Forensic Mental Health

Framing Integrated Solutions

Edited by Michele P. Bratina, West Chester University

In this book author Michele Bratina demonstrates how the Sequential Intercept Model (SIM) supports integration of the U.S. healthcare and justice systems to offer more positive outcomes for offenders with mental illness. The book describes a criminal justice–mental health nexus that touches every population—juvenile and adult male and female offenders, probationers and parolees, the aging adult prison population, and victims of crime. Forensic Mental Health takes a multidisciplinary approach, addressing social work, psychology, counseling, and special education, and covers developments such as caselaw related to the right to treatment and trauma-informed care.

Safeguarding the Process

Edited by Jane Tudor-Owen, Celine van Golde, Ray Bull, University of Leicester, UK and David Gee

Series: Routledge Series on Practical and Evidence-Based Policing

This book is an in-depth, evidence-based guide to interviewing suspects with specific vulnerabilities. It provides an overview of current research, practices, and legal considerations for interviewing vulnerable suspects, incorporating guidelines regarding the identification of vulnerabilities, engaging with third parties in the interview, and training and supervision. It then goes on to cover specific vulnerabilities typically encountered in suspect populations, providing clear summaries of current research, case studies, and practical guidance for conducting interviews with these populations to facilitate best practice in interviewing.

Edited by Jane L Wood, Jaimee S Mallion and Sarah Frisby-Osman

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour

Psychology of Gangs expands existing knowledge by applying psychological knowledge to gangs, including how gang members think, their mental and emotional wellbeing, and their perceptions of gang involvement, as well as issues relating to gang prevention and intervention strategies. This book offers readers a clearer understanding of the important role that social psychological processes play in the formation and maintenance of gangs and gang membership. It will enhance readers' understanding of gang members' social cognition, emotional intelligence, wellbeing, and mental health, as well as how these factors potentially promote and sustain individual gang involvement.

2nd Edition

Rape

Challenging Contemporary Thinking – 10 Years On

Edited by Miranda A. H. Horvath, Middlesex University, UK and Jennifer M. Brown, LSE, UK

This book takes stock of current thinking and research about rape and the way it is handled in practice within the criminal justice system, as well as challenging some of the widely held but inaccurate beliefs about rape. This new edition incorporates old and new contexts where sexual exploitation takes place, identifying some knowledge gaps especially when considering voices of complainants/victims/survivors who are invisible or muted. Numerous new areas of research include the implications arising from #MeToo and Black Lives Matter movements, the limitations of our present criminal justice systems, and radical alternatives to closing the justice gap.

Shades of Deviance

A Primer on Crime, Deviance and Social Harm

Edited by Rowland Atkinson, University of Sheffield, UK and Tammy Ayres, University of Leicester, UK

Shades of Deviance is a turbo-driven guide to crime and deviance. It offers politically engaged, thought-provoking and accessibly written accounts of a wide range of socially and legally prohibited acts. This updated and revised edition is designed to be essential reading for general readers, undergraduate students in the fields of criminology and sociology, and those preparing to embark on degree courses in these fields.

Jan Jordan, Victoria University of Wellington, Aotearoa New Zealand

Series: Victims, Culture and Society

In Tackling Rape Culture: Ending Patriarchy, Jan Jordan asks why, despite decades of feminist activism, does rape culture remain so endemic within contemporary society. She argues that, in order to understand the global pandemic of sexual violence, we must view rape culture as a consequence of the social divisiveness that emerges from the logic of patriarchy. In advancing this argument, Jordan offers a comprehensive indictment of the patriarchal system while recognising also women's efforts to resist its edicts.

A Restorative Approach to Family Violence

Feminist Kin-Making

Joan Pennell

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

This book looks back at an early and successful demonstration of a family-and-culturally-based model to stop severe family violence. This conferencing model, called family group decision making, was applied by three diverse Canadian communities—Inuit, rural, and urban—to the benefit of child and adult family members. Narrative inquiry identifies how engaging the family and relatives resets the narrative from misrecognition to recognition of their competence and caring. The book offers a theory of feminist kin-making to comprehend the restorative process and gives practical guidance to restorative participants, practitioners, policy makers, and researchers.

Applied Photovoice in Criminal Justice

Voices Made Visible

Wendy Fitzgibbon

Series: Criminology in Focus

Building on her leading research in creative methodology, in this book Wendy Fitzgibbon explores and illustrates how Photovoice, a participatory, active research tool, can enable new insights and engagement with both marginalised people and those working with them in the criminal justice system.

Written in a clear and direct style it is essential reading for all those engaged with criminal justice, criminological research methods and visual criminology.

Co-production and Criminal Justice

Diana Johns, Catherine Flynn, Monash University, Australia, Maggie Hall, Claire Spivakovsky and Shelley Turner

Series: Criminology in Focus

This book explores co-production of knowledge in criminal justice contexts: in prisons and youth detention centres; with criminalised women; from practitioners' perspectives; and with First Nations communities. It considers which voices are heard in the coerced, controlled settings of courts, prisons, police and non-government justice agencies.

The book provides a foundational text for scholars and practitioners of criminology and social work seeking to apply co-production principles in their research and practice. Its critical insights will enhance their work in the field. With stories from Australia, the UK and Ireland, the text will appeal to the international community.

Peter Joyce, University of Glyndwr, UK and Wendy Laverick

This updated fourth edition offers an engaging introduction to the criminal justice system of England and Wales. Starting with an overview of the main theories of the causes of crime, this book explores and discusses the operation of the main criminal justice agencies including the police, probation and prison services and the legal and youth justice systems.

This accessible text is essential reading for students taking introductory courses in criminology and criminal justice. A wide range of useful features includes review questions, lists of further reading, timelines of key events and a glossary of key terms.

Criminal Justice Responses to Domestic Abuse in Northern Ireland

Ronagh J.A. McQuigg, Queen's University Belfast, UK

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This book provides a detailed exploration of the responses of the criminal justice system to domestic abuse in Northern Ireland. The book's primary focus is on developments which have taken place since around 2010, and in particular since the restoration of the Northern Ireland Assembly in January 2020 after a three year suspension. The book includes discussion of the increased levels of domestic abuse in Northern Ireland in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic, and analyses the ways in which the criminal justice system responded.

Mapping Global Justice

Perspectives, Cases and Practice

Arnaud Kurze and Christopher K. Lamont

Series: Global Issues in Crime and Justice

This book offers a broad and multidisciplinary survey of global justice, bridging the gap between theory and practice by connecting conceptual frameworks with a panoply of case studies and an in-depth discussion of practical challenges.

Connecting these critical aspects to larger moral and ethical debates is essential for thinking about large, abstract ideas and applying them directly to specific contexts.

Bringing together perspectives from a wealth of disciplines, this book is essential reading for courses on global justice across criminology, sociology, political science, anthropology, philosophy and law.

Gendered Labour, Everyday Security and Migration

An Examination of Domestic Work and Domestic Workers' Experiences in Singapore and Hong Kong

Shih Joo Tan

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Justice, Borders and Citizenship

Drawing on original empirical research from Singapore and Hong Kong, Gendered Labour, Everyday Security and Migration interrogates women migrant domestic workers' experiences of work and workplace exploitation.

This book addresses the limited research literature that examines the extent to which regulatory or criminal justice responses are relevant to, and utilised by, women migrant domestic workers in their everyday negotiation of safe work and offers a unique contribution to the field.

An accessible and compelling read, it will be of interest to researchers from across the fields of criminology, sociology, labour migration studies and women's studies.

Geometrical Justice

The Death Penalty in America

Scott Phillips and Mark Cooney

Legal decisions continue to mystify: Who gets sentenced to death in America and who gets executed? Legal rules are supposed to provide answers to these questions, but their answers are radically incomplete.

Geometrical Justice answers these questions by enlisting the pathbreaking geometrical theory of law developed by sociologist Donald Black. Drawing on large datasets, including the Baldus study which demonstrated racial bias in sentencing decisions, this book considers how characteristics such as race, class, social integration, moral reputation, and organizational status affect legal decision making.

The Routledge Handbook of Women's Experiences of Criminal Justice

Edited by Isla Masson, Arden University, UK and Natalie Booth

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This Handbook brings together the voices of a range of contributors interested in the many varied experiences of women in criminal justice systems, and who are seeking to challenge the status quo. Although there is increasing literature and research on gender, and certain aspects of the criminal justice system (often Western focused), there is a significant gap in the form of a Handbook that brings together these important gendered conversations.

The Victimology of a Wrongful Conviction

Innocent Inmates and Indirect Victims

Nicky Jackson, Kathryn M. Campbell and Margaret Pate

This book exposes the myriad of victims of wrongful conviction by going beyond the innocent person who has been wrongfully incarcerated to include the numerous indirect victims who suffer collaterally. In no way overlooking the egregious effects on the wrongfully convicted, this book widens the net to also examine consequences for family, friends, co-workers, witnesses, the initial victims of the crime, and society in general—all indirect victims who are often forgotten in treatments of wrongful conviction.

Victims' Access to Justice

Historical and Comparative Perspectives

Edited by Pamela Cox, University of Essex, UK and Sandra Walklate, University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Victims, Culture and Society

Building on a major research project exploring victims' access to justice over time and place, Victims' Access to Justice considers the potentialities for victims' participation in criminal justice systems and in victim programmes both in historical and comparative context. It considers a range of topics: ways of identifying and accommodating victims' needs and senses of justice; the impacts for criminal justice systems of seeking to accommodate these; and the ways in which adversarial criminal justice systems, in particular, may enable or inhibit victim participation.

This is essential reading for all those engaged in understanding and working with victims of crime.

American Criminal Law

Its People, Principles, and Evolution

Paul H. Robinson and Sarah M. Robinson

This coursebook offers an exciting new approach to teaching criminal law to graduate and undergraduate students, and indeed to the general public. Each well-organized and student-friendly chapter offers historical context, tells the story of a principal historic case, provides a modern case that contrasts with the historic, explains the legal issue at the heart of both cases, includes a unique mapping feature describing the range of positions on the issue among the states today, examines a key policy question on the topic, and provides an aftermath that reports the final chapter to the historic and modern case stories.

Black Iconography and Colonial (re)production at the ICC

(In)dependence Cha Cha Cha?

Stanley Mwangi Wanjiru

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This book explores the reproduction of colonialism at the International Criminal Court (ICC), and examines International criminal law (ICL) vs the Black body through an immersive format of Art, Music, Poetry, and Architecture and post-colonial/critical race theory lens. Taking a multi-disciplinary approach, the book interrogates the operationalization of the Rome statute to detail a Eurocentric hegemony at the core of ICL. It explores how colonialism and slavery have come to shape ICL, exposing the perpetuation of the colonial and warns that it heralds ominous contemporary and future implications for Africa.

Legal Professionals Negotiating the Borders of Identity

Operation Streamline and Competing Identity Management

Jessie K. Finch, Jessie K. Finch is a Senior Lecturer in Sociology at Northern Arizona University.

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

This book uses a controversial criminal immigration court procedure along the México-U.S. border called Operation Streamline as a rich setting to understand the identity management strategies employed by lawyers and judges. How do individuals negotiate situations in which their work-role identity is put in competition with their other social identities such as race/ethnicity, citizenship/generational status, and gender? By developing a new and integrative conceptualization of competing identity management, this book highlights the connection between micro-level identities and macro-level systems of structural racism, nationalism, and patriarchy.

The Cannabis Social Club

Edited by Mafalda Pardal

Series: Drugs, Crime and Society

As cannabis legalization reforms are underway, there is some concern that non-profit, 'middle ground' options may remain under-researched and thus less visible. This book offers an in-depth account of one of the possible 'middle ground' models for the supply of cannabis: the Cannabis Social Club. Cannabis Social Clubs (CSCs) are typically formal, non-profit associations of adult cannabis users who produce and distribute that substance close to or at cost price among themselves. They constitute a user-driven model for the supply of cannabis.

The Social and Legal Regulation of Domestic Violence in The Kesarwani Community

Kolkata, India and Beyond

Amrita Mukhopadhyay, Amrita Mukhopadhyay is currently teaching at University of New South Wales.

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This book examines the social and legal regulation of domestic violence (DV) within the Kesarwani business community following the enactment of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act 2005. It analyses the existence of the formal law in Kolkata and the relevance of the law in the familial lives of the Kesarwani community. The book offers a new conceptualisation of examining the relationship between formal law and social life. It provides a deep insight into how living with violence becomes a way of living and how the disposition to familial violence exists with social advantage and privilege.

'Star Men' in English Convict Prisons, 1879-1948

Ben Bethell, Ben Bethell teaches at Central Saint Martins, University of the Arts London.

Series: Routledge SOLON Explorations in Crime and Criminal Justice Histories

This book tells the story of the star class, a segregated division for first offenders in English convict prisons; known informally as 'star men', convicts assigned to the division were identified by a red star sewn to their uniforms. 'Star Men' in English Convict Prisons, 1879-1948 investigates the origins of the star class in the years leading up to its establishment in 1879, and charts its subsequent development during the late-Victorian, Edwardian and interwar decades.

Invisible Voices

The Black Presence in Crime and Punishment in the UK, 1750–1900

Martin Glynn

Invisible Voices explores the intersection of criminology and history as a way of contextualizing the historical black presence in crime and punishment in the UK. Through case studies, court transcripts, and biographical accounts it reimagines the understanding/s of the role of history in shaping contemporary perceptions. The book moves beyond the confines of presenting 'criminological history' as monocultural; demonstrates how 'mainstream criminology' is complicit in obscuring 'hidden criminological histories; critically assesses the implications regarding the positioning of 'the black presence' within the discipline of criminology.

Motherhood, Respectability & Baby-Farming in Victorian and Edwardian London

Joshua Stuart-Benett, Joshua Stuart-Bennett is Research Associate at University of Leicester

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

Motherhood, Respectability & Baby-Farming in Victorian & Edwardian London explores the largely obscured marketplace of motherhood that provided ways for women to manage the stigma of illegitimacy and their respectable identities within Victorian and Edwardian society. It focuses on the extent of women's 'dirty work', when maternal problem management was fundamental to the general maintenance of respectability and, by extension, to Empire and Civilisation.

The Private Sector and Organized Crime

Criminal Entrepreneurship, Illicit Profits, and Private Sector Security Governance

Edited by Yuliya Zabyelina and Kimberley L. Thachuk

Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime

This book contributes to the literature on organized crime by providing a detailed account of what happens when criminal organizations misuse or infiltrate legitimate businesses. It sheds light on the important role the private sector can play to fight back.

The articles will appeal to students, academics, and policy practitioners with an interest in organized crime. They will also provide important supplementary reading for undergraduate and graduate courses on topics such as transnational security issues, transnational crime, international criminal justice, criminal finance, non-state actors, international affairs, comparative politics, and economics and business courses.

Understanding Mafia Networks

Roberto Musotto

Series: Organizational Crime

The Sicilian Mafia is the most famous criminal organisation in the world. While its own code of honour, rustic chivalry and violence methods have been adopted by other illicit groups, very little is known about how the Mafia, Cosa Nostra, is actually organised and embedded in its territory. Who runs the day-to-day operations? What does it take for a Mafioso to raise the ranks and become a boss? How can the organisation protect itself and re-group after arrests?

Human Rights Policing

Reimagining Law Enforcement in the 21st Century

Peter Marina and Pedro Marina

Series: Routledge Series on Practical and Evidence-Based Policing

Relying on intense ethnographic research and extensive experiences teaching human rights policing to police officers, this book teaches law enforcement professionals how to apply human rights to their everyday interactions with community members. The data collected throughout this research process offers the reader first-hand accounts of police officers addressing the most important human rights as they relate to policing, telling stories of using their human agency while on the job, and providing insights into their discussions with community members on human rights, among other important topics.

Law Enforcement and American Policing

History, Culture, Methods, Practices, Tactics, and Techniques

Robert J. Girod

This book explains the differences between law enforcement and policing and explains how to do them in an effective, efficient, and economical manner. It presents both the academic research on the history, traditions, theories, and contemporary issues in policing as well as the practical application of tactics, techniques, and technology for conducting law enforcement operations. This book goes beyond the standard sociological text on policing to bridge the gap between theory and practice. It is essential reading for law enforcement leaders, officers, and trainees and is appropriate for students in law enforcement and criminal justice programs.

Street Cop

Policing in Context

George C. Klein

This book provides an ethnography of street-level policing in the United States and offers an analysis with valuable lessons for today's law enforcement officers. Author George C. Klein, sociologist and former police officer, explores the characteristics of policing in a suburb outside of large Midwestern city in the United States. As a participant-observation fieldworker, he functioned as an ethnographic researcher, recording with a sociological eye the "real world" tasks of policing, including the ordinary as well as the more remarkable aspects of day-to-day law enforcement.

The Wicked Problems of Police Reform in Canada

Laura Huey, Lorna Ferguson and Jennifer L. Schulenberg

Series: Routledge Series on Practical and Evidence-Based Policing

This book looks at police reform in Canada, arguing that no significant and sustainable reform can occur until until steps are taken to answer the question of "What exactly do we want police to do?" Adding challenge to this is that setting boundaries on what we expect the police to do requires grappling with the complex social problems we ask them to resolve. This book is suitable for a wide range of audiences within and outside Canada, including law enforcement and community leaders; scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing; students of criminal justice, organizations, and management; and citizen consumers of information about policing.

Reimagining Probation Practice

Re-forming Rehabilitation in an Age of Penal Excess

Edited by Lol Burke, Liverpool John Moores University, UK, Nicola Carr, Emma Cluley, Steve Collett and Fergus McNeill

This book provides a comprehensive and positive reimagining of probation practice in England and Wales across all the key settings in which work with people subject to supervision takes place. Bringing together chapters co-authored by academics and practitioners, it offers an overall conceptualisation of the rehabilitative endeavour within the realities of a probation service recently unified after the acknowledged failure of the Transforming Rehabilitation reforms.

This book is essential reading for practitioners and all those engaged in probation training, as well as policy makers, leaders, managers and those interested in social and criminal justice.

Biosecurity, Economic Collapse, the State to Come

Political Power in the Pandemic and Beyond

Christos Boukalas, Christos Boukalas is a Professor at Northumbria Law School, UK.

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This book offers an in-depth critical account of the state's responses to the biosecurity and the economic crises. It is thus the first study to address both crises ensuing from the pandemic, and to synthesise the responses to them in a comprehensive account of political power. What kind of state emerges from the pandemic? The pandemic caused two crises, in biosecurity and in the economy. The state was forced to tackle both; but subduing one inevitably exacerbated the other. Emerging from the impossible task of handling two conflicting crises is a new form of state, the state to come.

How Countries Count Crime

An Exercise in Police Discretion

Edited by John A. Eterno, Arvind Verma and Eli B. Silverman, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, New York, USA

This edited collection illuminates the weaknesses and strengths of crime reporting across a wide range of countries, with a focus on democratic countries in which the police bear some accountability to citizens. In one compendium, for the first time, this book documents how different countries record (or fail to record) crimes. With chapters written by native authors who are experts on the practices of their respective countries, the book explores practices in 15 different countries across the globe. The book is intended for a wide range of audiences, including policing scholars, law enforcement and community leaders, and students of criminal justice.

Machine Learning for Criminology and Crime Research

At the Crossroads

Gian Maria Campedelli

Series: Routledge Advances in Criminology

Machine Learning for Criminology and Crime Research reviews the roots of the intersection between machine learning, Artificial Intelligence, and research on crime, examines the current state of the art in this area of scholarly inquiry, and discusses future perspectives that may emerge from this relationship. As machine learning and Artificial Intelligence (AI) approaches become increasingly pervasive, it is critical for criminology and crime research to reflect on the ways in which these paradigms could reshape the study of crime. In response, this book seeks to stimulate this discussion.

Campus Sexual Violence

A State of Institutionalized Sexual Terrorism

Sarah Prior and Brooke de Heer

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

Campus Sexual Violence: A State of Institutionalized Sexual Terrorism conceptualizes sexual violence on college campuses as a form of sexual terrorism, arguing that institutional compliance and inaction within the neoliberal university perpetuate a system of sexual terrorism. Using a sexual terrorism framework, the authors examine a myriad of examples of campus sexual violence with an intersectional lens and explore the role of the institution and the influence of neoliberalism in undermining sexual violence prevention efforts.

Towards a Deeper Understanding

Sara Skott, Professor at Mid Sweden University.

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Behaviour

Homicide: Towards a Deeper Understanding offers an in-depth analysis into the phenomenon of homicide, examining different types of homicide and how these types have changed over time. Based on original analysis on Scottish data, this book draws upon an international body of research to contextualize the findings in a global setting, filling an important gap in the homicide literature pertaining to the relationship between trends in homicide and violence. Examining homicide from gendered as well as Gothic perspectives, this book also relates homicide to novel, critical theory.

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

This book examines how the concept of violence has been interpreted, used, defined and explored by social researchers and thinkers. It does not provide a final answer to the question of what violence is or how it should be explained (or prevented), and instead offers a variety of useful ways of thinking about and theorising the phenomenon, mainly from a sociological standpoint.

It is essential reading for criminologists, sociologists, and philosophers alike.

Watching Murder

ISIS, Death Videos and Radicalization

Simon Cottee, Professor, University of Kent, UK

Watching Murder shines a light onto the dark world of jihadi murder videos and the people who watch and share them on the internet. Images and videos of murder, torture, and other cruelties are everywhere on the internet. Why do some people seek out and watch this material, how are they affected by it, and do they have a right to watch any of it in the first place? In this ground-breaking book, terrorism scholar Simon Cottee visits the murky fringes of the internet in search of answers.

Children, Care and Crime

Trauma and Transformation

Alison Gerard, Andrew McGrath, Emma Colvin and Annette Gainsford

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society

The historical context of colonisation situates the analysis in Children, Care and Crime of the involvement of children with care experience in the criminal justice system in an Australian jurisdiction (New South Wales), focusing on residential care, policing, the provision of legal services, and interactions in the Children's Court. While the majority of children in care do not have contact with the criminal justice system, this book explores why those with care-experience, and Indigenous children, are over-represented in this system.

Negotiating Class in Youth Justice

Professional Practice and Interactions

Jasmina Arnež

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Justice and the Family

This book examines how class shapes interactions between professionals, parents, and young people in the youth justice system, utilising a mix of contemporary social theory and empirical material. It suggests ways to neutralise the effects of class on youth justice interventions and argues for reform based on conceptions of negotiated justice, relational agency, and autonomy in dependence.

An innovative contribution to the fields of criminology, youth justice, and crime and the family, the book provides an important source of knowledge for academics and practitioners interested in discussions on social class and indirect discrimination.

Law of Export Credit Insurance and Guarantees

Cheng Lin

Examining the law of export credit insurance and export credit guarantees, this book clarifies the legal nature of ECI and ECGs as insurance and guarantees by comparing their legal characteristics regarding contract formation process, terms and conditions, duty of fair presentation, claim handling process and subrogation and recoveries. It further explores why some export credit agencies provide export credit guarantees in addition to export credit insurance, notwithstanding that an ECG is a more client-friendly product and easier than ECI for banks to use. This book is an important reference for students, academics and practitioners in the field of commercial and insurance law.

Tax Avoidance and European Law

Redesigning Sovereignty Through Multilateral Regulation

Mihaela Tofan

Series: Routledge Research in Tax Law

This book explores the relationship between tax avoidance regulation and sovereignty within the European Union, analysing the impact of the effective regulatory methods for limiting and eliminating aggressive tax planning by the multinational companies. Focusing on analysing good practice in fiscal regulation efficiency and the results generated by the tax jurisprudence both at national and European level, its main objective is to present the argument for inter-dependency between taxation and the current changes in the concept of sovereignty.

Legal Theory of Auction

Kristijan Poljanec

The widespread understanding of auction structure considers auction as consisting of three contracts: contract between the seller and the auctioneer, contract between the auctioneer and the buyer and the sale contract between the seller and the buyer. The book challenges this concept arguing that the traditional tripartite concept of auction is too narrow and does not correspond to the actual structure of auction relations.

Atrocity Crimes and International Law

Responsibility to Protect, Intercession, and Non-Forceful Responses

Stacey Henderson

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Armed Conflict

This book illuminates the way in which measures of intercession, inspired by the ideals of Responsibility to Protect (R2P), have provided a solution to the dilemma of articulating when and how the international community may respond to atrocity crimes occurring in other States. The work concludes that the development of the secondary duty on the international community under R2P provides the greatest opportunity to progress the R2P framework in a meaningful way. The book will be essential reading for students, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of International Law, International Relations, Humanitarian Law, and Peace and Security Studies.

Classifying Genocide in International Law

The Substantiality Requirement

Onur Uraz

This book examines genocide law by focusing on one of the lesser examined, yet practically significant, issues: the 'substantiality requirement'. This comprehensive study draws connections between different judicial approaches to 'substantiality' and the varying theoretical presumptions about the constitutive concepts of the crime. This prima facie doctrinal problem is used to scrutinise the broader theoretical problems underlying the legal conceptualisation of genocide. The book will be highly useful to students and scholars with an interest in genocide studies, international criminal law and legal theory. It will also be of interest to policymakers engaged with issues around genocide.

Challenges in Criminal Justice

Edited by Ed Johnston

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This collection examines contemporary challenges to the criminal justice system in England and Wales. Written by established academics, rising stars and practising lawyers, it highlights the problems and offers solutions. Topics discussed include: legal theory and procedure; regulation and enforcement; the trial process; prevention and punishment; the use of AI and legal tech; and Covid 19. Through original analysis, the reader will gain substantial insight into contemporary challenges in these areas. While focused on this jurisdiction, the topics discussed are of wider international significance and will be of interest to students, academics and policy-makers.

Domestic Abuse, Victims and the Law

Mandy Burton, University of Leicester, UK

This book examines how legal responses to domestic abuse have evolved over the past decade. It also explores how the victim's rights narrative, which has become prevalent in legal discourse and criminal justice reforms, has shifted expectations and impacted on domestic abuse policy and law. The book maps the gap between what the law offers and what the law actually does in domestic abuse cases. It also evaluates what impact the victim's rights narrative has had on the law in practice.

Chief Executive Offenders and Economic Crime

A Convenience Theory Approach

Petter Gottschalk

This book examines the role of Chief Executives in white collar crime from a convenience theory perspective. Privileged position status, legitimate resource access, institutional deterioration, lack of control and guardianship, and criminal networks such as cartels are some of the typical factors of opportunity convenience when chief executives commit white-collar crime.

Fair Trial Rules of Evidence

The Case Law of the European Court of Human Rights

Jurkka Jämsä, Dr Jurkka Jämsä is a Junior Justice (asesori) in the Vaasa Court of Appeal, Finland
Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This book examines how the European Court of Human Rights approaches evidence, and how its judgments affect domestic law. The work examines the key defence rights that may touch upon evidence, such as the right to adduce evidence, the right to disclosure, the privilege against self-incrimination and access to a lawyer, entrapment, and the right to cross-examine prosecution witnesses. It explains the assessment criteria used by the Court and introduces a framework for understanding these. Providing a comprehensive overview on the relevant case

Fault in Criminal Law

A Research Companion

Edited by Alan Reed and Michael Bohlander

Series: Substantive Issues in Criminal Law

This volume presents a comparative examination of Fault in Criminal Law, focusing on fault liability for inculcation. It addresses three specific elements and embraces an overarching synergy between them. The structure facilitates an examination of UK provisions, with specialist contributions on domestic law, contrasting these provisions against alternative domestic jurisdictions, as well as comparative contributions addressing a particularised research grid for content. The comparative chapters explore how other legal systems treat specialised issues relating to fault elements in Criminal Law. The book will be an invaluable resource for researchers, academics and practitioners

Honour-Based Violence and Forced Marriages

Community and Restorative Practices in Europe

Clara Rigoni, Clara Rigoni is a Senior Researcher at the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Crime, Security and Law, in Freiburg, Germany.

Series: Law, Crime and Culture

This book examines the possibility of using alternative programmes to address cases of honour-based violence and forced marriages. Taking a comparative approach, it attempts to reconcile pluralism and the rule of law and proposes effective ways to tackle honour crimes based on cooperation and individualisation of the proceedings, and capable of improving women's access to justice and reducing secondary victimisation. In Defense of Juveniles Sentenced to Life

Legal Representation and Juvenile Criminal Justice

Stuti S. Kokkaler

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This book examines how attorneys enable a meaningful opportunity for parole release for individuals sentenced to life as juveniles ("juvenile lifers"). The work explores how legal representation facilitates opportunities for release for juvenile lifers and considers the importance of legal representation by investigating the role of an attorney in the parole process. The work will be relevant to students, academics, and policy makers, particularly for state parole boards, public defender agencies and legislatures. While the analysis is based on the experience of one state, the findings are generalizable to other states and countries that similarly conduct parole board hearings.

Probation, Mental Health and Criminal Justice

Towards Equivalence

Edited by Charlie Brooker and Coral Sirdifield

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This collection of research and evaluation explores issues in mental health and probation across the globe. The volume offers insight into a wide range of interrelated topics that address the mental health and mental health needs of those under probation supervision. The underpinning assumption is that offenders should receive mental healthcare that is 'equivalent' to that received by the general population where this is appropriate. The book will be a valuable resource for academics and researchers as well as those training to work in, and currently working in, the criminal justice and mental health field, and to those working in related healthcare settings.

The Participation of Victims in International Criminal Proceedings

An Expressivist Justice Model

Alessandra Cuppini, The Open University, UK

This book argues that the expressivist justice model, which has the capacity to create a historical narrative of gross human rights violations, provides a meaningful foundation for the participation of victims in international criminal proceedings. It takes an interdisciplinary approach, giving special attention to victimological and international human rights law perspectives on victims' participatory rights and to the philosophical foundation of international criminal justice. The Role of the Media in Criminal Justice Policy

Prisons, Populism and the Press

Natalia Antolak-Saper

This book provides a socio-legal examination of the media's influence on the development and implementation of criminal justice policy. Deploying a socio-legal framework to examine how the media's often powerful and emotive narratives play a crucial role in the development and implementation of law, the book provides a deep and critical reflection on its influence. This multi-disciplinary book will appeal to scholars and students in socio-legal studies, criminology and criminal law as well as those working in relevant areas in sociology and media studies.

Digital Media Law

A Practical Guide for the Media and Entertainment Industries

Christopher S. Reed

A practical guide to the law of media and communication, focusing on digital channels, models, and technologies. It draws together the aspects of media law that are most critical for those engaged in the production and distribution of digital media, from traditional broadcasters and internet-based services to major internet platforms. Key features include: "In the News" sections, which tie the legal principles to real-world events and an integrated fictional case study of a media enterprise. This accessible textbook is the ideal companion for advanced undergraduate and graduate students as well as practitioners interested in law, journalism, and media studies.

5th Edition

Media & Entertainment Law

Ursula Smartt

Now in its fifth edition, this textbook combines comprehensive coverage with rigorous analysis of a key area of the law. The author illuminates how the courts strive to strike a balance between the freedoms and responsibilities of the press on the one hand, and an individual's right to privacy on the other. With a variety of pedagogical features to encourage critical thinking, this unique textbook is essential reading for media and entertainment law courses at undergraduate and postgraduate levels, and an insightful resource for students and reflective practitioners of journalism, public relations and media studies.

The Principle of the Welfare of the Child

A History

Kerry O'Halloran, Queensland University of Technology,
Brisbane, Australia

Series: Children and the Law

This book traces the evolution of the welfare interests of the child principle over the centuries in England & Wales to provide a record of the key milestones in its development. It does so by comparing and contrasting the part it has played in the public – care, protection and control – and in the private – matrimonial, adoption etc – sectors of family law.

By analysing the content of the principle this book discloses the essence of what has been termed 'the golden thread running through the common law'. By considering the ways in which the legal system has shaped and been shaped by the principle, it reveals its structural influence.

Civilian Drones, Visual Privacy and EU Human Rights Law

Girish Agarwal

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book examines rights issues in relation to visual privacy in the use of civilian drones. Here, visual privacy is described as the freedom from a combination of unwanted activities directed towards an individual, such as observing, recording, and publishing of personal visual information without an individual's consent. The book answers the question of whether visual observation of an individual with the help of the camera systems onboard a civilian drone is lawful in light of EU law. The book will be a valuable resource for researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of technology, privacy and human rights law.

Human Rights Law and Counter Terrorism Strategies

Dead, Detained or Stateless

Diane Webber

Series: Routledge Research in Terrorism and the Law

In 2006, the United Nations urged Member States to ensure that counter terrorism policies guaranteed respect for human rights and the rule of law. This book demonstrates that, in many cases, counter terrorism policies relating to preventive detention, targeted killing and measures relating to returning foreign terrorist fighters have failed to respect human rights, and this encourages vulnerable people to be drawn towards supporting or committing acts of terrorism. The work will be essential reading for students, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of human rights, humanitarian law and counter terrorism.

Decisional Privacy and the Rights of the Child

Georgina Dimopoulos, Georgina Dimopoulos, Faculty of Business and Law, Swinburne University of Technology, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book advances a theory of a child's right to decisional privacy. It considers the interconnections between privacy, family law and children's rights, arguing that recognising a substantive right to decisional privacy for children requires procedural rights that facilitate children's meaningful participation in decision-making. It argues that courts have increasingly encroached upon and denied decisional privacy rights of transgender and gender diverse children. This book will benefit researchers, students, judicial officers and practitioners grappling with tensions between children's rights, parental responsibilities and state duties relating to children's best interests.

International Human Rights Law and Destitution

An Economic, Social and Cultural Rights Perspective

Luke D. Graham, Coventry University, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book explores destitution from the perspective of International Human Rights Law and, more specifically, Economic, Social and Cultural Rights. The experience of destitution correlates to the non-realisation of a range of economic, social and cultural rights. However, destitution has not been defined from this perspective. This book expressly addresses this issue and in so doing renders the nexus between destitution and the non-realisation of these rights visible. This book will have global and cross-sectoral appeal to anti-poverty advocates, policy makers, researchers, academics and students.

Gender, Equality and Social Justice

Anti Trafficking, Sex Work and Migration Law and Policy in the EU

Sharron FitzGerald and Jane Freedman, Université de Paris 8, France

Series: Routledge Studies in Law and Humanity

This book addresses a gap in both contemporary theorising and empirical analysis of the European Union's (EU) law and policy frameworks on migration, sex work and anti trafficking. The work examines the processes involved in constructing and enacting policy frameworks and legal interventions on these issues, within a feminist analytical framework, and develops a general theoretical framework to help us understand how and why a consensus has seemingly been achieved at EU level on what constitutes gender equality in these three policy areas. The book presents a valuable resource for academics, researchers and

Redesigning Justice for Plural Societies

Case Studies of Minority Accommodation from around the Globe

Edited by Katayoun Alidadi, Bryant University, Marie-Claire Foblets and Dominik Müller, FAU, Germany

Series: Law and Anthropology

This volume examines cases of accommodation and recognition of minority practices: cultural, religious, ethnic, linguistic or otherwise, under state law. Representing multiple disciplines and methodologies, the work analyses the pitfalls and successes of accommodative practices, presenting insights into how solutions could or could not be achieved. The chapters address the sustainability and transferability of such solutions in order to further the dialogue in both scholarly and policy spheres. The book will be essential reading for academics, researchers and policy-makers in the areas of minority rights, legal anthropology, law and religion, legal philosophy, and law and migration.

Statelessness Determination Procedures and the Right to Nationality

Nigeria in Comparative Perspective

Solomon Oseghale Momoh, Dr Solomon Oseghale Momoh is a legal advisor at the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, Nigeria.

Series: Studies in Citizenship, Human Rights and the Law

This book advances the study of the right to nationality, the prevention of statelessness and the protection of stateless persons, taking Nigeria as a case study. The book appraises international legal regimes on statelessness, their efficacy or otherwise in practice, what can be improved under international law, and the relevance of these regimes in the Nigerian context. Presenting an in-depth analysis of how statelessness is approached in the global south, the work will be of interest to researchers, academics and policy-makers working in this field as well as those concerned with nationality from an international law perspective.

The European Convention of Human Rights Regime

Reform of Immigration and Minority Policies from Afar

Dia Anagnostou

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

After an unprecedented rise of litigation since the 1990s, this book examines how the European Convention of Human Rights (ECHR) and the Strasbourg Court interact with states and non-governmental actors to influence domestic change. Focusing on European Court of Human Rights litigation and state implementation of judgments related to minority discrimination and asylum/migration, it argues that a fundamental transformation of the Convention system has been under way. It will be of interest to international law and international relations scholars, political scientists, specialists on the ECHR, the Strasbourg Court, and to scholars interested in the human rights of immigrants and minorities.

The Inter American Court of Human Rights

The Legitimacy of International Courts and Tribunals

Natalia Torres Zúñiga

This book provides a critical legal perspective on the legitimacy of international courts and tribunals. The volume offers a critique of ideology of two legal approaches to the legitimacy of the Inter American Court of Human Rights (IACtHR) that portray it as a supranational tribunal whose last say on human rights protection has a transformative effect on the democracies of Latin America.

Digital Constitutionalism

The Role of Internet Bills of Rights

Edoardo Celeste

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

Investigating the impact of digital technology on contemporary constitutionalism, this book offers an overview of the transformations that are currently occurring at constitutional level, highlighting their link with ongoing societal changes. It reconstructs the multiple ways in which constitutional law is reacting to these challenges and explores the role of one original response to this phenomenon: the emergence of Internet bills of rights.

Internet of Things and the Law

Legal Strategies for Consumer-Centric Smart Technologies

Guido Noto La Diega

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

Internet of Things and the Law: Legal Strategies for Consumer-Centric Smart Technologies is the most comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of the legal issues in the Internet of Things (IoT). For decades, the decreasing importance of tangible wealth and power – and the corresponding increasing significance of their disembodied counterparts – has been the subject of much legal analysis. For some time now, legal scholars have grappled with how laws drafted for tangible property and pre-digital 'offline' technologies can cope with dematerialisation, digitalisation, and the internet.

The EU Artificial Intelligence Act

Regulating Subliminal AI Systems

Rostam J. Neuwirth

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

AI in combination with other innovative technologies promises to bring unprecedented opportunities to all aspects of life. These technologies, however, hold great dangers, especially for the manipulation of the human mind, which have given rise to serious ethical concerns. Apart from some sectoral regulatory efforts to address these concerns, no regulatory framework for AI has yet been adopted though in 2021 the European Commission of the EU published a draft Act on Artificial Intelligence and UNESCO followed suit with a Recommendation on the Ethics of Artificial Intelligence.

Patent Law, Green Technology and Innovation

Ankit Singh and Yogendra Kumar Srivastava

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

In the era of modern industrial regimes, the role of technology in tackling climate change is pivotal. International goals of climate change mitigation and sustainable development cannot be achieved without the contribution of new technologies. At the same time, the importance of patent protection and an efficient patent system that facilitates technology transfer among international frontiers cannot be overlooked. Many patented technologies are either not accessible for further dissemination or do not hold much technical value. Therefore, advanced systems of collaborative innovation have been developed, especially in the sector of green technology and green innovation.

An end-user perspective

Lasantha Ariyaratna, Griffith University, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

This book examines the challenges posed to Australian copyright law by streaming, from the end-user perspective. It compares the Australian position with the European Union and United States to draw lessons from them, regarding how they have dealt with streaming and copyright. By critically examining the technological functionality of streaming and the failure of copyright enforcement against the masses, it argues for strengthening end-user rights.

Global Governance of Civil Aviation Safety

Nilgun Ozgur

This book indicates the shortcomings of the current international legal system and customary international norms that govern international aviation law to comply with contemporary air transport market realities. 2nd Edition

Global Governance, Human Rights and International Law

Combating the Tragic Flaw

Errol P. Mendes, University of Ottawa, Canada

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

This second edition of the book is a unique introduction to the links between different areas of global governance, human rights and the global economy. By drawing on these links, the author argues that the foundations of global governance are undermined by what he terms internal "tragic flaws" which demonstrate how the legitimacy of key areas of global governance are undermined by failures to live up to their foundational values and respect for human dignity and rights. The book explores how human rights and international law are affected by these tragic flaws in the critical institutions of global governance and in the global private sector.

Reconceptualising Unaccompanied Child Asylum Seekers and the Law

Jennifer Whelan, Director, Clinical Legal Education, Western Sydney University

Series: Routledge Research in Asylum, Migration and Refugee Law

Unaccompanied child asylum seekers are amongst the world's most vulnerable populations and their numbers are increasing. This book proposes a new conceptual framework by applying international human rights law, childhood studies, and vulnerability theory scholarship in analysing state obligations to respond to these children.

It will be a valuable practice-based resource for practitioners, non-government organisations, advocates, policymakers, and the general public interested in advocating for the rights of vulnerable populations.

Marine Conservation and International Law

Legal Instruments for Biodiversity Beyond National Jurisdiction

Sarah Louise Lothian

Series: Routledge Research in International Environmental Law

This book provides a blueprint for an International Legally Binding Instrument (ILBI) for the conservation and sustainable use of marine biodiversity beyond national jurisdiction (BBNJ). The development of an ILBI could signify a pivotal turning point in the law of the sea by addressing regulatory, governance and institutional gaps and deficiencies in the existing international law framework for BBNJ. Providing a comprehensive overview of this important development in international law, this book will be of interest to students, lecturers and academics of law of the sea, international environmental law and biodiversity law.

Reform and Regulation of Economic Institutions in Afghanistan

Formal and Informal Credit Systems

Haroun Rahimi

Series: Routledge Research in International Economic Law

Taliban's return to power in August of 2021 caused everyone to ask why the two decades of institution building in Afghanistan failed. This book investigates the root causes of failed reforms in an important area of reform: trade and credit institutions. It explains why the efforts to reform and regulate the economic institutions in Afghanistan failed and what we can learn from their failure.

Philosophy of Law in Korea

Acceptance, Engagement and Social Change

Jeong-Oh Kim, Yonsei Law School, Hak Tai Kim, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies, Joon-Seok Park, Jeonbuk National University and Dong-Ryong Shin, Kangwon National University

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Law

This book shows how Western legal philosophy has been accepted in Korea, a non-Western country that has newly introduced the Western legal system and what role the legal philosophy has played in social context.

The book also examines academic scholars' intellectual activities in a historical context and how their intellectual products are yielded through their continuous response to the circumstances of the time.

Through Korea's experience, this book will provide insights into how modern legal philosophy develops in a new state and what legal philosophers' responses would be like during such a process.

The Americanisation of the World Trade Order

Asif H Qureshi, Peking University, School of Transnational Law, China

Series: Routledge Research in International Economic Law

This book provides insights into the world trading order that is informed by power --- in particular, the unidirectional norm imparting impact of US foreign trade law and practice on its trading partners and non-State actors. In this context, the recent tensions between the US and China, has brought to the fore, several fundamental and systemic questions.

In the light of the recent US challenges to the world trading order, this timely publication will help us understand how U.S. will continue to shape the international economic order.

The Crisis of Multilateral Legal Order

Causes, Dynamics and Consequences

Edited by Lukasz Gruszczynski, Polish Academy of Sciences, Poland, Marcin Menkes, Veronika Bilkova and Paolo Farah, West Virginia University, USA

Series: Transnational Law and Governance

Multilateralism has served as a foundation for international cooperation over the past several decades. Championed after WWII by the United States and Western Europe, it expanded into a broader global system of governance with the end of the Cold War. Lately, an increasing number of States appear to be disappointed with the existing multilateral arrangements, both at the level of norms and that of institutions. The great powers see unilateral and bilateral strategies, which maximize their political leverage rather than diluting it in multilateral fora, as more effective ways for controlling the course of international affairs.

2nd Edition

The Tangled Complexity of the EU Constitutional Process

The Frustrating Knot of Europe

Giuseppe Martinico, Centro de Estudios Políticos y Constitucionales, Spain

Series: Routledge Research in EU Law

Offering a fresh view on the EU constitutionalisation process, the new edition of The Tangled Complexity of The EU Constitutional Process presents three main points: the idea of constitutional complexity, the tension between constitutional evolutionism and constitutional constructivism in the process of European integration, and the functional nature of conflicts in the evolution of the EU. Because of its prodigiousness, European law produces consternation among constitutionalists accustomed to traditional patterns of power.

Constitutionalism of Australian First Nations

A Comparative Study

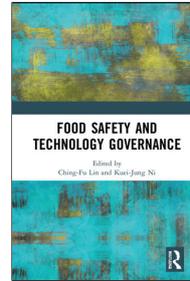

Maria Salvatrice Randazzo
Series: Indigenous Peoples and the Law

The book considers Australian First Nations constitutionalism by drawing on the chthonic constitutional traditions of three distinct Australian First Nations legal orders: the Warlpiri, Yolngu, and Pintupi legal orders, in the endeavour of identifying, via a comparative analysis, a core of similarities to be drawn upon and articulate an emergent legal theory common to the three legal orders.

Human Dignity and the Law

A Personalist Theory

Michał Rupniewski

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

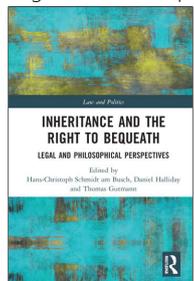

This book reassesses the relationship between human dignity, law and specifically the 'personalist' school of agency. The work argues that a specific way of appreciating dignity is contained in how law understands the person, and so can be used to improve upon how we explain and interpret the law. The central claim is that the law recognizes, and tries to foster, the status of personhood, and, drawing on the work of Karol Wojtyła, the author develops a 'Status of Personhood Theory'. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Legal Philosophy, Jurisprudence, Philosophy, Ethics and Political Theory.

Self-Declaration in the Legal Recognition of Gender

Chris Dietz

Series: Social Justice

Self-Declaration in the Legal Recognition of Gender examines the impact of legislation premised upon the principle of 'self-declaration' of legal gender status. This book offers a socio-legal analysis which focuses on how self-declaration is experienced, on an embodied level, by trans and gender diverse people. It presents research conducted in Denmark, which became the first European state to adopt self-declaration in June 2014. A timely and important assessment, this book will appeal to researchers and practitioners working in trans, gender, feminist legal, and socio-legal studies.

Anarchism

An Art of Living Without Law

Elena Loizidou, Birkbeck, University of London, UK

In contrast to the extensive contemporary literature about anarchist politics and ideas, this book focuses on the practices and attitudes that constitute what the author refers to as an anarchist 'art of life'. By attending to the idiosyncrasies of this art of life, it argues, we are better able to appreciate how anarchism is not some future utopian oriented project, waiting to come into existence after a revolution, but rather exists in parallel to the life and politics offered by the State. The book will be of interest to graduate students and academics working on critical legal theory, political theory, sociology and cultural studies.

Political Theology and Law

Geminello Preterossi

Series: Law and Politics

This book addresses and clarifies various misunderstandings about the notion of political theology, in its multiple and even opposite meanings. It then focuses on a conceptualisation inaugurated by Carl Schmitt, which sees political theology as the eloquent matrix of modern politics: insofar as the latter produces and continuously re-elaborates an "excess" that does not belong to it, its core remains theological-political, although secularised. The bulk of the book then pursues a reading of the analogic connection between juridico-political concepts and theological-metaphysical concepts.

Spatial Justice After Apartheid

Nomos of the Postcolony

Edited by Jaco Barnard-Naudé and Julia Chrystostalis

Series: Law and the Postcolonial

This book considers the question of spatial justice after apartheid, from several disciplinary perspectives – jurisprudence, law, literature, architecture, photography and psychoanalysis are just some of the disciplines engaged here. However, the main theoretical device on which the authors comment is the legacy of what in Carl Schmitt's terms is nomos as the spatialised normativity of sociality. Each author considers within the practical and theoretical constraints of their topic, the question of what nomos in its modern configuration may or may not contribute to a thinking of spatial justice after apartheid.

The Performance of Law

Everyday Lawyering at the Intersection of Advocacy and Imagination

Randy Gordon, Texas A&M University, USA.

This book considers how law is always enacted, or performed, in ways that can be analysed in relation to fiction, theatre, and other dramatic forms. Through the examination of a wide range of both historical and fictional legal cases, the book pursues an interdisciplinary analysis of how law is performed; and, moreover, how legal performances can be accomplished ethically. It will appeal to scholars and students in sociolegal studies, legal theory and jurisprudence, as well as those teaching and training in legal practice.

What is Legal Education for?

Reassessing the Purposes of Early Twenty-First Century Learning and Law Schools

Edited by Rachel Dunn, Paul Maharg and Victoria Roper

Series: Emerging Legal Education

How we interpret and understand the historical contexts of legal education has profoundly affected how we understand contemporary educational cultures and practices. This book, the result of a Modern Law Review seminar, both celebrates and critiques the lasting impact of Peter Birks' influential edited collection, Pressing Problems in the Law: What is the Law School for? Published in 1996, his book addresses many critical issues that are hauntingly present in the 21st century, amongst them the impact of globalisation; technological disruption; and the tension inherent in law schools as they seek to balance the competing interest of teaching, research and administration.

Patient Autonomy and Criminal Law

European Perspectives

Edited by Paweł Daniluk, Paweł Daniluk is a Professor in the Institute of Law Studies of the Polish Academy of Sciences.

Series: Routledge Research in Health Law

This book shows how the legal systems of individual European countries protect patient autonomy. In particular, it explains the role of criminal law, that is, what criminal law protection of patient autonomy looks like on a European scale in both legal and social dimensions. Despite EU integration processes, the work illustrates that the legal orders of individual European countries are far from uniform in this area. The book will be a valuable reference work for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in Health Law, Medical Ethics, Applied

Ethics and Criminal Law.

The Law of Off-label Uses of Medicines

Regulation and Litigation in the EU, UK and USA

Andrea Parziale, EURAC, Italy

This book clarifies the regulatory mechanisms and litigation trends concerning untested and unapproved (off-label) uses of medicines in the EU, UK and USA. While off-label uses may offer hope, they may also expose patients to risks and uncertainties. This work explores how traditional, prevention-driven regulatory and civil liability rules are adapted to tackle potential risks, and under what conditions physicians, manufacturers or regulators must compensate patients injured by untested prescriptions. The book will be an essential resource for researchers, academics and policy-makers in medical law and ethics, public health law, pharmaceutical law and private comparative law.

Accountability, Impeachment and the Constitution

The Case for a Modernised Process in the United Kingdom

Chris Monaghan, Principal Lecturer in Law, University of Worcester, UK

Series: Routledge Frontiers in Accountability Studies

This book sets out and explores the case for a modernised impeachment process for the United Kingdom. The work examines the present law and history of impeachment in the UK, which today is widely regarded as having fallen into desuetude and its procedures inappropriate for modern conditions. It discusses how impeachment operates in two countries, the United States and Denmark, selected respectively for their marked differences and similarities to the United Kingdom's political and constitutional system, for the purposes of illumination and possible lessons for a new impeachment process.

Instruments of Public Law

Digital Transformation during the Pandemic

Edited by Irena Lipowicz, Grażyna Szpor and Syryta Aleksandra

Series: Routledge Research in EU Law

The Covid 19 pandemic has revealed the need to verify the existing principles of functioning of public authorities, in relation to various decision-making processes, both at the conceptual level and at law implementation. The action of the legislator and public administration towards the society and the economy is conducted using peculiar instruments to control the public administration system. These instruments are likely to be of a public or private law nature.

The Democratic Rule of Law on Trial

First Amendment Cases of the Trump Era

Sonja Grover

This book examines selected high-profile U.S. First Amendment cases occurring during the Trump era as a vehicle for exploring a possible fundamental commonality in the understanding of democratic rule of law globally. In each case the adjudicating body's analytical legal strategy is discussed in terms of how it reinforces or detracts from the democratic rule of law. The work is instructive for an international audience on the essential role of the courts in protecting democracy through providing, where supported by the law and facts, a remedy for the aggrieved comparatively powerless. It will be essential reading for academics and researchers in Constitutional Law, Politics and Human Rights.

Routledge Handbook of Risk Management and the Law

Edited by Virginia A. Suveiu, University of California – Irvine, USA

In today's highly globalized and regulated economy, organizations face a complex myriad of laws and regulations. A process designed to detect and prevent regulatory compliance failures is vital. However, such an effective process cannot succeed without development and maintenance of a strong compliance and legal risk management culture. Edited by an expert on legal risk management, this book provides an all-inclusive resource, specifying everything that needs to be known in these developing areas. It is an essential reference for students, researchers, and professionals with an interest in business law, risk management, strategic management, and business ethics.

Cartner on the International Law of the Shipmaster

On The New Command at Sea

John A. C. Cartner

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

This unique book rethinks and rewrites the previous edition. It categorises simply the nine interactive legal duties of the shipmaster, analysing and relating them to laws and conventions within a single volume. Cartner on the International Law of the Shipmaster contends that command depends on decision-making, and that shipmasters are not provided sufficient, timely, relevant, and pertinent information for command decisions. This book is a necessary reference and guide for shipmasters, technologists, naval architects, regulators, underwriters, students, practitioners and courts of maritime law and command worldwide.
