remain little understood. This book focuses on the extraordinarily complex case of the National Socialist Underground (NSU) in Germany, and high-profile instances of racist violence in Sweden and Norway. Communism in Eastern Europe

Melissa Feinberg, Rutgers University of New Jersey, USA

Communism in Eastern Europe is a ground-breaking new survey of the history of Eastern Europe since 1945. It examines how Communist governments came to Eastern Europe, how they changed their societies and the legacies that persisted after their fall. Written from the perspective of the 21st century, this book shows how Eastern Europe's trajectory since 1989 fits into the longer history of its Communist past.

This book is an engaging introduction to the history of Communist Eastern Europe for any reader. It is ideal for adoption in a wide array of undergraduate and graduate courses in 20th century European history.

Flashpoint Hagia Sophia

Brian Croke

Istanbul's Hagia Sophia ('Holy Wisdom'), or Ayasofya, is one of the world's most visited buildings. Yet, few visitors have any idea of its long and complex story, or why it has always been a place where history, religion and politics collide. In July 2020, Turkish President Erdoğan set off an explosive controversy by announcing that Hagia Sophia would now be modified into a mosque.

This book explains President Erdoğan's controversial decision in terms of Turkey's national, independent and Islamic politics, and as a response to the mosque massacre in Christchurch in March 2019 when his life was threatened by the gunman.

Robert W. Thurston, Miami University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Focusing on the body in every chapter, this book examines the changing meanings and profound significance of the physical form among the Anglo-Saxons from 1880 to 1920. To probe the importance of the body, this book brings together for the first time the many areas in which the physical form was newly or more extensively featured, from photography through literature, frontier wars, violent sports, and the global circus. It is evident that the origins of today's debates about race and gender lie in the late nineteenth century.

Sustainable Family Farming and Yeoman Ideals

1860 to 2000 in North-West Tasmania

Rena R. Henderson

Within the frame of family farming, this book offers a longitudinal study of the Castra district in North-West Tasmania from first European settlement to the end of the twentieth century. It draws upon historical sources for yeomanry characteristics from Britain, Canada, the USA, New Zealand and Australian mainland colonies to show how these characteristics were persistently supportive of family farming. The book is a valuable contribution to Australian historiography, and will be a useful resource for students and scholars of rural history, social history, environmental history, colonialism, and sustainable agriculture.

The British Aircraft Industry and American-led Globalisation

Takeshi Sakade, Kyoto University, Japan

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern British History

Sakade challenges the narrative that the focus of British manufacturing went "from Empire to Europe" and argues rather that, following the Second World War, the key relationship was in fact trans-Atlantic. There is a commonly accepted belief that Britain lost its industrial hegemony during the twentieth century. Using the case of the strategically critical military aircraft industry, he argues that British industry remained relatively robust. A valuable read for historians of British aviation and more widely of 20th century British industry.

The Rise of National Socialism in the Bavarian Highlands

A Microhistory of Murnau, 1919-1933

Edith Raim

Series: Microhistories

The Rise of National Socialism in the Bavarian Highlands offers a microhistory of the town of Murnau between 1919 and 1933, a period which witnessed the rise of national socialism in Germany.

Focusing on Murnau, this book examines the political and economic state of the town, as well as the mentality and social composition of its inhabitants. It also looks at the development of tourism in the interwar period, a topic which has received little scholarly attention.

This book will appeal to scholars and students of national socialism, as well as those interested in the Weimer Republic, Nazi Germany, microhistory, and the history of tourism.

Albertino Mussato: The Making of a Poet Laureate

A Political and Intellectual Portrait

Aislinn McCabe

Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture

This book examines the life and political career of Albertino Mussato (1261-1329), a Paduan poet, historian and politician. Mussato was one of the first writers of the late medieval period to begin reviving classical Latin in his works. His classical style tragic drama Ecerinis, inspired by the writings of Seneca, paved the way for him to be crowned as the first poet laureate since antiquity. This work outlines how Mussato depicted the course of his own career, from being an impoverished teenager of insignificant birth to becoming a celebrated poet and scholar, as well as an influential political figure.

Crafting Turkish National Identity, 1919-1927

A Rhetorical Approach

Aysel Morin, East Carolina University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

Examining Mustafa Kemal Atatürk's Büyük Nutuk (The Great Public Address), this book identifies the five founding political myths of Turkey: the First Duty, the Internal Enemy, the Encirclement, the Ancestor, and Modernity. It reveals how Atatürk crafted these myths, traces their discursive roots back to the Orkhon Inscriptions, and critiques their long-term effects on Turkish political culture. It argues that these are permanent fixtures of Turkish political discourse, used by both supporters and detractors of Atatürk. It is ideal for scholars and students of Turkish Studies, History, Nationalism Studies, Political Science, Rhetorical Studies, and International Studies.

The Thirty Pieces of Silver

Coin Relics in Medieval and Modern Europe

Lucia Travaini

Series: Religion and Money in the Middle Ages

The Thirty Pieces of Silver: Coin relics in medieval and modern Europe discusses many interconnected topics relating to the most perfidious monetary transaction in history: the betrayal of Jesus by Judas for thirty pieces of silver. This book documents fifty specimens of coins which were venerated as holy relics in medieval and modern churches and monasteries of Europe, from Valencia to Uppsala. Most of these relics are ancient Greek silver coins in origin mounted in precious reliquaries or used for the distribution of their wax imprints believed to have healing powers.

The End of Ottoman Rule in Bosnia

Conflicting Agencies and Imperial Appropriations

Hannes Grandits, Humboldt University Berlin, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern European History

This book focuses on the end of four centuries of Ottoman rule in Bosnia and Herzegovina in the 1870s. After an introduction to the region and the political zeitgeist of the late 1860s and early 1870s, it examines in detail the dramatic years beginning in the summer of 1875, when the outbreak of violent unrest in the eastern Herzegovinian region bordering Montenegro led to a massive refugee catastrophe.

The End of Ottoman Rule in Bosnia will appeal to students, teachers, and researchers in late Ottoman and Bosnian history.

Deposing Monarchs

Domestic Conflict and State Formation, 1500-1700

Cathleen Sarti

Series: Routledge Research in Early Modern History

Deposing Monarchs analyses depositions in Northern Europe between 1500 and 1700 as a type of frequent political conflict which allows to present new ideas on early modern state formation, monarchy, and the conventions of royal rulership. Tracing the similarities and differences of depositions in Northern Europe transnationally and diachronically, the book shows monarchical succession as more non-linear than previously presumed. This book bolsters our understanding of authority and rule as a constant process of negotiation, adding to recent research on political culture, and on the cultural history of politics.

Of Poverty and Wealth

Eric Hobsbawm, Barry Supple and Gareth Stedman Jones

Of Poverty and Wealth is a collection of interviews conducted by one of England's leading social anthropologists and historians, Alan Macfarlane. In this collection, Eric Hobsbawm takes us through the fundamental and broader concepts of economic history, while Barry Supple and Gareth Stedman Jones bring in the more focussed and often less discussed aspects of this branch of history. Through these engaging conversations one gets a better understanding of poverty and wealth in the context of history. The Anarchy of Nazi Memorabilia

From Things of Tyranny to Troubled Treasure

Michael Hughes

Series: Material Culture and Modern Conflict

Compared to the numerous books and articles on the Third Reich, few address its material culture, and fewer still discuss the phenomenon of Nazi memorabilia. Against a backdrop of right-wing extremism, military re-enactors think nothing of dressing up in Waffen-SS uniforms and romanticising the Third Reich in the name of living history. Auctioneers are prepared to hammer down Nazi artefacts to the highest bidder, but who is buying them, and why do they do so? Should collectors be allowed to decorate their homes with Nazi flags?

Citizens and Subjects of the Italian Colonies

Legal Constructions and Social Practices, 1882-1943

Edited by Simona Berhe, University of Bologna, Italy and Olindo De Napoli, University of Naples Federico II, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

This is the first book on Italian colonialism that deals with the question of citizenship, a crucial element for both the Italian imperial rule and the complex dynamics of the different colonial societies, where several actors, like notables, political leaders, and minorities, were involved. The chapters gathered in the book constitute an unprecedented account of a heterogeneous geographical area involving Eritrea, Libya, Dodecanese, Ethiopia, and Albania. The book's main focuses are the regimes of citizenship, racism, the repression of dissidents, the cooptation of the elites, and answers coming from local populations.

The Politics of Obscenity in the Age of the Gutenberg Revolution

Obscene Means in Early Modern French and European Print Culture and Literature

Edited by Peter Frei, University of Fribourg, Switzerland and Nelly Labère, Université Bordeaux Montaigne, France

Series: Routledge Research in Early Modern History

What does obscene mean? What does it have to say about the means through which meaning is produced and received in social interactions? Early modern France and Europe faced these questions not only in regard to the political, religious and artistic reformations for which the Renaissance stands, but also in light of the reconfiguration of its mediasphere in the wake of the invention of the printing press. This volume brings together researchers from Europe and the United States in offering scholars of early modern Europe a detailed understanding of the implications and the impact of obscene representations in their relationship to the Gutenberg Revolution.

Kala Pani Crossings

Revisiting 19th Century Migrations from India's Perspective

Edited by Ashutosh Bhardwaj and Judith Misrahi-Barak

This volume discusses the legacies of indenture in the Caribbean, Reunion, Mauritius, and Fiji, and how they still imbue our present. More importantly, it draws attention to India and raises new questions: doesn't one need, at some stage, to wonder why this forgotten chapter of Indian history needs to be retrieved. A key volume on Indian diaspora, modern history, indentured labour, and the legacy of indentureship, this volume examines these questions largely through the frame of important works of literature and cinema, folk songs and oral tales, making it an artistic enquiry of the past and of the present.

Venanzio Rauzzini and the Birth of a New Style in English Singing

Scandalous Lessons

Brianna E. Robertson-Kirkland, Royal Conservatoire of Scotland, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Eighteenth-Century Cultures and Societies

An Italian castrato and father of English singing; a sought-after singing master and subject of scandal. This book considers how Venanzio Rauzzini (1746–1810) became known as the founder of a new style of English singing. It offers an innovative approach to study the context of eighteenth-century singing culture. Rauzzini acts as a focal point, unravelling a microhistory of complex assumptions, practices and relationships and allowing a rich narrative to emerge, highlighting the importance of teaching. As such, researchers and students studying music, theatre, literature or history will find this book a useful insight into eighteenth-century music-making and Georgian culture.

Philosophy of Interdisciplinarity

Studies in Science, Society and Sustainability

Jan Cornelius Schmidt, University of Darmstadt, Germany

Series: History and Philosophy of Technoscience

Interdisciplinarity is a hallmark of contemporary knowledge production. This book introduces a Philosophy of Interdisciplinarity at the intersection of science, society, and sustainability. In light of the ambivalence of the technosciences and the challenge of sustainable development in the Anthropocene, this engaged philosophy provides a novel critical perspective on interdisciplinarity in science policy and research practice. It draws upon the original spirit of interdisciplinarity as a concept of environmentalism and offers a critical-reflexive program of interdisciplinarity conducive to a sustainable future for our knowledge society.

Gandhi after Gandhi

The Relevance of the Mahatma's Legacy in Today's World

Edited by Marzia Casolari, University of Turin, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

In the difficult times when this book was conceived, at the peak of what presumably can be considered as the worst humanitarian disaster of the 21st century, the Gandhian legacy has become more topical than ever. Gandhi's thought and experience regarding laws and economy, his views on secularism or on the tremendous effects of the colonial rule in India and beyond provide the opportunity to reflect on persistently manipulated constitutions and violated human rights, on the crisis of secularism and the demand of a sustainable, environment friendly economy.

American Globalization, 1492–1850

Trans-Cultural Consumption in Spanish Latin America

Edited by Bartolomé Yun-Casalilla, Pablo de Olavide University, Spain, Ilaria Berti, University of Florence, Italy and Omar Svriz-Wucherer, Pablo de Olavide University, Spain

Series: Early Modern Iberian History in Global Contexts

This book addresses key aspects of the history of consumerism and material culture in early modern Spanish Latin America. By analyzing the introduction, adaptation and rejection of foreign goods within the framework of colonial political economies and local social schemes, it brings to light the complex processes and actors involved in cultural transfers, showing how these trends triggered deep changes in colonial societies and ecosystems. The result is a model in the history of consumption different from European ones and an alternative to them, suggesting a need to revise the heuristic schemes usually adopted in the history of global consumerism and ecological globalization.

American Empire in Global History

Edited by Shigeru Akita

This book shows how the predominantly national focus that characterises studies of the United States after 1783 can be integrated with global trends, as viewed from the perspective of imperial history. The book also argues that historians of European empires have much to gain by considering the United States after 1783 as a newly-decolonised country that acquired overseas territorial possessions in 1898 and remained a member of the Western 'imperial club' until the mid-twentieth century.

The chapters were originally published as articles in a special issue of The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History.

How, When and Why did Bede Write his Ecclesiastical History?

Richard Shaw

Bede's Ecclesiastical History is our main source for early Christian Anglo-Saxon England, but how was it written? When? And why? Scholars have spent much of the last half century investigating the latter question – the 'why'. This new study is the first to systematically consider the 'how' and the 'when'. Richard Shaw shows that rather than producing the History at a single point in 731, Bede was working on it for as much as twenty years, from c. 715 to just before his death in 735.

The 'Other', Identity, and Memory in Early Medieval Italy

Luigi Andrea Berto

Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture

The political fragmentation of Italy, the conquest of Sicily by the Muslims in the ninth century, and the Norman 'conquest' of southern Italy in the second half of the eleventh century favored the creation of areas inhabited by persons with different ethnic, religious, and cultural background.

Focusing on how early medieval Italian authors portrayed that period and were, sometimes, influenced by their own 'present' in their reconstruction of the past, this book will appeal to scholars and students of otherness, identity, and memory in early medieval Italy, as well as all those interested in medieval Europe.

The Global Infrastructure of the Special Operations Executive

Derwin Gregory, Bishop Grosseteste University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Second World War History

During the Second World War, the British government established the Special Operations Executive (SOE) for the purpose of coordinating 'all action, by way of subversion and sabotage, against the enemy overseas'. This book draws together the infrastructure developed to support an agent's 'journey' from recruitment to despatch to the field. It provides a backdrop to the brave men and women who conducted operations abroad and gives an overview of the facilities in which SOE's backroom staff lived and worked. It will be of interest to students and scholars of archaeology, history and war studies.

The Legacies of the Romani Genocide in Europe since 1945

Edited by Celia Donert and Eve Rosenhaft, University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern European History

This book explores the legacies of the genocide of Roma in Europe after the end of the Second World War. Hundreds of thousands of people labelled as 'Gypsies' were persecuted or killed in Nazi Germany and across occupied Europe between 1933 and 1945. In many places, discrimination continued after the war was over. The chapters in this volume ask how these experiences shaped the lives of Romani survivors and their families in eastern and western Europe since 1945.

The Myths and Realities of the Viking Berserker

Roderick Dale

Series: Studies in Medieval History and Culture

The Viking berserkr is an iconic warrior normally associated with violent fits of temper and the notorious berserksgangr or berserker frenzy. This book challenges the orthodox view that these men went 'berserk' in the modern English sense of the word. It examines all the evidence for medieval perceptions of berserkr and builds a model of how the medieval audience would have viewed them. Then it extrapolates a Viking Age model of berserkr from this model and supports the analysis with anthropological and archaeological evidence to create a new and more accurate paradigm of the Viking Age berserkr and his place in society.

Medieval Art, Architecture and Archaeology in Cambridge

Edited by Gabriel Byng, University of Cambridge, United Kingdom and Helen Lunon, Norwich Castle Museum and Art Gallery, UK; Society of Antiquaries of London, UK

Series: The British Archaeological Association Conference Transactions

Medieval Art, Architecture and Archaeology in Cambridge explores the archaeology, art, architecture of Cambridge in the Middle Ages, a city marked not only by its exceptional medieval university buildings but also by remarkable parish churches, monastic architecture and surviving glass, books and timber work. In an academic field increasingly shaped by interdisciplinary interest in material culture, Medieval Art, Architecture and Archaeology in Cambridge marks a major new contribution to the field, focussing on the complexity, variety and specificity of the buildings and objects which define our understanding of Cambridge as a medieval city.

A Viking Market Kingdom in Ireland and Britain

Trade Networks and the Importation of a Southern Scandinavian Silver Bullion Economy

Tom Horne

Series: Routledge Archaeologies of the Viking World

Viking-Age trade, network theory, silver economies, kingdom formation, and the Scandinavian raiding and settlement of Ireland and Britain are all popular subjects. However, few have looked for possible connections between these phenomena, something this book suggests were closely related.

This book will help specialist researchers and students of Viking archaeology make connections between southern Scandinavia and the market economy of the Uí Ímair ('descendants of Ívarr') operating out of the twin nodes of Dublin and Jórík via the initial establishment of Hiberno-Scandinavian longphuir and the related winter-camps of the Viking Great Army.

Conversations about Time

Gavin Lucas, University of Iceland, Iceland and Laurent Olivier, Museum of Archaeology in Saint-Germain-en-Laye, France

This book presents a conversation between two prominent archaeologists who have been exploring the concept of time in their discipline for several decades. It is a discussion on key issues of time in archaeology filtered through their unique perspectives, which sometimes meet and at other times, clash.

All archaeologists with an interest in contemporary theory and the topic of time will find this book of relevance, but also the student who wants to a front row seat onto a live debate on this topic will find it an invaluable complement to the more traditional textbook.

Edited by Soham Al-Suadi, University of Rostock, Theologische Fakultät Department, Richard S. Ascough, Department of Classics, Queen's University, Ontario, Canada and Richard E. DeMaris

Series: Ritual in the Ancient Mediterranean

This volume advances our understanding of early Christianity as a lived religion by approaching it through its rites, the emotions and affects surrounding those rites, and the material setting for the practice of them. Ritual, Emotion, and Materiality in the Early Christian World will be of special interest to interdisciplinary-minded researchers, seminarians, and students who are attentive to theory and method, and those with an interest in the New Testament and earliest Christianity. It will also appeal to those working on ancient Jewish and Greco-Roman religion, emotion, and ritual from a comparative standpoint.

An Encyclopaedic Workshop

Anna Anguissola

Series: Young Feltrinelli Prize in the Moral Sciences

The Roman official and intellectual Pliny the Elder's Natural History constitutes our primary source on the figural arts in Classical antiquity. Since the Middle Ages, Pliny's encyclopaedia has enraptured the imaginations of its readers with anecdotes and narratives about the lives and accomplishments of the great artists of the Greek past. This book explores the ways in which materials and artistic processes are constructed in Natural History, reflecting on current developments in the study of Graeco-Roman art. This book will be of significant interest to scholars of classical archaeology, Greek and Latin literature, social and economic history, and reception studies.

The Logos of Life Itself

Claudia Zatta

Series: Routledge Monographs in Classical Studies

With a novel approach to Aristotle's zoology, this study looks at animals as creatures of nature (physis) and reveals a scientific discourse that, in response to his predecessors, exiles logos as reason and pursues the logos intrinsic to animals' bodies empowering them to sense the world and live. This book is intended for students of history of science, ancient biology and philosophy and all those who, from different fields, are interested in animal studies and the human/animal relation.

Design and Heritage

The Construction of Identity and Belonging

Edited by Grace Lees-Maffei and Rebecca Houze

Series: Key Issues in Cultural Heritage

Design and Heritage provides the first extended study of heritage from the point of view of design history. Exploring the material objects and spaces that contribute to our experience of heritage, the volume also examines the processes and practices that shape them. It demonstrates that design historical methods of inquiry contribute significantly to critical heritage studies. Academics, researchers and students engaged in the study of heritage, design history, material culture, folklore, art history, architectural history, and social and cultural history will find much to interest them within the pages of the book.

The Aesthetics of Industrial Design

Seeing, Designing and Making

Richard Herriott

This textbook introduces design students to key principles of three-dimensional form, bridging aesthetics and practical design objectives. It explores how we see and what it is that characterises visually appealing and satisfactory design. Written by an experienced designer, educator and researcher, the book equips students with the knowledge and understanding of how aesthetically superior design is distinct from lesser work. It explains the key principles and concepts they can incorporate into their own designs, encourages readers to investigate and experiment with real design problems, and enables them to verbally communicate their design intentions.

Art After Instagram

Art Spaces, Audiences, Aesthetics

Lachlan MacDowall, University of Melbourne, Australia and Kylie Budge

Series: Routledge Advances in Art and Visual Studies

This book explores the effects of the Instagram platform on the making and viewing of art. Authors Lachlan MacDowall and Kylie Budge critically analyse the ways Instagram has influenced artists, art spaces, art institutions, and art audiences, and ultimately contemporary aesthetic experience. The book argues that more than simply being a container for digital photography, the architecture of Instagram represents a new relationship to the image and to visual experience, a way of shaping ocular habits and social relations.

Media and Communication in Nigeria

Conceptual Connections, Crossroads and Constraints

Edited by Bruce Mutsaers, Auburn University, USA and Nnamdi T. Ekeanyanwu

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book investigates transformations in Nigeria's booming communication industry. It is noteworthy in drawing almost exclusively on the expertise of Nigerian-based authors, critiquing the discipline from their own lens, and providing an important contribution to the decolonization of communication studies. The authors provide a holistic analysis of the sector, encompassing print journalism, broadcast journalism, public relations, advertising, film, development communication, organizational communication, and strategic communications. This book will be an important reference for researchers of Media and Communication Studies, and those working on Africa specifically.

Critical Pedagogy, Race, and Media

Diversity and Inclusion in Higher Education Teaching

Edited by Susan Flynn, Institute of Technology, Ireland and Melanie A. Marotta, Morgan State University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity in Education

Critical Pedagogy, Race and Media investigates how popular media offers the potential to radicalise what and how we teach for inclusivity. Bringing together established scholars in the areas of race and pedagogy, this collection offers a unique approach to critical pedagogy by analysing current and historical iterations of race onscreen. Offering opportunities for using popular media to teach for inclusion in higher education, this critical and timely book will be highly relevant for academics, scholars, and students across interdisciplinary fields such as pedagogy, human geography, sociology, cultural studies, media studies, and equality studies.

Representations of Lethal Gender-Based Violence in Italy Between Journalism and Literature

Femminicidio Narratives

Nicoletta Mandolini

Series: Focus on Global Gender and Sexuality

The first part of the book is dedicated to the analysis of three journalistic inquiries published in book format that focus on one or more cases of femicide that happened in the Italian peninsula. The second section draws on the concept of feminist re-writing to propose the analysis of a heterogeneous body of literary texts that explore some of the most controversial and notorious femicide cases covered by previous journalistic, historical or mythical narratives, before demonstrating the close connection between theoretical and narrative discourse within the analyzed texts.

Television's Spatial Capital

Location, Relocation, Dislocation

Myles McNutt

Series: Routledge Studies in Media and Cultural Industries

This book launches a comprehensive detailing of the dramatic expansion of the geography of television production into locations, and how those responsible for shaping the "landscape" of television have been forced to adapt, taking established strategies for engaging with space and place through mediated representation and renegotiating them to account for the new map of television production. Representing a cross-section of media industry studies, television studies, and cultural geography, this book will appeal to scholars and students within media industry studies, production studies, audience studies, and television studies broadly.

The Artist-Philosopher and Poetic Hermeneutics

On Trauma

George Smith, Institute for Doctoral Studies in the Visual Arts, USA

Series: Routledge Advances in Art and Visual Studies

Focusing on the aesthetic representation of trauma, George Smith outlines the nexus points between poetics and hermeneutics and shows how a particular kind of thinker, the artist-philosopher, practices interpretation in an entirely different way from traditional hermeneutics.

Taking a transhistorical and global view, Smith engages artists, writers, and thinkers from Western and non-Western periods, regions, and cultures.

Rediscovering Objects from Islamic Lands in Enlightenment Europe

Edited by Isabelle Dolezalek and Mattia Guidetti

Series: Studies in Art Historiography

This book argues that the provenance of early modern and medieval objects from Islamic lands was largely forgotten until the "long" eighteenth century, when the first efforts were made to reconnect them with the historical contexts in which they were produced. For the first time, these Islamicate objects were read, studied and classified – and given a new place in history.

Feminist Theory and the Aesthetics Within

A Perspective from South Asia

Anu Aneja

This book re-examines feminist theory by looking at South Asian aesthetic conventions drawn from iconography, philosophy, Indo-Islamic mystic folk traditions and poetics. It discusses alternate fluid representations of gender and intersectional identities and interrelationships in some dominant as well as non-elite Indic aesthetic traditions. An interdisciplinary work, this book will be useful for scholars and researchers of feminist theory, women's studies, gender studies, art and aesthetics, philosophy, literature, cultural studies, queer studies, sexuality studies, political studies, sociology and South Asian studies.

An Autobiography of a Nobel Laureate

Richard R. Ernst and Matthias Meili

In the last 130 years, 30 Swiss people have won a Nobel Prize. One of them is Richard R. Ernst. In 1991, he received the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for his ground-breaking contributions to nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy. He laid the foundations for magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), which revolutionized medical diagnostics across the globe. Now 87 years of age, the scientist talks about his life in a new autobiography.

Trump and Autobiography

Corporate Culture, Political Rhetoric, and Interpretation

Nicholas K. Mohlmann

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

Propelled into the public eye by the publication of 1989's The Art of the Deal, ostensibly a CEO autobiography, Donald Trump has made a career out of reversing the autobiographical impulse, presenting an image of his life that meets his narrative needs. While many scholars have sought a political precedent for Trump's rise to power, this book argues that Trump's aesthetics and life production uniquely primed him for populist political success through their reliance on the tropes of popular corporate culture.

The Forgotten Alcott

Essays on the Artistic Legacy and Literary Life of May Alcott Nieriker

Edited by Azelina Flint and Lauren Hehmeyer

Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth Century Literature

This collection is the first academic study of the captivating life and career of expatriate artist, writer and activist, May Alcott Nieriker. Nieriker is known as the sister of Louisa May Alcott and model for "Amy March" in Alcott's Little Women. As this book reveals, she was much more than "Amy"—she had a more significant impact on the Concord community than her sister and later became part of the creative expat community in Europe. In this book, readers will become acquainted with a dynamic feminist thinker who transforms our understanding of the place of women artists in the wider cultural and intellectual life of nineteenth-century Britain, France, and the United States.

Shakespeare's Ruins and Myth of Rome

Maria Del Sapio Garbero

Series: Anglo-Italian Renaissance Studies

This is the first book of its kind to address Shakespeare's relationship with Rome's authoritative myth, archaeologically, by taking as a point of departure a chronological reversal, namely the vision of the 'eternal' city as a ruinous scenario and hence the ways in which such a layered, 'silent', and aporetic scenario allows for an archaeo-anatomical approach to Shakespeare's Roman works.

A World without Capitalism?

Alternative Discourses, Spaces, and Imaginaries

Christian W. Chun

In this book, Christian W. Chun examines the ways in which identities, discourses and topographies of both capitalist and anti-capitalist imaginaries and realities are embodied in the everyday practices of people. A World Without Capitalism? is a sociolinguistic ethnography that explores the heretofore limited research in applied linguistics and sociolinguistics on the discursive and materialized representations and enactments of capitalism. This book is vital reading for students and researchers working in the fields of applied linguistics, discourse analysis and cultural studies, as well as those interested in understanding capitalism and questioning how to live beyond it.

Intercultural Challenges for the Reintegration of Displaced Professionals

A Response to the Language Learning Needs of Refugees in Europe
 Tony Johnstone Young, Sara Ganassin, Newcastle University, UK, Stefanie Schneider, Alina Schartner and Steve Walsh

Series: Routledge Studies in Language and Intercultural Communication

This book critically reflects on the challenges faced by refugee aspirant professionals in securing employment and the ways in which professional intercultural competence development and attendant language learning practices can help facilitate the professional (re)integration of these communities. Detailed analyses of data drawn from a large-scale research project allow for critical reflections on co-production in intercultural spaces and researchers' positionality, power relations, and ethical choices in multilingual contexts. The book will be of interest to students and researchers in intercultural communication, refugee studies, and language education.

Toward Multimodal Pragmatics

A Study of Illocutionary Force in Chinese Situated Discourse

Lihe Huang

Series: China Perspectives

This study uses the multimodal corpus approach to examine how speakers use multiple devices to perform illocutionary acts and express illocutionary forces. The author combines qualitative and quantitative methods to show that illocutionary forces are multimodal in nature. Students and scholars of pragmatics, corpus linguistics, and Chinese linguistics will benefit from this title.

Linguistic Dimensions of Sexual Normativity

Corpus-Based Evidence

Heiko Motschenbacher

Series: Routledge Research in Language, Gender, and Sexuality

This book advances the theorization of normativity as a key concept in language and sexuality studies, bringing together some of the author's previous work with new material in exploring the influence of normativity on the relationship between language and sexuality. The first section outlines fundamental areas of inquiry in language and sexuality studies today and elucidates the book's theoretical frameworks around normativity. The second part features case studies that illustrate a diverse range of methods and language data. This volume will be of interest to scholars in language and sexuality, language and gender, sociolinguistics, discourse analysis, and corpus linguistics.

Cross-cultural Genre Analysis

Investigating Chinese, Italian and English CSR reports

Danni Yu, Beijing Foreign Studies University, China

Series: Routledge Studies in Linguistics

This unique monograph evaluates the genre structure and generic features of corporate social responsibility (CSR) reports using a corpus-based approach. Covering linguistic analysis of CSR reports in three languages: English, Chinese and Italian, Yu provides insights into implications for both genre theories and CSR communication practice. Her book adopts a cross-cultural perspective in examining the similarities and differences of business communication across cultures and provides practical insights into the textual practice of CSR reporting in a globalized context.

A Corpus-based Contrastive Study of the Appraisal Systems in English and Chinese Scientific Research Articles

Xu Yuchen, Yan Xuan, Su Rui and Kou Ying

Series: China Perspectives

Appraisal is the way language users express their attitude towards things, people, behaviour or ideas. In the last few decades, significant achievements have been made in Appraisal Theory research, yet little attention has been paid to appraisal in scientific texts, especially in relation to the contrast to how it is applied in English and Chinese. This title examines the similarities and differences of Appraisal systems in English and Chinese scientific research articles; Students and scholars of applied linguistics, comparative linguistics and corpus linguistics will find this an essential reference.

The Rhetoric of Literary Communication

From Classical English Novels to Contemporary Digital Fiction

Edited by Virginie Iché, Université Paul-Valéry, Montpellier, France and Sandrine Sorlin, Université Paul-Valéry, Montpellier, France

Series: Routledge Studies in Rhetoric and Stylistics

Building on the notion of fiction as communicative act, this collection examines the evolving relationship between authors and readers in fictional works from 18th century English novels through to contemporary digital fiction. The volume traces the evolution of this phenomena across historical periods and genres, from its origins in direct address in 18th century English novels to the use of second-person narratives in the 20th century through to 21st century digital fiction with its implicit requirement for reader participation. This book will be of particular interest to students and scholars interested in the intersection of pragmatics, stylistics, and literary studies.

The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Writing

Edited by Rosa M. Manchón and Charlene Polio

Series: The Routledge Handbooks in Second Language Acquisition

The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Writing is the authoritative compendium of theoretical perspectives and empirical developments on how and why the processes involved in writing (planning, composing, reflecting, monitoring, retrieving knowledge, processing feedback) can promote language learning. While young, SLA-oriented L2 writing has developed into a vibrant and rich research domain within SLA and applied linguistics. Critically and definitively, this volume analyzes current theories and empirical research; critically and in detail, it spurs future work and contribution in this domain – for theory, research, and application.

Theory and Experiment in Syntax

Grant Goodall, University of California, San Diego, USA

Series: Routledge Leading Linguists

This book reflects on key questions on the nature of syntax, bringing together Grant Goodall's previous publications to explore how syntactic representations are structured and the affordances of experimental techniques in studying them. The volume's four parts explore the dimensionality of syntactic representations, the relationship between syntactic structure and predicate-argument structure, interactions between subjects and wh-phrases in questions, and more detailed investigations of wh-dependencies from a more overtly experimental perspective. Taken together, the book will be a key resource for scholars in syntax, psycholinguistics, and Romance linguistics.

Language Education

Teaching English in India

Nishevita Jayendran, Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai, Anusha Ramanathan and Surbhi Nagpal

Series: Principles-based Adaptive Teaching

This book situates the teaching and learning of language in general, and English in particular, within the socio-cultural context of India. It engages with current scholarship in literacy studies, and the pedagogies of language acquisition and learning. The volume discusses the cultural, discursive and socio-political functions of language education and the teaching of English in Indian schools. It examines the importance of adopting flexible pedagogical and multimodal strategies in teaching vocabulary, grammar, literary genres like fiction, poetry and drama, rhetorical discourses, and communicative English to learners for whom English is not one of their home language(s).

Modern Mandarin Chinese

The Routledge Course Textbook Level 2

Claudia Ross, College of the Holy Cross, Massachusetts, USA, Baozhang He, College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Massachusetts, Pei-Chia Chen, University of California, San Diego, USA and Meng Yeh, Rice University, USA

Modern Mandarin Chinese is a two-year undergraduate course for students with no prior background in Chinese study. Designed to build a strong foundation in both the spoken and written language, it develops all the basic skills while placing a strong emphasis on the development of communicative skills. This new edition presents simplified characters and pinyin from the outset with a gradual and phased removal of pinyin as specific characters are introduced and learnt. This unique approach allows students to benefit from the support of pinyin in the initial stages as they begin speaking while ensuring they are guided and supported towards reading only in characters.

The Dramaturgy of Commedia dell'Arte

Olly Crick

This book examines Commedia dell'Arte as a performative genre, and one that should be analysed through the framework of dramaturgy and dramaturgical practice. Its focus is dramaturgy, and so may be read both as a text describing various theatrical practices from 1946 onwards, but also as way of creating one's own contemporary Commedia Practice. It is an important read for any student or scholar of Commedia dell'Arte and theatre historians grappling with the status of this unique and influential performance form.

Music: A Social Experience

Steven Cornelius, Boston University, USA and Mary Natvig, Bowling Green State University, USA

By taking a thematic approach to the study of music appreciation, Music: A Social Experience, Third Edition demonstrates how music reflects and deepens both individual and cultural understandings. Musical examples are presented within universally experienced social frameworks (ethnicity, gender, spirituality, love, and more) to help students understand how music reflects and advances human experience. Students engage with multiple genres (Western art music, popular music, and world music) through lively narratives and innovative activities. A companion website features streaming audio and instructors' resources.

Music by Subscription

Composers and their Networks in the British Music-Publishing Trade, 1676–1820

Edited by Simon D.J. Fleming and Martin Perkins

Series: Routledge Research in Music

This book breaks new ground in the social and cultural history of eighteenth-century music in Britain through the study of a hitherto neglected resource, the lists of subscribers that were attached to a wide variety of publications, including musical works. These lists shed considerable light on the nature of those who subscribed to music, including their social status, place of employment, residence, and musical interests. Through broad analysis of subscription data, the contributors reveal insights into social and economic changes during the period, and the types of music favoured by groups like music clubs, the aristocracy, the clergy, and by men and women.

Musics with and after Tonality

Mining the Gap

Edited by Paul Fleet

Series: Ashgate Studies in Theory and Analysis of Music After 1900

This volume is a journey through musics that emerged at the turn of the 20th Century and were neither exclusively tonal nor serial. They fall between these labels as they are metatonal, being both with and after tonality, in their reconstruction of external codes and gestures of Common Practice music in new and idiosyncratic ways. Works include those by Frank Bridge, Ferruccio Busoni, Mikalojus Konstantinas Čiurlionis, Rebecca Clarke, John Foulds, Percy Grainger, Mary Howe, Carl Nielsen, Franz Schreker, Erwin Schulhoff, Cyril Scott and Alexander Scriabin. This book will be a source of enrichment to readers own understanding of music at the turn of the 20th Century.

Modes of Communication in Stravinsky's Works

Sign and Expression

Series: Routledge Research in Music

Igor Stravinsky left behind a complex heritage of music and ideas. There are many examples of discrepancies between his literate statements about music and musicians and his musical compositions and activity. Per Dahl presents a model of communication that unveils a clear and logical understanding of Stravinsky's heritage, based on the extant material available. From this, he argues the case for Stravinsky's music and his ideas as separate entities, representing different modes of communication.

Gregorio Ballabene's Forty-eight-part Mass for Twelve Choirs (1772)

Florian Bassani

Series: Royal Musical Association Monographs

Neither Spem in alium, the widely acclaimed 'songe of fortie partes' by Thomas Tallis, nor Alessandro Striggio's forty-part Mass is the largest-scale counterpoint work in Western music. The actual winner is Gregorio Ballabene, a relatively unknown Roman maestro di cappella, a contemporary of Giovanni Paisiello, Joseph Haydn and Luigi Boccherini, who composed in forty-eight parts for twelve choirs. Ballabene's Mass has remained completely unstudied until today, even though the score survives in prominent collections. This study offers, for the first time, a historical and analytical perspective on this overlooked manifestation of an individual musical intelligence.

Music, the Moving Image and Ireland, 1897–2017

John O'Flynn, Dublin City University, Ireland

Series: Ashgate Screen Music Series

Music, the Moving Image and Ireland, 1897-2017 constitutes the first comprehensive study of music for screen productions from or relating to the island. It identifies and interprets tendencies over the first 120 years of a field comprising the relatively distinct yet often overlapping areas of Irish-themed and Irish-produced film. Dividing into three parts, the book first explores accompaniments and scores for 20th-century Irish-themed narrative features that resulted in significant contributions by many Hollywood, British, continental European and, to a lesser extent, Irish composers; along with the input of many orchestras and other musicians.

Helping Children Find their Voices

A Guide for Parents and Early Years Practitioners

Kate Freeman

Series: Words Together

Designed to be used either independently or alongside the 'Words Together' storybooks, this is a guide for parents and practitioners supporting children to understand and use two-word sentences. Written in a friendly and reassuring tone, it untangles questions and concerns that many parents and practitioners share around language development, such as whether children are reaching important milestones, whether they benefit from screen-time and dummies, and what to do if there might be a problem. This is an ideal resource for early years practitioners, parents, and those working with children who have delayed speech and language development.

A Voice of My Own: A Thought Bubbles Picture Book About Communication

Louise Jackson

Series: Thought Bubbles

With growing concerns around mental health it is more important than ever to pay attention to how young children express their emotions, and to teach them to articulate their thoughts in a healthy way. This beautifully illustrated picture book has been created to teach children about the importance of communication; both in finding their own 'voice' and listening to others, however they communicate. By demonstrating how easy it can be to interpret a non-verbal communication system, it encourages children to notice and talk about non-verbal cues, giving them the opportunity to actively listen and reassuring them that they will be listened to.

Series: Thought Bubbles

It's the Queen's birthday, and the children must work together to create the most amazing machine – a machine that can create 100 apple crumbles by the afternoon tea party. This beautifully illustrated picture book helps children understand the 'journey' in thinking, exploring the ways in which collaborating, experimenting and changing ideas can open new possibilities. By learning to reframe their memories, children learn that change and transition don't have to be bad things.

Someone to Listen: A Thought Bubbles Picture Book About Finding Friends

Louise Jackson

Series: Thought Bubbles

With growing concerns around mental health, and in the wake of a period of uncertainty and change, it is more important than ever to pay attention to how young children express their emotions, and to teach them to articulate their thoughts in a healthy way. This beautifully illustrated picture book has been created to help children understand the importance of having someone to listen to you. Children are encouraged to think about how characters might be feeling at different points in the story, and think about what makes the characters feel valued. It provides a virtual space where children can explore thoughts and feelings, teaching them that they have a place in their community.

Advocacy for Social and Linguistic Justice in TESOL

Nurturing Inclusivity, Equity, and Social Responsibility in English Language Teaching

Edited by Christine E. Poteau, Rowan University, USA and Carter A. Winkle, Barry University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Language Education

Recognizing the need for increased social justice in the fields of TESOL and English Language Teaching (ELT) globally, this volume presents a range of international case studies and empirical research to demonstrate how English language instruction can promote social and linguistic justice through advocacy-oriented pedagogies and curricula. Making a timely contribution at the intersection of advocacy, social justice, and English language teaching, this book will be key reading for postgraduate researchers, scholars, and academics in the fields of TESOL and ELT, as well as language education, applied linguistics, and the sociology of education more broadly.

Teachers as Health Workers

A Critical Understanding of the Health-Education Interface

Louise McCuaig, Eimear Enright, Tony Rossi and Doune Macdonald

Series: Critical Studies in Health and Education

Teachers as Health Workers offers a critical perspective on these matters, documenting the day-to-day work of Australian teachers as they grapple with the challenges, and joys, of balancing education and health-related responsibilities. Whilst shifts in policy, economics and globalisation influence localised enactment of teachers' health work, the economic modelling, theorising and methodological innovations of this research address enduring themes and challenges.

The book will inform education, health and industrial policies and provide direction for teachers' initial or ongoing preparation as health workers.

Mastery and Depth in Primary Mathematics

Enriching Children's Mathematical Thinking

Fay Lewis, Amanda Wilkinson and Marcus Witt

Mastery and Depth in Primary Mathematics aims to support teachers to embed mathematical thinking into their lessons. The authors focus on practical and actionable ways that primary teachers can develop their children's mathematical thinking, reasoning and problem-solving: ideas which are at the heart of the UK National Curriculum. Covering a range of areas such as reasoning, problem-solving, pattern-spotting, as well as systematic and investigative thinking, each chapter provides clear examples of how teachers can make small, manageable 'rich tweaks' to their existing lessons to increase the opportunities for children to develop their mathematical thinking.

Teaching to Support Children's Artistic Independence

How Children's Creativity Can Inform Art Education

George Szekely, University of Kentucky, USA

This engagingly written, research- and practice-based book defines how art teachers can build on students' creative initiatives without depending on adult-imposed lesson plans and school requirements. In doing so, art educator and author George Szekely explores the role of the arts in developing children's creativity and sense of purpose, and reminds readers that students in the art classroom are unique artists, designers, and innovators. Written for pre-service and in-service art educators, teacher educators, and researchers, the book demonstrates that an openness to youthful and inquisitive visual expression can support a life-long love of art.

Relationship-Based Pedagogy in Primary Schools

Learning with Love

Nicki Henderson and Hilary Smith

This insightful book shows how prioritising loving relationships in the primary school between practitioners and children helps secure children's emotional well-being, improves behaviour and leads to more successful learning. It identifies the fundamental values that underpin effective learning encounters and provides the practical tools and language to realise deep connections with children. Giving educators the confidence to teach with the relational qualities of love, trust, respect, and empathy, this is essential reading for all teachers wanting to develop authentic relationships with the children they care for.

The Flows of Transnationalism: Questioning Identities and Reimagining Curriculum

Seungho Moon, Loyola University Chicago

This reflexive, transcultural dialogue scholarship integrates autobiography alongside an in-depth, critical analysis of Eastern and Western philosophy. As an exploration of multiple versions of knowing and identities, this work allows readers to extend and invent their own approaches to examining the fluidity of identities. Moon promotes diverse perspectives within curriculum studies by disrupting the self-other and cultural sameness-difference dichotomy.

This thought-provoking book is intended to benefit educators, university faculty, and interested members of the public.

Supporting Students' Motivation

Strategies for Success

Johnmarshall Reeve, Australian Catholic University, Australia, Richard M. Ryan, Australian Catholic University, Australia, Sung Hyeon Cheon, Korea University, Korea, Lennia Matos, Pontifical Catholic University of Peru, Peru and Haya Kaplan, Kaye Academic College of Education, Israel

This is a book about teachers' classroom motivating styles. The over-arching goal of the book is to help teachers work through the professional developmental process to learn how to provide instruction in ways that students will find to be motivationally-enriching, satisfying, and engagement-generating. Based on a successful workshop programme run by the authors, this multi-authored book provides teachers with the practical, concrete, step-by-step, skill-based "how to" they need to develop a highly supportive motivating style.

Applying the Scientific Method to Learn from Mistakes and Approach Truth

Finlay MacRitchie, Kansas State University, Manhattan, USA

In its simplest form, the scientific method can be thought of as learning from our mistakes and trying to correct them. True scientists try to think rationally, never adopt dogmatic opinions and are always willing to listen to opposing views. They never claim to know the absolute truth but are relentless in their search for it. In this timely book the author describes the correct use of the scientific method and how to apply it to current events and scientific topics to obtain honest assessments. The book is approachable enough for the general public and recommended for university and advanced high school science educators and their students.

Multimodal Literacy in School Science

Transdisciplinary Perspectives on Theory, Research and Pedagogy

Len Unsworth, Australian Catholic University, Australia, Russell Tytler, Lisl Fenwick, Sally Humphrey, Paul Chandler, Michele Herrington and Lam Pham

This book establishes a new theoretical and practical framework for multimodal disciplinary literacy (MDL) fused with the subject-specific science pedagogies of senior high school biology, chemistry and physics. It builds a compatible alignment of multiple representation and representation construction approaches to science pedagogy with the social semiotic, systemic functional linguistic based approaches to explicit teaching of disciplinary literacy. This book will be of interest to researchers, teacher educators and postgraduate students in the field of science education. It will also have appeal to those in literacy education and social semiotics.

Raising Twice-Exceptional Children

A Handbook for Parents of Neurodivergent Gifted Kids

Emily Kircher-Morris

Just because a child is gifted doesn't mean they don't have other types of neurodivergence, like ADHD, autism, dyslexia, and more. Conversely, even children with one of these diagnoses can be cognitively gifted. This book provides you with a roadmap to understand the complex makeup of your "gifted-plus," or twice-exceptional, child or teen. It helps you understand your child's diagnosis, meet their social-emotional needs, build self-regulation skills and goal setting, and teach self-advocacy. It also shows you effective ways to collaborate with teachers and school staff, and it offers advice on finding strength-based strategies that support development at home.

Conceptualizations, Practices, and Methodologies for the 21st Century

Edited by Matthew J. Schuelka and Suzanne Carrington

This book considers fresh international perspectives on schooling culture, systems, teacher preparation, school leadership and policy. Despite positive strides in inclusive pedagogy, educational outcomes and global participation for marginalized students remains stubbornly low. The expert contributors push the conceptual boundaries of 'inclusive education' and explore new ways to research and conceptualize inclusion and diversity in education for all children. This pioneering book problematizes 'inclusive education' as a global currency and another form of deficit-thinking, whilst contributors seek diverse ways forward that represent new visions and innovations from around the world.

The Ethics of Inclusive Education

Presenting a New Theoretical Framework

Franziska Felder

This book will help anyone questioning the ethical content of inclusion by presenting a unique and coherent theoretical framework for inclusion and inclusive education today. Felder integrates perspectives from the history, sociology and psychology of inclusive education to develop a holistic concept of inclusion, while clearly and systematically examining its ethical-normative content. By clarifying its ethical and philosophical foundations, this book presents one of the first extended philosophical defences of inclusion and inclusive education that goes beyond a simple assertion of its educational value.

Social and Dialogic Thinking and Learning in Special Education

Radical Insights from a Post-Critical Ethnography in a Special School

Karen A. Erickson, University of North Carolina, USA, Charna D'Ardenne, University of North Carolina, USA, Nitasha M. Clark, University of North Carolina, USA, David A. Koppenhaver, Appalachian State University, USA and George W. Noblit, University of North Carolina, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Special Educational Needs

Drawing on a three-year post-critical ethnography, this volume counters deficit-based notions of disability to present a new social and dialogic theory of thinking and learning for students with significant support needs. The text ultimately offers a powerful re-imagining of how educators and researchers can perceive, observe, and respond to students beyond current institutional and cultural norms. This text will benefit researchers, academics, and educators with an interest in inclusion and special educational needs, disability studies, and the theories of learning more broadly.

The Age of Science-Tech Universities

Responsibilities, Challenges and Strategies

Paola Francesca Antonietti, Paola Bertola, Antonio Capone, Bianca Maria Colosimo, Davide Moscatelli, Carolina Pacchi and Stefano Ronchi

Analysing past and ongoing trends that have shaped the landscape of universities worldwide, this book explores the possible paths for the future of universities, along three main dimensions characterising key strategic choices: knowledge creation and dissemination; relationships within society and governance mechanisms. Impinging on extensive trans-disciplinary research, this book highlights the need of the technical university within society and its role not only to improve skills, but education in the most articulated sense, to train future citizens and professionals. The book is a must-read for all those interested in the future of the technical university.

The Doctoral Journey as an Emotional, Embodied, Political Experience

Stories from the Field

Edited by Rebecca Twinley, University of Brighton and Gayle Letherby, University of Plymouth, UK

The Doctoral Journey as an Emotional, Embodied, Political Experience is the first text of its kind to capture stories of involvement in doctoral journeys from students, supervisors, and examiners. Drawing from experiences across a variety of disciplines in the social sciences, medical sciences, education and the humanities, these stories share a keenness to demonstrate the ways in which this journey is emotional (rather than detached), embodied (rather than separated), and political (rather than having no relationship to politics).

Analysing Student Feedback in Higher Education

Using Text-Mining to Interpret the Student Voice

Edited by Elena Zaitseva, Beatrice Tucker and Elizabeth Santhanam

Showcasing the best practices in text-mining in higher education, this book is designed to give those interpreting student feedback data the tools required to better understand the student voice and turn data into recommendations that can be adopted to improve an institution. With contributions from around the world, the case studies cover a range of text mining tools, from open source, to commercial applications that require institutional investment. This book will enable academic developers, institutional researchers, academics and administrators to see how bringing text mining to their campuses can help them in better understanding and use the student voice.

Edited by Gloria Crisp, Oregon State University, USA, Kevin R. McClure, University of North Carolina Wilmington, USA and Cecilia M. Orphan, University of Denver, USA

This groundbreaking resource highlights the unique mission and purpose of bachelor's-degree-granting accessible institutions (BAIs), exploring the challenges and opportunities present within these institutions, and offering a counterpoint to the current dialogue that frames these institutions with a deficit-perspective. Ultimately, this edited volume challenges damaging assumptions about the organizational nature, purpose, and role of BAIs in shaping educational opportunity for diverse student populations, and therefore contributes valuable scholarship to the ongoing dialogue and debate around achieving equity in higher education access in the United States.

Negotiating the Complexities of Qualitative Research in Higher Education

Essential Elements and Issues

Edited by Susan R. Jones, Ohio State University, USA, Vasti Torres, University of South Florida, USA and Jan Arminio, George Mason University, USA

This text illuminates the complex nature of qualitative research, while attending to issues of application and addressing the essentials of research through discussion of strategies, ethical issues, and challenges in higher education. In addition to walking through the methodological steps, this text considers the conceptual reasons behind qualitative research and explores how to conduct qualitative research that is rigorous, thoughtful, and theoretically coherent. This book will help students in Higher Education graduate programs to cultivate an appreciation for the complexity and ambiguity of the research and the ways to think through questions and tensions that emerge in the process.

Educational Trends Exposed

How to be a Critical Consumer

David Armstrong

Educational Trends explains and critically reviews, eighteen of the most prevalent trends sweeping schools, colleges and universities over the last decade and beyond. This book demonstrates that a greater understanding of trends can teach some important lessons, including how parents, teachers and educational decisions makers can agitate and collaborate for a modernized and more socially equitable education system.

Educational Trends is essential reading for pre- and in-service teachers, and all educational decision-makers who are faced with a choice of which trend, if any, to follow.

Education in Spite of Policy

Robin Alexander, University of Cambridge, UK

A national system of education cannot function without policy. But the path to practice is seldom smooth, especially when ideology overrules evidence or when ministers seek to micromanage what is best left to teachers. And once the media join the fray the mixture becomes downright combustible. Drawing on his long experience as teacher, researcher, government adviser, campaigner and international consultant, and on over 600 published sources, Robin Alexander expertly illustrates and illuminates these processes. This selection from his recent writing, some hitherto unpublished, opens windows onto cases and issues that concern every teacher.

Examining Educational Policy in Latin America

Comprehensive Insights into Contemporary Reform

Edited by Axel Rivas, Universidad de San Andrés

This book synthesizes and analyzes educational reforms in Latin America in the first two decades of the 21st century. Presenting a comprehensive portrait of these reforms, the book offers insights into the agendas, processes, and political economy of educational reforms in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Mexico, and Peru. Written by renowned contributors from each country, chapters present systematic, critical, and reflective accounts, in order to present a valuable comparative study of the region. The first broad, comparative collection of its kind, the book is well-suited to courses in international and comparative education policy.

TransAcquisition Pedagogy and Curriculum Design

Academic Achievement in Bilingual and Immersion Education

Elizabeth Rata, University of Auckland, New Zealand and Tauwehe Sophie Tamati

This book is about two innovative methods for teachers of bilingual students to use in improving their academic achievement. Transacquisition Pedagogy or TAP developed by Tauwehe Sophie Tamati is the method described in the book's first part. It uses principles of flexible bilingualism and a task sequenced approach.

It shows teachers how to design concepts, content and competencies to connect academic knowledge and thinking processes. The CDC Model has proved its success in the Knowledge-Rich School Project in New Zealand and England.

Education in Flux

Studies on Time, Forms and Reform

Edited by Mathias Decuyper and Pieter Vanden Broeck

Series: Educational Philosophy and Theory

This book aims to gain a better grasp of how education, both inside and outside school, is shaped by our understanding of time. Over the last decennia, both education and policymaking have undergone radical changes, transcending them far beyond the historical limits of the modern nation-state where their contemporary shape originated.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Educational Philosophy and Theory.

Education Policy and the Political Right

The Burning Fuse beneath Schooling in the US, UK and Australia

Grant Rodwell

Series: Routledge Research in Education Policy and Politics

This work attempts a comparative description and analysis, focusing on the US, the UK and Australia on the topic of the Right, educational policy and schooling. It adopts as its underlying theme the burning fuse in tracing the topic back to Joseph de Maistre a Rightist who fled revolutionary France to seek safety in the company of Tsar Alexander I's Russian Empire. Here, he had much to say about school education, not for all, but rather the "deserving" social elite. The book will be of interest to researchers and post graduate students interested in Education Studies, Theory and Policy, and International and Comparative Education.

Decoding Privilege

Exploring White College Students' Views on Social Inequality

D. Scott Tharp

This book explores how White students understand the concept of privilege so that educators can more effectively teach students about social power and inequality. Specially, the text examines three elements that influence how White college students understand privilege: ideas, beliefs, and feelings. As this volume demonstrates, examining all three aspects of students' understanding is critical for educators who wish to effectively educate White students about the nature of social inequality and specific manifestations of privilege. The book concludes with curricular and pedagogical considerations that educators may incorporate into their teaching practice.

The Soul of Learning rituals of awakening, magnetic pedagogy, and living justice

Mary Keator and Vajra Watson, California State University - Sacramento

The Soul of Learning is a groundbreaking book that bridges together cultural work, contemplative practices, and ancient scriptures. Inside each chapter, readers are challenged and inspired to come face-to-face with themselves as they encounter teachers in all forms—from spiritual sages to critical theorists, from prophets to poets, from hip-hop rappers to reggae artists. This book is multifaceted and multidisciplinary. It models the essence of education by offering multiple entry points into holistic learning: somatic, aesthetic, emotional, intellectual, ethical, relational, and spiritual.

Promoting Teacher Advocacy as Critical Teacher Leadership

Jill Bradley-Levine

Timely and accessible, this book critically explores the meaning and practice of teacher advocacy. Drawing from the work of teachers who advocate with and for students who are traditionally marginalized—including students of color, students with exceptionalities, students in poverty, and immigrant students—this volume investigates classroom realities like inequitable distribution of resources, student trauma, and uneven support for teachers' work from administrators.

5th Edition • TEXTBOOK • READER

An Introduction to Philosophy of Education

Robin Barrow, Simon Fraser University, British Columbia, Canada and Ronald Woods, formerly of the University of Leicester, UK

This introductory text, now in its fifth edition, is a classic in its field. It shows, first and foremost, the importance of philosophy in educational debate and as a background to any practical activity such as teaching. In addition to these questions, which strike to the heart of the rationale for the educative process as a whole, the author explores such concepts as culture, creativity, autonomy, indoctrination, needs, interests, and learning by discovery. Updates to this edition include new chapters on religious education and moral education, as well as questions for reflection at the end of each chapter.

Restoring Soul, Passion, and Purpose in Teacher Education

Contesting the Instrumentalization of Curriculum and Pedagogy

Peter P. Grimmett, University of British Columbia, Canada

Series: Studies in Curriculum Theory Series

This text argues that the instrumentalization of curriculum and pedagogy has robbed teachers of their pedagogical soul, passion, and purpose, and both challenges and traces the development of a culture of regulation, standardization, performativity, and governmentality evident in Anglophone teaching practice and education. This text will benefit researchers, academics, and educators with an interest in teachers and teacher education, educational policy and politics, and curriculum thinking and enactment more broadly. Those specifically interested in pedagogy, educational change and reform, and the philosophy of education will also benefit from this book.

Noncognitive Skills and Their Influencing Factors for Children

Empirical Evidence from China

Jinyan Zhou

The book, using a multidisciplinary approach, tries to uncover the noncognitive components of human capital, so as to answer the question "what is the skill that should be invested". The author especially carries out an empirical survey which covers primary and secondary school students from seven provinces of China's East, Middle, and West areas. With the data collected, she analyzes Chinese students' noncognitive development and further identifies the critical factors that may impact their noncognitive skills. The book will appeal to researchers interested in education economics in China, children's development and policymakers in the field of education.

Elasticity and Toughness

Ethnography of Minban Teachers' Policy Implementation in Rural Chinese Society

Feng Wei

Series: China Perspectives

The book examines minban teachers in China between 1949 and 2000, when rural areas were short of qualified teachers. During this period of time, minban teachers made great contributions to education, doing the same work as state-employed school teachers while receiving much lower salaries due to non-official status. While China's minban teacher policies has ended, rural education continues to be a major concern of policymakers and researchers alike. The book is an important piece of scholarship for the readers interested in rural education in China, and in how state, society, and culture interact to influence teacher policies and management in the Chinese context.

Risk Society and Education in Post-Disaster Fukushima

Kaoru Miyazawa, Gettysburg College, USA

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Asian Education

In response to the explosion of the Fukushima Daiichi power plant in March 2011, this book examines how the concept of a risk society was handled in the various education programs implemented in post-disaster Fukushima. Based on the ethnographic data the author collected in Fukushima between 2013 and 2016, various contested emotions emerged in those education spaces as students and teachers remembered their romanticized and difficult past and dealt with the challenges presented by the risk society in their present lives. A valuable resource for scholars and students in the fields of globalization and education, curriculum studies, sociology of education, and Japanese studies.

Trailblazers for Whole School Sustainability

Case Studies of Educators in Action

Edited by Jennifer Seydel, Cynthia L. Merse, Lisa A. W. Kensler and David Sobel

In Trailblazers for Whole School Sustainability, you will meet educators and school leaders who are on the front lines of re-imagining school through the lens of sustainability. These stories are structured around a practical framework that demonstrates how this work allows schools and districts to work smarter, not harder, by integrating sustainability and systems thinking into leadership; curriculum and instruction; culture and climate; and facilities and operations. This book shows what is possible when educators resolve to blaze a trail to re-imagine K-12 education for a just and sustainable future.

School Principal Development

Theoretical and Experiential Approaches for Educational Leaders

Susan Simon

Who would be a school principal these days? Alarming school issues appear daily in the media and there are reports of ever-increasing workloads impacting stress levels of principals, resulting in high attrition rates.

This book also provides insights and pertinent advice from other current and former principals, and senior education executives predominantly in the Australian context. These rich personal narratives provide practical advice and, in their own individual ways, portray the realities, including the joys, of the job.

Neoliberalism and Public Education Finance Policy in Canada

Reframing Educational Leadership as Entrepreneurship

Wendy Poole, University of British Columbia, Canada, Vicheth Sen, University of British Columbia, Canada and Gerald Fallon, University of British Columbia, Canada

Series: Routledge Studies in Education, Neoliberalism, and Marxism

This book uses a multi-dimensional conceptual framework to demonstrate how neoliberal forces have been manifested through changes to K-12 public education finance policy in British Columbia, Canada between 2001-2015. Ultimately, the text makes powerful contributions by calling attention to detrimental processes of neoliberalization, marketization, and privatization of public education and the managerialization of educational leadership. This text will benefit researchers, academics, educators, and educational leaders with an interest in the politics of education policy and finance, school district leadership, international and comparative education, and the sociology of education.

Reforming Lesson Study in Japan

Theories of Action for Schools as Learning Communities

Yuta Suzuki, Tokyo Institute of Technology

Series: WALS-Routledge Lesson Study Series

This book elucidates the formation and development of theories of action in school reforms under the Schools as Learning Communities initiative, from its inception in 1998 in select Japanese elementary schools, junior high schools, and one secondary school. Suzuki offers a unique perspective into school reforms under the initiative, and how they resisted the standardization of lesson study out of concerns that it would limit a teacher's autonomous judgement and choice. The book provides a theoretical foundation for reviewing Japanese lesson study reforms, and will interest academics and practitioners looking for insights into the future of lesson study.

Innovative Learning Analytics for Evaluating Instruction

A Big Data Roadmap to Effective Online Learning

Theodore W. Frick, Rodney D. Myers, Independent consultant, Cesar Dagli and Andrew F. Barrett

Innovative Learning Analytics for Evaluating Instruction covers the application of a forward-thinking research methodology that uses big data to evaluate the effectiveness of online instruction. Analysis of Patterns in Time (APT) is a practical analytic approach that finds meaningful patterns in massive data sets, capturing temporal maps of students' learning journeys by combining qualitative and quantitative methods. This book is an ideal resource for faculty and professionals in instructional design, learning engineering, online learning, program evaluation, and research methods.

Systems Thinking for Instructional Designers

Catalyzing Organizational Change

Edited by M. Aaron Bond, Suha Rahif Tamim, Samantha J. Blevins and Beth Sockman

This book offers real-world cases that highlight how designers foster continuous improvement and manage change efforts across organizational contexts. Using a systems thinking approach, each case describes a holistic process that examines how a set of interdependent elements can be analyzed and coordinated to influence change. Instructional designers, faculty, program directors, digital learning leaders, and other development specialists will learn how systems thinking can solve authentic, real-world challenges. The book's rich narratives cover both successes and failures of meaningful growth, paradigm shifts, and large-scale problem-solving in a variety of settings.

Action Research in STEM and English Language Learning

An Integrated Approach for Developing Teacher Researchers

Aria Razfar, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA and Beverly Troiano

Responding to the linguistic and cultural diversity of the U.S. K-12 student population and an increasing emphasis on STEM, this book offers a model for professional development that engages teachers in transformative action research projects and explicitly links literacy to mathematics and science curriculum through sociocultural principles. Providing detailed and meaningful demonstrations of participatory action research in the classroom, Razfar and Troiano present an effective, systemic approach that helps preservice teachers support students' funds of knowledge.

Connecting Theory and Practice in Middle School Literacy

Critical Conversations

Edited by Jason DeHart, Carla K. Meyer and Katie Walker

Bringing together the voices of researchers and teachers, this volume addresses how teachers connect theory to practice in the middle school English Language Arts education setting and explores how to teach and engage with young adults in a way that treats them as ethical and thoughtful citizens. Contributors acknowledge and balance the challenges associated with the reality of teaching, including time constraints, sudden shifts and fast-paced work, with real-world guidance on key topics, such as supporting multilingual students, queering middle grade pedagogies, teaching diverse texts, examining racial bias in the classroom, and critical digital literacy.

Remote Teaching and Learning in the Middle and High ELA Classroom

Instructional Strategies and Best Practices

Sean Ruday, Longwood University, USA and Jennifer Cassidy

Teaching in remote, distance, and hybrid environments can be overwhelming and confusing, and poses many challenges for novice and veteran teachers alike. This book will guide through the best practices of English language arts instruction, and help you reflect on ways to apply those practices in remote learning and envision future instruction that draws from the most useful aspects of educational innovations. Understanding that remote teaching looks different in each subject, Ruday and Cassidy identify methods specifically designed for middle and high school ELA classrooms.

Post Pandemic L2 Pedagogy

Proceedings of the Language Teacher and Training Education Virtual International Conference (LTTE 2020), 22-25 September, 2020

Edited by Kristian Adi Putra, Kristian Adi Putra and Nur Ariyah Drajiati

The articles in this proceeding provide the experiences, challenges, and strategies that L2 teachers and students had during the recent emergency remote teaching. Four main themes were covered: 1) online L2 learning curriculum and materials development, 2) L2 learning and acquisition in a virtual learning environment, 3) online L2 testing, assessment, program evaluation, and 4) teacher and students' critical reflections on online L2 teaching and learning practices. Written by L2 teachers and teacher educators, we dedicate this proceeding to all L2 teachers and teacher educators who continue trying to maintain high-quality L2 education during and post-pandemic.

Informal Digital Learning of English

Research to Practice

Ju Seong Lee

This timely book brings together research and theory on the increasingly common phenomenon of Informal Digital Learning of English (IDLE) among students of all ages and across a wide range of contexts globally. By examining the positive impact of IDLE on students' reading, writing, listening, and speaking abilities, as well as the unique challenges that result, Lee synthesizes research in one accessible and comprehensive volume in this rapidly developing domain.

This book addresses key concepts, including Computer Assisted Language Learning (CALL), the impact on standardized assessment, and the role of classroom learning.

Commemorative Literacies and Labors of Justice

Resistance, Reconciliation, and Recovery in Buenos Aires and Beyond

James S. Damico, Indiana University, USA, Loren D. Lybarger and Edward Brudney

This book examines literacy practices of commemoration marking the 40th anniversary of the March 24, 1976 coup in Argentina. Drawing on research conducted across three distinct sites in Buenos Aires in 2016 -- a public university, a Catholic church, and a former naval base and clandestine detention center transformed into a museum space for memory and justice -- this book sheds light on the ways commemorative literacies at these locations work spatially to mobilize memory of the past to address and advance justice concerns in the present. These labors of justice manifest in three ways: as resistance, reconciliation, and recovery.

The Accurate Use of Chinese

Practical Sentence Structures and Word Usage for English Speakers

Wen-Hua Teng

The Accurate Use of Chinese is a unique learning resource for learners of Chinese who are English speakers. The primary goal is two-fold: to help these learners leverage their existent knowledge in English and navigate the Chinese system with fewer obstacles; and also to help them prevent errors of which the underlying cause may be English. This is done through comparisons of selected grammar topics, language rules and word usages between the two languages. Grammar topics in English serve as the comparison points from which learners can gain a deeper understanding of the comparable, but differing structures in Chinese.

Congressional Challengers

Candidate Quality in U.S. Elections to Congress

Costas Panagopoulos, Fordham University, USA

In this book, Costas Panagopoulos examines patterns of candidate emergence in congressional elections over the past half-century, specifically, the quality of challengers who seek to unseat U.S. House incumbents, as measured by prior political experience. Looking at factors including campaign spending, district-level partisan composition, and institutional reforms such as term limits, Panagopoulos assesses reasons and potential consequences for these developments over time. For students and scholars of the US Congress and elections, this book addresses public concern about representation as well.

Constituent Power Beyond the State

Democratic Agency in Polycentric Polities

Geneviève Nootens, Université du Québec à Chicoutimi, Canada

This book tackles the twofold issue of public authority and public autonomy in the modern conception of the political by analysing constituent power, its function in the modern political apparatus, and debates about its meaning and function in our own context. Focusing on contemporary debates on constitutionalism "beyond" the state, Geneviève Nootens assesses the prospects for recasting the notion of constituent power in a polycentric setting that challenges state sovereignty as embodying the autonomy of the political. Constituent Power Beyond the State will be of interest to students and scholars of political theory, democratic theory, law, and constitutionalism.

Curbing Corruption

Practical Strategies for Sustainable Change

Series: Routledge Corruption and Anti-Corruption Studies

This book explains why many anti-corruption efforts have had only a minimal effect on curbing the problem of corruption, and shows readers works in the real world in the fight against corruption. Drawing on over 25 years of practical experience, this book identifies innovative tools that target the core human motivators of corruption, with descriptions of pilot tests that show how they can work in practice. Straddling theory and practice, this book is the perfect guide to what works and what doesn't, and will be valuable for policy-makers, NGOs, development practitioners, and corruption studies students and researchers.

Pandemic, Governance and Communication

The Curious Case of COVID-19

Dipankar Sinha

Series: Routledge Series on the Humanities and the Social Sciences in a Post-COVID-19 World

This book focuses on what is arguably the most devastating phenomenon in the history of modern civilization, the COVID-19 pandemic. It shows how, on the one hand, the pandemic has exposed governments the world over to deal with a major health crisis; and, on the other, efforts by the ruling forces to enforce surveillance on people and disciplining them by maneuvering cutting-edge digital technology in the name of security and safety. Engaging, comprehensive and accessible, this book will be of immense importance to scholars and researchers of politics, especially governance and political communication, communication studies, and public health management.

The Chinese Shadow on India's Eastward Engagement

The Energy Security Dimension

Edited by Sanjay K. Bhardwaj, School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

Series: Routledge Critical Perspectives on India and China

India, one of the largest importers of oil in the world, has been diversifying its energy resource options and moving towards greater energy security. This book analyses India's potential for building energy ties in the Asia-Pacific considering the global and regional power politics. Facing China's growing influence in Asia, India's eastward engagement with its extended neighbours has been entrenched in its Act East Policy and institutional commitments towards the Southeast Asia.

Confucian Sentimental Representation

A New Approach to Confucian Democracy

Kwon Kyung Rok, Academia Sinica, Taiwan

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

Kwon conceptualizes a unique mode of political representation in East Asian society, which derives its moral foundation from Confucian virtue politics. A political leader's proper conduct plays a crucial role in evaluating whether they have political legitimacy in East Asian societies. Kwon analyses how this "affective accountability" forms the basis for political representation in these societies and how this can be reconciled with liberal democracy. A vital contribution not only to Confucian political theory, but also to political theory writ large that will be of value to political scientists with an interest in East Asian democracy.

Revisiting State Personhood and World Politics

Identity, Personality and the IR Subject

Bianca Naude, University of the Free State, South Africa

Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

In this book Bianca Naude presents a holistic theory of states as collectives of people that cannot be reduced to their individual constituents. Moving among current research on the ontological status of the state alongside important arguments in support of the state personhood thesis, Naude specifically draws on Kohut to consider narcissism as an aspect of self-esteem rather than a form of psychopathology. This book will help readers understand how the state sees itself, why or when the state experiences shame, humiliation, guilt or pride, and how it responds to these self-conscious emotions. It will be a valuable resource to researchers and students of International Relations.

India-South Asia Interface

Religion, Politics and the Wider World

Partha S. Ghosh

This book raises a question: How does one make sense of South Asia? Conventional wisdom defines it primarily in terms of regional and international politics. In this book, Partha Ghosh makes the case that South Asia must be understood as a shared social consciousness as well. Through chapters that explore topics such as threats to democracy, religion and politics, the place of Kashmir, different conceptions of regionalism, the roles of America and China, and the issue of refugees and migrants, he demonstrates that there is no escape from reinventing the region from a people's perspective.

The Politics of Precarity

Spaces of Extractivism, Violence, and Suffering

Gediminas Lesutis

Series: Interventions

Based on critical theory and ethnographic research, this book explores how intensifying geographies of extractive capitalism shapes human lives and transformative politics in marginal areas of the global economy. Presenting this theorisation of precarity as a framework on, and a critique of, the contemporary politics of (un)liveability, the book speaks to key debates about precarity, dispossession, resistance, extractivism, and development in several disciplines, especially political geography, IPE, global politics, and critical theory. It will also be of interest to scholars in development studies, critical political economy, and African politics.

Deep Integration in Latin American Trade Agreements

Ninfa M. Fuentes Sosa, Centre for Research and Teaching in Economics (CIDE), Mexico

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

This book analyzes the structure, nature, and characteristics of deep integration in trade agreements established by Latin American countries after the crises of 1982 and until 2020 with their regional and extra-regional partners. Ninfa M. Fuentes Sosa argues that deep integration can be disaggregated into its institutional, operative, and horizontal dimensions. Empirically, she demonstrates that trade provisions can be mapped, measured, and allocated into their corresponding dimension. This book will be of great interest to scholars, graduate students, and policymakers working in the field of international political economy, trade and trade politics.

The Ideology of Political Reactionaries

Richard Shorten, University of Birmingham, UK

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

This book offers a new perspective on the beliefs reactionaries share, presenting a theory of reactionary ideology in the process. Rather than taking self-contradictions as a reason for diminishment, complexity is taken as a challenge. The book argues that the features that unite reactionaries lie in rhetoric. Reactionaries make three persuasive appeals: to decadence, conspiracy, and indignation. The book's rhetorical approach entails a critique of the alternative approaches to reactionary politics. The Ideology of Political Reactionaries ought to interest anyone concerned about current ideological trends and, in particular, students and scholars of politics and history.

The Routledge Handbook of Democracy and Sustainability

Edited by Basil Bornemann, Henrike Knappe and Patrizia Nanz

Series: Routledge Environment and Sustainability Handbooks

This handbook provides comprehensive and critical coverage of the dynamic and complex relationship between democracy and sustainability in contemporary theory, discourse, and practice. Contributors look at the present state of this relationship, asking how it has evolved and where it is likely to go in the future. They examine compatibilities and tensions, continuities and changes, as well as challenges and potentials across theoretical, empirical and practical contexts. This wide-ranging collection brings together multiple established and emerging viewpoints on the debate between democracy and sustainability which have, until now, been fragmented and diffuse.

What Lies Ahead? Canada's Engagement with the Middle East Peace Process and the Palestinians

Edited by Jeremy Wildeman and Emma Swan

This edited volume explores Canada's foreign policy relationship with the Palestinians and broader Middle East Peace Process (MEPP). Canada was intensively involved from 1992 to 2000 in peacebuilding as a mediator in the multilateral part of the MEPP, as chair of the Refugee Working Group, and sponsor of Track II negotiations. This all changed after a significant mid-2000s discursive and policy shift, when Canada withdrew from the politics of Israel-Palestine peacebuilding and took a strong partisan stance in favour of Israel.

The chapters were originally published as a special issue of the Canadian Foreign Policy Journal.

The Routledge Handbook of Smuggling

Edited by Max Gallien and Florian Weigand

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This handbook offers a comprehensive survey of interdisciplinary research related to smuggling, reflecting on key themes, and charting current and future trends. The volume covers themes such as mobility, borders, violent conflict, and state politics, as well as looking at the smuggling of specific goods – from rice and gasoline to wildlife, weapons and cocaine. Chapters engage with some of the most contentious academic and policy debates of the twenty-first century, including the historical creation of borders, re-bordering, the criminalisation of migration, and the politics of selective toleration of smuggling.

The Japanese Economy

From Black Ships to Dark Recession

Craig Freedman, Macquarie University, Australia and Toomas Truvert

This textbook offers an accessible guide to the Japanese economy. Japan developed from a defeated country following World War II into a dominant economic power in the 1980s. But much to the surprise of the World, the country collapsed into a persistently troubled economic reality beginning in the 1990s. This textbook provides students with an understanding of how the Japanese economy works, while exploring the way in which economic reasoning can be employed to analyse the specifics of any economy.

Japan in the Heisei Era (1989-2019)

Multidisciplinary Perspectives

Edited by Noriko Murai, Jeffrey Kingston and Tina Burrett, Temple University, Japan Campus, Japan

Japan in the Heisei Era (1989-2019) provides a retrospective and multidisciplinary account of a society in flux. Featuring analyses from leading scholars around the globe, this textbook examines evolving contexts of Japan throughout the Heisei era and how longstanding verities and values are being called into question. Asking what this holds for future relations with the world and within its own communities, chapters delve into layers of a complex and increasingly diverse society in the contexts of simmering ethnonationalism, economic torpor, political stagnation and cultural dynamics.

2nd Edition · TEXTBOOK · READER

The Routledge Course Workbook Level 2

Claudia Ross, College of the Holy Cross, Massachusetts, USA, Baozhang He, Pei-Chia Chen, University of California, San Diego, USA and Meng Yeh

Modern Mandarin Chinese is a two-year undergraduate course for students with no prior background in Chinese study. Designed to build a strong foundation in both the spoken and written language, it develops all the basic skills while placing a strong emphasis on the development of communicative skills. This new edition presents simplified characters and pinyin from the outset with a gradual and phased removal of pinyin as specific characters are introduced and learnt. This unique approach allows students to benefit from the support of pinyin in the initial stages as they begin speaking while ensuring they are guided and supported towards reading only in characters.

A Problem of Empire

Paul DukerSeries: Routledge Studies in the History of Russia and Eastern Europe*

Manchuria, the name given to China's Northeastern provinces by foreign powers, has been contested by China, Russia and Japan in particular over many centuries. This book surveys the history of Manchuria, focusing particularly on the Russian and Soviet perspective. It outlines early colonisation of the region and examines the importance of the Chinese Eastern Railway, a branch of the Trans-Siberian Railway, and the remarkable railway city of Harbin for consolidating the Russian presence in the region and for developing the region's economy.

Between Legal Right and Real Right

Nidhi Buch, Gujarat National Law University, Ahmedabad, India and Hetvi Trivedi, Gujarat National Law University, Ahmedabad, India

This book presents a comprehensive analysis of Geographical Indications (GI) in the Indian context with particular reference to the handloom sector. It discusses themes such as the rationale of GI as IP (Intellectual Property); GI protection under various international instruments; handlooms from Gujarat and their GI journey; efficacy of Geographical Indications; and GI structure for handlooms. It will be useful to scholars and researchers of geography, economics, development studies, sociology, law and public policy. It will also interest policymakers, legal practitioners, textile and handloom professionals, media and nongovernmental organizations working in the area.

Capital-labour antagonisms and self-organised struggles

Joe Buckley*Series: Routledge Studies in the Growth Economies of Asia*

This book explores how capital-labour relations and antagonisms structure forms of militancy in Vietnam and shows that Vietnamese labour militancy is in line with global trends of worker activism. Arguing that labour resistance is structured in relation to capital's behaviour, and not only because of weak labour relations institutions and mechanisms, this book makes a valuable contribution to the field of labour and social movement studies, development studies, sociology, and political economy and Southeast Asian Studies.

China's Carbon-Energy Policy and Asia's Energy Transition

Carbon Leakage, Relocation and Halos
Edited by Akihisa Mori, Kyoto University, Japan

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book seeks to examine the impacts associated with China's carbon-energy policy in Asia and how, coupled with the Belt-and-Road Initiative, these effects prompt foreign direct investments in coal power and exports of renewable energy technologies. China shows a co-evolution of carbon-energy policy and energy transitions from coal to renewables. Assessing how the policy intensifies pressures and motivations to Chinese companies, chapters in this edited volume analyse how the policy has changed energy and CO₂ emissions in Asia through the lens of carbon leakage, relocation, and halos.

Asian Medical Industries

Contemporary Perspectives on Traditional Pharmaceuticals
Edited by Stephan Kloos and Calum Blaikie

Series: Needham Research Institute Series

This book develops the concept of Asian Medical Industries as a novel perspective on traditional Asian medicines. Complementing and updating existing work in this field, the book provides a critical and comparative analytic framework for understanding Traditional Chinese Medicine, Ayurveda, Sowa Rigpa, and Japanese Kampō in the 21st century. Ten original case studies employ insights from anthropology, history, geography, and economics to trace the transformation of Asian medical traditions into rapidly growing and dynamic pharmaceutical industries.

Knowing Asia, Being Asian

Cosmopolitanism and Nationalism in Bengali Periodicals, 1860–1940

Sarvani Gooptu

This book studies the various representations of Asia in Bengali literary periodicals between the 1860s and 1940s. It looks at how these periodicals tried to analyse the political situation in Asia in the context of world politics and how Indian nationalistic ideas and associations impacted their vision. The volume highlights the influences of cosmopolitanism, universalism and nationalism which contributed towards a common vision of a united and powerful Asia and how these ideas were put into practice. It analyses travel accounts by men and women and examines how women become the focus of the didactic efforts of all writers for a horizontal dissemination of Asian consciousness.

Siberian Exile and the Invention of Revolutionary Russia, 1825–1917

Exiles, Émigrés and the International Reception of Russian Radicalism Ben Phillips

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book examines how Siberia's reputation came about and discusses the effects of this reputation in turning opinion, especially in Western countries, against the Tsarist regime and in giving rise to considerable sympathy for Russian radicals and revolutionaries. It considers the writings and propaganda of a large number of different émigré groups, explores American and British journalists' investigations and exposé press articles and charts the rise of the idea of Russian political prisoners as revolutionary and reformist heroes.

Literary Sentiments in the Vernacular

Gender and Genre in Modern South Asia

Edited by Charu Gupta, University of Delhi, Laura Brueck, Northwestern University, Hans Harder, Heidelberg University and Shobna Nijhawan, York University

This collection brings together nine essays, accompanied by nine short translations that expand the assumptions that have typically framed literary histories, and creatively re-draws their boundaries, both temporally and spatially. The essays, rooted in the humanities and informed by interdisciplinary area studies, explore multiple linkages between forms of print culture, linguistic identities, and diverse vernacular literary spaces in colonial and post-colonial South Asia.

US Power and the Social State in Brazil

Legal Modernization in the Global South

Júlio Cattai

Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy

The book analyzes the elite-led efforts to transform the Brazilian legal order in the period between 1930-1975 and how US Power played a major role in such a process. Besides the global circulation of ideas and institutions, the book discusses the Brazilian institutional development in the period. Covering five decades of history and offering a transnational approach involving the U.S. hegemonic role in Brazil, this book will be of interest to scholars and students of law, US foreign policy, area studies and international relations.

Tatarstan's Autonomy within Putin's Russia

Minority Elites, Ethnic Mobilization, and Sovereignty

Deniz Dinç

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book explores how the Volga Tatars, the largest ethnic minority within the Russian Federation, a Muslim minority, achieved a great deal of autonomy for Tatarstan in the years 1988 to 1992, but then lost this autonomy gradually over the course of the Putin era. It sets the issue in context, tracing the history of the Volga Tatars, the descendants of the Mongols whose Khan exercised overlordship over Muscovy in medieval times, and outlining Tsarist and Soviet nationalities policies and their enduring effects.

Moscow and the Non-Russian Republics in the Soviet Union

Nomenklatura, Intelligentsia and Centre-Periphery Relations

Edited by Li Bennich-Björkman and Saulius Grybkauskas

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book examines what came to determine the local power and character of the Communist party-state at the level of the national non-Russian republics. It discusses how, although the Soviet Union looked centralised and monolithic to outsiders, local party-states formed their own fiefdoms and had very considerable influence over many policies areas within their republics.

Projecting Russia in a Mediatized World

Recursive Nationhood

Stephen Hutchings

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book presents a new perspective on how Russia projects itself to the world. Distancing itself from familiar, agency-driven International Relations accounts that focus on what 'the Kremlin' is up to and why, it argues for the need to pay attention to deeper, trans-state processes over which the Kremlin exerts much less control. Especially important in this context is mediatization, defined as the process by which contemporary social and political practices adopt a media form and follow media-driven logics.

Communities and Courts

Religion and Law in Modern India

Edited by Manisha Sethi, NALSAR University of Law, Hyderabad, India

Series: Routledge South Asian History and Culture Series

This volume argues that the relationship between law and religion is not merely one of competing sovereignties – as rational law moulding religion in its reformist vision, and religion defending its turf against secular incursions – but needs to be understood within a wider social and political canvas. The essays here demonstrate how questions of religious pluralism, secularism, law and order, are all central to understanding how the religious and the legal remain imbricated within each other in modern India.

India in the G20

Rule-taker to Rule-maker

Edited by Manjeet Kripalani

Series: The Gateway House Guide to India in the 2020s

This book analyses the importance of the G20 to India, its role so far, and how it can leverage its presidency year to be an influential author of new global rules. It discusses how the Presidency year gives India the opportunity to lead the G20 year intellectually, financially, managerially and administratively. It provides a ringside view of India's path to the G20 Presidency and examines issues such as the core agenda of the G20; explains the significance of forums like T20, B20, and their proliferations; India's journey as a marginal player in the G20 to its current status; issue of dedicated leadership and management; and India's Agenda for 2023.

The Feminist Shaw

Shaw and the Contemporary Literary Theories of Feminism

Nishtha Mishra, University of Allahabad, Uttar Pradesh, India

This book takes us through the life and works of George Bernard Shaw as a feminist. It critically explores his major plays to showcase how his works discuss ideas, practices, discourses, and ideologies that are considered to be antecedents to the modern feminist movements. Foregrounding Shaw's critical role in strengthening feminist characters in modern literature, this volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of literature and literary criticism, theatre studies, feminism, and gender studies.

Global South Asia

South Asian Literatures and the World

Edited by Madhurima Chakraborty, Columbia College Chicago

This book collects essays that take on the excavatory, critical, and generative work of rethinking the relationship between South Asia and the world. In examining what kind of new relationships are uncovered between these two geopolitical groupings, the chapters in this book argue that South Asian literature and literary criticism can reframe the common narrative of the powerful Global North and a disenfranchised Global South.

South Korea's Foreign Aid

The Domestic Politics of Middle Power Diplomacy

Hyo-sook Kim, Kansai Gaidai University, Japan

Series: Routledge Advances in Korean Studies

Since the 2000s, South Korea has closed the gap with other Development Assistance Committee donors in terms of the quality of its aid. In doing so it has taken on a more active role as a middle power. What factors, then, have encouraged South Korea to maintain and enhance the existing international development system? Not only how they behave, but also how their behaviour is determined is essential to truly understand the impact of emerging donors on the existing order'. Kim highlights the significance of domestic politics in determining South Korea's foreign aid behaviour, framing it in terms of South Korea's wider middle power diplomatic strategy.

Indonesia's Failure in Papua

The Role of Elites in Designing, Implementing and Undermining Special Autonomy

Emir Chairullah, President University, Indonesia

Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series

Chairullah investigates how the political, social, and economic interests of national and local elites were negotiated in the formulation and early stages of Special Autonomy in Papua Province, Indonesia. He presents two significant new findings. Firstly, that secret negotiations were held between Papuan and national elites during Abdurrahman Wahid's presidency, and these were crucial in reducing separatist sentiment in Papua. Secondly, that the United States, through Freeport McMoran, strongly influenced the Special Autonomy negotiation process. It is an important book for scholars of Indonesian politics and society, and especially those with an interest in the Papuan conflict.

The State and Big Business in Russia

Understanding Kremlin–Business Relations in the Early Putin Era

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book presents a study of the complex relationship between the Russian state and big business during Vladimir Putin's first two presidential terms (2000–2008). Based on extensive original research, it focuses on the interaction of Russia's political executive with the 'oligarchs'. It shows how Putin's crackdown on this elite group led big business to accept new 'rules of the game', and how this was accompanied by the involvement of big business in policy formulation, particularly through the organisational vehicle of the Russian Union of Industrialists and Entrepreneurs (RSPP).

Conservatism and Memory Politics in Russia and Eastern Europe

Edited by Katalin Miklóssy and Markku Kangaspuro

Series: BASEES/Routledge Series on Russian and East European Studies

This book discusses the diverse practices and discourses of memory politics in Russia and Eastern Europe. It argues that currently prevailing conservatism has a long tradition, which continued even in Communist times, and is different to conservatism in the West, which can accommodate other viewpoints within liberal democratic systems. It considers how important history is for conservatism, and how history is reconstituted according to changing circumstances.

Cultural Intermediaries in East Asian Film Industries

Edited by Eyal Ben-Ari and Heung-Wah Wong

Series: East Asian Film Industries in a Global Context

This book explores the roles cultural intermediaries play in East Asian cinema. Based on extensive original research, and viewing cinema from the social science perspective which emphasizes the social processes entailed in the cultural production, circulation, and consumption of films and the social relations they involve, rather than studying films as texts, the book examines issues such as the differences between individual and collective intermediaries, the diverse resources and services that they mediate, their social background and targeted audiences, and the political implications of their work.

Human Rights Violations in Kashmir

Piotr Balcerowicz, University of Warsaw, Poland and Agnieszka Kuszewska, University of Social Sciences and Humanities, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies in South Asian Politics

The book is a comprehensive study on human rights in Kashmir in relation to the dynamics of Indo-Pakistani policies, providing a structured and interdisciplinary approach to the subject. Whilst surveying some of the most appalling case studies of human rights abuses, the book offers a methodical analysis of the structural and structured human rights violations in the divided Kashmir and placing them in a much broader context of South Asian politics. The book examines root causes responsible for a human rights violations-prone environment and climate of impunity in which the actors perpetrate their crimes unpunished, unwrapping legal and extra-legal nexus behind the crimes.

Rice and Industrialisation in Asia

A.J.H. Latham, University of Wales, Swansea, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Asia

This book is about the introduction of modern power-driven rice milling to the main rice exporting countries of Burma (Myanmar), Siam (Thailand) and French Indo-China (Vietnam) from 1869. It is outlined how rice had been exported in the husk to be milled in Britain prior to 1869, when mills were transferred to Asia and the rice shipped back having been milled. Rice processed in Asia is explained not only as a major saving in transport costs, but the marker of a crucial step in the industrialisation of Asia – namely through the introduction of modern mechanised value adding rice mills powered by steam engines.

Women, Media, and Power in Indonesia

Jane Ahlstrand

Series: ASAA Women in Asia Series

This book demonstrates the crucial link between gender and structures of power in democratic Indonesia, and the role of the online news media in regulating this relationship of power. Using critical discourse analysis (CDA) as a theoretical framework, and social actor analysis as the methodological approach, this book examines the discursive representation of three prominent female Indonesian political figures in the mainstream Indonesian online news media in a period of social-political transition.

Safe Migration and the Politics of Brokered Safety in Southeast Asia

Sverre Molland

Series: Routledge Series on Asian Migration

The book investigates how the United Nations, governments and aid agencies mobilise and instrumentalise migration policies and programmes through a discourse of safe migration. Since the early 2000s, numerous non-governmental organizations (NGOs), UN agencies and governments have warmed to the concept of safe migration, often within a context of anti-trafficking interventions.

State and Sufism in Iraq

Building a "Moderate" Islam Under Saddam Husayn

David Jordan, Ruhr Universität Bochum, Germany

Series: Routledge Sufi Series

State and Sufism in Iraq is the first comprehensive study of the Iraqi Bath regime's (r. 1968–2003) entanglement with Sufis and of Sunnī Sufi Islam in Iraq from the late Ottoman period until 2003 and beyond. Broadening the narrow focus on Saddam Husayn, this book analyses other leading regime figures, their close entanglement with Sufis, and Bath religious politics of a state-sponsored revival of Sufi Islam and Iraq's broad and distinct Sufi culture. This book will appeal to scholars and students in Islamic and Middle Eastern Studies, Religious Anthropology and Sociology, Political Science, and International Relations.

Secularism Confronts Islamism

Divergent Paths of Transitional Negotiations in Egypt and Tunisia

Mohammad Affan, University of Exeter, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Middle Eastern Democratization and Government

This book provides in-depth examination of the recent confrontation between Islamists and secularists in Egypt and Tunisia. Presenting a new approach to understand Islamism and secularism, the research addresses the variables that could affect the outcome of transitional negotiations.

Examining the causes of the conflict between the secularists and the Islamists during the transitional period, the work provides new insights from the Arab Spring experience.

Updating the transition literature, the book is a key resource to academics and students interested in democratization theory and Middle East politics.

Women and Resistance in the Maghreb

Remembering Kahina

Edited by Nabil Boudraa and Joseph Ohmann Krause

Series: UCLA Center for Middle East Development (CMED)

This book studies women's resistance in the three countries of the Maghreb, concentrating on two questions: What has been the role of women artists since the 1960s in unlocking traditions and emancipating women on their own terms? Second, why have Maghrebi women rarely been given the right to be heard since Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia gained national independence?

The variety of periods and disciplines in this collection allow for a coherent and general understanding of Maghrebi societies since decolonization. The volume is a key resource to students and scholars interested in women's studies, the Maghreb and Middle East studies.

The Crisis of Muslim Religious Discourse

The Necessary Shift from Plato to Kant

Lahouari Addi, University of Lyon, France

Series: Routledge Studies in Islamic Philosophy

Showing that Muslim societies are facing a crisis that is more cultural than religious, this book focuses on cultural representations through which social life is experienced in the Muslim world. It brings a new theoretical framework to address the secularization process that is underway and the contradictions it entails.

Discussing secularization through cultural representation, this book launches new ideas that fill an important gap in the literature on secularization. It is a key resource for any readers interested in religious studies, philosophy and the anthropology of religion.

Mistaking Africa

Misconceptions and Inventions

Curtis Keim and Carolyn Somerville

For many in the west, the mention of Africa immediately conjures up images of safaris, ferocious animals, sparsely dressed "tribesmen," and impenetrable jungles. This book looks at the historical evolution of this mind-set and examines the role that popular media plays in its creation. The authors address the most prevalent myths and preconceptions and demonstrate how these prevent a true understanding of the enormously diverse peoples and cultures of Africa. The fifth edition considers images of Africa from across the world and provides new analysis of what Africans are doing themselves to rewrite the stories of their continent, particularly through social and digital media.

The Zimbabwean Crisis after Mugabe

Multidisciplinary Perspectives

Edited by Tendai Mangena, Great Zimbabwe University, Oliver Nyambi, University of the Free State, South Africa and Gibson Ncube

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book examines the ways in which political discourses of crisis and 'newness' are (re)produced, circulated, naturalised, received and contested in Post-Mugabe Zimbabwe. Going beyond the ordinariness of conventional political, human and social science methods, the book offers new and engaging multi-disciplinary approaches that treat discourse and language as important sites to encounter the politics of contested representations of the Zimbabwean crisis in the wake of the 2017 coup. This book will be of interest to scholars of African Studies, Postcolonial Studies, Language/Discourse Studies, African politics and culture.

Civil Society and Democracy in Nigeria

A Theoretical Approach

Bernard Nwosu, University of Nigeria

Series: African Governance

This book examines the complex relationship between the state and civil society and the impact that this has had on democratization processes in Nigeria from colonial times to the present. Combining the neo-Gramscian framework with discursive perspectives from Habermas and Foucault, the book takes a dialectical approach that traces the incarnations of the state and civil society and relates the mutual connections of the two spaces. This book will be of interest to scholars of African politics, democratization and civil society.

Media Diversity in South Africa

New Concepts from the Global South

Edited by Julie Reid

Series: Routledge/UNISA Press Series

This timely book argues that the Global North's research methods and traditional assumptions are not valid to the media landscapes and audiences of the Global South. With South Africa as the focus, the authors offer a new understanding of media diversity along an audience-centred approach. The authors offer a holistic analysis of the ineffectuality of key media policymaking processes, projects and institutions – while also suggesting how these could be transformed to create a more diverse and broadly accessible media landscape.

Colonial Legacies and the Rule of Law in Africa

Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, South Africa, and Zimbabwe

Salmon A. Shomade, Emory University, USA

Series: African Governance

This book focuses on the continued impact of the colonial legacy on the rule of law in Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, South Africa, and Zimbabwe. The legal system is intended to protect regular citizens, but within Africa the rule of law remains infused with Eurocentric cultural and linguistic tropes which can leave its supposed beneficiaries feeling alienated from the structures intended to protect them. The book examines the similarities and differences in the impact of the British colonial legacy on the current legal landscape of each nation and the intersection with the Rule of Law.

Routledge Handbook of Islam in Africa

Edited by Terje Østebø, University of Florida, USA

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

Bringing together cutting-edge research from a range of disciplines, this handbook argues that despite often being overlooked or treated as marginal, the study of Islam from an African context is integral to the broader Muslim world. Written by leading scholars in the field, the contributions examine the connections between Islam and broader socio-political developments across the continent, demonstrating the important role of religion in the everyday lives of Africans. An important and timely contribution to a subject that is often diffusely studied, and will be of interest to researchers across religious studies, African studies, politics, and sociology.

Comparative Contract Law

An Introduction

Ermanno Calzolaia

Comparative Contract Law: An Introduction offers an overview of the main aspects of contract law from a comparative perspective, and a methodology to facilitate understanding of the different rules of contract law, focusing on the comparison between civil law and common law. Students will learn about common problems to be faced when contracting with parties coming from different jurisdictions, whilst also acquiring a deeper understanding of the approach of their own legal system. The book will be key reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of Comparative Contract Law, and Contract Law more generally.

Unlocking Land Law

Judith Bray

Series: Unlocking the Law

Unlocking Land Law will help you grasp the main concepts of the subject with ease. This 7th edition has been extensively rewritten and updated. In particular it considers the decision in Regency Villas v Diamond Resorts and its effect on the definition of what constitutes an easement; the law on forfeiture in co-ownership as considered in Challen v Challen as well as the many recent cases on proprietary estoppel such as Habberfield v Habberfield and Horsfield v Horsfield. It also looks at the different ways that the pandemic has affected property transactions and the changes in the rules with regard to electronic signatures and the witnessing of wills.

African Customary Justice

Living Law, Legal Pluralism, and Public Ethics

Pnina Werbner and Richard Werbner

Series: Cultural Diversity and Law

This book presents an important ethnographic and theoretical advance in legal anthropological scholarship by interrogating customary law, customary courts and legal pluralism in sub-Saharan Africa. Taking Botswana as a casestudy from in-depth fieldwork over a fifty-year period, the book shows, the 'customary' is robustly enduring, central to settling interpersonal disputes and constitutive of the local as well as the national public ethics. It will be valuable to Africanists, social scientists, social historians and socio-legal scholars with interests in law and social change, public ethics and personal morality, and the intersection of politics and judicial decision-making.

Banking Regulation in Africa

The Case of Nigeria and Other Emerging Economies

Folashade Adeyemo

Series: Routledge Research in Finance and Banking Law

There is scarce literature on the development of banking regulation in Nigeria, or the scope of powers of the Central Bank of Nigeria, which is its core banking sector regulator. This book offers a detailed exploration of the Nigerian regulatory architecture. It engages in a comparative analysis with two emerging economies in Africa: South Africa and Kenya. It also considers the UK and the US as comparator jurisdictions in light of their regulatory responses to the 2008 global financial crisis. This book explores the theoretical underpinnings of regulation and supervision to determine whether there is an understanding of what constitutes effective regulation in these jurisdictions.

Business, Compliance and Human Rights Law

The Effectiveness of Transnational Private Regulations for Vulnerable Stakeholders

Gabriel Webber Ziero

Series: Globalization: Law and Policy

In recent years, Transnational Private Regulations (TPRs) have gained in importance in the areas of business and human rights, particularly from a consumer point of view. However, some question whether TPRs are indeed suitable normative frameworks contributing to their signatory entities' compliance with human rights standards and effective avoidance of human rights abuses. In response to this question, this book proposes an analytical concept of effective compliance.

The book will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of international law, transnational law, sociology of law and human rights law.

Consent, Stealthing and Desire-Based Contracting in the Criminal Law

Brianna Jade Chesser, Dr. Brianna Chesser is a Senior Lecturer in Criminology and Justice at RMIT University., Nadia David, Nadia is an Associate Lecturer in Criminal Justice and Criminology at RMIT University and April Zahra, April is admitted as a Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Victoria.

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Consent, Stealthing and Desire-Based Contracting in the Criminal Law examines the inconsistencies in the definitions of consent in sexual encounters by examining emerging sex crimes alongside changing community values and the changing legal definitions of consent in sexual offending, focusing on common law and civil law countries. This book distinguishes itself through the use of empirically validated research strategies and an in-depth analysis of current legislative regimes. It argues that desire and pleasure are largely ignored by legal consent definitions, despite its importance in sexuality more broadly. It covers jurisdictions in the US, UK and Australia.

Due Diligence and the High Seas

Tony Cabus, Kobe University, Japan

Series: Routledge Research on the Law of the Sea

There has been a rapid growth of interest in due diligence, especially in the fields of environmental law and the law of the sea. Yet, confusion seems to surround this notion. Is due diligence a principle, a rule, a standard or something else? This book firstly explores thoroughly the concept of due diligence, its purpose and its mechanisms in order to propose a comprehensive theory of due diligence in harmony with the general law of State responsibility. In the meantime, this book also explores the usefulness of due diligence to address modern challenges afflicting the high seas.

Health Technology Assessment, Courts and the Right to Healthcare

Daniel Wei Liang Wang

This book analyses the impact of courts and litigation on the way health systems set priorities and make rationing decisions. In particular, it focuses on how the judicial protection of the right to healthcare can impact the institutionalization, functioning and centrality of Health Technology Assessment (HTA) for decisions about the funding of treatment. Based on the case study of three jurisdictions – Brazil, Colombia, and England – it shows that courts can be a key driver for the institutionalization of HTA.

Law, State and Religion in Bosnia and Herzegovina

Nedim Begović and Emir Kovačević

Series: ICLARS Series on Law and Religion

This book explores relations between state, religion and law in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Since the middle of the 19th Century, Catholics have tended to self-identify as Croats, Orthodox Christians as Serbs, and Muslims as Bosniaks. Moreover, in a region that has undergone significant recent transformation, from the communist to the liberal political system, Bosnia and Herzegovina represents a very interesting case for the study of the relationship between state and religion.

At a time when the region is again the subject of much interest, this book will be essential reading for those working in the areas of Law and Religion, Constitutional Law and Transitional Justice.

Regulating Artificial Intelligence in Industry

Edited by Damian M. Bielicki

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

Artificial Intelligence (AI) has augmented human activities and unlocked opportunities for many sectors of the economy. It is used for data management and analysis, decision making, and many other aspects. As with most rapidly advancing technologies, law is often playing a catch up role so the study of how law interacts with AI is more critical now than ever before. This book provides a detailed qualitative exploration into regulatory aspects of AI in industry. Including a discussion of the role of AI during the Covid-19 pandemic, the chapters also offer a set of recommendations for optimal regulatory interventions.

Building Abolition

Decarceration and Social Justice

Edited by Kelly Struthers Montford and Chloë Taylor

Series: Routledge Studies in Penal Abolition and Transformative Justice

Building Abolition: Decarceration and Social Justice explores the intersections of the carceral in projects of oppression, while at the same time providing intellectual, pragmatic, and undetermined paths toward abolition. Prison abolition is at once about the institution of the prison, and a broad, intersectional political project calling for the end of the social structured by settler colonialism, anti-black racism, and related oppressions. Beyond this, prison abolition is a constructive project that imagines and strives for a transformed world in which justice is not equated with punishment, and accountability is not equated with caging.

The History, Evolution, and Current State of Female Offenders

Recommendations for Advancing the Field

Edited by Alana Van Gundy and Shaunty James

The History, Evolution, and Current State of Female Offenders: Recommendations for Advancing the Field summarizes what the field has learned about females and crime; details the status of legislation and criminological research focused on female criminality; and provides recommendations for advancing the field. Van Gundy and James present the material from a gendered approach with the goal of analyzing the current understanding of the relationship between gender and crime.

Women and the Criminal Justice System

Gender, Race, and Class

Edited by Katherine Stuart Van Wormer and Clemens Bartollas

This book presents an up-to-date analysis of women as victims of crime, as individuals under justice system supervision, and as professionals in the field. The text features an empowerment approach that is unified by underlying themes of the intersection of gender, race, and class, and evidence-based research. Personal narratives supplement research and statistics to help students connect the text material with real-life situations. With its emphasis on critical thinking, this text is ideal for undergraduate courses concerning women in the justice system.

Human Trafficking

Interdisciplinary Perspectives

Edited by Mary C. Burke, Carlow University, USA

Series: Criminology and Justice Studies

Chapter authors consider historical, sociocultural, legal, public health, human rights and psychological aspects of this issue. New chapters address important topics such as racism, child soldiers, organ trafficking and the role of technology and the banking industry in trafficking. The third edition also explores the ways in which institutionalized oppression of people of color, Native Americans and those in the LGBTQ+ community can underlie vulnerability of these populations to being trafficked.

Domestic Violence as State Crime

A Feminist Framework for Challenge and Change

Evelyn Rose

Series: Crimes of the Powerful

This book offers an innovative feminist criminological study of family violence and the role of the state, addressing the paucity of scholarly attention to the institutional, structural and state dimensions of male violence in the family and developing the original argument that family violence constitutes a state crime.

An accessible and compelling read, Domestic Violence as State Crime offers an innovative scholarly and activist contribution to the study of violence against women, feminism, criminology, and the broader critical study of law, politics, and society.

Women, Reentry and Employment

Criminalized and Employable?

Anita Grace

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

Women, Reentry and Employment: Criminalized and Employable? explores the conflicting discourses about employment for women who are exiting prison. It empirically outlines the landscape of employability supports available to reentering women, the 'steps to employment' women are directed to follow, and the barriers to employment they face, and theoretically explores the subject positions of criminalized and employable women.

Oppressed by Debt

Government and the Justice System as a Creditor of the Poor

Edited by Saul Schwartz

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

This edited collection brings together essays exploring personal debts to government. Intensive collection efforts by governments in need of revenue often cause hardship, whether it is the poor in the US going to jail because of unpaid fines, low-income English people being evicted because they paid their council taxes but could then not pay their rent, or poor former students having tax refunds or social benefits taken by the government when they have defaulted on their student loans. This collection is of relevance to students and academics in criminology, sociology, public policy, and economics, as well as policymakers and government officials interested in effecting change.

The Social Exclusion of Incarcerated Women with Cognitive Disabilities

Shut Out, Shut In

Julie-Anne Toohey, University of Adelaide, Australia

Series: Feminist Criminology

The Social Exclusion of Incarcerated Women with Cognitive Disabilities presents a theoretical and practical exploration of the links between social exclusion, cognitively disabled women, and incarceration, and how these intersect to create and perpetuate cycles of disadvantage and reoffending. Based on the lived experiences of cognitively disabled women incarcerated in Australian women's prisons, the book explores their lives pre-prison and in the prison setting, highlighting the presence of social exclusion prior to incarceration, which continues as they navigate the complexities of the criminal justice system and the tightly regulated prison environment.

Desistance from Sexual Offending

The Role of Circles of Support and Accountability

Kelly Richards

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

This book explores how Circles of Support and Accountability can reduce sexual reoffending. The release of a notorious sex offender from prison strikes fear into members of the public. Media coverage often provokes further panic, casting such offenders as irredeemable monsters and ticking time bombs, destined to continue preying on innocent children and women. In the West, governments have responded by enacting heavily punitive and exclusionary policies, such as public sex offender registers, indefinite detention, and lifetime correctional supervision.

Antiquities Smuggling in the Real and Virtual World

Edited by Layla Hashemi and Louise Shelley

Series: Routledge Transnational Crime and Corruption

This book examines the illicit trade in antiquities, a trade which has increased massively following the destruction and looting of ancient Near Eastern sites in the Middle East. Focusing on the distribution networks for looted antiquities, especially the routes to the West, the book considers the dealers and facilitators who are key in getting the objects to market, explores the methods used including online marketplaces and social media sites, analyses demand and buyers, revealing that objects are often available at very affordable prices.

Power

A Key Idea for Business and Society

Reinoud Bosch

Series: Key Ideas in Business and Management

Power plays a central role in business and management. But what is power exactly, and what are key elements of this concept? This book discusses structures of power, individual power, the exercise of power, strategy, and collective power. The core message is that knowledge of key components of the concept of power is empowering. Understanding such conceptual components empowers students, researchers, practitioners, and other readers to use their understanding in interpreting, theorizing about, and dealing with the complexities of power in their particular situations - without tying them to any preconceived general theories about power.

Growth

Building a Successful Consultancy in the Digital Age

Joe O'Mahoney, Cardiff University, UK.

Nearly half of small consultancies fail within their first five years, but over 250 are sold every month. How do you ensure you are in the right group? How can you successfully grow a consulting firm? How do you maximise the value of your consultancy for an exit?

This is the first evidence-based book to tackle these questions. Based upon interviews with 72 founders who grew and sold their firms, two international surveys, and a long career researching and advising consultancies, Professor Joe O'Mahoney provides a detailed, evidence-based approach to successful growth and exit for consultancies.

Charity Marketing

Contemporary Issues, Research and Practice

Edited by Fran Hyde, University of Suffolk, UK and Sarah-Louise Mitchell, Oxford Brookes University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing

Charities operate within an increasingly challenging environment, with competition for public engagement, funding and volunteers intensifying. High-profile scandals have knocked public trust and led to changes in regulation and governance. However, the recent COVID-19 pandemic has illustrated how great the need is for charities to provide support in times of need and fill the gap left by inadequate public sector provision. This book brings together leading scholars to rigorously explore the contemporary issues facing charity marketing, to challenge students and researchers to think about charity marketing in a way that is creative and impactful.

Digital Water

Enabling a More Resilient, Secure and Equitable Water Future

William Sarni, Water Foundry, USA

Series: Earthscan Water Text

Water resources are under stress from over-allocation, increased demand, pollution, climate change and outdated public policies. Historical approaches to delivering water for human consumption, industrial production, agriculture, power generation and ecosystems are no longer adequate to meet demands. As a result, we need to vastly improve the efficiency and effectiveness of our public and private sector processes in water management. The author describes recent advances in data acquisition, big data analytics, artificial intelligence and blockchain, which provide new tools to meet needs in both developing and developed economies.

Corporate Social Responsibility and SMEs

Impacts and Institutional Drivers

Johan J. Graafland, Tilburg University, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Management, Organizations and Society

The world's people and their leaders face a complex and multi-faceted set of 'eco-social questions'. As the productivity of humanity increases, the negative external environmental effects of production and consumption patterns become increasingly problematic and threaten the human welfare. As the regulating power of national and international governments is limited, this challenge has generated a strong interest in corporate social responsibility of companies. The primary aim of this book is to introduce the reader to the impacts and drivers of corporate social responsibility (CSR), with a special focus on small and medium sized enterprises.

International Law and Business

A Global Introduction

Bart Wernaart

Series: Routledge-Noordhoff International Editions

This book introduces law in the context of international business. The basics of law are explored using a clear comparative methodology.

The book goes beyond the usual focus on Western legal systems and uses examples from all over the world to provide students with comprehensive knowledge of business law. It is set up rather broadly, so that it can be used by teachers throughout their entire curriculum. Each chapter ends with a clear summary, and practice questions. Due to its colourful cases, this book is accessible and fun to read.

Business to Business Marketing Management

A Global Perspective

Alan Zimmerman and Jim Blythe, Westminster University, UK

Business to Business (B2B) markets are considerably more challenging than consumer markets and demand a more specific skillset from marketers. B2B buyers, often dealing with highly complex products, have more specialist product knowledge than the average consumer. This textbook takes a uniquely international approach to this complex environment. More selective, shorter, and easier to read than other B2B textbooks, this is ideal for introductory B2B and intensive courses. It is also comprehensive enough to cover all the aspects of B2B marketing management that any marketer needs, whether they are students or practitioners seeking to improve their knowledge.

Martin Baumers and John Dominy

This book is an accessible and comparatively short text that can comfortably be read cover-to-cover over the course of a semester. It has been written for readers with little or no prior knowledge of the concepts of management or experience in professional management activities. It forms an academically rigorous, accurate and consistent treatment of a subject that draws on a wide field rife with competing definitions, methodological variety, conceptual fuzziness, and inconsistent naming conventions. The book places a clear emphasis of the impact of information technology on the business world, drawing on recent literature and examples.

Moral Hazard

A Financial, Legal, and Economic Perspective

Edited by Juan Flores Zendejas, Norbert Gaillard and Rick J. Michalek

Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking

This book covers 200 years of moral hazard: from its origins in the 19th century to the bailouts announced in the aftermath of the COVID-19 outbreak. It explores the ethics and other fundamental issues connected to moral hazard, provides historical and empirical evidence on moral hazard in international finance and examines moral hazard within specific sectors. This is the first book to provide an interdisciplinary analysis of moral hazard and explain why addressing this issue has become crucial today. As such, it will attract interest from scholars across different fields, including economists, political scientists and lawyers.

Work in the Gig Economy

A Research Overview

James Duggan, Anthony McDonnell, Ultan Sherman and Ronan Carbery

Series: State of the Art in Business Research

Throughout the last decade, the 'gig economy' has emerged as one of the most significant developments in the world of work. As a novel, hyper-flexible form of labour, gig work features a uniquely fragmented working arrangement wherein independent workers partner with digital platform organisations to provide a range of on-demand services to customers. A critical introduction for students, scholars and reflective professionals and policymakers, this book provides much needed direction through the rapidly growing and expansive body of research on work in the gig economy.

Culture and Resilience at Work

A Study of Stress and Hardiness among Indian Corporate Professionals

Pallabi Mund

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

In 1979, Suzanne C. Kobasa propounded her theory of "hardiness" where she hypothesized her 3Cs: Commitment, Control, and Challenge, as the basic ingredients of hardiness that make an individual stress resilient. In current times, the discourse has enjoyed a sustained scholarly interest but there is hardly any study on the corporate professionals or the Indian context. This book examines the efficacy of hardiness on the Indian corporate professionals in the post-globalization scenario. It will be of interest to researchers, academics and students in stress management, human resource management, culture studies, and organizational behaviour.

Internationalisation and Strategic Control

An Industrial History

Morten Pedersen

Series: Routledge International Studies in Business History

This book is a study of the emergence of international business. It immerses itself in the topic of how companies can control income-generating assets in foreign countries, the key element often used to define a multinational enterprise, and propounds the notion that control of crucial dispositions by foreign companies can be achieved by other means than direct foreign investment – cash flow and portfolio ownership. It will be of interest to researchers, academics, and students in the fields of international business, business history and globalisation.

Crony Capitalism in US Health Care

Anatomy of a Dysfunctional System

Naresh Khatri

Series: Routledge Focus on Business and Management

The US political system has come to depend upon money too much. The government regulatory agencies have been "captured" by the health industry interest groups meaning that the regulatory agencies respond to the interests of the industry but not those of citizens. This book employs a broad theoretical framework of crony capitalism to understand US health care system dysfunction. It will be of interest to researchers, academics, policymakers, and students in the fields of health care management, public and non-profit management, health policy, administration, and economics, and political science.

Elite Business Schools

Education and Consecration in Neoliberal Society

Mikael Holmqvist, Stockholm Business School, Sweden

Series: Routledge Advances in Management Learning and Education

Social scientists are paying increasing attention to the business and financial elites. By examining elite business schools, the institutions that train and prepare people to assume important leadership and decision-making positions in business, finance and related sectors, we may also learn how the economic elites are made. This book, based on an in-depth study of the Stockholm School of Economics (SSE), offers a sociological analysis of the world of elite business schools and examines the consecration of SSE's students from a number of perspectives and in a number of situations.

Entrepreneurship and Culture

The New Social Paradigm

Alf H. Walle

Series: Routledge Advances in Management and Business Studies

The classic and dominant paradigm of entrepreneurship emphasizes the relatively universal and homogeneous responses of a small, but influential, minority as they make unique and breakthrough contributions. Today, state of the art research is tempering and transcending this classic vision by acknowledging a wider array of cultural, psychological, and environmental contexts, influences, and responses. This monograph contributes to this research stream by viewing entrepreneurs within a cultural perspective and advocating viewing entrepreneurship in "culturally competent" ways.

Alternative Theories of the Firm

Edited by Michael Pirson, David M. Wasieleski and Erica L. Steckler

Series: Humanistic Management

The Theory of the Firm is commonly viewed as axiomatic by business school academicians. Considerations spanning organizational structures, their boundaries and roles, as well as business strategies all relate to the theory of the firm. The dominant theory of the firm poses that markets act perfectly to maximize the well-being of society when people act to maximize the personal utility of their individual purchases and firms act to maximize financial returns to their owners. This book provides the latest thinking on alternatives to the theory of the firm as cornerstone of managerial decision making.

Business Models and Firm Internationalisation

Edited by Christian Nielsen, Aalborg University, Denmark, Svetla T. Marinova and Marin A. Marinov

Series: Routledge Frontiers in the Development of International Business, Management and Marketing

Internationalisation has been a binding request for firms dealing with the challenges of the present-day realities. Extant international business publications have recently begun to point out the relationship between the notions of 'business model' and 'internationalisation', yet the field needs considerably more attention. The core aim of this book is to provide a comprehensive analysis of the ways in which business models and internationalisation impact one another in the process of initiating and expanding international business activities. It will, therefore, be of interest to researchers, academics and advanced students in the fields of international business and management.

International HRM and Development in Emerging Market Multinationals

Edited by Paresha Sinha, Waikato University, New Zealand, Parth Patel, Australian Institute of Business, Adelaide, Australia and Verma Prikshat, Cardiff Metropolitan University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Human Resource Development

Emerging multinational enterprises (or EMNEs) have made a huge impact on the international business stage by internationalising at a rapid rate. And they have performed remarkably well in both developing and developed countries. Accordingly, there is a growing strand of literature on how EMNEs manage their international human resource (IHRM) practices in different international contexts. This dedicated book will aim to provide a holistic picture and contemporary insights on IHRM in emerging multinational enterprises.

Music, Business and Peacebuilding

Edited by Constance Cook Glen, Indiana University Jacobs School of Music, USA and Timothy L. Fort, Kelley School of Business at Indiana University, USA

Series: Business and Peacebuilding

This book launches a new, interdisciplinary inquiry into the ways in which business and cultural forces outside of government can contribute to and foster peace. The arts (and music as shown specifically in this book) can be a resource to nudge positive emotions in the direction toward ethical behavior, and logically, then toward peace. Business provides a model for positive interactions that not only foster long-term successful business, but also incrementally influences society.

Women, Entrepreneurship and Development in the Middle East

Edited by Beverly Dawn Metcalfe, Bettina Lynda Bastian and Haya Al-Dajani

Series: Gender, Race, and Diversity in Organizations

While the Middle East as a region has seen a small growth in entrepreneurship for women, and business scholarship on the Middle East has grown, there is no text in English that has brought critical insights from the Middle East together in a single volume. In examining women's entrepreneurship in the Middle East, this book aims to challenge Global North assumptions about the disempowering impacts of Islamic Shari'a and governance. It will be of interest to researchers, academics, and students in the fields of entrepreneurship, gender, work and organizations.

The Making of Modern Economics

The Lives and Ideas of the Great Thinkers

Mark Skousen

The Making of Modern Economics presents a bold and engaging history of economics - the dramatic story of how the great economic thinkers built today's rigorous social science. This comprehensive yet accessible introduction to the major economic philosophers begins with Adam Smith and continues through to the present day. It examines the contributions each one made to our understanding of the role of the economist, the science of economics and economic theory. Boxes in each chapter highlight little-known and entertaining facts about the economists' personal lives that had an influence on their work.

Production, Value and Income Distribution

A Classical-Keynesian Approach

Enrico Bellino, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Italy

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

This book investigates the relationship between wages, profits, values and labour employment from a classical-Keynesian perspective. Such an approach proves to be more appropriate in understanding the complexities of current economies, and in identifying the instruments to pursue the final goal of economic systems: putting each person in a position to earn what is necessary to live with dignity. The book provides key reading for those on master level economics courses, constituting a solid introduction to modern classical-Keynesian analysis. It may also be of interest to readers keen to develop a critical view of economics, political economy and history of economic thought.

Adam Smith and The Wealth of Nations in Spain

A History of Reception, Dissemination, Adaptation and Application, 1778–1840

Edited by Jesús Astigarraga and Juan Zabalza

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics

Adam Smith's An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations was the product of the rich tradition of the Scottish Enlightenment but the book's fame immediately spread across the whole of Europe. This book looks at the long journey of Smith's ideas from Scotland to peninsular Spain, reconstructing in detail the reception, adaptation, interpretation, and application of Smith's central concepts from 1777 up to 1840. This volume marks a significant contribution to the literature on the reception of Smith's Wealth of Nations, studies of the Spanish Enlightenment and history of economic thought more broadly.

Behavioural Sports Economics

A Research Companion

Edited by Hannah Josepha Rachel Altman, Morris Altman and Benno Torgler

Series: Routledge Advances in Behavioural Economics and Finance

Economists have entered into the realm of sports to provide what they believe to be more cogent explanations for sport-related behaviour and to suggest ways in which incentives can improve outcomes. But the traditional workhorses of conventional economics can only provide partial explanations and understandings. Drawing on a bounded rationality approach to behavioural economics, this book demonstrates the analytical insights to be gained by supplementing the conventional economics toolbox with psychological, cognitive, sociological, and institutional factors. It will be an indispensable reference to students and scholars of sports economics, sports management, and sports science.

Financialisation in the Automotive Industry

Capital and Labour in Contemporary Society

Marcelo José do Carmo, Mário Sacomano Neto and Julio Cesar Donadone

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Where presidents or members of affluent families were previously seen, it is increasingly the case that car manufacturers are owned by banks and investment funds which have taken control of the entire economic life of these firms. This book explores this increasing financialization – the predominance of the financial sector over the productive sector – in the automotive industry. Encouraging debate on contemporary economy, this book marks a significant addition to the literature on financialization, contemporary forms of capitalism, labour and economic sociology more broadly.

Islamic Management Practices in Financial Institutions

Case Studies from Islamic Economics, Banking and Finance

Khaliq Ahmad

Series: Islamic Business and Finance Series

This book draws on a range of theoretical foundations, approaches and management practices that are culturally and jurisdictionally appropriate in several Muslim countries. As such, it contributes to an emerging specialism in comparative management and leadership theory that is oriented towards a broader and more diverse set of perspectives, particularly from the non-Western world, given that the importance of values, ethics, and culture have recently been recognized as a key contributing factor to management knowledge development.

Universities and the Labour Market

Graduate Transitions from Education to Employment

Magdalena Jelonek

Series: Routledge Studies in Labour Economics

Debate surrounding the employability of graduates has been around for many decades, and interest in this area has grown particularly since the start of this century. Tackling this relevant area of scholarship, this book uses an innovative approach to analyse the relationship between university and the labour market from different perspectives, taking into account both sociological and economic theories. The interdisciplinary nature of this book makes it of great interest to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the areas of sociology, economy, public policy, and also to practitioners designing educational interventions themselves.

The Digital Transformation of Healthcare

Health 4.0

Edited by Marek Ćwiklicki, Mariusz Duplaga and Jacek Klich

Series: Routledge International Studies in Health Economics

Health 4.0 is a term that has derived from the Fourth Industrial Revolution (Industry 4.0), as it pertains to the healthcare industry. This book offers a novel, concise, but at the same time, broad picture of the challenges that the technological revolution has created for the healthcare system. It offers a comprehensive view of health sector actors' interaction with the emerging new technology, which is disrupting the status quo in health service delivery. It explains how these technological developments impact both society and Healthcare Governance.

Ageing and Effecting Long-term Care in China

Sabrina Ching Yuen Luk, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, Hui Zhang, Sun Yat-Sen University, China and Peter Pok-Man Yuen, Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy

The book compares key features of long-term care insurance (LTCI) schemes in fifteen pilot cities and evaluates the sustainability of various financing models adopted by the cities in the LTCI schemes. The book uses an interpretive case study approach to give an in-depth look into the LTC models in three pilot cities – Qingdao, Nantong, and Shanghai. The three cities represent three different models of financing and delivering LTC.

The book will be a useful reference to scholars and policy makers who look at urban ageing and healthcare costs and delivery.

Economics, Science and Capitalism

Richard Westra, Nagoya University, Japan

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

Various strains of heterodox economics have sought, and largely failed, to dismount orthodoxy from its dominant position. This book critiques the critics, explaining why heterodox economics challenges have faltered, and then presents a coherent alternative paradigm of its own. This simultaneously exposes the vacuousness of neoclassical economics, the limitations of heterodox critique and the subverting of Karl Marx's revolutionary economic thought by his own disciples. This original volume also introduces readers to a reconstruction of Marx's Capital engineered in Japan.

The Economic Consequences of Globalization on Thailand

Juthathip Jongwanich, Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University

Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics

Globalization once hailed as the catalyst of economic development has seen better days. This book attempts to assess if globalization is a double-edged sword by looking at its impact on the Thai economy. It outlines Thailand's economic development in the context of trade and investment and examines the globalization effect on Thailand's productivity, exports, trade and labor market since the 1980s. The book will appeal to those with an interest in international economics, especially issues relating to economic consequences of globalization. It will also appeal to policy makers and practitioners responsible for international trade and investment regulations.

Fundamentals of Spatial Analysis and Modelling

Jay Gao, University of Auckland, New Zealand

This textbook provides comprehensive and in-depth explanations of all topics related to spatial analysis and spatiotemporal simulation, including how spatial data are acquired, represented digitally, and spatially aggregated. Also features the nature of space and how it is measured. Descriptive and inferential analyses are covered for point, line, and area data. It captures the latest developments in spatiotemporal simulation with cellular automata and agent-based modelling, and through practical examples discusses how spatial analysis and modelling can be implemented in different computing platforms. A much-needed textbook for a course at upper undergraduate and postgraduate levels.

Power and Knowledge in Discourses on Hazard and Vulnerability

JC Gaillard, University of Auckland, NZ.

Series: Routledge Studies in Hazards, Disaster Risk and Climate Change

This theoretical contribution argues that the domination of Western knowledge in disaster scholarship has allowed for normative policies and practices of disaster risk reduction to be imposed all over the world. It takes a postcolonial approach to challenge power relations between researchers and deconstruct concepts, discourses and forms of governments inherited from the Enlightenment. The book ultimately encourages the emergence of more diverse worldviews and ways of knowing for both studying disasters and informing policy and practice of disaster risk reduction. Such pluralism is essential to better reflect local realities of what disasters actually are around the world.

Edited by Boris Michel, Ferenc Gyuris and Katharina Paulus

Series: Routledge Research in Historical Geography

This book brings together international research on the quantitative revolution in geography. It offers perspectives from a wide range of contexts and national traditions that decenter the Anglo-centric discussions. The mid-20th century quantitative revolution is frequently regarded as a decisive moment in the history of geography, transforming it into a modern and applied spatial science. This book highlights the different temporalities and spatialities of local geographies laying the ground for a global history of a specific mode of geographical thought.

Post-Conflict Participatory Arts

Socially Engaged Development

Edited by Faith Mkwanzani and F. Melis Cin

Series: Rethinking Development

This book investigates the power of art to enhance human development and to initiate positive social change for individuals and societies recovering from conflict. Situated at the intersection of participatory arts, social and epistemic justice, this book brings together case studies from across the world to reflect on best practice for the use of bottom-up, participatory, co-produced and co-designed arts processes in conflict settings. This book provides an important guide to the role that arts can play in addressing epistemic injustice and contributing to social justice and human development.

Development with Dignity

Self-determination, Localization, and the End to Poverty

Tom G. Palmer, Atlas Network, USA and Matt Warner, Atlas Network, USA

Series: Rethinking Development

At a time when the global development industry is under more pressure than ever before, this book argues that an end to poverty can only be achieved by prioritising human dignity. Offering a wide range of interdisciplinary perspectives and specific examples from the field showing these ideas in action, this book provides NGOs, multilateral institutions and donor countries with practical guidelines for implementing "dignity-first" development. Compelling and engaging, with a wide range of recommendations for reforming development practice and supporting liberal democracy, this book will be an essential read for students and practitioners of international development.

Resettlement in Asian Countries

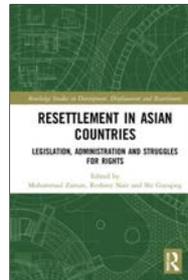

Legislation, Administration and Struggles for Rights

Edited by Mohammad Zaman, Reshmy Nair and Shi Guoqing

Series: Routledge Studies in Development, Displacement and Resettlement

Written by an international, interdisciplinary team of experts from both practice and academia, the book demonstrates the ongoing challenges and struggles associated with social and resettlement risk assessments, the social and cultural exclusion of indigenous/vulnerable groups in some countries, and the lack of institutional capacity to adequately deal with resettlement management and administration. The case studies and comparative analyses of laws and practices relating to expropriation, compensation, and resettlement make significant

Governance and City Regions

Policy and Planning in Europe

Karsten Zimmermann and Patricia Feiertag

Series: Regions and Cities

This book analyzes the recent reforms and changes in the governance of city-regions in France, Germany and Italy. It covers themes such as the impact of austerity measures, territorial development, planning and state modernization. The authors provide a systematic cross-country perspective on two levels, between six city-regions and between the national policy frameworks in these three countries. They use a solid comparative framework, which refers to the four dimensions functions of institutions and governance, ideas and space.

The Religion–Gender Nexus in Development

Policy and Practice Considerations

Nora Khalaf-Elledge

Series: Routledge Research in Religion and Development

This book illuminates the intersections of religion and gender within the development sector, exposing challenges in policy and practice. The book argues that a better understanding of the religion–gender nexus is needed by development sector practitioners, especially at a time when religious arguments are being used around the world to justify gender inequality and violence against women. Situating the nexus in the context of the wider power balances dynamics in both donor and recipient countries, this book draws on research with senior gender personnel, religion advisors, and implementation partners from across the largest bilateral-development agencies.

Responding to Mass Atrocities in Africa

Protection First and Justice Later

Raymond Kwun-Sun Lau

Series: Routledge Studies in African Development

This book explores the relationship between the Responsibility to Protect (R2P) and the International Criminal Court (ICC), challenging the assumption that they are always mutually reinforcing or complementary, and examining instead the many tensions which arise between the immediate imperative of saving lives, and the more long-term prospect of punishing perpetrators and preventing future conflicts through deterrence. Drawing on examples from Uganda, Kenya, and Darfur, the book applies International Relations concepts and theories in order to deepen our understanding of international responses to atrocities.

Forced Displacement and NGOs in Asia and the Pacific

Edited by Gül İnanç, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Themba Lewis, Asia Pacific Refugee Rights Network, Thailand

Series: Routledge Advances in Asia-Pacific Studies

The Asia Pacific region hosts some of the largest numbers of displaced people on the planet, with some of the fewest protections available and sparse frameworks for advancing rights, livelihood, and policy. Drawing upon the expertise of academics, practitioners, historians, theorists, policy makers, political scientists, economists, and the voices of affected communities across the region, this book examines both key case studies and larger regional trends.

A valuable resource for scholars and practitioners looking to understand the complexities of responses to refugees and forced migrants in the Asia Pacific Region.

Reading Home Cultures Through Books

Edited by Kirsti Salmi-Niklander, University of Helsinki, Finland and Marija Dalbello, Rutgers University, USA

Series: Home

This wide-ranging, comparative and multidisciplinary collection addresses the significance of books in creating the idea of home. The complex relationship of books, reading and home is explored through American and European case studies both in bourgeois and middle-class homes, and in working-class and immigrant families and communities with limited possibilities for reading. The volume combines the conceptions and representations of domesticity, the materiality of reading, and library as a place, drawing on book history and material culture studies as well as anthropology and sociology of the home.

Building Cities to LAST

A Practical Guide to Sustainable Urbanism

Jassen Callender

Building Cities to LAST presents the myriad issues of sustainable urbanism in a clear and concise system, and supports holistic thinking about sustainable development in urban environments by providing four broad measures of urban sustainability: Lifecycle, Aesthetics, Scale, and Technology (LAST). These broad measures and infrastructures address the city as a whole and as a recognizable pattern of human activity and, in turn, increase the ability of cities – and the human race – to LAST. This book will find wide readership particularly among students and young practitioners in architecture, urban planning, and landscape architecture.

Family and Jihadism

A Socio-Anthropological Approach to the French Experience

Edited by Jérôme Ferret, Université Toulouse 1 Capitole, France and Farhad Khosrokhavar, Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales (EHESS), Paris, France

Series: Social Movements in the 21st Century: New Paradigms

Demonstrating the failure of an emphasis on the individual actor to capture the meaning of jihadism, this book reveals the fundamental importance of the family – real or imagined – to our understanding of jihadist activity in France and in Europe more generally. A study of the crisis of family and the re-creation of a new, enlarged family in the lives of young jihadists, this book will appeal to scholars of sociology, anthropology, politics and security studies with interests in radicalisation, political violence, social movements and religious violence.

The First Institutional Spheres in Human Societies

Evolution and Adaptations from Foraging to the Threshold of Modernity

Edited by Seth Abrutyn and Jonathan H. Turner

Series: Evolutionary Analysis in the Social Sciences

This book expands a foundational definition of the institution, one which locates them as the basic building blocks of human societies – as structural and cultural machines for survival that make it possible to pass precious knowledge from one generation to the next, ensuring the survival of our species. The book extends this classic tradition by applying advances in biological evolution, neuroscience, and primatology to explain the origins of human societies and, in particular, the first institutional sphere: kinship.

Art of Transition

The Field of Art in Post-Soviet Russia

Elise Herralta

Drawing on historical and ethnographic research, Art of Transition traces the ways the field of art has developed, evolved, and been sustained in Russia after socialism. It shows how Russia's art world has grappled with its Soviet past and negotiated its standing in an unequal, globalized present. By attending to the historical legacy of Russian art throughout the twentieth century, this book constructs a genealogy of the contemporary field of postsocialist art that illuminates how Russians have come to understand themselves and their place in the world.

This Happened Here

Amerikaners, Neoliberals, and the Trumping of America

Paul Street

This book examines the Trump phenomenon as fascist. Not as "bad" politics or a consolidated regime but a set of political, movement, and ideological traits understood in the context of the neoliberal-capitalist era. Defeating this will require political/societal re-structuring beyond what Democrats imagine. This argument is developed across chapters that recount Trump's assault on the 2020 election, demonstrate the neofascist nature of the Trump presidency, engage Trumpism-fascism-denial, analyze the Trump base, root Trumpism in longstanding American white nationalism, explain why Trump rose to power, and suggest paths for fascism-proofing the United States.

Sociology Saves the Planet

An Introduction to Socioecological Thinking and Practice

Thomas MaciasSeries: Routledge Explorations in Environmental Studies*

Given its focus on inequality and the constituent elements of the social world, sociology has often been accused of negligence regarding the urgency of the world's environmental crisis. Sociology Saves the Planet corrects this mis-perception by integrating the theme of environment and society to highlight the intrinsic value a sociological perspective brings to our understanding of the current ecological crisis. Highlighting how the environment and society are intrinsically linked, this book argues that environmental concerns need to be treated as a core concept in the study of sociology.

Social Science

An Introduction to the Study of Society

David C. Colander, Middlebury College and Elgin F. Hunt

Now in its 18th edition, Social Science: An Introduction to the Study of Society approaches its study from a common sense perspective, rather than a formalistic perspective more common in social science texts. Readers will see how seemingly diverse disciplines intermingle and connect to one another. The goal of the book is to teach students critical thinking and problem-solving skills that will allow them to approach social issues in an objective and informed way.

Rising Fascism in America

It Can Happen Here

Anthony R. DiMaggioSeries: Critical Interventions*

DiMaggio explores how rising fascism has infiltrated U.S. politics, spotlighting the development of rightwing polarization of the media, Trump's political ascendance, and the prominence of extremist activists, including in Congress. Fascism has long bubbled under the surface until the coup attempt of January 6th, 2021. This book offers tactics to combat fascism, exploring social movements such as Antifa and Black Lives Matter in mobilizing the public. When so little scholarship engages the question of fascism, Rising Fascism in America combines the rigor of academic analysis with an accessible style that appeals to student and general readers.

Black Feminist Thought, Thirtieth Anniversary Edition

Knowledge, Consciousness, and the Politics of Empowerment

Patricia Hill Collins

In the first major update to this classic book in many years, Collins traces the history and contours of Black women's ideas and actions to argue that Black feminist thought is the discourse that fosters Black women's survival, persistence, and success against the odds. Through meticulous research that synthesizes the important intellectual work done by Black women, Collins's timely update demonstrates that Black women's ideas and actions are not marginal concerns but rather are central to the future of social justice within democratic societies.

Social Statistics

Managing Data, Conducting Analyses, Presenting Results

Thomas J. Linneman, The College of William and Mary, USA*Series: Sociology Re-Wired*

With a clear, engaging writing style and fascinating examples using a variety of real data, this text covers the contemporary statistical techniques that students will encounter in the world of social research. It covers these techniques at an introductory level and carefully guides students through increasingly complex examples without intimidating them. Recurrent examples using four timely topics – health, immigration, income inequality, and everyday harassment – help students understand how the techniques fit together, and how to use the techniques in combination with one another. Author created web resource accompanies the text.

Social Sciences

The Big Issues

Kath Woodward, The Open University, UK

Fully revised and updated, the fourth edition of Social Sciences: The Big Issues explores key debates about how we live our personal, domestic, and emotional lives at a time of enormous, previously-unimaginable change and disruption, including a pandemic that locked down households and economies.

This edition explores how big issues and social forces intersect to create both change and evidence of continuity, especially of social inequalities. It provides a clear, accessible introduction to the ideas and approaches of the social sciences across a range of disciplines, including sociology, psychology, and politics.

Reproductive Politics in the United States

Kimala Price, San Diego State University, USA

Reproductive Politics in the United States is an accessible and engaging introduction to what continues to be a contentious and polarizing topic in the United States. Focussing on the current debates and controversies, myths and realities of reproductive justice, this text seeks to examine the historical, social and cultural forces that shape those politics. Making use of an explicitly Feminist framework, the text will also analyze how the intersections of gender, race, ethnicity, class, sexuality and other markers of difference are implicated in protest and policy. This is a primer for Women's and Gender Studies students, and for those coming to the topic for the first time.

1780–1830

Lucy E. Thompson, Aberystwyth University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Surveillance

This book examines how familiar and neglected texts internalise and interrogate the ways in which targeted, asymmetric, and often isolating surveillance made women increasingly and uncomfortably visible in a way that still resonates today.

The book combines the insights of modern Surveillance Studies with Romantic scholarship. It is designed to appeal to a wide readership, and is aimed at students and scholars of surveillance, literature, Romanticism, and gender politics, as well as those interested in important strands of women's experience exploring current debates around asymmetries of power within gendered surveillance.

A Political Anthropology of the Digital Machine

Edited by Paul O'Connor, United Arab Emirates University, Abu Dhabi and Marius Ion Bența, George Barițiu History Institute, Romania

Series: Contemporary Liminality

This book explores the technologization of the social and the attendant penetration of permanent liminality into those aspects of the lifeworld where individuals had previously sought stability and meaning. Drawing on a variety of concepts from political anthropology, including liminality, the trickster, imitation, schismogenesis, participation, and the void, it interrogates the contemporary technological revolution in a manner that will be of interest to sociologists, social and anthropological theorists and scholars of science and technology studies with interests in the digital transformation of social life.

Reframing Immigrant Resistance

Alliances, Conflicts, and Racialization in Italy

Teresa Cappiali, Collegio Carlo Alberto, Italy

Series: Research in Migration and Ethnic Relations Series

This book focuses on the political participation and grassroots mobilization of immigrants and ethnic minorities. Based on extensive data collected in Italy, it explores the role that alliances among pro-immigrant groups play in shaping political participation, asking why and how immigrant activists mobilize in hostile environments, why and how they create alliances with some 'native' allies rather than others, and what might explain variations in forms of political participation and grassroots mobilization at the local level.

Culture and Conflict in Palestine/Israel

Edited by Tamir Sorek, Pennsylvania State University

Series: Ethnic and Racial Studies

This volume highlights some particular understudied aspects of Palestine/Israel: the relations between Arab identity, Mizrahi identity, and Israeli nationalism; the nightclub scene as a field of encounter, appropriation, and exclusion; an analysis of the institutional and political conditions of Palestinian cinema; the implications of the intersectional relationship between gender, ethnicity and national identity in the field of popular culture, and the concrete relations between particular aesthetic forms and symbolic power.

Imperialism after the Neoliberal Turn

Efe Can Gürcan, Istinye University, Turkey
Series: Capitalism, Power and the Imperial State

This book explores how imperialism has been evolving in the neoliberal era, with the aim of providing a systematic and integrative understanding of the inner dynamics and vulnerabilities of the contemporary imperialist system. Asking how it has been possible to sustain an imperialist system that fails to address the problems of unemployment, declining standards of living and globalizing conflicts, the author draws upon contributions from the current literature to further recent efforts at re-conceptualizing imperialism under the conditions of neoliberal globalization, and advances a critique of the school of transnationalism in global political economy.

Organizational Transformation and Order Reconstruction in "Village-Turned-Communities"

WU Ying

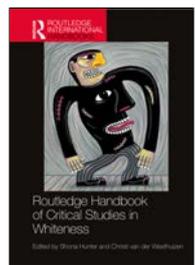

Series: China Perspectives

This title explores the evolving and complex relationship between the urbanization of land and people, two core components of China's urbanization strategy. Through a three-year investigation in Beijing, Shandong, Wuhan and Yunnan, the author shows how government policies can either engender or mitigate conflicts, as well as identifies integrated governance as an effective approach to urbanization of both land and people.; Students and scholars of sociology, politics and public administration will benefit from this book.

The Mental Impact of Sports Injury

Edited by Carly D. McKay

Using analogies from everyday life, The Mental Impact of Sports Injury bridges the gap between academic research and practical settings in an easy to follow guide to the psychology of sports injury. Addressing risk, rehabilitation, and prevention, it outlines key considerations for researchers and practitioners across all levels of sport. Alongside the fundamentals of injury psychology, emerging areas of importance are also discussed, including training load monitoring and the technological advances that are shaping modern sport medicine. Examples highlight the challenges of preventing and managing injury in grassroots, elite and professional contexts.

Leisure, Racism, and National Populist Politics

Edited by Aarti Ratna, Leeds Beckett University, UK, Erica Rand, Daniel Burdsey, University of Brighton, UK and Stanley Thangaraj

Leisure, Racism, and National Populist Politics responds to the rise and revival of nationalistic, ethnocentric, and authoritarian forms of hegemony, power and control. Importantly, as a collection of essays, it foregrounds and (re)politicises debates around race and racism, recognising the significance of leisure spaces to the emergence of bottom-up, polymorphous, and dynamic forms of community, resistance, and belonging.

The Social Aspects of Environmental and Climate Change

Institutional Dynamics Beyond a Linear Model

E. C. H. Keskkitalo, Umeå University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Advances in Climate Change Research

This book critically examines the prominence of natural science framing in mainstream climate change research, and demonstrates why climate change really is a social issue. Keskkitalo explains how social sciences theory and perspectives provide an understanding of institutional dynamics including issues of scale, possibilities for learning, and stakeholder interaction, using specific case studies to illustrate this impact. With pedagogical features such as suggestions for further reading, text boxes, and study questions in each chapter, this book will be an essential resource for students and scholars in sustainability, environmental studies, climate change, and related fields.

Environmental Social Governance

Managing Risk and Expectations

Karlheinz Spitz, Greencorp, Indonesia, John Trudinger, Trudinger Consulting, Australia and Matthew Orr, PT Agincourt Resources, Indonesia

Increasingly, companies are being judged by their performance in terms of Environmental Social Governance (ESG). While much ambiguity exists, it is no longer sufficient to negotiate the environmental assessment process successfully. ESG is an ongoing process that spans the entire life cycle of a company and its operations.

This book is aimed at business leaders and particularly those involved in the extractive industries and other ventures that significantly affect the environment and host communities. Guidance is provided on the major ESG issues that confront all business leaders. Strategies are provided to address ESG risk and to handle crises when they occur.

Cold Water Oil

Offshore Petroleum Cultures

Edited by Danine Farquharson and Fiona Polack

Series: Routledge Environmental Humanities

Cold Water Oil: Offshore Petroleum Cultures is a collection of essays examining how societies conceive of fossil fuel extraction in the inhospitable but fragile waters of the North Atlantic and Arctic oceans. The book is a major contribution to energy humanities and critical ocean studies scholarship, and broader interrogations of climate change and environmental issues. Connecting the perspectives of North American and European scholars, it intervenes in regional and global debates about natural resource extraction off northern coasts.

Innovative Bio-Based Technologies for Environmental Remediation

Edited by Pardeep Singh, Chaudhery Mustansar Hussain and Mika Sillanpää, Aarhus University, Denmark

This book summarizes the recent progress of bio-based technologies for environmental remediation at both an experimental and a theoretical model level. An emphasis has been made on trends and probable future of the sustainable techniques to reduce the waste and harmful compounds from the environment. Biological based technologies have low operating costs and involve direct degradation of organic pollutants, without release of the toxic intermediates.

Working with Time in Qualitative Research

Case Studies, Theory and Practice

Edited by Keri Facer, Johan Siebers, Middlesex University, UK and Bradon Smith

Series: Routledge Research in Anticipation and Futures

This volume creates a conversation between researchers who are actively exploring how working with and reflecting upon time and temporality in the research process can generate new accounts and understandings of social and cultural phenomena and bring new ways of knowing into existence. The book contributes to the enhancement of the social sciences and humanities by charting research methods that link articulate notions of time to knowledge production in these areas. Contributors explore how researchers are adopting tactics such as time visibility, hacking time, making time, witnessing temporal power and caring for temporal disruptions as resources for qualitative research.

Andean States and the Resource Curse

Institutional Change in Extractive Economies

Edited by Gerardo Damonte and Bettina Schorr

Series: Routledge Studies of the Extractive Industries and Sustainable Development

The latest global commodity boom has profoundly marked the face of the resource-rich Andean region, significantly contributing to economic growth and notable reductions of poverty and income inequality. The boom also constituted a period of important institutional change with these new institutions sharing the potential of preventing or mitigating the maladies extractive economies tend to suffer from, generally denominated as the "resource curse". This volume explores these institutional changes in the Andean region to identify the factors that have shaped their emergence and to assess their performance.

Coastal Wetlands Restoration

Public Perception and Community Development

Edited by Hiromi Yamashita

Series: Routledge Focus on Environment and Sustainability

For conservationists, tidal flats and coastal wetlands are regarded as among the most important areas to conserve for the health of the entire oceanic environment. As the number of restoration projects all over the world increases, this book provides a unique assessment of coastal wetland restorations by examining existing community perceptions and by drawing on the knowledge and expertise of both academics and practitioners.

Climate Policy after the 2015 Paris Climate Conference

Edited by Joanna Depledge, Jorge E. Viñuales, Emma Lees, University of Cambridge, UK and David Reiner, University of Cambridge, UK

The 2015 Paris Agreement marked a turning point in the global community's response to climate change. For the first time, almost all the world's nations put forward specific pledges to cut their greenhouse gas emissions with the aim of limiting global warming to 2°C, and ideally 1.5°C. The ten contributions in Climate Policy after the 2015 Paris Climate Conference provide a powerful and scholarly analysis of how this historic achievement came about.

Strengthening Cooperation over Transboundary Groundwater Resources

Edited by Gabriel Eckstein, Texas A&M University, USA and Alice Aureli

Series: Routledge Special Issues on Water Policy and Governance

This book considers various aspects of the management and regulation of transboundary groundwater resources. It presents case studies and explores recent efforts to engage the international community on best practices and global standards for governing transboundary aquifers. As communities and nations continue to expand their reliance on these critical sources of freshwater, they will have to address such issues and develop governance regimes for these shared subsurface resources.

Socialising Tourism

Rethinking Tourism for Social and Ecological Justice

Edited by Freya Higgins-Desbiolles, Adam Doering and Bobbie Chew Bigby

Series: Contemporary Geographies of Leisure, Tourism and Mobility

Once touted as the world's largest industry and also a tool for fostering peace and global understanding, tourism has certainly been a major force shaping our world. The COVID-19 crisis has led to calls to transform tourism and reset it along more ethical and sustainable lines. It was in this context that calls to "socialise tourism" emerged. This edited volume builds on this work by employing the term Socialising Tourism as a broad conceptual focal point and guiding term for industry, activists and academics to rethink tourism for social and ecological justice. This will be essential reading for all upper-level students, academics and policymakers in the field of tourism.

Faith Through the Prism of Psychology

A New Framework for Existentialism

Eugene Subbotsky

Faith Through the Prism of Psychology introduces readers to the structure and function of the inherent ability of our Self to invest objects with reality – existentialization (EXON). The author moves away from traditional ideas of existence and faith, arguing that it is an inherent ability of an individual mind to invest entities (both objective and subjective) with reality.

It will be essential reading for anyone interested in existence from psychology, philosophy, theology or psychotherapy backgrounds.

Evaluation at Work

A Psychoanalytical Critique

Bénédicte Vidaillet

Developing a critical reflection from a psychoanalytic perspective, Evaluation at Work: A Psychoanalytical Critique argues that workers are not mere victims of evaluation systems but are complicit in them. This book will be of interest to scholars studying the topic of evaluation at work from a critical perspective as well as professionals who use evaluation systems or are under the pressure of evaluation in all sectors and organizations. By exposing the psychological mechanisms that evaluation uses to appeal to us, it gives each of us the tools we need to break free of its grasp.

Handbook of Regression Modeling in People Analytics

With Examples in R and Python

Keith McNulty

This book is a learning resource on inferential statistics and regression analysis. It teaches how to do a wide range of statistical analyses in both R and in Python, ranging from simple hypothesis testing to advanced multivariate modelling. The book hits a 'sweet spot' where there is just enough mathematical theory to support a strong understanding of the methods, but with a step-by-step guide and easily reproducible examples and code, so that the methods can be put into practice immediately. This makes the book accessible to a wide readership, from public and private sector analysts and practitioners to students and researchers.

FINITUDE: The Psychology of Self and Time

Philippe Rochat

Philippe Rochat's FINITUDE is a rumination on time and self-consciousness. It is built around the premise that finitude and separation form the human self-conscious reality of time. It argues that we need to reclaim time from current theories in physics that tend to debunk time as an illusion, or state that time simply does not exist. Offering an overarching understanding of concepts beyond methodological detail of the development of self and time, this book will be essential reading for all advanced students and researchers interested in the psychology of time, and the development of self.

Motivation

Biological, Psychological, and Environmental

Lambert Deckers, Ball State University, USA

This textbook provides a complete overview of motivation and emotion, using an overarching organizational scheme of how biological, psychological, and environmental sources become motivation—the inducement of behavior, feelings, and cognition. It combines classic studies with current research and uses numerous real-world examples to engage students and make often-difficult theoretical concepts come to life. By understanding and applying the principles of motivation described in the text, students will not only discover insights into what motivates their own behavior but also how to instigate self-change.

Cognitive Neuroscience of Language

Edited by David Kemmerer, Purdue University, USA

Cognitive Neuroscience of Language provides an up-to-date, wide-ranging, and pedagogically practical survey of the most important developments in the field. After covering background material about the human brain and aphasia syndromes in Parts I-II, chapters in Parts III-VI draw upon prominent theoretical models that characterize particular linguistic domains at both cognitive and neurobiological levels of analysis. In addition, these core chapters illustrate how the different components of the models are supported, and in some cases challenged, by experiments employing diverse brain mapping techniques.

Leadership and Supervision

Edited by Ami Rokach, York University, Canada

This volume is dedicated to examining various points of view of what leadership is, and how the leader supervises those whom he trains.

It is divided into three conceptual sections: The leader, which examines various dimensions of leadership and what it means to lead; The leader's effect on others, which as the title indicates it looks at the effect and influence that a leader may have on others; and Organizational culture, the effect of the leader on the culture of the organization or institution.

Perspectives on a Young Woman's Suicide

Edited by John F. Gunn, III, Gwynedd Mercy University, Pennsylvania, USA and David Lester, Independent scholar, Delaware, USA

This book is an updated analysis of a diary left behind by "Katie," a young woman who took her own life. Drawing on clinicians, researchers, and survivors of suicide loss, this book delves into common beliefs about why people die by suicide and into the internal worlds of those who do. Contributors discuss Katie's suicide from the perspective of recent theories of suicide, including Joiner's interpersonal theory and Klonsky's three-step theory. Finally, Katie's sister reveals her reactions to this project and her ex-boyfriend shares his account of her death. A vital addition to the library of any researcher, academic, or professional interested in suicide and suicide prevention.

Coaching Self-Organising Teams

Helping Teams Flourish

Ro Gorell

Series: The Professional Coaching Series

Part of The Professional Coaching Series, this book challenges the assumption that self-organising teams will work in all settings, answering some of the recurring questions and challenges observed in many organisations. How do we connect with each other, so we create trust? How do we work through conflict and see it as part of a natural ebb and flow in relationships? How do we create meaningful work in the context of an ever-changing environment? The opening chapter lays out some basic team coaching principles to help set the stage for coaching people in teams and there are coaching questions in each chapter to engage the reader as well as tools they can use immediately.

Culture, Consolation, and Continuing Bonds in Bereavement

The Selected Works of Dennis Klass

Dennis Klass, Webster University, Missouri, USA

Series: World Library of Mental Health

This book presents Dennis Klass's most important contributions to the scholarship of grief and bereavement, covering more than forty years of study and practice on the forefront of our understanding of grief. The writings range widely, including explorations of grief that were missing when Klass began his work, studies of grief across cultures, and analyses of theories that were popular in grief scholarship but inadequately described bereaved parents' experiences. This collection of essays offers an integral understanding of how individuals move through grief and is a valuable addition to the library of anyone working with topics relevant to grieving adults, children, and adolescents.

An Intersectional Approach to Sex Therapy

Centering the Lives of Indigenous, Racialized, and People of Color

Edited by Reece M. Malone, Marla Renee Stewart, Mariotta Gary-Smith and James C. Wadley

When a Black, Indigenous, or racialized individual, or relationship works with a sex therapist, a host of cultural circumstances can contribute to intimacy discord and sexual dysfunction. This collection brings together clinicians and educators who share their approaches, bridging sex therapy with a client's relationship to their racial, cultural, and ethnic identity. This essential book aims to enhance therapists' supervisory practices and clinical treatments when working with culturally diverse and marginalized populations, fostering greater understanding and awareness.

Compassionate Love in Intimate Relationships

The Integration Process of Sexual Mass Trauma, Racism, and Resilience

Josiane M. Apollon, Nova Southeastern University, USA

Series: Explorations in Mental Health

Drawing on interviews conducted with Black couples in the US, this book explores relational resilience and identifies unique adaptation strategies that enable couples to overcome the multigenerational effects of violence and sexual mass trauma from slavery and activates compassionate love in flourishing relationships. This book will benefit researchers, academicians, and clinicians with an interest in sexual trauma, marriage and family therapy, and couples counseling more broadly. Readers will also find this book useful when designing research in Black studies, intergenerational issues, or sexual intimacy.

Psychoanalysis, Culture and Social Action

Act Signatures of the Unconscious

Dieter Flader

Dieter Flader explores how current social and cultural concerns are connected to the unconscious, and how this affects our responses to them. Flader focuses on the role of the ego, assessing how our feelings about these issues in adulthood grow from childhood fears and desires, and integrating the existing psychoanalytic theories of Winnicott, Lacan, Kohut and others with sociological and political theory. The interdisciplinary approach not only analyses current social issues but also generates new perspectives and solutions, and examines examples including climate change, bullying and vegetarianism.

Coming to Life in the Consulting Room

Toward a New Analytic Sensibility

Thomas H. Ogden

Series: New Library of Psychoanalysis

Ogden sets out a movement in contemporary psychoanalysis toward a new sensibility, reflecting a shift in emphasis from what he calls "epistemological psychoanalysis" (having to do with knowing and understanding) to "ontological psychoanalysis" (having to do with being and becoming). This book will be of great interest not only to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists interested in the shift in analytic theory and practice Ogden describes, but also to those interested in ideas concerning the way the mind and human experiencing are created.

A Glossary for Doing Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Research Across Disciplines

Edited by Karin Murris

Series: Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Research

A Glossary for Doing Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Research Across Disciplines gives novices and experienced researchers clear and comprehensible introductions to theories, paradigm shifts and key concepts in postqualitative, feminist new materialist and critical posthumanist research. The Glossary is an accessible and introductory guide for novice qualitative researchers, and of use to established academics already working with post-qualitative approaches. It is an indispensable companion to the primary texts and original sources by theorists discussed in this and other books in the series.

Discovery Through Activity

Ideas and Resources for Applying Recovery Through Activity in Practice

Edited by Sue Parkinson

This book provides a compendium of ideas, resources and practice evaluations that will inspire practitioners to be even more imaginative, and to customise their own Recovery Through Activity programmes to meet the specific needs of participants. It showcases the work of a growing community of practitioners who have successfully facilitated Recovery Through Activity programmes to provide a forum for people to reflect on their occupational lives and discuss and practise lifestyle choices to improve their health and wellbeing. This is a valuable resource for occupational therapists and other practitioners in mental health settings.

Cybersecurity for eHealth

A Simplified Guide to Practical Cybersecurity for Non-technical Stakeholders & Practitioners of Healthcare

Emmanuel C. Ogu

The book responds to the realities of cybersecurity in the context of healthcare. It examines the effects of a sector where the pervasiveness and proliferation of various eHealth innovations have created a threat domain wherein policy and regulation struggles to keep pace with development, standardization faces several contextual challenges, and technical capacity is largely deficient.

Edited by Michael Gard, Darren Powell, The University of Auckland, New Zealand and José Tenorio

The Routledge Handbook of Critical Obesity Studies is an authoritative and challenging guide to the breadth and depth of critical thinking and theory on obesity. Rather than focusing on obesity as a public health crisis to be solved, this reference work offers divergent and radical strategies alongside biomedical and positivist discourses. This multidisciplinary and international collection is designed for a broad audience of academics, researchers, students and practitioners within the social and health sciences, including sociology, obesity science, public health, medicine, sports studies, fat studies, psychology, nutrition science, education, and disability studies.

Challenging Parental Alienation

New Directions for Professionals and Parents

Edited by Jean Mercer and Margaret Drew

This book addresses the concept of parental alienation - the belief that when a child of divorced parents avoids one parent, it may be because the preferred parent has persuaded the child to do this. It argues against the unquestioning use of parental alienation concepts in child custody conflicts. This book will be useful reading for lawyers, judges, children's services workers including social workers, child protection court workers and mental health professionals involved in child custody decisions.

Cooking for Health and Disease Prevention

From the Kitchen to the Clinic

Edited by Nicole M. Farmer, Clinical Center National Institutes of Health and Andres V. Ardisson Korat

Poor diet and substandard nutrition are underlying causes of many diseases including cardiovascular disease, diabetes, and cancer. Collectively, these ailments are the leading causes of premature death. Cooking for Health and Disease Prevention: From the Kitchen to the Clinic helps demonstrate cooking as a fundamental bridge between ideal nutrition and long-term health. This book provides information to clinicians and their patients about foods and cooking principles to help prevent common health conditions. It is authored by Nicole Farmer, physician scientist at the NIH Clinical Center, and Andres Ardisson Korat, awarded a doctorate from Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.

Catheter Ablation of Cardiac Arrhythmias in Children and Patients with Congenital Heart Disease

Edited by Edward P. Walsh, Harvard Medical School, MA, USA, George F. Van Hare, Washington University, MO, USA, Paul Khairy, Université de Montréal, Canada and Mohammad Shenasa, O'Connor Hospital, CA, USA

This authoritative book explores electrophysiologic testing and therapeutic catheter ablation for cardiac arrhythmias in children, and in patients of all ages with congenital heart disease. It reviews the anatomic and physiologic background to these procedures, emphasizing the tools for mapping and tissue ablation that continue to improve patient outcomes. Additionally, individual chapters are dedicated to specific congenital heart defects (for instance, tetralogy of Fallot, Ebstein's anomaly, univentricular heart) guiding the reader to anticipate the type of arrhythmia, the most likely location for effective ablation, and the technical challenges that may be encountered in each condition.

New Technologies in Dermatological Science and Practice

Intelligence, Regeneration, Speed, and Precision

Edited by Lawrence S. Chan and M. Peter Marinkovich

While science and technology have been moving at speed in the last decade and major investments have been placed in Artificial Intelligence, blockchain technology, 3D printing, and gene editing, medical practice, including cutaneous medicine (otherwise known as Dermatology), is only just starting to follow these technological advances. This book is a timely intellectual investment for cutaneous medicine, addressing these particularly needed areas. It is written for medical educators, dermatology residents, practicing dermatologists, and medical researchers in the area of skin diseases.

Ethics for Bioengineering Scientists

Treating Data as Clients

Howard Winet, University of Southern Cal

This book introduces bioengineers who must generate and/or report scientific data to the ethical challenges they will face in preserving the integrity of their data. It provides the perspective of reaching ethical decisions via pathways that treat data as clients to whom they owe a responsibility that is an existential component of their professional identity. The book was developed for advanced undergraduate and graduate students in bioengineering. It also contains much needed material that researchers and academics would find valuable (e.g., FDA material and lab animal research).

Darwin's Reach

21st Century Applications of Evolutionary Biology

Norman A. Johnson

This book is about applied evolution – the application of the principles of and information about evolutionary biology to diverse practical matters. It is divided into five sections: Law, Health, Food, Environment, and Society. Although applied evolution has existed for a long time, today's evolutionary medicine has formed into its own discipline with its own various institutes, centers, and journals. Evolutionary approaches have long been employed in agriculture and in conservation biology. But Darwin's reach now extends into forensic biology and the law, foreign affairs and national security. Applied evolution is both interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary.

Organelle and Molecular Targeting

Edited by Lara Scheherazade Milane, Northeastern University, Boston, MA USA and Mansoor M. Amiji, Northeastern University, Boston, MA USA

To be effective, drugs must be delivered to the target tissue or, better yet, the target organelles. A more specific target minimizes toxicity and side effects and maximizes therapeutic effect. This book is a comprehensive review of Organelle Targeting. There are no current resources that cover recent developments in drug delivery using organelle targeting methodology. With the tremendous recent advances in organelle targeting and drug delivery, this book would be an invaluable resource to scientists and students studying any aspect of drug delivery and has the potential to be a hallmark textbook for graduate students in pharmaceutical science.

Human Microanatomy

Cell Tissue and Organ Histology with Celebrity Medical Histories

Stephen A. Stricker, University of New Mexico, Department of Biology, NM, USA

Human Microanatomy is a comprehensive histology text that analyzes human structure and function from the subcellular to organ level of organization. In addition to emphasizing medically relevant information, each chapter considers developmental and evolutionary aspects of microanatomy while also using celebrity medical histories to help provide context for accompanying descriptions of normal histology. Each chapter also includes a preview, pictorial summary, and self-study quiz to help elucidate important concepts.

TEXTBOOK

Cell Boundaries

How Membranes and Their Proteins Work

Stephen H White, Gunnar von Heijne and Donald M Engelman, Professor of Molecular Biophysics and Biochemistry, Yale University, USA

The central themes of Cell Boundaries concern the structural and organizational principles underlying cell membranes, and how these principles enable function. By building a biological and biophysical foundation for understanding the organization of lipids in bilayers and the folding, assembly, stability, and function of membrane proteins, the book aims to broaden the knowledge of bioscience students to include the basic physics and physical chemistry that inform us about membranes.

Cell Boundaries was written with advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students in the biological and physical sciences in mind.

Evolution

The Origins and Mechanisms of Diversity

Jonathan Bard, Balliol College, University of Oxford, Oxfordshire, UK

This textbook is unique in describing both this history and the mechanisms of speciation at a level providing students the tools needed to read the research literature on evolution. Students will therefore learn about cladistics, molecular phylogenies, the molecular-genetical basis of evolutionary change including the important role of protein networks, symbionts and holobionts, together with the core principles of developmental biology. The book also includes introductory appendices that provide background knowledge on, for example, the diversity of life today, fossils, the geology of Earth and the history of evolutionary thought.

Plant Abiotic Stress Physiology

Tariq Aftab and Khalid Rehman Hakeem

Highlights the various innovative and emerging techniques and molecular applications that are currently being used in plant abiotic stress physiology. Volume 1: Responses and Adaptations focuses on the responses and adaptations of plants to stress factors at the cellular and molecular levels and offers a variety of advanced management strategies and technologies. Volume 2: Molecular Advancements introduces a range of state-of-the-art molecular advances for the mitigation of abiotic stress in plants.

Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals for Human Health

Advancements in Natural Wellness and Disease Prevention

Edited by Cristóbal Noé Aguilar and A. K. Haghi

This new volume provides important information on potential applications and new developments in functional health foods and nutraceuticals. It looks at health-promoting properties in functional foods and beverages as well as nutraceuticals. Some health issues that considered in conjunction with these foods and nutraceuticals include oxidative stress, obesity, pharyngitis, low cognitive concentration among others. Research topics include the antioxidant properties of certain products, the development of functional and medicinal beverages, nutraceuticals and functional foods for alternative therapies, and more.

Handbook of Research on Bioenergy and Biomaterials

Consolidated and Green Processes

Edited by Leopoldo Javier Ríos González, José Antonio Rodríguez-De La Garza, Miguel Ángel Medina Morales and Cristóbal Noé Aguilar

The handbook provides an understanding of consolidated processing and biorefinery systems for the production of bio-based chemicals and value-added bioproducts from renewable sources. The chapters look at a variety of bioenergy technological advances and improvements in the energy and materials sectors that aim to lower our dependence of fossil fuels and consequently reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. It will be valuable for the industrial sector, for researchers and scientists, as well as for faculty and advanced students.

The Notochord

Development, Evolution and contributions to the vertebral column

P. Eckhard Witten, Ghent University, Belgium and Brian K. Hall, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada

Series: Evolutionary Cell Biology

Although it is the defining organ of Chordates, the notochord is perhaps the least understood of vertebrate organs because it is usually considered a transient structure only present in early embryonic development. Most tetrapods replace the notochord with cartilaginous or bony vertebral bodies and remnants of the notochord persist as intra- or intervertebral spaces and intervertebral discs. The presence of cartilage in the notochord of some tetrapods raises further important questions on the evolutionary relationships between notochordal cells and cartilage cells. This book explores these patterns of relationships between the notochord and vertebral axial chondrogenesis.

Soil Management for Sustainable Agriculture

New Research and Strategies

Edited by Nintu Mandal, Abir Dey and Rajiv Rakshit

This book explores the various soil management techniques and the latest improvements in soil management. Taking a sustainable approach, the volume begins with an overview of the elementary concepts of soil management and then delves into new research and novel soil management tools and techniques. The recommendations and future research directions presented in this valuable book will be helpful to students, researchers, farmers, and policymakers from the disciplines of agronomy, soil science, and natural resource management around the world.

Biological and Chemical Hazards in Food and Food Products

Prevention, Practices, and Management

Edited by Santosh K. Mishra, Megh R. Goyal and Manju Gaare

Series: Innovations in Agricultural & Biological Engineering

This volume takes an in-depth look at various biological and chemical hazards in food and food products that pose health threats. It also outlines methods and practices for the diagnosis, prevention, and management of these hazards in food production processes. The new scientific research and case studies presented in the volume cover mycotoxins, foodborne pathogens, antibiotic residues from dairy animals, pesticide residues, the presence of heavy metals in food, and more. Chapters also address food allergy management and offer lessons and practices in food recall situations.

Nutraceutical Delivery Systems

Promising Strategies for Overcoming Delivery Challenges

Edited by Pankaj V. Dangre and Debarshi Kar Mahapatra

This book highlights the recent innovative work in nutraceutical delivery systems, focusing on strategies and approaches for delivering maximum health benefits from foods. The book presents recent research-oriented work from diverse global perspectives on isolation techniques for nutraceutical components, phytosomes, liposomes, solid dispersions, micelles, self-emulsifying drug delivery system (SEDDS), and more. It will be of high interest to faculty and students in this area as well as to medical staff, industry professionals, clinicians, paramedical staffs, clinical dieticians, nutraceutical experts, and a wide range of biological researchers.

The Glycome

Understanding the Diversity and Complexity of Glycobiology

Edited by Adeel Malik and Tanveer A. Dar

In this volume, the authors thoroughly deal with almost all aspects of the glycome, i.e., elucidation of the glycan identity enigma and its role in regulation of the cellular process and in disease etiology. It bridges the knowledge gap in understanding the glycome, from being a cell signature to its applications in disease etiology. In addition, it details many of the major insights regarding the possible role of the glycome in various diseases as a therapeutic marker. This book details state-of-the-art developments and emerging challenges of glycome biology, which are going to be key areas of future research, not only in the glycobiology field but also in pharmaceuticals.

Spatial Econometric Methods in Agricultural Economics Using R

Paolo Postiglione, University of Chieti-Pescara, Italy, Roberto Benedetti, University of Chieti-Pescara, Italy and Federica Piersimoni, Agricultural Statistical Service, Italy

The book describes methods and techniques of spatial data and its use in monitoring agricultural resources, farms management and regional markets. Spatial econometrics models for different data types relevant to statistical units adopted in typical agricultural economics analyses, are introduced. Real examples developed using R, are provided for each model. Readers can use these analyses on their own data. The book describes different phases of agricultural data collection, analysis and integration.

Sustainability in High-Excellence Italian Food and Wine

Laura Onofri

Series: Routledge Focus on Environment and Sustainability

This book presents contemporary case studies on selected Italian food and wine products, to explore how traditional production and consumption models address and adapt to the sustainability challenges in the Italian high excellence agri-food sector. Recommending that hybrid structures, such as cooperatives and consortia, are the most cost-minimizing governance structures for the production, the book highlights that in the case of Italian excellency food, environmental sustainability and economic efficiency are not actually traded off but are reciprocally valorized through the regulation of high-quality standards.

Nanotoxicology

Toxicity Evaluation of Nanomedicine Applications

Edited by Hemant Kumar Daima, Amity University Rajasthan, India, S. L. Kothari, Amity University Rajasthan, India and Bhargava Suresh Kumar, RMIT University, Australia

This book addresses the existing gaps between nanomedicine and nanotoxicity and brings together the incomplete knowledge on advances toward safe-by-design nanomaterials and existing toxicity challenges.

It delivers comprehensive coverage in the field with fundamental understanding, serving as a platform to convey essential concepts of nanotoxicology and how these concepts can be employed to develop advanced nanomaterials for a range of biomedical applications. This book is an effort to answer some of the thoughtful nanotoxicological complications and their auspicious probable solutions with new approaches and careful toxicity assessment.

Electronic Waste Recycling

Advances and Transformation into Functional Devices

Roberto Baca-Arroyo

This book presents accessible and organized literature on electronic waste recycling as an alternative route to engineering and realizing functional devices based on unusual material properties. It is a comprehensible study guide on the fundamentals of electronic waste usage and describes all aspects related to the state-of-the-art production and consumption cycles and the recycling of materials. The book explains the use of waste materials and the ways in which their unusual properties can be the basis of innovative devices for signal processing, sensing schemes, and reconfigurable operation.

Basic Laboratory Calculations for Biotechnology

Lisa A. Seidman, Madison College, WI, USA

To succeed in the lab, it is crucial to be comfortable with the math calculations that are part of everyday work. This accessible introduction to common laboratory techniques focuses on the basics, helping even readers with good math skills to practice the most frequently encountered types of problems. Discusses very common laboratory problems, all applied to real situations. Explores multiple strategies for solving problems for a better understanding of the underlying math. Includes hundreds of practice problems, all with solutions and many with boxed, complete explanations; plus hundreds of "story problems" relating to real situations in the lab.

Medical Devices for Pharmacy and Other Healthcare Professions

Edited by Ahmed Ibrahim Fathelrahman, Mohamed Izzam Mohamed Ibrahim and Albert I. Wertheimer

This comprehensive review of devices that pharmacists and pharmacy personnel use on a daily basis is presented here and covers various working settings from hospitals, community pharmacies, industry and quality assurance to regulatory bodies, academia and research institutes. Devices needed for special pharmaceutical services such as drug information, residential care homes and primary care based with GPs, pharmacy-based smoking cessation services, pharmacy-based anticoagulant services, pain management and terminal care, are discussed.

Toxicology for the Health and Pharmaceutical Sciences

Edited by Antonio Peña-Fernández, De Montfort University, Faculty of Health & Life Sciences Leicester, UK, Mark D. Evans, De Montfort University, Leicester, UK and Marcus S. Cooke, Department of Cell Biology, Microbiology, and Molecular Biology, University of South Florida

This book covers the fundamentals and recent developments in toxicology, to respond to local and global chemical, pharmaceutical and environmental threats. Chapters are specifically designed to support the understanding of the most current, toxicology-related subjects for any undergraduate/postgraduate health programmes, as well as aiding with the delivery of continuing professional development training on up-to-date topics in toxicology for current practicing health professionals wishing to improve their knowledge in toxicology. The book is also vital reading for policy makers, and others that influence and decide regulations that have an impact on the environment, and human health.

Drug Delivery Using Nanomaterials

Edited by Yasser Shahzad, Lahore, Pakistan, Syed A.A. Rizvi, Hampton University School of Pharmacy, USA, Abid Mehmood Yousaf, Lahore, Pakistan and Talib Hussain, Lahore, Pakistan

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

Designing suitable formulations to safely deliver the optimum drug dose, while avoiding side effects, is a constant challenge. With advances in synthetic technologies, nanoparticles can be custom made from variety of advanced materials to mimic the bioenvironment and equipped with various targeting and imaging moieties. This book covers advances in the field of nanoparticle-based drug delivery systems, along with the aspects needed for a successful and marketable nano-formulation. This reference is aimed at Materials Engineers, Pharmaceutical Engineers, Chemical Engineers, Chemists, Biomedical Engineers, and others working on advanced drug delivery, from academia as well as industry.

Numerical Modeling of COVID-19 Neurological Effects

ODE/PDE Analysis in R

William Schiesser

This book focuses on a mathematical model describing a reduction in oxygen (O_2) to the brain resulting from the impaired respiratory function of the lungs caused by COVID-19. The dynamics of blood flow along the brain capillaries and tissue are modeled as systems of ordinary and partial differential equations (ODE/PDEs). The book is intended as a basic introduction for graduate students and faculty in biophysics, biochemistry, mathematical biology, biomedical engineering, applied mathematics, numerical analysis, and computer science.

2nd Edition • NEW EDITION

Forensic Neuropathology

Edited by Helen Whitwell, Emeritus Professor of Forensic Pathology, Sheffield University, United Kingdom, Christopher Milroy, MBChB MD LLB FRCPath FFFLM FRCPC DMJ is Professor of Forensic Pathology at The Medico-Legal Centre, University of Sheffield, Sheffield, UK and Daniel du Plessis, Salford Royal NHS Trust

Forensic Neuropathology is written by experts for specialists and trainees alike and succeeds in addressing the concerns of the forensic pathologist and the neuropathologist by tackling the overlapping problems that arise during the postmortem examination and subsequent legal proceedings. Totally updated and revised, the new edition contains many new chapters, including much more information on non-accidental injury in pediatric cases, alcohol, sudden death, imaging, sports and transportation injury, long term effects of chronic brain injury and anoxal death.

Manual of Forensic Taphonomy

Edited by James T. Pokines, Boston University School of Medicine, Massachusetts, USA, Ericka N. L'Abbe and Steven A. Symes, Mercyhurst College, Erie, Pennsylvania, USA

The Manual of Forensic Taphonomy, Second Edition serves a go-to reference on forensic taphonomy—the actual modifications to an individual bone or assemblage of bones. Contributing experts present core principles on a topic-by-topic basis addressing what one may encounter during case analysis. Chapters categorizes such alterations to skeletal remains, explaining their significance, and demonstrating how to differentially diagnose among them where possible. Such observations can aid forensic investigators, providing case-relevant data as to effects from the local environment, and what happened to those remains in the interval from death to analysis

Natural Food Products and Waste Recovery

Healthy Foods, Nutrition Design, and Extraction of Valuable Compounds

Edited by Elizabeth Carvajal-Millan, Abu Zahrim Yaser and A. K. Haghi

Addresses important issues in the design of functional and nutraceuticals, extraction of essential compounds, and food waste management. Looks at uses and regulations of functional foods and ingredients, supplements, nutraceuticals, and superfoods; informatics and methods in nutrition design and development; and molecular modeling techniques in food and nutrition development. The volume goes on to address properties, microstructural characteristics, and extraction techniques of bioactive compounds. Chapters also cover the use of artificial intelligence and machine learning in food waste management, mitigation, and reuse strategies for food waste.

Good Practice Guide

Professionalism at Work

Richard Brindley

With a focus on professional judgement, this book is a personal guide on how to be a self-aware and successful practitioner, aspiring to best practice. It will give you the confidence to create meaningful industry connections and handle contractual disputes, insurance and negligence claims while maintaining a high standard of conduct. By paying attention to business planning, financial processes, good management and effective communication, it will help you to protect your practice's reputation and increase profitability and cashflow. Ultimately, it will enable you to not only avoid professional pitfalls but to benefit from positive working relationships.

Appropriated Interiors

Edited by Deborah Schneiderman, Pratt Institute, USA, Anca I. Lasc, Associate Prof., Pratt Institute and Karin Tehve, Pratt Institute, USA

Appropriated Interiors uncovers the ways interiors participate explicitly and implicitly in embedded cultural and societal values and explores timely emergent scholarship in the fields of interior design history, theory and practice.

An informative read for students and scholars of design history and theory, this collection considers the standards, assumptions, codes and/or conventions that need to be dismantled and how we can expand our understanding of the history, theory and practice of interior design to challenge the status quo.

Modern Apartment Design

Edited by Guy Marriage, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

The book provides guidelines to the design of modern apartment buildings as well as a summation of current cutting-edge practice in engineered timber construction. It covers a brief history of apartment buildings around the world, a broad outline of different types of apartment blocks, and a strong focus on the design and actual construction of apartment buildings. It also features six Case Study chapters from industry-leading practitioners in the area, enabling best practice in architecture and engineering of these new apartment building types to be more widely understood and propagated worldwide.

The book will be of great interest to architects and architecture students.

Building Meaning

An Architecture Studio Primer on Design, Theory, and History

Tamara Metz

Building Meaning: An Architecture Studio Primer on Design, Theory, and History is an essential introduction to the complex relationship between form making, historical analysis, and conceptual explorations.

The ideal book for beginning and intermediate architecture students, it gives specific methods to apply in the studio to make the most of the design process, as well as focused exercises to creatively explore each concept presented. Illustrated with over 200 color images, it enables readers to engage and understand critically the genesis of architectural ideas and their role in our social and cultural experience.

Architecture of Threshold Spaces

A Critique of the Ideologies of Hyperconnectivity and Segregation in the Socio-Political Context

Laurence Kimmel, University of New South Wales, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

Building on an existing body of literature, the book engages with critical philosophy and discusses how it can be applied to architecture. In a similar vein to Walter Benjamin's descriptions of the Parisian Arcades in the 19th century, the book identifies the conditions under which thresholds reveal and impact social life. It utilises a wide range of illustrated international case studies from architects in Japan, Norway, Finland, France, Portugal, Italy, USA, Australia, Mexico, and Brazil. Within the examples, thresholds become enhancers of social interactions and highlight broader socio-political contexts in public and private space.

Mexico City's Zócalo

A History of a Constructed Spatial Identity

Benjamin A. Bross

Series: Routledge Research in Architectural History

This book presents a case study of one of Latin America's most important and symbolic spaces, the Zócalo in Mexico City, weaving together historic events and corresponding morphological changes in the urban environment. It poses questions about how the identity of a place emerges; how it evolves and, why does it change? Mexico City's Zócalo: A History of a Constructed Spatial Identity utilizes the history of a specific place, the Zócalo (Plaza de la Constitución), to explain the emergence and evolution of Mexican identities over time. It will be a fascinating read for architectural and urban historians investigating Latin America.

Outdoor Lighting for Pedestrians

A Guide for Safe and Walkable Places

Frank Markowitz

Outdoor Lighting for Pedestrians shows how outdoor lighting is important for pedestrians' safety, personal security, and comfort, with major impacts on street, path, and park aesthetics and neighborhood sense of place. This book is aimed primarily at practicing transportation planners and engineers, generalist urban planners, safety advocates and researchers, and university students. However, lighting designers and other professionals will also find it useful. It considers how lighting can be coordinated with other potential improvements to enhance the pedestrian environment for better walkability.

Why Cities Need Large Parks

Large Parks in Large Cities

Edited by Richard Murray

The large parks and green infrastructure presented here illustrate the diverse uses and many benefits of large urban parks across 30 major cities. At a time when we are seriously reconsidering how we live in cities and our urban quality of life, while also grappling with serious challenges of climate change, the authors of this book detail the much-needed evidence, pathways and vision for a future of more liveable, resilient cities where large urban parks are at the core. This book will help park managers, NGOs, landscape architects, and city planners to develop the green city of the future.

Planning for the Common Good

Mick Lennon

Series: RTPI Library Series

This book proposes that the common good should not be conceived as something pre-existing and 'out there' to be identified and applied, or something simply produced through the correct configuration of democracy. Instead, it is contended that the common good must be perceived as something 'in here', which is known by engagement with the complexities of a context through employing the interpretive tools supplied to one by the moral dimensions of the life in which one is inevitably embedded.

The Comprehensive Plan

Sustainable, Resilient, and Equitable Communities for the 21st Century

David Rouse and Rocky Piro

Series: APA Planning Essentials

Drawing on the latest research and best practice examples, The Comprehensive Plan provides an in-depth resource for planning practitioners, elected officials, citizens, and others seeking to develop effective, impactful comprehensive plans, grounded in authentic community engagement, as a pathway to sustainability. Based on standards developed by the American Planning Association to provide a national benchmark for sustainable comprehensive planning, this book provides detailed guidance on the substance, process, and implementation of comprehensive plans that address the critical challenges facing communities in the 21st century.

Sustainable Infrastructure for Cities and Societies

Michael Neuman

Sustainable Infrastructure for Cities and Societies shows how fundamental planning, design, finance, and governance principles can be adapted for sustainable infrastructure to provide solutions to make cities significantly more sustainable. By providing a contemporary overview on infrastructure, cities, planning, economics, and sustainability, the book addresses how to plan, design, finance, and manage infrastructure in ways that reduce consumption and harmful impacts while maintaining and improving life quality. This approach gives the book wide appeal for students, researchers, and practitioners hoping to build a more sustainable world.

Qualitative Research Methods for Community Development

Robert Mark Silverman, University at Buffalo, New York, USA and Kelly L. Patterson, University at Buffalo, New York, USA

The second edition of Qualitative Research Methods for Community Development teaches the basic skills, tools, and methods of qualitative research with special attention to the needs of community practitioners.

From housing, community organizing, neighborhood planning, and urban revitalization, this book gives students the skills they need to undertake their own projects and provides professionals a valuable reference for their future research. Qualitative Research Methods for Community Development serves as a primary text for courses in applied qualitative research, and as a reference book for professionals and community-based researchers.

Megacity Mobility

Integrated Urban Transportation Development and Management

Zongzhi Li, Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, USA, Adrian T. Moore, Reason Foundation, USA and Samuel R. Staley, Florida State University, USA

Economic prosperity and increasing travel demand, with a much slower pace of transportation system expansion in the world's largest cities, have led to the degradation of mobility performance. Megacity Mobility examines passenger and freight mobility in a multimodal context, seeking innovative short- and long-term solutions in urban transportation planning, travel demand management, multimodal integrated capacity expansion, efficient capacity utilization, and innovative financing and optimal budget allocation in support of long-run urban mobility. It provides a road map for achieving sustainable mobility in the 21st century.

Victorian Cemeteries and the Suburbs of London

Spatial Consequences to the Reordering of London's Burials in the Early 19th Century

Gian Luca Amadei

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

This book explores how Victorian cemeteries were the direct result of the socio-cultural, economic, and political context of the city, and were part of a unique transformation process that emerged in London at the time. The book shows how the re-ordering of the city's burial spaces, along with the principles of health and hygiene, were directly associated with liberal capital investments, which had consequences in the spatial arrangement of London.

Creating a Strategic Energy Reduction Plan

Scott Offermann

This book provides a simple, easily followed process for auditing building operations to identify and reduce energy consumption that leads to measurable carbon reduction. The crucial steps of this process involve assessing the facility's current conditions, understanding, and analyzing the operational and cost-based opportunities that increase carbon output. Taking this information to reporting the findings and then documenting a multiyear energy and carbon reduction plan. The four-step process described in this book will serve as a valuable tool for every building operator seeking to improve energy performance and reduce carbon output.

Sustainable Urban Futures in Africa

Edited by Michael Addaney and Patrick Cobbinah

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

Sustainable Urban Futures in Africa provides theoretical frameworks to inform understandings and responses to critical urban development issues such as urbanisation, climate change, housing/slum, informality, urban sprawl, urban ecosystem services and urban poverty within the context of the sustainable development goals in Africa.

It provides support for the SDGs in urban Africa, and will be of interest to students and researchers, professionals and policymakers, and readers of urban studies, spatial planning, geography, governance and other social sciences.

The Routledge Handbook of Sustainable Cities and Landscapes in the Pacific Rim

Edited by Yizhao Yang, University of Oregon, United States of America and Anne Taufen

Series: Routledge Environment and Sustainability Handbooks

This handbook addresses a growing list of challenges faced by regions and cities in the Pacific Rim, drawing connections around the what, why, and how questions that are fundamental to sustainable development policies and planning practices. These include the connection between cities and surrounding landscapes, across different boundaries and scales; the persistence of environmental and development inequities. The sections focus on a theme or dimension that carry critical impacts on a holistic vision of city-landscape development, such as resilient communities, ecosystem services and biodiversity, energy, water, health, and planning and engagement.

The Science of Waste

Frank R. Spellman, Spellman Environmental Consultants, Norfolk, Virginia, USA

Waste can be defined as something no longer wanted, something destroyed, broken, or damaged beyond repair and therefore disposed of or simply thrown away because it is no longer functional, needed, or wanted. However, the focus of this book turns to the question: is waste always really a waste? Stated differently, waste is not a waste if it can be recycled in some form or the other. This book examines all types of waste and their impacts, and discusses the potential ways to mitigate them through recycling and reuse strategies.

Bifurcation and Buckling in Structures

Kiyohiro Ikeda, Tohoku University, Japan and Kazuo Murota, Tokyo Metropolitan University, Japan

This textbook describes theory and analysis of bifurcation and buckling in structures. Emphasis is placed on a general procedure for solving nonlinear governing equations and an analysis procedure related to finite-element method. It presents fundamentals issues such as the general mathematical framework for bifurcation and buckling, procedures for the buckling load/mode analyses, and numerical analysis procedures to trace the solution curves and switch to bifurcation solutions. It also explores buckling of perfect and imperfect structures. It is ideal for undergraduate and graduate students in engineering and applied mathematics.

Geotechnical Characteristics of Soils and Rocks of India

Edited by Sanjay Kumar Shukla, School of Engineering, Edith Cowan University, Perth, Australia

This book presents the geotechnical details of geomaterials found in all the 36 states and union territories of India. It covers practical information and technical data for application in ground infrastructure projects, including foundations of structures, highway, railway and airport pavements, embankments, retaining structures/walls, dams, reservoirs, canals and ponds, landfills and tunnels. These details are useful for professionals dealing with mining, oil and gas projects, agricultural and aquacultural engineering projects. Though this book covers the Indian ground characteristics, it can be helpful to professionals of other countries with similar ground conditions and applications.

Optimal Reliability-Based Design of Structures Against Several Natural Hazards

Alfredo H-S Ang, University of California University of California, Irvine University of California, Irvine, USA, David de Leon Escobedo, Universidad Autonoma del Estado de Mexico and Wenliang Fan

Interest in the topic of structural reliability and optimal design has been rapidly growing in recent years. Recently, the PDEM (probability density evolution method) was proposed by Prof. Jie Li as an alternative to obtain the stochastic and dynamic solution of the safety level of engineering systems under any kind of hazard. The proposed work deals with the application of this powerful method to derive optimal design recommendations for large engineering systems under natural hazards. The three case studies illustrate to engineers and academic specialists how to strike a cost-effective balance in designing such systems.

Position Paper Dam Safety and Earthquakes

Series: ICOLD Bulletins Series

This position paper deals with the seismic safety of large dams, based on experiences with large earthquakes in Japan (Tohoku earthquake, 2011, Richter magnitude 9.0), China (Wenchuan earthquake, 2008, Richter magnitude 8.0) and Chile (Maule earthquake, 2010, Richter magnitude 8.8). It presents ways to prevent key aspects of large dam failure under severe seismic conditions with a focus on design instead of on earthquake prediction. This is done by considering the prevention of uncontrolled rapid release of water of a storage dam under full reservoir conditions in relation to expected seismic conditions.

The Routledge Handbook of Waste Studies

Edited by Zsuzsa Gille and Josh Lepawsky

Series: Routledge Environment and Sustainability Handbooks

This handbook offers a comprehensive survey of the new field of waste studies, critically interrogating the cultural, social, economic and political systems within which waste is created, managed and circulated. This book explores the research questions, methods and case studies preoccupying academics working in this field, in an attempt to develop a set of criteria by which to define and understand waste studies as an interdisciplinary field of study. This handbook will be invaluable to those wishing to broaden their understanding of waste studies and to students and practitioners of geography, sociology, anthropology, history, environment and sustainability studies.

The Secrets to Construction Business Success

Thomas C. Schleifer and Mounir El Asmar

The Secrets to Construction Business Success empowers construction professionals to defy the long odds threatening their survival. Drawing on the authors' more than eight decades of combined experience turning around failing firms, this manual provides a masterclass in structuring, managing, and futureproofing a construction business. Chapters on measuring and responding to dips in revenue equip executives to recognize and respond to the warning signs of financial distress while chapters on succession planning ensure that organizations survive their founders' departures.

Industry 4.0 Solutions for Building Design and Construction

A Paradigm of New Opportunities

Farzad Pour Rahimian, University of Strathclyde, UK, Jack Steven Goulding, Northumbria University, UK, Sepehr Abrishami, University of Portsmouth, UK, Saleh Seyedzadeh and Faris Elghaish

This book provides in-depth results and case studies in innovation from actual work undertaken in collaboration with industry partners in Architecture, Engineering and Construction (AEC). Scientific advances and innovative technologies in the sector are key to shaping the changes emerging as a result of Industry 4.0. This book is a timely and relevant synthesis of a number of cogent subjects underpinning the paradigm shift needed for the AEC industry and is essential reading for all involved in the sector. It is particularly suited for use on Masters level programs in Architecture, Engineering and Construction.

Edited by Pravat Kumar Shit, Vidyasagar Univ., India, Pulakesh Das, Balbir Saxena Marg, India, Gouri Sankar Bhunia, Gorachand Bhunia, India and Dipanwita Dutta, Vidyasagar Uni., India

The wide range of challenges in studying Earth system dynamics due to uncertainties in climate change and man-made interference are causing problems in managing the sustainable use of land and water resources. This book brings together real-world case studies accurately surveyed and assessed through spatial modeling and focuses on the effectiveness of combining remote sensing, GIS, and R. The use of open source software for different spatial modeling cases in various fields, along with the use of remote sensing and GIS, helps researchers, students, and practitioners to better understand the phenomena and the prediction of future analyses for problem solving and decision making.

Introduction to Ocean Circulation and Modeling

Avijit Gangopadhyay

Introduction to Ocean Circulation and Modeling provide basics for physical oceanography. Covering ocean properties, ocean circulations and their modeling, the book is divided into two parts explaining concepts of oceanic circulation, geostrophy, Ekman, Sverdrup dynamics, Stommel and Munk problems, two-layer dynamics, stratification, thermal and salt diffusion, concepts of vorticity/instability, and so forth. Second part highlights basic implementation framework for ocean models, discussion of different models, and their unique differences from the common framework with basin-scale modeling, regional modeling, and interdisciplinary modeling at different space and time scales.

Biomethane through Resource Circularity

Research, Technology and Practices

Edited by Sadhan Kumar Ghosh, Jadavpur Univ., Michael Nelles, H.N. Chanakya and Debendra Chandra Baruah

Series: The Circular Economy in Sustainable Solid and Liquid Waste Management

This book is an invaluable resource for researchers, policy makers, implementers and PhD and Masters level students in universities analyzing the present status, waste biomass including agro wastes, success in experimentation & commercial production, future needs and other relevant areas. While huge biomass is wasted by open burning, there is potential of energy generation that can be extracted from the biomass preventing GHG emission and creating business opportunities.

This book addresses most of the above issues in lucid manner by experts in the field from different countries which are helpful for the related stakeholders edited by experts in the field.

Edited by Narendra Kumar, Forest Research Institute Dehradun, India, Hukum Singh, Forest Research Institute, India and Amit Kumar, Forest Ecology and Climate Change Division, India

Renewable Energy and Green Technology: Principles and Practices emerge as per the present need to understand the principles and utility of renewable energy and green technology to minimize dependency on fossil fuels in global development. Renewable energy is the best and cheap source of energy as an alternate resource. There is a massive potential for renewable energy globally, including in India. The efficient utilization of renewable energy resources could minimize the impact of climate change globally. This book promotes the exchange of

Sandwich Structural Composites

Theory and Practice

Wenguang Ma, Elkhart, USA and Russell Elkin, Greensboro, USA

This book offers comprehensive coverage sandwich structural composites. It describes structure, properties, characterization, and testing of raw materials. In addition, it discusses design and process methods and applications of sandwich structural composites. The book will be of benefit to industrial practitioners, researchers, academic faculty, and advanced students looking to advance their understanding of these increasingly important materials.

Data-Driven Model-Free Controllers

Radu-Emil Precup, Raul-Cristian Roman and Ali Safaei

This book categorizes the wide area of data-driven model-free controllers, reveals the exact benefits of such controllers, gives the in-depth theory and mathematical proofs behind them, and finally discusses their applications. Each chapter includes a section for presenting the theory and mathematical definitions of one of the above mentioned algorithms. The second section of each chapter is dedicated to the examples and applications of the corresponding control algorithms in practical engineering problems. This can be considered as a textbook for undergraduate and postgraduate students, as well as a professional reference for industrial and academic researchers.

Decision-Making in Energy Systems

Vivek D. Bhise, University of Michigan - Dearborn, USA

This is a comprehensive book on how to make complex decisions on energy systems problems involving different technologies, environmental effects, costs, benefits, risks, and safety issues. This book uses Industrial and Systems Engineering techniques for decision making in Energy Systems. The book provides the background knowledge and methods to incorporate multiple criteria involved in solving energy system problems. It offers methods, examples, and case studies illustrating applications.

Rail Vehicle Mechatronics

Maksym Spiryagin, Central Queensland University, Rockhampton, Australia, Stefano Bruni, Christopher Bosomworth, Peter Wolfs, Central Queensland University, AUSTRALIA and Colin Cole

Series: Ground Vehicle Engineering

Mechatronic systems are a key element in modern rail vehicle design and operation. Starting with an overview of mechatronic theory, the book goes on to cover topics including modeling of mechanical and electrical systems for rail vehicles, open and closed loop control systems, sensors, actuators and microprocessors. Modern simulation techniques and examples are included throughout, and numerical experiments and developed models for railway application are presented and explained. Case studies are used, alongside practical examples, to ensure that the reader can apply mechatronic theory to real world conditions.

Aircraft Design Concepts

James DeLaurier

Aircraft Design Concepts: An Introductory Course introduces the principles of aircraft design through a quantitative approach developed from the author's extensive experience in teaching aircraft design. Building on prerequisite courses, the text develops basic design skills and methodologies, while also explaining the underlying physics. Written for senior undergraduate and graduate students taking a single-semester course on Aircraft Design or Aircraft Performance, the book imparts both the technical knowledge and creativity needed for aircraft design. It addresses conventional tail-aft monoplanes, "flying-wing", biplane, and canard configurations.

Aircraft Digital Electronic and Computer Systems

Mike Tooley, Brooklands College, UK

This text is a thorough introduction to the principles and practice of aircraft digital electronic, avionic and computer systems. It particularly suits maintenance engineer students on an EASA Part-66 or FAR-147 approved course, and those on related City & Guilds, National or Higher National Units, or First/Foundation degree courses in aircraft engineering and similar. New topics in this third edition include integrated modular avionics, cabin systems, and aircraft information systems; together with examples from the latest Airbus and Boeing systems, and updates to data buses and integrated circuits. The companion website www.66web.co.uk offers additional resource material.

Applied Strength of Materials

Robert L. Mott, University of Dayton, Ohio, USA and Joseph A. Untener, University of Dayton, USA

Introducing the theoretical background of the subject, with a strong visual component, the book equips the reader with problem-solving techniques. The updated seventh edition incorporates new technologies, with a pedagogical approach. It emphasizes realistic engineering applications for the analysis and design of structural members.

A "Big Picture" section starts each chapter to help students grasp the overall objectives and their application in industrial applications. Step-by-step problem-solving approaches are included throughout the book. While calculus is used sparingly, detailed developments of important design-related formulas are provided.

A Brief Introduction

Anthony F. Bainbridge, University of Bath, UK

Engineering professionals face a duty to uphold reliable and trustworthy behaviour when working across all disciplines and industries. Accuracy and rigour are essential parts of the modern workplace, and are increasingly of concern to practicing engineers. Using case studies to highlight examples of issues within the workplace and how these can be appropriately handled, this book is an accessible tool through which engineers can gain confidence in dealing with ethical dilemmas.

Mechatronic Systems I

Applications in Transport, Logistics, Diagnostics and Control

Edited by Waldemar Wójcik, Lublin University of Technology, Poland, Sergii Pavlov, Lublin University of Technology, Poland and Maksat Kalimoldayev, Lublin University of Technology, Poland

The subject of the first volume are the issues related to the components and systems of transport machines. Tests of motor vehicle systems are described: suspension dampers, steering, brakes, differentials. Design issues of machine elements operating in extreme conditions are also addressed. An extensive part covers the dynamics of hydraulic, electro-hydraulic and mechanical-hydraulic systems and the issues of diagnostics and automatic control in such systems. The volume also examines selected technical and economic issues of gas transport. Topics of modelling of production processes with the transport of products are a complement.

Machine Learning in Signal Processing

Applications, Challenges, and Road Ahead

Edited by Sudeep Tanwar, Nirma University, Ahmednagar, India, Anand Nayyar, Duy Tan University, Viet Nam and Rudra Rameshwar, Thapar Institute of Engineering and Technology, Patiala, India

Machine Learning in Signal Processing: Applications, Challenges and Road Ahead offers a comprehensive approach towards research orientation for familiarising 'signal processing (SP)' concepts to machine learning (ML).

Machine Learning (ML), as the driving force of the wave of Artificial Intelligence (AI), provides powerful solutions to many real-world technical and scientific challenges. This book will present the most recent and exciting advances in signal processing for Machine Learning (ML).

The focus is on understanding the contributions of signal processing and ML and its aim to solve some of the Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML) challenges.

Energy Management

Big Data in Power Load Forecasting

Edited by Valentin A. Boicea, University of Bucharest, Romania

This book introduces the principle of carrying out a medium term load forecast (MTLF) at power system level, based on the Big Data concept and Convolutionary Neural Network (CNNs). It also presents further research directions in the field of Deep Learning techniques and Big Data, as well as how these two concepts are used in power engineering. The book will be of interest to electrical engineers, power engineers, and energy services professionals. Efficient processing and accuracy of Big Data in the load forecast in power engineering leads to a significant improvement in the consumption pattern of the client and, implicitly, a better consumer awareness.

3rd Edition - NEW EDITION

Phosphor Handbook

Experimental Methods for Phosphor Evaluation and Characterization

Edited by Ru-Shi Liu, National Taiwan University, Taiwan, and Xiaojun Wang, Georgia Southern University, USA.

Completely revised, updated, and expanded into three separate volumes, this third edition of the Handbook covers the most recent developments in phosphor research, characterization, and applications. This volume on 'Experimental Methods for Phosphor Evaluation and Characterization' addresses the theoretical and experimental methods for phosphor evaluation and characterization. The chapters in the book cover first principle and DFT analysis of optical, structural, and chemical properties of phosphors, phosphor design and tuning through structure and solid solution, phosphor analysis through photoionization, high pressure and synchrotron radiation studies.

Electric Discharge Hybrid-Machining Processes

Fundamentals and Applications

Edited by Basil Kuriachen, NIT Calicut, India, Jose Mathew, NIT Calicut, India and Uday Shanker Dixit, IIT Guwahati, India

Among the non-conventional hybrid machining methods, electric discharge machining (EDM) is a thermal energy based non-conventional machining process, in which material is removed due to the repetitive controlled electric sparks produced between tool and work piece. This book provides a comprehensive coverage of various hybrid EDM processes along with working principle, process capabilities, applications, advantages, limitations, current research trend, and future scopes for research of each of the processes. It also includes EDM based Hybrid Processes currently prevalent in industries and in queue for adaptation by industries as well.

Lubrication Degradation

Getting into the Root Causes

Sanya Mathura, Strategic Reliability Solutions Ltd. and Robert J. Latino, Principal, Prelical Solutions, LLC.

Series: Reliability, Maintenance, and Safety Engineering

This book combines the topics of Root Cause Analysis (RCA) and Lubrication Degradation Mechanisms with the goal to allow the reader to develop the thought process for getting to the root causes of each of the degradation mechanisms and apply this thought process to other areas within their facility to mitigate or eliminate any future reoccurrence.

Systems Engineering

Holistic Life Cycle Architecture Modeling and Design with Real-World Applications

Sandra Furterer, University of Dayton, OH

This book provides a guide for systems engineering modeling and design and focus on the design lifecycle with tools and application-based examples of how to design a system, focusing on incorporating systems principles and tools to ensure system integration. It provides a product-based and a service system example to understand the models, tools and activities to be applied to design and implement a system. The first section explains systems principles, models and architecture for systems engineering, lifecycle models and the systems architecture. Further sections explain systems design, development and deployment lifecycle with applications and tools and advanced systems engineering topics.

Deep Learning and IoT in Healthcare Systems

Paradigms and Applications

Edited by Krishna Kant Singh, Akansha Singh, Jenn-Wei Lin and Ahmed A. Elngar

This new volume discusses the applications and challenges of deep learning and the internet of things for applications in healthcare. It describes deep learning techniques along with IoT used by practitioners and researchers worldwide. The authors look at the role and impact that deep learning and the IoT plays in healthcare systems, such as the convergence of IoT and deep learning to enable things to communicate, share information, and coordinate decisions. The book includes deep feedforward networks, regularization, optimization algorithms, convolutional networks, sequence modeling, and practical methodology.

Edited by Devarajan Thangadurai, Karnatak University, India, Saher Islam, University of Veterinary and Animal Sciences, Punjab, Pakistan and Charles Oluwaseun Adetunji, Edo State University Uzairue, Nigeria

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

Viral and Antiviral Nanomaterials summarizes the synthesis, properties, characterization, and application of viral and antiviral nanomaterials by using interdisciplinary subject matters ranging from materials science to biomedical science. This book highlights attainments in utilizing nanomaterials as powerful tools for the treatment of viral infections in plants, animals, and human beings. It reviews the adopted strategies for designing viral and antiviral nanomaterials for medical applications including cancer therapy and drug delivery.

Polymer-Silica Based Composites in Sustainable Construction

Theory, Preparation and Characterizations

Harrison Shagwira, Fredrick Madaraka Mwema, Dedan Kimathi University of Technology, Kenya and Thomas Ochuku Mbuya, University of Nairobi, Kenya.

The book presents the preparation and characterization of a novel silica-polymer composite including moulding, preparation, and characterization for application in the construction industry. It also includes characterization of prepared materials to ascertain mechanical, chemical, and physical properties and analyses results obtained using similar methods. Topics such as life cycle analysis of plastics, application of plastics in construction and elimination of plastic wastes are also discussed. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in civil engineering, built environment, construction materials, and materials science.

Mineral-Filled Polymer Composites

Selection, Processing, and Applications

Edited by Hanafi Ismail, Universiti Sains Malaysia, Malaysia, S.M. Sapuan, Universiti Putra, Malaysia and R.A. Ilyas, Universiti Teknologi Malaysia, Malaysia

Mineral-filled polymer composites are increasingly used for various applications, including automotive, construction, biomedical, maritime, sport, and ballistic, owing to the advantages of low cost, light weight, excellent rigidity, and high mechanical strength. One of two volumes comprising the Mineral-Filled Polymer Composites Handbook, this volume provides an overview of the latest research, applications, and future directions of advanced mineral fiber-reinforced polymer composites. It focuses specifically on material selection, processing, and applications. This book is aimed at researchers, advanced students, and industry professionals working in materials science and engineering.

5G Impact on Biomedical Engineering

Wireless Technologies Applications

Edited by Abdallah Makhoul, Jacques Demerjian and Jacques Bou Abdo

Series: Prospects in Biomedical Engineering and Applications

Considering the importance of wireless networks in healthcare, this book is dedicated to studying the innovations and advancements of wireless networks for biomedical application and their impact. This book focuses on a wide range of wireless technologies related to healthcare and biomedical applications which include, among others, body sensor networks, mobile networks, internet of things, mobile cloud computing, pervasive computing and wearable computing. This book targets research-oriented and professional readers. It would fit as a recommended supplemental reading for graduate students. It also helps researchers enter the field of wireless biomedical applications.

Boiler Operator's Handbook

Carl Buzzuto

With the increased interest in climate impacts, sustainability, and efficiency more responsibility is being placed on boiler operators to help improve performance and reduce emissions. This 3rd edition of the Boiler Operator's Handbook is intended to help such operators in the quest for improved operability and performance of their boilers and their plants. The theme of this book is to "operate wisely". The goal is to instill not only "know how" but "know why". The main details have been provided by the original author, Mr. Ken Heselton. This updated version has been somewhat expanded to include a wider range of examples and some of the more recent environmental requirements.

Control Strategies of Permanent Magnet Synchronous Motor Drive for Electric Vehicle

Chiranjit Sain, Siliguri Institute of Technology, India., Atanu Banerjee, National Institute of Technology, Meghalaya, India. and Pabitra Kumar Biswas, NIT MIZORAM, INDIA.

Series: Control Theory and Applications

This book demonstrates the development of various control strategies and illustration of dynamic performance intensification of a Permanent Magnet Synchronous Motor (PMSM) drive. For the satisfactory as well as energy-efficient operation of a typical electric drive system, control strategy plays a challenging role. Additionally, to ensure the faster dynamic behaviour and flexibility in control under various operating conditions, performance of a PMSM drive has been investigated in this monograph. Finally, control strategies have been executed through mathematical modelling and illustration of several case-studies for optimal operation is also included.

Electrical Engineering for Non-Electrical Engineers

S. Bobby Rauf

Engineers and non-engineers often eschew electrical engineering because it is premised on concepts and mathematical techniques that are somewhat more abstract and elusive than those employed in disciplines like civil, mechanical, and industrial engineering. Engineers and non-engineers find themselves interfacing with electrical apparatus and dealing with matters that permeate into the electrical realm. Therein lies the purpose and objective of this book. This edition includes numerous updated pictures, diagrams, tables, charts, graphs, and improved explanation of certain concepts.

Functional Nanomaterials for Regenerative Tissue Medicines

Edited by Mariappan Rajan, School of Chemistry, India
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book covers nanomaterials in tissue engineering for regenerative therapies of heart, skin, eye, skeletal muscle, and the nervous system. It emphasizes fundamental design concepts and emerging forms of nanomaterials in soft and hard tissue engineering. This book is essential for academics and industry professionals working in tissue engineering, biomedicine, biopharmaceuticals, and nanotechnology. It is primarily intended for materials researchers (to develop the platforms related to tissue regeneration), as well as clinicians (to learn and apply nanomaterials in their practice) and industrial scientists (to develop the commercial blood substitute products).

Overcurrent Protection NEC Article 240 and Beyond

Gregory P. Bierals

This book has a detailed analysis of several types of faults, along with explanations and examples of the various types of overcurrent protective devices to assure proper protection. This volume has extensive information on the application of overcurrent protection for conductors and equipment. The reader will be able to calculate fault currents as well as establishing the short-circuit withstand rating of conductor insulation and to determine the appropriate type of overcurrent devices based on circuit conditions.

Principles of Verilog Digital Design

Wen-Long Chin

Covering both the fundamentals and the in-depth topics related to Verilog Digital Design, both students and experts can benefit from reading this book by gaining a comprehensive understanding of how modern electronic products are designed and implemented. This book contains many hands-on examples accompanied by RTL codes that together can bring a beginner into the digital design realm without needing too much background in the subject area.

Prosthetic Biomechanics in Engineering

Edited by N.A. Abu Osman

The book is about the recent advances in prosthetic engineering research. The scope of the book is focused on the design, development and evaluation of prosthetic systems that are being used in biomechanical applications. This book includes coverage of advanced materials, conceptual designs, and brain computer interface (BCI) systems. The information provided in this book is intended for researchers and investigators to encourage further advances in the field of prosthetics research and for the development of rehabilitation equipment for the improvement of human health.

Supramolecular Chemistry in Corrosion and Biofouling Protection

Edited by Viswanathan S. Saji, King Fahd University of Petroleum and Minerals (KFUPM), Saudi Arabia

A team of international experts provide a comprehensive view of the applications and potential of supramolecular chemistry in corrosion and biofouling prevention. Chapter topics include supramolecular polymers, host-guest inclusion compounds, organic-inorganic hybrid materials, crown ethers, and supramolecular structures of graphene and other advances. The different supramolecular approaches being investigated to control corrosion and biofouling are gathered in one well-organized reference to serve senior undergraduate and graduate students, research students, engineers, and researchers in the fields of corrosion science & engineering, biofouling, and protective coatings.

Uncertainty Quantification of Stochastic Defects in Materials

Liu Chu, Nantong University, China

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book investigates uncertainty quantification methods for stochastic defects in material microstructure. Pursuing a comprehensive numerical analytical system, the book establishes a fundamental framework for this topic, while emphasizing the importance of stochastic and uncertainty quantification analysis and the significant influence of microstructure defects in the material macro properties. The book is intended for researchers, engineers, and advanced students interested in material defect quantification methods, material reliability assessment, artificial material microstructure optimization, and defect testing.

Industry 5.0

The Future of the Industrial Economy

Uthayan Elangovan, Engineering Consultant, Tamilnadu, India

This book discusses the integration of product, process, machine, software, and industrial robots in realizing Industrial 5.0. It covers the dual integration of human intelligence with machine intelligence and talks about the results of making use of Industrial Internet of Things (IIoT) and Artificial Intelligence (AI). The creation of a new category of robots named Collaborative Robots (Cobots) specifically designed to speed up the manufacturing process and profitability is explored. The book also provides how to reduce waste in product design through the manufacturing process and offers more personalized and customized products for customers.

Development in methodology on longitudinal data is fast. Currently, there are a lack of intermediate /advanced level textbooks which introduce students and practicing statisticians to the updated methods on correlated data inference. This book will present a discussion of the modern approach to semiparametric inference, including the links between the theories of random effects models, likelihood functions and estimators, and various types of efficient statistical models. The theory will be supported with practical examples of R-codes and R-packages applied to interesting case-studies from a number of different areas.

Stochastic Processes with R

An Introduction

Olga Korosteleva, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Texts in Statistical Science

Stochastic Processes with R: An Introduction cuts through the heavy theory that is present in most courses on random processes and serves as practical guide to simulated trajectories and real-life applications for stochastic processes. The light yet detailed text provides a solid foundation that is an ideal companion for undergraduate statistics students looking to familiarise themselves with stochastic processes before going onto more advanced courses.

The Effect

An Introduction to Research Design and Causality

Nick Huntington-Klein

The Effect: An Introduction to Research Design and Causality is about research design, specifically concerning research that uses observational data to make a causal inference. It is separated into two halves, each with different approaches to that subject. The first half goes through the concepts of causality, with very little in the way of estimation. It introduces the concept of identification thoroughly and clearly and discusses it as a process of trying to isolate variation that has a causal interpretation. Subjects include heavy emphasis on data-generating processes and causal diagrams.

Advanced Engineering Mathematics with MATLAB

Dean G. Duffy, US Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, USA

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

To assist in the choice of topics included in this new edition, the author reviewed the syllabi of various engineering mathematics courses that are taught at a wide variety of schools. Due to time constraints an instructor can select perhaps 3 to 4 topics from the book, the most likely being ordinary differential equations, Laplace transforms, Fourier series and separation of variables to solve the wave, heat, or Laplace's equation. Laplace transforms are occasionally replaced by linear algebra or vector calculus.

An Introduction to Complex Analysis and the Laplace Transform

Vladimir Eiderman, Indiana University, IN, USA.

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

The textbook is designed for university students studying science and engineering. The author starts with the notion of a complex number and finish with residues and their applications. I have aimed for a comparatively short book that would give a sufficiently full exposition of the fundamentals of the theory of functions of a complex variable to prepare the student for various applications. Many applications are then included.

Steven J. Rosenberg

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

Assuming only familiarity the notion of mathematical proof, the book introduces the most important algebraic structures (groups, rings, polynomials, fields, vector spaces) and the associated concepts of symmetry, homomorphism, isomorphism, and automorphism in the first 14 chapters. From Chapter 15, these topics are combined in the study of Galois Theory, direct sums and products, group actions, unique factorization, localization, and applications to geometry and the theory of polynomial equations.

Bayesian Modeling and Computation in Python

Osvaldo A. Martin, CONICET and Aalto University, Ravin Kumar and Junpeng Lao

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Texts in Statistical Science

Bayesian Modeling and Computation in Python will enable readers to grasp the fundamental assumptions behind Bayesian statistical methods and how to apply them to a wide array of data analysis problems. The book will provide a clear path from elementary statistical ideas to advanced ones and will also provide a bridge between statistics and probabilistic machine learning ideas always with a focus on effective application of Bayesian models.

Irrationality and Transcendence in Number Theory

David Angell, University of New South Wales, Australia

This book tells the story of irrational numbers from their discovery in the days of Pythagoras to the ideas behind the work of Baker and Mahler on transcendence in the 20th century. It focuses on themes of irrationality, algebraic and transcendental numbers, continued fractions, approximation of real numbers by rationals, and relations between automata and transcendence. This book serves as a guide and introduction to number theory for advanced undergraduates and early postgraduates. The book includes a wide range of exercises, from routine problems to surprising and thought-provoking extension material.

USA Through the Lens of Mathematics

Natali Hritonenko and Yuri Yatsenko

The main purpose of this captivating book is to help instructors in popularizing mathematics and other subjects by considering them in a unique multidisciplinary way. This integrative technique contributes to innovative teaching strategies to improving students' critical and problem-solving skills and broadening their scientific vision and interdisciplinary knowledge. The authors motivate the simultaneous learning of mathematics and social studies by telling the story of the United States of America in an original, mathematically oriented way. The readers will discover practical reasoning behind mathematical concepts.

How to Take into Account the Parameters of the Nodes and Group Influence of Nodes to Nodes

Fuad Aleskerov, Sergey Shvydun and Natalia Meshcheryakova

Centrality Measures in Networks presents a class of new centrality measures which take into account individual attributes of nodes, the possibility of group influence and long-range interactions and discusses all their new features. The book provides a wide range of applications of network analysis in several fields – financial networks, international migration, global trade, global food network, arms transfers, networks of terrorist groups, networks of international journals in economics.

This edited volume comprises invited contributions from world-renowned researchers in the subject of stochastic control and inverse problems. There are several contributions on stochastic optimal control and stochastic inverse problems covering different aspects of the theory, numerical methods, and applications. Besides a unified presentation of the most recent and relevant developments, this volume also presents some survey articles to make the material self-contained. To maintain the highest level of scientific quality, all manuscripts have been thoroughly reviewed.

Uncertainty Quantification in Variational Inequalities

Theory, Numerics, and Applications

Edited by Joachim Gwinner, Baasansuren Jadamba, Akhtar A. Khan and Fabio Raciti, University of Catania, Italy

Uncertainty Quantification (UQ) is an emerging and extremely active research discipline which aims to quantitatively treat any uncertainty in applied models. The primary objective of Uncertainty Quantification in Variational Inequalities: Theory, Numerics, and Applications is to present a comprehensive treatment of uncertainty quantification in variational inequalities and some of its generalizations emerging from various network, economic, and engineering models. Some of the developed techniques also apply to machine learning, neural networks, and related fields.

Advanced Calculus and its Applications in Variational Quantum Mechanics and Relativity Theory

Edited by Fabio Silva Botelho, Federal University of Santa Catarina, Brazil

The first part of this book reviews some key topics on multi-variable advanced calculus. The approach presented includes detailed and rigorous studies on surfaces in R^n which comprises items such as differential forms and an abstract version of the Stokes Theorem in R^n . The conclusion section introduces readers to Riemannian geometry, which is used in the subsequent chapters. The second part reviews applications, specifically in variational quantum mechanics and relativity theory.

Handbook of Bayesian Variable Selection

Edited by Mahlet Tadesse, Georgetown University, Washington, District of Columbia, USA and Marina Vannucci, Rice University, Houston, Texas, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Handbooks of Modern Statistical Methods

The Handbook of Bayesian Variable Selection provides a comprehensive review of theoretical, methodological and computational aspects of Bayesian methods for variable selection. The topics covered include spike-and-slab priors, continuous shrinkage priors, Bayes factors, Bayesian model averaging, partitioning methods, as well as variable selection in decision trees and edge selection in graphical models. The handbook targets graduate students and established researchers who seek to understand the latest developments in the field. It also provides a valuable reference for all interested in applying existing methods and/or pursuing methodological extensions.

Handbook of Complex Analysis

Edited by Steven G. Krantz, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri, USA

The Handbook of Complex Analysis will be an entree for advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students in the subject of complex analysis. The book should consist of contributions by major researchers in the subject, discussing topics that are dear to their hearts. The subject of complex analysis of increasing importance. Apart from its intrinsic beauty, it underlies many of the ideas in modern harmonic analysis, partial differential equations, engineering, and applied science. It is a powerful tool with many applications. And even the function theory of several complex variables has seen applications in cosmology, geophysics, and engineering.

Perspectives in Sustainable Equity Investing

Guillaume Coqueret

Perspectives in Sustainable Equity Investing is an up-to-date review of the academic literature on sustainable equity investing. It covers more than 800 academic sources grouped into six thematic chapters. Designed for corporate sustainability and financial management professionals, this is an ideal reference for ESG-driven financiers (both retail and institutional). Students majoring in finance or economics with some background or interest in ESG concerns would also find this compact overview useful.

Intelligent Systems for Engineers and Scientists

A Practical Guide to Artificial Intelligence

Adrian A. Hopgood, Sheffield Hallam University, UK

This edition of the best-selling Knowledge-Based Systems for Engineers and Scientists embraces both the explicit knowledge-based models retained from the first edition and the implicit numerical models represented by neural networks and optimization algorithms. The title change to Intelligent Systems for Engineers and Scientists reflects its broader scope, incorporating knowledge-based systems, computational intelligence, and their hybrids. Clear and concise, the book explores the issues encountered in the development of applied systems and a wide range of intelligent systems techniques. This text provides a detailed and practical guide to solving real problems in science and engineering.

Series: Emerging Trends in Biomedical Technologies and Health Informatics

This book describes the fundamental concepts of machine learning and deep learning techniques in a healthcare system. The aim of this book is to describe how deep learning methods are used to insure high quality data processing, medical image and signal analysis, and improved healthcare application. This book is intended for students, researchers, professionals and policy makers working in the fields of public health and in the healthcare sector. Scientists and healthcare IT specialists will also find this book beneficial for research exposure and new ideas in the field of machine learning and deep learning.

Mobile Data Visualization

Edited by Bongshin Lee, Raimund Dachselt, Petra Isenberg and Eun Kyung Choe

Series: AK Peters Visualization Series

Mobile Data Visualization is the first book to provide an overview of how to effectively visualize, analyze, and communicate data on mobile devices. Drawing from the expertise, research, and experience of an international range of academics and practitioners from across the domains of Visualization, Human Computer Interaction, and Ubiquitous Computing, the book explores the challenges of mobile visualization and explains how it differs from traditional data visualization. It highlights opportunities for reaching new audiences with engaging, interactive, and compelling mobile content.

Software Engineering

A Methodical Approach, 2nd Edition

Elvis C. Foster and Bradford A. Towle Jr.

This text provides a comprehensive, but concise introduction to software engineering. It adopts a methodical approach to solving software engineering problems, proven over several years of teaching, with outstanding results. The book covers concepts, principles, design, construction, implementation, and management issues of software engineering. With an emphasis on object-oriented development, the second edition features new chapters on software engineering projects, management support systems, and software engineering frameworks and patterns as a significant building block for the design and construction of contemporary software systems.

Database Management System

An Evolutionary Approach

Jagdish Chandra Patni, UPES Dehradun, Hitesh Kumar Sharma, Ravi Tomar, UPES, Dehradun and Avita Katal, UPES

This book will explain the basic and advance concepts necessary for designing and implementing database systems and database applications. The contents put emphasis on the core technical part of database modelling and design. It is meant to be used as a textbook for a technical course in database systems at the undergraduate and graduate levels. It could also be used as a reference book. Real life solved examples with case studies will also make this book more appealing to all database learners.

Ravi Tomar, UPES, Dehradun and Sarishma Dangi, Graphic Era Univ., Dehradun

This book focuses on developing the basics concepts of Javascript and enlightening the readers about the horizons that can be accessed using this language. It offers detailed explanation of the core topics and covers both miscellaneous and advanced topics. It gives a platform to connect JavaScript to cutting edge technologies such as Cloud, Machine Learning, Internet of Things etc. It uses case complete projects with example. This book is primarily aimed at undergraduates and graduates studying web application development. Developers will also find it useful as a handbook.

A Practical Introduction to Enterprise Network and Security Management

Bongsik Shin

A Practical Introduction to Enterprise Network and Security Management is written for people who are self-studying or studying information systems or computer science in the classroom setting. The book provides a balanced understanding of introductory and fairly advanced subjects on both computer networking and cybersecurity. Although much focus is to teach technical concepts, managerial issues related to enterprise network and security planning and design are explained from the practitioner's perspective.

Advanced Cybersecurity Technologies

Ralph Moseley

Cybersecurity is an extremely important area which is rapidly evolving, necessarily, to meet current and future threats. Anyone who studies within this domain requires a particular skillset and way of thinking, balancing technical knowledge and human insight. It is vital to recognize both sides of this complex area and integrate the two. This book looks at the technical fields progressively, building up in layers before expanding into more advanced topics. Each area is looked at succinctly, describing the main elements and problems in each area and reinforcing these concepts with practical coding examples, questions and ideas for further research.

Securing Mobile Devices and Technology

Kutub Thakur, NEW JERSEY CITY UNIVERSITY 2039 Kennedy Boulevard Jersey City New Jersey 07305 and Al-Sakib Khan Pathan, International Islamic University Malaysia, Kuala Lumpur

This book describes the detailed concepts of mobile security. The first two chapters provide a deeper perspective on communication networks while the rest of the book focuses on different aspects of mobile security, wireless network, and cellular network. This book also talks about the handling issues of mobile, IoT (Internet of Things) devices for shopping and password management and threats related to these devices. A few chapters are fully dedicated to the cellular technology wireless network.

Innovating with Augmented Reality

Applications in Education and Industry

Edited by P Kaliraj and Devi Thirupathi

By simulating novel and commonplace situations, augmented reality (AR) is stimulating innovation in a broad range of sectors. This book presents innovative AR applications in education and industry. By providing an illusion of the presence of physical objects which takes the students to a new world of imagination, AR and Virtual Reality (VR) applications can create virtual and interactive environment for better learning and understanding. The book also looks at how gamification can be made use in the teaching learning process. Another application area covered is healthcare. The book also examines the AR/VR game development platform Unity.

Advances in Optimization and Linear Programming

Ivan Stanimirović

This new volume provides the information needed to understand the simplex method, the revised simplex method, dual simplex method, and more for solving linear programming problems. The book first gives a mathematical model of the linear problem programming and describes the usual assumptions under which the problem is solved. It goes on to explain the definitions and solutions of linear programming problems, outlining the simplest geometric methods, and showing how they can be implemented. This volume is a highly useful guide to linear programming for professors and students in optimization and linear programming.

Blockchain in Digital Healthcare

Edited by Malaya Dutta Borah, NIT Silchar, Assam, Roberto Moro Visconti, Catholic University, Milano, Italy and Ganesh Chandra Deka, DG(DGT), MSDE, GoI

Blockchain is a series of transactions recorded in Blocks, secured cryptographically. Blockchain has unique characteristics such as Immutable, Decentralized, and Transparency. Users within Blockchain can Record Transaction in Blocks in a Immutable distributed ledger i.e. unchangeable once recorded/published. Another advantage of Blockchain is that it is Decentralized, which eliminates the dependency on a Trusted Third Party to facilitate the transactions. This enables the clients/users' of the Blockchain to take ownership of the data they push on the network.

Constraint Handling in Cohort Intelligence Algorithm

Ishaan R. Kale, Deemed University, Pale, India and Anand J. Kulkarni, MIT World Peace University, Pune, India

Series: Advances in Metaheuristics

Constraint Handling in Cohort Intelligence Algorithm is a valuable reference to practitioners working in the industry as well as to students and researchers in the area of optimization methods. In this book, CI is investigated by solving ten discrete variable truss structural problems, eleven mixed variable design engineering problems, seventeen linear and nonlinear constrained test problems and two real-world applications from manufacturing domain. Static Penalty Function (SPF) is also adopted to handle the linear and nonlinear constraints, and limitations in CI and SPF approaches are examined.

Securing IoT in Industry 4.0 Applications with Blockchain

Edited by P. Kaliraj and T. Devi

Industry 4.0 is an amalgam of smart factories, cognitive computing, cloud computing, Internet of Things (IoT), and cyber-physical systems. The IoT component is highly networked and vulnerable to attack. This book examines the role of IoT in Industry 4.0 and how it can be made secure through various technologies including blockchain. The first part of the book covers IoT and discusses applications, architecture, the technologies, tools and programming languages. The second section covers blockchain and cyber security and examines how blockchain achieves cyber security as well as cybercrimes and their preventive measures and issues related to IoT security and trust.

Edited by Avadhesh Kumar, Galgotias Uni., Shrdha Sagar, Galgotias Uni., T. Ganesh Kumar, Galgotias Uni. and K. Sampath Kumar, Galgotias Uni.

This book illustrates different techniques and structures that are used in knowledge representation and machine learning. It addresses the representational adequacy for the representation of required knowledge. It manipulates inferential adequacy for the representation of knowledge for developing new knowledge inferred from original knowledge. It is based on the latest technology covering major challenges, issues, and advances; The aim of this book is to draw the attention of graduates, researchers and practitioners working in field of information technology and computer science (in knowledge representation in machine learning).

Spectrum Policy

Edited by Martin Sims, Founder and Managing Director, PolicyTracker

What debates have caused spectrum policy to change course, and which will determine its future direction? This book examines these issues through a series of essays from a range of notable experts.

The backdrop is a period of turbulent change in what was once a quiet backwater. The past quarter century has seen wireless connectivity go from nice-to-have luxury to the cornerstone of success as nations battle for leadership of the digital economy. Spectrum policy's goals have moved far beyond the efficient use of the airwaves to include encouraging economic development, investment, innovation, sustainability and digital inclusivity.

Mine Ventilation

Proceedings of the 18th North American Mine Ventilation Symposium, 12-17 June, 2021, Rapid City, South Dakota, USA

Edited by Purushotham Tukkaraja

This volume contains the proceedings of the 18th North American Mine Ventilation Symposium held virtually from June 12-17, 2021. This symposium was organized by the South Dakota Mines, Rapid City, South Dakota in collaboration with the Underground Ventilation Committee (UVC) of the Society for Mining, Metallurgy & Exploration (SME).

The Mine Ventilation Symposium series has always been a premier forum for ventilation experts, practitioners, educators, students, regulators, and manufacturers from around the world to exchange knowledge, ideas, and opinions. This volume features fifty-seven selected technical papers on a large number of mining ventilation topics.

The World Formula

A Late Recognition of David Hilbert's Stroke of Genius

Norbert Schwarzler

Considering all the efforts taken, money spent, disputes fought, papers and books written, and conferences held, it is almost shocking to find that, in principle, the World Formula was already there. It was David Hilbert who wrote it down during the first year of World War I in November 1915. The complexity of the math involved was not the only thing that obscured what should have been obvious. This book explains why nobody had realized his immortal stroke of genius.

The Chemistry and Mechanism of Art Materials

Unsuspected Properties and Outcomes

Michael J. Malin, Western Connecticut State University, Chemistry Dept.

This unique book presents an integrated approach to the chemistry of art materials, exploring the many chemical processes involved. The author presents historical vignettes about artists' materials (inorganic pigments and organic solvents) that focus on relevant chemical mechanisms. The chemical mechanisms include chemical structures and stepwise transformation of starting materials to final products. The approach is descriptive and non-mathematical throughout, the level is suitable for readers that have taken a general and organic chemistry course.

Intracranial Stereotactic Radiosurgery

Edited by Jason P. Sheehan, Department of Neurological Surgery, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, USA and L. Dade Lunsford

In this third edition of Intracranial Stereotactic Radiosurgery, Drs. Lunsford and Sheehan provide a contemporary assessment of the practice of stereotactic radiosurgery. Topics include benign and malignant tumors, cerebrovascular abnormalities, and functional disorders. There are also several new chapters including ones focused on immunotherapy, hypofractionation, and repeat radiosurgery. Chapters contain many figures and tables to illustrate the key concepts of the work. Contributors to the book represent many of the luminary stereotactic

Particle Therapy Technology for Safe Treatment

Jay Flanz

This book provides a practical introduction to particle therapy. It provides a thorough introduction to the tools, their applications, and then details the components that are needed to implement it. It explains the foundations of beam production and beam delivery which serve to meet the necessary clinical requirements. It emphasizes the relationship between requirements and implementation including how safety and quality is considered and implemented in the solution. The reader will learn to better understand what parameters are important to achieve these goals

Physical Models for Quantum Dots

Edited by Jean-Pierre Leburton

This book is a compilation of articles that span 20 years of research on comprehensive physical models developed by their authors to understand the detailed properties of these quantum objects, and to tailor them for specific applications. Far from being exhaustive, this book focuses on topics of interest for solid state physicists, material scientists and engineers, such as quantum dots and nanocrystals for single electron charging with applications in memory devices, quantum dots for electron spin manipulation with applications in quantum information processing, and finally self-assembled quantum dots for applications in nano-photonics.

The Unity of Science

David Bensimon

This unique overview of natural phenomena and foundations of different technologies (chemistry, electronics, optics, etc.) explores the connections and unified foundations of diverse scientific and technological fields. The author explains how much of Nature and most of our technology can be understood/derived from a few basic principles or concepts (Newton and Coulomb's laws, special relativity, Schrodinger's equation and the concept of entropy). Requiring knowledge of linear algebra and calculus, the book is ideal for students of chemistry, material sciences and engineering and professionals with an engineering/scientific/mathematical background.

Newtonian Dynamics

An Introduction

Richard Fitzpatrick, The University of Texas, Austin, USA

This textbook provides a comprehensive review of Newtonian dynamics at a level suitable for undergraduate physics students. It demonstrates that Newton's three laws of motion, combined with a few simple force laws, can not only describe the motions of everyday objects observed on the surface of the Earth, but can also account for the motions of celestial objects seen in the sky. The book will start off at a level suitable for undergraduate (freshman) physics students and will very gradually increase, until, towards the end, it will approach (but not quite reach) a level characteristic of a graduate (senior) physics course.

Understanding Properties of Atoms, Molecules and Materials

Pranab Sarkar, Visva-Bharati, India and Sankar Prasad Bhattacharyya, IACS Kolkata

The book introduces the readers in material chemistry/engineering to elementary quantum mechanics of atoms, molecules and solids, with methods of statistical mechanics (classical as well as quantum) along with elementary principles of classical MD simulation. The basic concepts are illustrated with easy to grasp examples, thus preparing the readers for an exploration through the world of materials - the exotic and the mundane. The emphasis has been on the phenomena and what shapes them at the fundamental level. A fairly comprehensive description of modern designing principles for materials with examples is a unique feature of the book

A Bridge Across Life and Universe

Davor Juretic

Bioenergetics deals with the very first energy transformation steps performed by living cells. Increased dissipation is the major effect of processing external energy packages.

Enzyme-supported charge separation is the minor but essential outcome for maintaining life. These two events run together as driving-driven processes. The book explores the usefulness of dissecting the entropy production of enzymes involved in cellular defenses, fermentation, respiration, and photosynthesis, assuming that tightly regulated dissipation is the hallmark of life.

Edited by Kanchan Kumari, CSIR-NEERI, Nagpur, India

Persistent Organic Pollutants (POPs) are chemicals that resist environmental degradation and cause deleterious effects on the environment and human wellbeing. Once released into the environment they can travel long distances and persist for longer duration. This book highlights the complex area of POPs in simple language and deals with the fundamentals of the chemicals, their sources, and impacts on human health. With its comprehensive approach, this book is an indispensable source of knowledge for those studying and working to mitigate the effect of POPs in the environment.

Surfactants from Renewable Raw Materials

Edited by Divya Bajpai Tripathy, Galgotias University, India, Anjali Gupta, Galgotias University, India., Arvind Kumar Jain and Anuradha Mishra

Series: Surfactant Science

Surfactants are often completely invisible to us and yet they are present in almost every chemical that we use in our daily life. They are found in many common products including toothpastes, cosmetics, sunscreens, mayonnaise, and detergents. Traditional surfactants can have adverse environmental impacts spurring research into eco-friendly and cost-effective surfactants sourced from renewable resources. Chapters detail properties, applications, bioavailability, biodegradability, and recent patent activity of surfactants synthesized using plant-based raw materials. This is an indispensable guide for professional and academic researchers creating or working with bio-based surfactants.

The Lignan Handbook

Edited by Norman G. Lewis, Washington State University, Pullman, USA and Laurence B. Davin, Washington State University, Pullman, USA

Lignans are aromatic compounds isolated from plants. This handbook presents an authoritative and comprehensive review of lignan chemistry, biochemistry, nomenclature, uses, and occurrence. Lignans are used in a wide variety of industries and this book will appeal to those working in the pulp and paper industries, renewable energy, specialty chemicals, pharmaceuticals, flavours and fragrances, agriculture and forestry, evolution and ecology. Additionally the book features a comprehensive lignans dictionary section, drawn from the prestigious Dictionary of Natural Products.

Removal of Pollutants from Saline Water

Treatment Technologies

Edited by Shaik Feroz, Prince Mohammad Bin Fahd University, Saudi Arabia and Detlef Bahnemann, Leibniz Universität Hannover, Germany

This book provides a comprehensive understanding of technologies that are currently adopted in the treatment of pollutants present in saline water systems. It presents information on the treatment technologies for saline water systems, including seawater, brackish water, oil produced water, and other industrial saline wastewaters. The treatment strategies are based on principles including physicochemical, biological, membrane, advanced oxidation, and more. This book discusses the merits, demerits, and commercialization aspects of technologies and techniques through various chapters contributed by relevant experts from different parts of the world.

Opportunistic Adaptation

Using the Urban Renewal Cycle to Adapt to Climate Change

Polpat Nilubon, IHE Institute for Water Education, Delft, The Netherlands

Series: IHE Delft PhD Thesis Series

Opportunistic Adaptation provides a rationalized approach to mainstream measures for climate adaptation into urban renewal cycles. Adaptation opportunities are identified by projecting the lifespans of urban assets into the future to obtain an operational urban adaptation agenda for the future. Upscaling of the adaptation process is done by synchronizing the end of the life cycle of a group of assets to develop adaptation clusters. An extensive catalogue of adaptation measures for different scale-levels ensures flexibility in the type of measures that can be integrated. Sequencing adaptation measures over long periods of time provides insight into the underlying FRM strategy.

Water Systems Analysis, Design, and Planning

Urban Infrastructure

Mohammad Karamouz

This book explores the various theoretical, practical, and real-world applications of water systems analysis, as well as the design and planning of water infrastructures. Focusing on urban challenges and contexts, it provides the foundational information regarding water science and engineering, and also examines topics relating to stormwater, water supply, wastewater and more. It also addresses critical emerging issues such as simulation and economic modeling, flood resiliency, environmental visualization, satellite applications, and digital data model (DEM) advancements.

Nanomaterials for Water Treatment and Remediation

Edited by Srabanti Ghosh, Ardabil, Iran, Aziz Habibi-Yangjeh, Ardabil, Iran, Swati Sharma, Bilaspur, India and Ashok Kumar Nadda, Jaypee University of Information Technology, India

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book explores recent developments in the use of advanced nanomaterials (ANMs) for water treatment and remediation. In-depth reaction mechanisms in water treatment technologies including adsorption, catalysis, and membrane filtration for water purification using ANMs are discussed in detail. It includes investigation of fabrication processes of nanostructured materials and fundamental aspects of surface at the nanoscale. The book also covers removal of water-borne pathogens and microbes through a photochemical approach. This text is aimed at researchers and industry professionals in chemical, materials, and environmental engineering, as well as related fields.

"White Russians, Red Peril"

A Cold War History of Migration to Australia

Sheila Fitzpatrick

Over 20,000 ethnic Russians migrated to Australia after World War II.

To the Soviet Union, Australia's resettling of Russians amounted to theft of its citizens, and undercover agents were deployed to persuade them to repatriate. Australia regarded the newcomers with suspicion, even as it sought to build its population.

This book examines the early years of a disunited Russian-Australian community and how Australian and Soviet intelligence agencies attempted to track and influence them.

Empire and Popular Culture

Volume II

Edited by John Griffiths

From 1830, the British Empire began to permeate the domestic culture of Empire nations in many ways. From consumables, to the excitement of colonial wars, celebrations relating to events in the history of Empire, and Empire Day, citizens were encouraged to think of themselves not only as citizens of a nation but of an Empire. This volume considers the ways in which 'Empire' permeated the British public sphere, exploring exhibitions, spectacle and entertainment.

Nineteenth-Century Crime and Punishment

Edited by Victor Bailey

This set presents the essential issues of crime and punishment in the long nineteenth-century. Through the presentation of primary source documents, it explores the development of a modern pattern of crime and a modern system of penal policy and practice. The volumes on crime illustrate its rise and fall, the role of the criminal courts, the causes of crime, and the definition of the 'criminal classes' and 'habitual offenders'. The punishment volumes explore the shift from public and bodily punishments to transportation, the rise of the penitentiary, the convict prison system, and the late-century decline in the prison population and loss of faith in the prison.

Nineteenth-Century Crime and Punishment

Edited by Victor Bailey

This set presents the essential issues of crime and punishment in the long nineteenth-century. Through the presentation of primary source documents, it explores the development of a modern pattern of crime and a modern system of penal policy and practice. The volumes on crime illustrate its rise and fall, the role of the criminal courts, the causes of crime, and the definition of the 'criminal classes' and 'habitual offenders'. The punishment volumes explore the shift from public and bodily punishments to transportation, the rise of the penitentiary, the convict prison system, and the late-century decline in the prison population and loss of faith in the prison.

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Charles Berg (1892-1957) started his career in general practice, but more interested in the causation of illness, went on to train firstly as a psychiatrist, then as a psychoanalyst, working at the Tavistock Clinic for seventeen years. During his time there under the founder Crichton-Miller he learnt to treat patients from the point of view of psychotherapy and eventually opened his own psychiatric and analytical practice. Out of print for many years, this collection is a great opportunity to revisit some of his finest works. The set will be a useful resource for those interested in the history of psychology, psychiatry, psychoanalysis, queer studies and beyond.

Being Lived by My Life

A Sort of Autobiography

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Originally published in 1957, this book was a new departure in autobiographies. It is both enlightening and entertaining. There is a happy blending of narrative, reflection and occasional extracts from case histories which gives it a delightfully human character. But it is more than this. It is a story of the profound inward adventure of an exceptionally inquiring mind. From childhood to professional maturity it proceeds through economic difficulties, love and tribulation to science and general medical practice. Here is an opportunity to combine learning with entertainment.

The Unconscious Significance of Hair

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Originally published in 1951, the implications of this book were thought to be far wider and deeper than its title suggests. "Hair-activities are chosen merely as a sample of uncritically accepted human behaviour. The author then proceeds to examine them very carefully in the light of dreams, anthropology, folklore, symptoms and perversions. He shows them to be an expression of instinct-driven tensions and conflicts. The popular illusion that they are determined by reason or adaption to reality is exploded. ... The book is really a psychiatric criticism of normality based upon a chosen item of typically normal behaviour. ..."

Fear, Punishment Anxiety and the Wolfenden Report

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Originally published in 1959, the blurb read: 'Dr Berg has made a comprehensive survey of the Wolfenden Report in regard to homosexuality and illustrated his comments with extracts from case material. He points out that whereas public opinion has so far lagged behind the Committee's main recommendation, scientifically far from being an advance the report may be considered lamentably reactionary. ... The author deals with the subject in his usual forthright, witty and persuasive style, which is easily enjoyed by psychiatrist and layman alike, and the book should be welcomed by all who seek to understand this controversial topic.'

The First Interview with a Psychiatrist and the Unconscious Psychology of All Interviews

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Originally published in 1955, the blurb read: Again in this book the author expounds his main thesis – perhaps the main thesis of all modern psychiatry – namely that our conscious pre-occupations, thoughts and behaviour are merely the products or "symptoms" of a process that is going on within us (basically a physiological process) of which we are totally unconscious. Although we are at pains to conceal from ourselves and others, and even vehemently to deny, the nature and the very existence of this fundamental unconscious process, it is nevertheless the determinant of all that is us, biologically, psychologically and sociologically.

Homosexuality

A Subjective and Objective Investigation

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

First published in Britain in 1958, the original blurb read: "To those whose sex life is based on heterosexual relationships, the homosexual is a grotesque, shadowy creature... It is incredible to us that a well-educated girl could make the following remark: "What do they look like? I wonder if I've ever seen one?" These words, written by a lesbian ... might be taken as its theme. In our statistically minded age, we are apt to forget that behind the word homosexual there is always a person. The purpose of this book is to bring into public light, the knowledge of the manifestations of the problem, so that they may be openly examined. ..."

A Case Book of the Neuroses and their Treatment

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

Originally published in 1948 the blurb read: "Dr Berg has an extraordinary flair for presenting a difficult subject in a most realistic and attractive manner, without sacrifice of scientific essentials. The patients are made to speak for themselves, with the result that we feel actually present at the analytical sessions, sharing the most intimate details of each individual's life and feelings. Madkind

The Origin and Development of the Mind

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

First published in 1962, the blurb reads: This provocative book explores the whole range of human thought conduct and beliefs. Commencing with primitive man and his superstitions it goes on to study our present-day cultural institutions, customs, ritual and other behaviour upon which we pride ourselves. All of these are shown to have identical primitive mechanisms and to be subjectively determined without reference to scientific knowledge. These delusions are shown to be mostly undesirable and harmful and the author goes on to state that only objective thinking, scientifically based, can lead to any ultimate good. The later chapters contain an aetiological study of the mind. ...'

Deep Analysis

The Clinical Study of an Individual Case

Charles Berg

Series: Collected Works of Charles Berg

First published in 1947, "This is an illuminating description of a complete Freudian analysis of a single case. From the first interview to the last the reader's attention is engrossed with the almost-normal personality of the individual who is being analysed. We see his thoughts, philosophy, and emotions gradually unfolding under the application of analytical technique ... the very springs and mechanisms of his psychic pattern and emotional structure are abundantly and lucidly revealed. We see and understand the hidden depths of the nature of the human mind, and obtain introductory insight not only into normal mental functioning, but into almost all its psychopathic aberrations...."

David Marshall Lang's Journey From Russia to Armenia

via Caucasian Georgia

Edited by David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

Armenia is the oldest Christian country in the world and there are few countries which have made such an outstanding contribution to civilization as Armenia has. The volumes in this set, written by an acknowledged authority on history and religion in Armenia and Georgia, as well as Russia itself examine the role played by an 18th Century Russian Radical and his subsequent political legacy; Provide a translation of a legend important for theologians and scholars of comparative religion which significantly influenced the Christian West; Discuss the cultural, philosophic, religious and scientific contribution Armenia has made to the world.

The Balavariani

Barlaam and Josaphat: A Tale from the Christian East

David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

Originally published in 1966, the full Georgian text of the oldest version of this Christian version of this matchless classic of Oriental wisdom literature is made accessible to a wider readership in an English translation. Based on a unique manuscript preserved in the Greek Patriarchate at Jerusalem, this rendering should appeal to those interested in comparative religion, Buddhism, medieval Christianity, the history of monasticism and in the literature of the Georgians and other ancient nations of the former Soviet Union.

The Wisdom of Balahvar

A Christian Legend of the Buddha

David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

Originally published in 1957 this volume provides valuable research into the biography of Gautama Buddha and its influence on medieval Christian thought. Over a century ago, however, the legend was finally identified as an adaptation of episodes from the life and ministry of the Buddha. The first part of the book is devoted to tracing the development and migration of the Barlaam and Josaphat legend from its original Buddhist environment to the West. The second part is a translation of the Georgian text – the first published in any Western European language. The volume therefore gives one of the oldest Near Eastern versions of the story.

Armenia

Cradle of Civilization

David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

Originally published in 1970, this book is the result of many years of study and research in the field. It begins with a geographic and ethnic survey of the land and Armenian people and traces the land's prehistory back to the Old Stone Age. The origins of the wine-making and bronze-working industries are discussed, in which Armenia played a pioneering role. The outstanding Armenian contribution to Church art and architecture is also explored as is the contribution of Armenia to painting, philosophy, and science. The final section is devoted to an account of Soviet Armenia.

The First Russian Radical

Alexander Radishchev 1749-1802

David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

When this was originally published in 1959 it was the first full-length biography of Alexander Radishchev published outside Russia and was based on hitherto unpublished material, memoir literature and Radishchev's own writings. Radishchev occupies a notable position in the history of European social thought, as the first writer to apply the criteria of the Western Age of Reason to conditions in Tsarist Russia. Sentenced to death on the orders of Catherine the Great and subsequently exiled in Siberia, Radishchev stands out as the first great figure of the Russian radical intelligentsia and the first literary victim of Tsarist official intolerance.

The Armenians

A People in Exile

David Marshall Lang

Series: David Marshall Lang's Journey from Russia to Armenia via Caucasian Georgia

Originally published in 1981, this book tells the story of the Armenian dispersion and gives a graphic account of the persecution of the Armenians by the Turks from 1895 to 1922 which foreshadowed the Jewish holocaust at the hands of Hitler, who is said to have modelled some of his own ideas on those of the Young Turks. Drawing upon material from little-known sources, this book follows the trail of the Armenians from their native lands around Mount Ararat to such far-flung spots as Ihasa, Harbin and Buenos Aires. This lively and readable book is an excellent account of a people who have been partly in exile for some 2,000 years.

Kenneth Cragg on the Intersection of Faiths

Kenneth Cragg

Series: Kenneth Cragg on the Intersection of Faiths

Kenneth Cragg was one of the West's most gifted interpreters of Islam and one of the most well-known figures of the Middle Eastern Church. During his 45 years in the Middle East, Cragg was an assistant Bishop of Jerusalem and scholar, he focussed on the Christian understanding of other faiths, particularly Islam. A major figure in Christian-Muslim conversations he was a prolific writer whose books became a forum of intellectual debate about Islam and Christian-Muslim relations. This set re-issues two of his lesser-known but no less important books, which illustrate his deep knowledge of the Qur'an and his lifelong interest in Islamic and Christian theology.

Chapters in Reflection

Series: Kenneth Cragg on the Intersection of Faiths

Originally published in 1973, this volume consists of a sequence of essays in religious thinking, responsive to the impact of Quranic style and emphasis. It traces the implications of the Qur'an in the related fields of man and history, evil and forgiveness, unity and worship, wonder and the hallowing of the world. It does so with a critical eye for the classical commentators, three of whom are translated here in their exegesis of three important Surahs. The Fundamentals of Library Classification

Bernard I. Palmer and A.J. Wells

Series: Library Manuals

This book, first published in 1951, looks at the position of library classification with the object of finding out what it achieves, where it fails, and what steps are needed to increase its value. It details patterns that enable a classifier to construct a formula which is valid for the analysis of any subject into its fundamental constituent elements.

Fundamentals of Librarianship

An Introduction for the Use of Candidates Preparing for the Entrance Examination of the Library Association

Duncan Gray

Series: Library Manuals

This book, first published in 1949, grew out of a series of talks to young librarians preparing for the entrance exam of the Library Association, and the syllabus for this exam was used to provide section and chapter headings. The different types of library call for differing methods of administration, but there are certain essential principles common to all librarianship, which are here described.

A Handbook of Classification and Cataloguing

For School and College Librarians

Margaret S. Taylor

Series: Library Manuals

This book, first published in 1939, deals with the elements of classification and cataloguing from the school library point of view. The Dewey, Cheltenham and Bliss schemes are fully examined and there is a chapter on the practical application of classification in the library. There are simplified rules for Author and Title catalogues, while the different kinds of subject catalogues are compared, and instructions given for their compilation. Many practical examples of cataloguing entries are shown.

Mitchell's Building Construction and Drawing 1906

Charles F. Mitchell and Stephen J. Scaysbrook

Series: Mitchell's Building Construction and Drawing

Ever since the initial issue of Charles F. Mitchell's Building Construction and Drawing books in 1881, no other series of books has had such a continued presence in the construction industry. For almost 140 years, students and practitioners have referred to both the First Stage or Elementary Course and the Advanced and Honours Courses as the go-to reference works for construction detailing and materials. The highly regarded Mitchell's series, and this reissue in particular, is an invaluable tool in helping the modern-day architect to understand how a change of use to a historic building will impact on the materials used in its construction.

4 Volume Set

Ralf Dahrendorf on Class and Society

Ralf Dahrendorf

Series: Ralf Dahrendorf on Class & Society

Originally published between 1959 and 1975 these 4 volumes are by one of the 20th Century's foremost sociologists. The ideas of power, resistance, conflict, historical change, openness, freedom and uncertainty pervade this set and make the works as relevant now as when they were originally published. In addition they:

Examine the structures of power in which political process takes place. Offer a critique of historical sociologists whilst discussing the problems of the 20th Century and how to solve them.

Class and Conflict in an Industrial Society

Ralf Dahrendorf

Series: Ralf Dahrendorf on Class & Society

Originally published in England in 1959, this book evolves a new theory of conflict in industrial society. By way of illustrating and testing this theory, the book provides detailed analyses of various social phenomena. The author carries out a full critique of Marx in the light of history and modern sociology and discusses the theories of class-conflict of James Burnham, Fritz Croner and Karl Renner.

The New Liberty

Survival and Justice in a Changing World: The Reith Lectures

Ralf Dahrendorf

Series: Ralf Dahrendorf on Class & Society

Originally published in 1975, Ralf Dahrendorf's Reith Lectures were an important contribution to public debate, exploring as they do the theme of the new liberty and being concerned to refashion liberalism to cope with the problems and tension of contemporary societies. The analysis covers endemic economic problems, such as growth, inflation and development, the complex nature of organizations, and the problems of political representation.

Homo Sociologicus

Ralf Dahrendorf

Series: Ralf Dahrendorf on Class & Society

First published in English as part of the Essays in the Theory of Society, this volume reissues the stand-alone Homo Sociologicus for which the author wrote a new introduction when it was originally published in 1973. The controversial book deals with the history, significance and limits of the category of social role and discusses the dilemma posed by homo sociologicus. The author shows that for society and sociology, socialization invariably means depersonalization, the yielding up of man's absolute individuality and liberty to the constraint and generality of social roles.

Essays in the Theory of Society

Ralf Dahrendorf

Series: Ralf Dahrendorf on Class & Society

Originally published in 1968, these ten essays by one of Europe's leading sociological theorists deal with important issues on the borderline between sociology and social philosophy and demonstrate the author's deep insight into history and political analysis. The author maintains that the structures of power in which the political process takes place not only originate change and give it direction, but also produce the fertile conflicts that give expression to the fundamental uncertainty of human existence. Through an examination of various concepts inherent in this dynamic process – power, resistance, conflict, change, freedom, uncertainty – a coherent theory of society emerges.

Raymond Irwin on The English Library

Raymond Irwin

Series: Raymond Irwin on the English Library

Published in 1964 and 1966 and incorporating the earlier Origins of the English Library (1954), these 2 volumes were written by an authority on libraries from across the world, and the first director after World War 2 of the School of Librarianship at University College London, Raymond Irwin. Together they give an unparalleled insight into the development of libraries from classical civilization and the part they have played in the development of culture up to the late 20th Century. Studied from a new angle, and written in an engaging style, these volumes are far from dry and of interest to both bibliophiles and social historians alike.

The Heritage of the English Library

Raymond Irwin

Series: Raymond Irwin on the English Library

Originally published in 1964 this volume continues the studies of the history of libraries and incorporates material included in The Origins of the English Library with some additional material. It was published at a time when there was a marked revival of interest in the historical background of libraries and reading. The book examines the social and intellectual background against which libraries have prospered and the roots in both classical and medieval periods from which they came. This book will be of interest to historians, librarians and educationalists.

The English Library

Sources and History

Raymond Irwin

Series: Raymond Irwin on the English Library

Originally published in 1966, this book studies the background against which libraries in England have developed and the part they played in the formation of 20th Century bibliographic culture. Part 1 discusses the power of the written book in antiquity, from Greek and Roman times to Roman Britain, through Saxon and Medieval England to the Reformation. Part 2 traces the history of the English study and the domestic library to Victorian days and reveals how intimately it is related to our literature and culture. The spread of the art of reading in the 15th Century and its expansion in the 18th and 19th centuries are also discussed.

North Vietnam

A Documentary

John Gerassi

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Revolution in Vietnam

John Gerassi went to North Vietnam as a member of the first investigating team for the International War Crimes Tribunal set up by the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation. This book, first published in 1968, is the record of that visit and of the author’s sympathy for the ordinary people caught up in the conflict. It is primarily intended as a historical document, and provides valuable on-the-spot records of the war as experienced in North Vietnam.

War By Other Means

National Liberation and Revolution in Viet-Nam, 1954–60

Carlyle A. Thayer

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Revolution in Vietnam

This book, first published in 1989, examines the creation and implementation of Communist policy in Vietnam during the crucial period between the 1954 Geneva Conference and the establishment of the National Front for the Liberation of South Vietnam in December 1960. This study challenges long-held views about the origins and nature of the Viet Cong. It carefully examines the various stages in the struggle for ‘national liberation’ during this period, reviews the consequences of the failure of purely political means to achieve reunification and then focuses on the struggle between the Diem regime and the Communists.

French and Japanese Economic Relations with Vietnam Since 1975

Henrich Dahm

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Revolution in Vietnam

This book, first published in 1999, compares the strategies of France and Japan in trying to win economic and political influence in the newly emerging Vietnam, which opened to the international community only after the Vietnamese Communist Party had started economic reforms in 1986. These reforms are aimed at transforming the country's centrally-planned economy into a government-controlled market economy and at opening Vietnam to foreign capital, technology and know-how. This setting provides a unique opportunity for comparing the strategies of two nations from different continents in conducting their economic relations with a unified Vietnam.

The Limits of National Liberation

Problems of Economic Management in the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, with a Statistical Appendix

Adam Fforde and Suzanne H. Paine

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Revolution in Vietnam

This book, first published in 1987, examines the North Vietnamese economy during the struggle for national reunification. It chronicles the impact of war and Socialist Construction upon an extremely poor area left undeveloped by French colonial exploitation. The analysis focuses on the severe restraints that faced socio-economic development in North Vietnam, and the adverse effects of forced development based upon neo-Stalinist institutional models. Deep problems were encountered in attempting to implement Socialist Construction in the North, and wartime aid from fraternal Socialist countries masked the fundamental economic imbalances created by the development effort.

Vietnam – The Incomplete Transformation

Peter Wolff

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Revolution in Vietnam

This book, first published in 1999, analyses the history and major economic features of the Vietnamese reform process. The attempt to establish a post-reunification centrally planned economic system, a collectivised agriculture and a capital-intensive and inward-oriented industrial sector had largely failed, provoking the development of a parallel economy which turned out to be the nucleus of an emerging private sector. It focuses on the reform of enterprises and the financial sector and gives an overall picture of the reform efforts in the areas of rural development, the social sectors and environmental policy, and assesses the further changes and reforms needed in the country.

Changing Law in Developing Countries

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

The 1960s, in retrospect, may be chiefly remembered for the unprecedented constitutional developments it witnessed in countries emerging from colonial rule. Originally published in 1963, an examination of these constitutional developments from the authoritative pens of the previous Legal Adviser to the Colonial and Commonwealth Relations Offices, and the Legal Adviser to the Colonial Office at the time was, therefore, particularly timely – for no two men in human history can have had to draft so many constitutional instruments.

Politics and Society in India

Edited by C. H. Philips

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

India inherited a system of representative and responsible government from Britain, a large part of which was incorporated in the new constitution of independent India. But in the early 1960s it was already becoming clear that this political system could not long continue without change. Already, under a deceptively smooth surface, important changes in the nature of Indian political life were taking place. Originally published in 1963, the purpose of these collected studies was to explore, in the rapidly changing situation, the intimate relationship of Indian politics and society and to indicate the ways in which the deeper social and political currents were moving.

Conflict and Harmony in Education in Tropical Africa

Edited by Godfrey N. Brown and Mervyn Hiskett

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

Originally published in 1975, this book was something of a pioneering study. It examines the three main traditions of African educational development – indigenous, Islamic and 'Western' – and the resulting harmonies and conflicts that arise from these traditions. Its contributors are all specialists writing about their own particular area of interest covering many countries of tropical Africa. They include a number of well-known African scholars as well as some comparatively new names in the field of African Studies at the time. A feature of the book is the attention that it gives to the education of women – an aspect of 'nation-building' that had often been rather neglected.

Family Law in Asia and Africa

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

First published in 1968, we were witnessing a new emphasis on Comparative Law, both in Universities and even the practising profession, together with a quickened interest in the law of family relations. This title provided a wealth of information for anyone wishing to study these relations in a widely comparative context. The chapters cover not only the basic law of marriage and divorce in a number of developing countries both in Asia and Africa, but also discuss in detail the ways in which matrimonial property is regulated under different systems. This was a highly topical subject at the time, when our own law of matrimonial property was under criticism and active reconsideration.

Modern Japan

Aspects of History, Literature and Society

Edited by W. G. Beasley

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

First published in 1975, much of Western scholarly writing on Japan had in recent years concerned the study of modernisation. The papers in this volume, prepared by leading specialists from Europe and Israel, concentrate on the problems arising from modernisation, rather than on an analysis of the process itself. The historical papers deal with various aspects of the political and international tensions that link modernisation to Japanese expansion and WW2. Those on literature examine some related themes concerning national attitudes, as expressed in drama and the novel, especially in the context of the relationship of modern ideas and institutions to traditional culture and society.

The Gonds of Andhra Pradesh

Tradition and Change in an Indian Tribe

Christoph von Fürer-Haimendorf and Elizabeth von Fürer-Haimendorf

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

In the highlands of the former Hyderabad State (now Andhra Pradesh) concentrations of Gonds persisted in their traditional lifestyle until the middle of the twentieth century. During the thirty years prior to publication the author had frequently revisited the Gond region and in 1976-7 he undertook a detailed re-study of social and economic developments in the villages he knew best. His long-standing familiarity with many individual Gonds has allowed him to draw in this book, originally published in 1979, an intimate picture of the life of a specific village community and to trace the fates of individual men and women over a long stretch of time.

India and the Commonwealth 1885–1929

Series: Studies on Modern Asia and Africa

The story of the transformation of the old British Empire into the modern Commonwealth had often been told from the point of view of Great Britain and the 'white dominions'. No attempt had so far been made to describe the decisive role of India in the shaping of the multi-racial Commonwealth of today. First published in 1965, the theme of this work by an Indian author is the growth of the idea of Commonwealth in India from 1885, the year in which the Indian National Congress was organized, to 1929, when Congress declared 'complete independence' to be its goal. What did the British Empire mean to early Indian nationalists? Answers to this and other questions are attempted in this book.

Society and Knowledge

V. G. Childe

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1956, the well-known archaeologist here takes on the role of philosopher. The author argues that knowledge is a social phenomenon, and that our intellectual life is the product of social heritage: reality is the product of different opinions of various societies.

Humanism

The Greek Ideal and Its Survival

Moses Hadas

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in the UK in 1961 this was an unconventional book when first published but a powerful interpretation of Greek individualism. The author examines the influence of the Greeks on European philosophy, religion, literature, art and architecture and challenges many commonly held assumptions.

The Meeting of Love and Knowledge

Perennial Wisdom

Martin C. D'Arcy

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1958 and authored by one of the foremost liberal Catholic theologians of the 20th Century, this book recognizes the need for a greater unity of understanding among all faiths and explores these common grounds with insight and sympathy, bringing to Catholics and non-Catholics alike a full measure of the author's inspiration and judgement.

Matter, Mind and Man

Edmund W. Sinnott

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1957 and written by one of the 20th Century's leading botanists and a fierce advocate of organicism, this book explores concepts about man and his relation to life and the universe, and about the great creative and spiritual powers within and around him. The author provides answers to perennial human questions whilst discussing the problems of sin, justice, ugliness and beauty.

The Transformations of Man

Lewis Mumford

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1957, this volume compares the 20th Century transformation of human life to the revolution which swept early man into the first civilized communities. It shows how each radical new stage of human development grew out of changes in human personality and consciousness, such as the invention of language and symbols, the origins of universal religions and the mechanization of everyday life.

Scope of Total Architecture

Walter Gropius

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1956, this book provides a non-technical analysis of contemporary building by one of the world's greatest architects. Published a few years after the end of WW2, it was an inspiring and constructive picture of what kind of living could lie ahead for Western industrial society. This book, the result of many years in the forefront of architectural experiment and achievement by the author, outlines in practical terms the road to improved existence through science, mass production in building and renewed emphasis on the individual.

Voices of Man

The Meaning and Function of Language

Mario Pei

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1964, this book examines where and how the pattern and texture of speech emerged and whether language is logical. It looks at linguistics from both the historical and descriptive points of view, as a physical science and as a social science. It also discusses the problem of aesthetics in language and what happens when different languages come into contact with each other. The book concludes with a discussion of the possibility of an international language, and indeed whether such a development would be progress or something that is needed or wanted.

Man and Materialism

Fred Hoyle

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1957, this book offers a challenging intellectual experience to the reader who wishes to understand the broad historical trends that determine the future of humanity on this planet. The book examines natural laws that govern humanity by looking at communities over long periods of time and noting patterns which become evident. The book includes discussions of communism, the crisis in food and population growth, the significance of industrialism and man and his religious beliefs – all issues that remain as relevant today as when the book was first published.

World Indivisible

With Liberty and Justice for All

Konrad Adenauer

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in the UK in 1956, this book presents the essence of the political philosophy of one of Europe's best-known post-war statesmen, as well as his experience in government as head of Germany in one of its most critical periods of history. The role of Germany in a (then) new Europe is discussed, along with its rearmament, its greatly restored economic power and its relation to NATO. Germany's Chancellor gives his views on the world struggle, the cold war, Germany and America, Germany and Israel and the difficulties and responsibilities of the alliance of free nations.

The Meaning of the Twentieth Century

The Great Transition

Kenneth Boulding

Series: World Perspectives

Originally published in 1965 this book traces the forces which have brought the 20th century 'post-civilisation' into being: the ever-increasing power of science and the scientific attitude, the global communication network, the high efficiency of industrial societies. New conditions pointed to a life of ease but also enormous problems. The book discusses how though our technical resources have become immense, social and psychological conflicts remain. The author's training in psychology and economics combines with a deep sense of history to create a book which is as relevant now as when it was first published.

Rediscover Routledge Classics

CELEBRATING 20 YEARS OF GROUND-BREAKING PUBLISHING

With over 200 titles, Routledge Classics is an attractive and affordable series of the most innovative and important works of modern times; books that have, by popular consent, become established as classics in their field. Routledge Classics has brought to more than a million readers worldwide the very best of Routledge publishing over the last century and beyond, providing readers with field-defining and ground-breaking work across a variety of subjects.

“It’s a remarkable series. These are the books that helped shape the intellectual life of the 20th century.

– Al Alvarez

“Routledge Classics is more than just a collection of texts...it embodies and circulates challenging ideas and keeps vital debates current and alive.

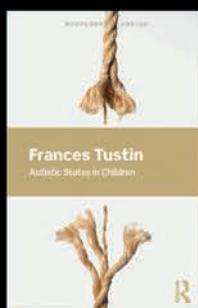

– Hilary Mantel
