Comparing Armed Conflicts

Edited by Bruno Charbonneau, Laurentian University, Canada and Adam Sandor

Comparing armed conflicts primes the production of categories that, when mobilized, can alter the trajectories of the conflicts. Considering the political dynamism of spaces of conflict and intervention, and that practitioners regularly seek out academic expertise, this book discusses the possibilities and limits of comparative approaches to understanding armed conflict and intervention. The chapters in this book were originally published in the Civil Wars.

The U.S. Navy

Case Studies in Its Past, Present, and Future

Edited by Thomas-Durell Young

Great power competition has returned to the world stage and the U.S. Navy finds itself in the forefront of U.S. efforts to demonstrate national resolve. The U.S. Navy: Case Studies in its Past, Present, and Future argues that the challenge of determining the future structure and operation of the fleet can be best achieved through an examination of its relevant past experience, as well as from current operations of the navy.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Defense & Security Analysis.

Understanding Air Warfare

David Jordan

Understanding Air Warfare provides the reader with a clear understanding of the key debates surrounding air power, one of the newest and most important forms of modern warfare. Examining the linkages between the early theoretical perceptions of what air power could achieve in conjunction with other forces and independently, this book highlights many of the continuities of air power. It employs detailed historical case studies to illustrate and explore key issues, and extends its examination into the future, bringing in elements of space power.

The American Welfare State

Brian J. Glenn, Department of Financial Regulation, Vermont, USA

Through a practical introduction to the policies of the American welfare state—a wide-ranging subject much discussed but seldom described—this concise volume details the four main areas of social welfare policy: housing assistance, nutrition assistance, income assistance, and medical assistance. In this thoroughly updated second edition, author Brian Glenn outlines the ways in which social welfare programs differ, sometimes dramatically, from locality to locality. In short, this book is a fully updated and handy teaching and learning tool that fills a huge gap in the literature on a subject that many want to teach but often lack the resources to do.

Routledge Handbook of Chinese Citizenship

Edited by Zhonghua Guo, Sun Yat-Sen University, China

Series: China Perspectives

This book challenges assumptions that prevail in the study of Chinese citizenship: that the concept is alien to Chinese culture, has historically lacked the necessary conditions for its development and that is authoritarian to a degree that citizens and citizenship play a limited role. This Handbook sets a new agenda for citizenship studies and Chinese politics. Its clear, accessible style makes it essential reading for students and scholars interested in citizenship and China studies.

China, the USA and Technological Supremacy in Europe

Csaba Moldicz

Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations

The book explores how technological competition is linked to the geopolitical contest between the US and China, and why Europe and the European Union (EU) have become involved in this competition for technological supremacy. By shedding light on the geopolitical motivations of China and the question of whether the US can contain China's advance in this domain, the book will be of interest to practitioners in the fields of international relations and political science as well as policymakers and analysts employed by diplomatic services, multilateral organizations, and non-governmental organizations.

The Disruptive Impact of Lethal Autonomous Weapons Systems Diffusion

Modern Melians and the Dawn of Robotic Warriors

Austin Wyatt

Series: Emerging Technologies, Ethics and International Affairs

Challenging the focus on great powers in the international debate, this book explores how rising middle power states are engaging with emerging major military innovations and analyses how this will affect the stability and security of the Indo Pacific. This book will appeal to researchers, end-users in the military and law enforcement communities, and policymakers. It will also be a valuable resource for researchers interested in strategic stability for the broader Asia-Pacific and the role of middle power states in hegemonic power transition and conflict.

The Political Economy of New India

Critical Essays

Raju J Das

Critical of the economic and political power relations in contemporary India, this book is written from the vantagepoint of the working masses whose basic economic and democratic rights remain unmet. The essays that make up the book provide short critical commentaries on different aspects of Indian society undergoing significant changes in recent times. The essays are conceptually driven and include empirical details, but they generally avoid the usual perils of academicism, by expressing complicated ideas in a relatively simple language and by drawing out their practical implications.

Youth Politics in Urban Asia

Edited by Yi'en Cheng and Sonia Lam-Knott

Youth Politics in Urban Asia examines how young people's political actions in Asia are the product of their urban realities, and at the same time, appreciates that young people are striving to remake these urban spaces in myriad of tangible and intangible ways. The book explores the ways in which urban development and urban governance in Asia enable or constrain young people's citizenship, aspirations, and responses to a variety of socioeconomic and political issues in the region.

Labour's Antisemitism Crisis

What the Left Got Wrong and How to Learn From It

David Renton, Independent Scholar, UK

Between 2015 and 2020 the Labour Party was riven by allegations that the party had tolerated antisemitism. This important book by one of Britain's leading historians of anti-fascism gives a more detailed account than any yet published of what went wrong in Labour. Renton rejects those on the right who sought to exploit the issue for factional advantage. He also criticises those of his comrades on the left who were ignorant about what most British Jews think and demonstrated a willingness to antagonise them. This book will appeal to anyone who cares about antisemitism or left-wing politics.

Rise and Fall of the British National Party

A Sociological Perspective

Stephen Ashe, University of Manchester

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book offers a Gramscian sociological analysis of the electoral rise and 'fall' of the British National Party (BNP) in the Outer-East London Borough of Barking and Dagenham. Through a critical evaluation of the political-scientific theories that have so far dominated attempts to explain the electoral performance of far right parties, this book will assess the significance of the relationship between political parties and wider civil society.

Offering an analysis of the BNP's rise and 'fall' at both the local and the national level, this book will be of interest to students and scholars in the areas of British politics, party politics, and far right studies.

Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities

Perspectives from Mostar

Edited by Giulia Carabelli, Aleksandra Djurasovic, Hafencity University Hamburg, Germany and Renata Summa

This book questions the existing overrepresentation of Mostar as an ethnically 'divided city'. While acknowledging existence of internal borders, the chapters in this book assert that they are not solid nor fixed and, by exploring how they become material or immaterial, the book offer a deeper understanding of the city's complex dynamics. Accordingly, the chapters in this book are attentive to how ethnic divides materialise or lose importance because of socio-political contingencies.

Discourse, Hegemony, and Populism in the Visegrád Four

Seongcheol Kim, Center for Civil Society Research, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This is the first book-length account of populism in the Visegrád Four (V4) countries — Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland, and Slovakia — for the first 30 years of multi-party competition since the transformative events of 1989–91 in Central and Eastern Europe. Advancing a post-foundational approach to populism based on a semi-formal reading of Ernesto Laclau's theory, the book undertakes a detailed examination of how the 'people' has been constructed in populist discourses in the party systems of the four countries since 1989. The book will be of interest to students and scholars of populism, party politics, and Central and Eastern Europe.

Illiberal Politics in Southeast Europe

How Ruling Elites Undermine Democracy

Edited by Damir Kapidžić and Věra Stojarová, Masaryk University in Brno

Series: The Southeast Europe and Black Sea Series

This book aims to give a country-by-country overview of how illiberal politics has led to a decline in democracy and the re-emergence of autocratic governance in Southeast Europe, more specifically in the Western Balkans. Individual chapters examine recent political developments and identify practices of illiberal politics that target electoral institutions, rule of law, media freedom, judicial independence, and enable political patronage, while several thematic chapters comparatively explore cross-regional patterns.

Inclusive Solidarity and Citizenship along Migratory Routes in Europe and the Americas

Edited by Helge Schwiertz and Helen Schwenken

Inclusive Solidarity and Citizenship along Migratory Routes in Europe and the Americas links non-essentialist concepts of solidarity and citizenship to migration in different empirical contexts. The chapters in this edited volume analyse how civil society initiatives renegotiate societal structures in solidarity with people on the move, noncitizens and racialized individuals, and in doing so advance theorizing and contribute to current debates about citizenship and solidarity.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Citizenship Studies

Renegotiating Authority in EU Energy and Climate Policy

Edited by Anna Herranz-Surrallés, Institut Barcelona d'Estudis Internacionals, Spain, Israel Solorio and Jenny Fairbrass, University of East Anglia, UK

Series: Journal of European Integration Special Issues

In a context of multiple crises, EU Energy and Climate policy is often identified as one of the few areas still exhibiting strong integration dynamics. However, this domain is not exempt from contestation and re-nationalization pressures. This collection seeks to understand those contradictory integration and disintegration tendencies by problematizing the notion of authority.

Sovereignty and the Denial of International Equality

Writing Civilisational Difference in Early Modern International Relations

Edited by Xavier Mathieu, Aston University, UK

Series: Interventions

This book asks whether sovereignty can guarantee international equality by exploring the discourses of sovereignty and their reliance on the notions of civilisation and savagery in two historical colonial encounters: the French explorations of Canada in the 16th century and the domestic troubles linked to the Wars of Religion. Representing a major intervention in the existing IR debates about sovereignty, this book will be a valuable resource for researchers working on issues of sovereignty and equality in IR.

Poland's Kin-State Policies

Opportunities and Challenges

Edited by Andreea Udrea, David Smith and Karl Cordell, Plymouth University, UK

Series: Association for the Study of Nationalities

Poland's Kin-State Policies: Opportunities and Challenges offers new insights into this issue by examining Poland's fast-evolving relationship with Polish communities living beyond its borders. Its central focus is the Act on the Polish Card (generally known as Karta Polaka). The volume highlights how the issue of co-ethnics abroad is increasingly being instrumentalised, most especially for the purposes of attracting labour migration to resolve the demographic crisis in Poland.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special

The Battle Over Working-Class Voters

How Social Democracy has Responded to the Populist Radical Right in the Nordic Countries

Sanna Salo, Stockholm University, Sweden and Jens Rydgren, Stockholm University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This book examines how social democratic parties have responded to populist radical right parties in the battle for support from working-class voters. It focuses on the paradigmatic examples of social democratic parties in the Nordic Countries. The book provides a detailed empirical account of how social democratic parties — and more broadly, labour movement organisations, including unions — have responded to challenges across Denmark, Sweden, Finland, and Norway. This volume will be of interest to scholars of party politics, comparative politics, Nordic politics, and the populist radical right.

Unionisms in Times of Change

Brexit, Britain and the Balkans

Edited by Jennifer Todd, University College Dublin, Ireland and Dawn Walsh

Series: Routledge Studies in Nationalism and Ethnicity

Unionisms in Times of Change: Brexit, Britain and the Balkans focuses on these two faces of unionisms: the flexible alternative to the nation state, and the assertor of central power. This book is particularly timely at a period when the unions of the British Isles and of Europe have been disrupted by the process of British exit from the European Union, creating new dilemmas and options for unionisms in Northern Ireland.

Trade Interests and UN Funding

Commercial Earmarking of Multi-bi Aid

Paweł Gmyrek

Series: Global Institutions

This book examines a particular type of donor behavior – known as country earmarking of contributions – which occurs within the voluntary financing system of the United Nations. The research demonstrates that already during the period of the Millennium Development Goals a large share of the voluntary multilateral funding decisions was influenced by the commercial priorities of the donor countries. Synthesizing the existing knowledge concerning the supply-side of multi-bi aid, this book provides an accessible, entry-level overview of the topic that will appeal to students and scholars of global governance and international organizations.

Conspiracy Theories and Latin American History

Lurking in the Shadows

Edited by Luis Roniger, Wake Forest University, USA and Leonardo Senkman, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel
Series: Conspiracy Theories

This book is a systematic inquiry of conspiracy theories across Latin America. Through history, many have fallen for the allure of conspiratorial narratives, even the most unsubstantiated and bizarre. This book traces the main conspiracy theories developing in Latin America since late colonial times and into the present, and identifies the geopolitical, socioeconomic and cultural scenarios of their diffusion and mobilization. Students and scholars of Latin American history and politics, as well as comparatists, will find in this book penetrating analyses of major conspiratorial designs in this multi-state region of the Americas.

Democracy and Security in Latin America

State Capacity and Governance under Stress

Edited by Gabriel Marcella, United States Army War College, USA, Orlando J. Pérez, Millersville University, USA and Brian Fonseca, Florida International University, USA

Exploring the need for governments to generate the necessary capacity to address important security and institutional challenges, this volume deepens our understanding of the nature and extent of state governance in Latin America. Divided into two sections a collection of scholars and practitioners use an explicit interdisciplinary approach to gain a rounded understanding of the link between security and democracy. This book should appeal not only to those seeking to learn more about the capacity of the democratic state in Latin America to effectively provide public security in times of stress, but to all those curious about the reality that a democracy must have security to function.

Israeli Development Aid to Sub-Saharan Africa

Soft Power and Foreign Policy

Karolina Zielińska

Series: Foreign Policy Analysis

This book deals with Israeli development aid to Sub-Saharan Africa countries as a part of Israeli foreign policy. The analysis is framed by the concept of soft power: an assumption that development cooperation increases attractiveness of the donor and contributes to constructive bilateral and multilateral relations. Contributing to the knowledge of development diplomacy as a form of expression of soft power and as a tool of foreign policy, it will be of interest to international relations' students and faculty as well as to other people professionally dealing with Israeli foreign policies.

Complaints to the Authorities in Russia

A Trap Between Tradition and Legal Modernization

Elena Bogdanova, Research Fellow at the Centre for Independent Social Research, Russia
Series: Studies in Contemporary Russia

This book considers the process of legal modernization in Russia from the perspective of the development of the mechanism of complaints addressed to the authorities from the pre-revolutionary period to today. It analyses wide-ranging data and sources, such as legislation, in-depth interviews, archival materials, original texts, and examples of different methods of complaints in the Soviet and contemporary Russia. Especially useful to scholars researching Soviet society and Post-Soviet transformations, socio-legal studies, and liberal legal reforms. It will also appeal to those working in the broader fields of Russian Politics, the history of Soviet society and justice issues.

Russia Today and Conspiracy Theories

People, Power and Politics on RT

Ilya Yablokov, University of Leeds, UK and Precious N Chatterje-Doody, Open University, UK

Series: Conspiracy Theories

The Russian international media outlet Russia Today (RT) has been widely accused in the Western world of producing government propaganda and conspiracy theories. This book explores for the first time what role conspiracy theories actually play in the network's broadcasts. More than this, it provides the first ever study of how the Russian government engages with conspiracy theories in the international arena, with a particular focus on the use of conspiracy theories as an instrument of public diplomacy. This book will appeal to students and scholars of Politics and International Relations, Russian Studies, and Conspiracy Theories.

Russia's Cultural Statecraft

Edited by Tuomas Forsberg, University of Helsinki, Finland, and Sirke Mäkinen, University of Helsinki, Finland.

Series: Studies in Contemporary Russia

This book focuses on Russia's cultural statecraft in dealing with a number of institutional cultural domains such as education, museums and monuments, high arts and sport. It analyses to what extent Russia's cultural activities abroad have been used for foreign policy purposes, and perceived as having a political dimension. It presents a broad and nuanced view of how Russia sees the role of culture in its external relations, how this shapes the image of Russia, and how this cultural statecraft is received by foreign audiences. It will be of interest to scholars and students of Russian foreign policy and external relations and those working on the role of culture in world politics.

The Spy Who Would Be Tsar

The Mystery of Michal Goleniewski and the Far-Right Underground

Kevin Coogan, Independent Scholar, USA

Michal Goleniewski was one of the Cold War's most important spies but has been overlooked in the vast literature on the intelligence battles between the Western Powers and the Soviet Union. He later gained infamy by claiming to be the last surviving member of the Russian royal family. Renowned investigative journalist Kevin Coogan reveals Goleniewski's extraordinary story for the first time in this fascinating and revelatory biography which will be of interest to students and researchers of the Cold War, intelligence history and right-wing extremism as well as general readers with an interest in these intriguing subjects.

Fine Resolution Remote Sensing of Species in Terrestrial and Coastal Ecosystems

Edited by Qi Chen, Tiit Kutser, Antoine Collin and Timothy A. Warner

Fine Resolution Remote Sensing of Species in Terrestrial and Coastal Ecosystems is a collection of eight cutting-edge studies of fine spatial resolution remote sensing, including species mapping of biogenic and coral reefs, seagrasses, salt and freshwater marshes, and grasslands. The studies illustrate the power of fine resolution imagery for species identification, as well as the value of unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) imagery as an ideal source of high-quality reference data at the species level.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Remote Sensing.

2nd Edition

Principles of Emergency Management and Emergency Operations Centers (EOC)

Edited by Michael J. Fagel, Aurora Safety, Founder, CEO, Illinois, USA, Rick C. Mathews, Mathews Group, LLC and J. Howard Murphy, Anderson University, USA

Emergency operations centers (EOCs) are the hub of response efforts during disasters. Emergency managers and their staff coordinate incoming information from the field and the public to coordinate response and rescue efforts. They also deploy resources and communicate with other government agencies, responders, the public, and the media. This book looks at the function and role of EOCs and their organizations. The new edition contains added chapters on in-crisis communications, communicating with the public and media, and leadership and decision-making during disaster events.

No Free Speech for Fascists

Exploring 'No Platform' in History, Law and Politics

David Renton, Independent Scholar, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

No Free Speech for Fascists explores the choice of anti-fascist protesters to demand that the opportunities for fascists to speak in public places is rescinded, as a question of history, law, and politics. It explains how the demand to No Platform fascists emerged in 1970s Britain, as a limited exception to a left-wing tradition of support for free speech. This book will be of interest to activists and to those studying and researching political history, law, free speech, the far right, and anti-fascism. Queer Democracy

Desire, Dysphoria, and the Body Politic

Daniel D. Miller, Landmark College, USA

Queer Democracy undertakes an interdisciplinary investigation of the centuries-old metaphor of society as a body, drawing on queer and transgender accounts of embodiment as a constructive resource for reimagining politics and society. Daniel Miller argues that this metaphor has consistently expressed a desire for social and political order. This book articulates a new departure for the ongoing development of theoretical articulations linking queer and trans theory with political theory. It will appeal to both academic and non-academic readers engaged in research on political theory, populism, US religion, gender studies, and queer studies.

International Women's Rights Law and Gender Equality

Making the Law Work for Women

Edited by Ramona Vijayarasa, University of Technology Sydney, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics

The law is a well-known tool to fight gender inequality, but which laws actually advance women's rights? This book unpacks the complex nuances behind gender-responsive domestic legislation, from several of the world's leading experts on gender equality. Written for students, academics, legislators and policymakers engaged in international women's rights law, gender equality, government accountability, and feminist legal theory, this book has tremendous transformative potential to drive forward legal change towards the eradication of gender inequality.

The European Union's International Promotion of LGBTI Rights

Promises and Pitfalls

Markus Thiel, Florida International University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics

This book critically analyses the European Union's promotion of LGBTI rights in the international arena. Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender & Intersex rights are heavily contested across the globe, with over 70 countries criminalizing same-sex relations and at least 10 imposing the death penalty. The book details how the EU, based on different member state positions, attempts to jointly formulate and implement guidelines for the external promotion of LGBTI rights. Women, Men, and Elections

Policy Supply and Gendered Voting Behaviour in Western Democracies

Rosalind Shorrock, University of Manchester, UK

Series: Gender and Comparative Politics

Women, Men, and Elections sheds new light on gendered political behaviour by analysing the relationship between policy supply and gender gaps in vote choice across elections in the US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and multiple Western European countries. Rosalind Shorrock argues that electoral context, and specifically policy supply, is associated with the ways in which vote choice at election time is gendered. Shorrock offers a much needed fresh perspective on our understanding of political behaviour, representation, and party competition. It serves as an excellent text for students and scholars of comparative politics, gender and politics, and political behaviour.

Aesthetic Perceptions of Urban Environments

Edited by Arundhati Virmani

Series: Interventions

To what extent do urban dwellers relate to their lived and imagined environment through aesthetic perceptions, and aspirations? This book approaches experiences of urban aesthetics not as an established framework, defined by imposed norms or legislations, but as the result of a continuous reflexive and proactive gaze, a complex and deep engagement of the mind, body and sensibilities. It uses empirical studies ranging from China, India to Western Europe. This book will be of interest to students, scholars and practitioners of humanities and social sciences, cultural and urban studies, architecture and political geography.

Civilizations and World Order

Edited by Elena Chebankova, University of Lincoln, UK and Piotr Dutkiewicz, Carleton University, Canada

Series: Innovations in International Affairs

This timely and original volume fills the gaps in the existing theoretical and philosophical literature on international relations by problematizing civilization as a new unit of research in global politics. It interrogates to what extent and in what ways civilization is becoming a strategic frame of reference in the current world order. Offering key chapters on ideology, multipolarity, modernity, liberal democracy, and capitalism, this book extends the existing methodological, theoretical, and empirical debates for IR and area studies scholars globally. It will be of great interest to politicians, public opinion makers, and all

Global Governance Futures

Edited by Thomas G Weiss and Rorden Wilkinson, University of New South Wales, Sydney, Australia.

This book addresses the crucial importance of thinking through the future of global governance arrangements. It considers the prospects for the governance of world order approaching the middle of the 21st century by exploring today's most pressing and enduring health, social, ecological, economic, and political challenges. Designed to engage advanced undergraduate and graduate students in international relations, organization, law, and political economy as well as the general reader, it invites readers to adopt both a backward- and forward-looking view of global governance. It will spark discussion and debate as to how dystopic futures might be avoided and change agents mobilized.

Global Socialisms and their Aesthetics

Between Eastern Europe and Africa

Edited by Gesine Drews-Sylla, Eberhard Karls University of Tübingen

Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

This book charts the development of the contemporary Western European radical left party family over the period 1989-2014. The book examines the nature of this strange collection of organisations and analyses the extent to which they have succeeded in filling the vacuum of representation of working-class and welfarist issues left by the neoliberal turn of mainstream party families. With an analysis of whether such parties offer coherent alternatives to contemporary 'postdemocratic' politics, this book highlights how the development of the left is symptomatic of popular dissatisfaction towards neoliberalism but does not embody a realistic project of societal transformation.

Institutionalised Summits in International Governance

Promoting and Limiting Change

Daniel Odinius, University of Bamberg, Germany.

Series: Global Governance

This book analyses the role of institutionalised summits in international governance, adding a fresh perspective to the controversial debate over the value of institutionalised summits for international governance. It argues that the contribution of these summits to negotiating and implementing agreements on policy change is ambivalent. Based on an innovative theoretical model he proposes that states strategically select summits with their specific institutional design for advancing their policy preferences. It will be of interest to researchers in International Relations, Global Governance and European Politics, and those interested in global institutions and decision-making.

Internal Colonialism and International Relations

Tracks of Decolonization in Bolivia

Ana Carolina Teixeira Delgado, Universidade Federal da Integração Latino-Americana, Brazil

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

This book investigates decolonization as a local process and its connections to international relations, introducing "internal colonialism" as a crucial analytical category for internationalists. Using Bolivia as a case study, the author argues that the reshaping of colonialism and its resistance domestically is also reflected and reproduced abroad by political actors, be they the governments or indigenous movements. Of interest to scholars and students of IR, Latin American and Andean Studies, this book will also appeal to those working in the fields of area studies, anthropology, indigenous politics, comparative politics,

Raced Markets

Edited by Lisa Tilley and Robbie Shilliam

By way of corrective, this book draws together scholarship on the material function of race at various scales in the global political economy. The collective provocation of the contributors to this volume is that race has been integral to the formation of capitalism – as extensively laid out by the racial capitalism literature – and takes on new forms in the novel market spaces of neoliberalism.

Revolutions and Revolutionary Movements

James DeFronzo, Emeritus Professor, University of Connecticut, USA

With crucial insights and indispensable information concerning modern-day political upheavals, the sixth edition of Revolutions and Revolutionary Movements provides a representative cross section of many of the most significant revolutions of the modern era, with key updates to reflect changes since the previous edition. Students can trace the historical development of eleven revolutions using a five-factor analytical framework. Attention is devoted to clearly explaining all relevant concepts and events, the roles of key leaders, and the interrelation of each revolutionary movement with international economic and political developments and conflicts.

Role Theory, Environmental Politics, and Learning in International Relations

The Case of the Arctic Region

Sandra Engstrand, Malmö University, Sweden

Series: Role Theory and International Relations

In this book, Sandra Engstrand uses role theory to enhance our understanding on how states learn about environmental norms. Engstrand examines negotiation processes on environmental protection for the prevention of Arctic marine oil spills and the reduction of short-lived climate pollutants. She concludes that states' wishes to preserve their social role in a group, and to be perceived as Arctic 'cooperators', are drivers for a social learning on environmental norms. A timely and unmatched volume, this book will engage students and academic researchers in International Relations, Environmental Governance and Arctic Politics.

Small Countries, Big Diplomacy

Laos in the UN, ASEAN and MRC

Alounkeo Kittikhoun and Anoulak Kittikhoun, Mekong River Commission, Laos

Series: Global Institutions

This book shows how small countries use "big" diplomacy to advance national interests and global agendas. Using the case of Laos, it explores how a small land-locked developing state maneuvered among the big players and championed causes of international concern at three of the world's important global institutions – the UN, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, and the Mekong River Commission. The book should prove useful for diplomats, statespersons, policymakers and international civil servants alike. It will also be of interest to scholars and experts in the fields of international relations and foreign policies of Laos, the Mekong, and Asia in general.

States, Civilisations and the Reset of World Order

Richard Higgott, Institute of European Studies, Belgium
Series: Innovations in International Affairs

This book evaluates the current state of world (dis)order at a time of growing populism, nationalism and pandemic panic. It distils the implications of the 'civilisational state' for world order. It will appeal to the world's public and private decision-makers, the media, the educated lay public and civil society actors interested in the rise of civilisational politics and its possible consequences for world affairs. It will particularly interest students and researchers in such fields as politics, international relations, international political economy, geopolitics, strategic studies, foreign policy and social psychology.

The Crises of Legitimacy in Global Governance

Edited by Gonca Oguz Gok and Hakan Mehmetcik
Series: Global Governance

Examining the interplay between the domestic, regional and global aspects of the crisis of legitimacy of global governance, this book theoretically questions and empirically analyses the "crises of legitimacy" in global governance with respect to various mechanisms, actors, and issues. Improving the understanding of the strengths and weaknesses of current global governance bodies by showing several legitimacy contestations and crises at global and regional level, this book will be of great interest to scholars of international relations, globalization, international Political Economy, regionalism, and general global governance studies.

The Globality of Governmentality

Governing an Entangled World

Edited by Jan Busse, Bundeswehr University Munich, Germany

Series: New International Relations

This book reinvigorates the governmentality debate in International Relations (IR) by stressing the interconnectedness between governmentality and globality. It addresses a widening gap in the social sciences and humanities by reconciling Michel Foucault's concept of 'governmentality' with global politics. With a wide theoretical and empirical range, it is relevant not only to IR in general and International Political Sociology in particular, but to any student or practitioner in political science, political theory, geography, sociology, or the humanities.

Edited by Naazneen H. Barma and Steven K. Vogel, University of California, Berkeley, USA

The Political Economy Reader advocates a particular approach to the study of political economy – the "market-institutional" perspective – which emphasizes the ways in which markets are embedded in political and social institutions. The reader embraces a truly interdisciplinary approach, engaging with some of the most important classical and contemporary theoretical perspectives. For political economy courses at a variety of levels and from a range of disciplines, the reader is also of interest to scholars and citizens wanting perspective on the intersection of economics, politics, and society.

The Rhetoric of Inquiry in International Relations

A Hermeneutic Investigation into the Forms of Argumentation in IR meta-theory

Torsten Michel, University of Bristol, UK.

Series: New International Relations

This book argues that our current lack of recognising and understanding the different forms meta-theorising takes, hampers the ways in which fruitful engagement between meta-theories can be conducted. It proposes a radical break with the ways in which meta-theorising in International Relations (IR) has so far been understood. It will be of general interest in all theory and methodology courses offered at undergraduate and postgraduate levels as well as to academics working in the area of metatheory, international political thought, normative theory as well as IR theory in its various manifestations.

The Transatlantic Era (1989-2020) in Documents and Speeches

Bram Boxhoorn, Webster University, Leiden, Netherlands. and Giles Scott-Smith, Leiden University, Netherlands.

This accessible textbook uses key documents embedded in a clear narrative to chart the post-Cold War rise and decline of transatlantic relations. It provides a novel interpretive framework by proposing that the three decades between 1989 and 2020 represent a distinct 'transatlantic era'. Presenting students with a critical perspective of US and European transatlantic policies through annotated key documents covering central aspects of security, political, economic, and cultural affairs, it will be essential reading on all International Relations courses as well as of great interest to scholars and students of US and European Studies, Foreign Policy and Security Studies.

Regulating the Use of Force by United Nations Peace Support Operations

Balancing Promises and Outcomes

Charuka Ekanayake, Griffith University, Australia

Series: Challenges of Globalisation

This book explores two broad questions: why the contemporary legal framework relevant to the regulation of force during armed conflict cannot close the gaps between the promises made by the United Nations and the outcomes they secure in relation to their use of force, and how the 'Unified Use of Force Rule' achieves this. This is the first book to coherently analyse the moral as well as legal aspects relevant to UN use of force. Beyond Nationalism and the Nation-State

Radical Approaches to Nation

Edited by Ilker Cörüt, American University of Central Asia, Kyrgyz Republic and Joost Jongerden, Wageningen University, the Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Nationalism and Ethnicity

This book centers around one fundamental question: Is it possible to imagine a progressive sense of nation? Rooted in historic and contemporary social struggles, the chapters in this collection examine what a progressive sense of nation might look like, with authors exploring the theory and practice of the nation beyond nationalism. The book discusses viable alternatives for nationalism, which is inherently exclusionary, exploring the possibility of a type of nation-based politics which does not follow principles of nationalism. With its focus on

Extreme Right in Australia

Immunisation or Contamination

Aurelien Mondon, La Trobe University, Australia, Andy Fleming and Evan Smith, Flinders University, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book provides a comprehensive history of the Australian extreme right from the early 20th Century until the present day.

The book offers an insightful and innovative account of Australian history, as well as a compelling argument as to the development of the Australian ethos and national identity. It is not only a historical account of the development of the extreme right, it is also an analysis of its impact on contemporary politics. As such, it fills a gap in the existing literature and also adds to the debate regarding the present state of politics in Australia.

Inside the Bubble

Campaigns, Caucuses, and the Future of the Presidential Nomination Process

Barbara Trish and William J Menner

This book provides a behind-the-scenes look at the 2020 Democratic presidential nomination process focusing on the Iowa caucuses and the campaign workers who located there. Beset by a record number of candidates, the pandemic, and ultimately, a technological disaster, the Iowa caucuses may never be the same—and the same may be true for the future of the US presidential nominating process writ large. For students of US politics as well as aspiring candidates, political journalists, and campaign professionals, this book captures the drama and human perspective of campaigns and elections in America.

Competing Ideologies and Conflict among Militants, the Muslim World and the West

Munir Masood Marath, National Counter Terrorism Authority (NACTA), Pakistan

Series: Religion and International Security

This book highlights the conflict between jihadist militants and the West as essentially ideological in character. It has serious implications internalized by Muslim societies, with the boundaries of faith changed by the interplay of socio-political variables. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of the discourse between religion and security, political Islam, Islamic history, jihad, Middle Eastern studies, and South Asian studies.

Party Politics in Microstates

Edited by Fernando Casal Bértoa, University of Nottingham, UK and Patrick Dumont, Australian National University, Australia.

Series: Routledge Studies on Political Parties and Party Systems

This volume provides a comprehensive overview of the evolution of political parties and party systems in each of the democratic European microstates, which tend to be relatively more democratic and stable than other party systems. Looking at party system development and institutionalization, the book examines what has caused the stability of microstates' party systems in the first place and to extract important lessons of how politics work in other "low-scale" political contexts, for instance, at the sub-national level.

Revolutions

Edited by Radhika Desai, University of Manitoba, Canada and Henry Heller, University of Manitoba, Canada

Series: ThirdWorlds

As the centres of world capitalism struggle to overcome long-term stagnation and existential crisis, this book aims to recover the legacy of revolutions against capitalism and imperialism. It considers revolution from a variety of perspectives, including the revolutions in Russia, China and Venezuela but also the French and Haitian Revolutions; Marx's critical political economy and revolution; the long history of counter-revolution; revolution and indigenous peoples; the media and revolution and the importance of revolution at the grassroots.

The Cypriot Left Popular Movement

Legacies of the past

Edited by Yiannos Katsourides

Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

This book discusses the history of the left labour movement in Cyprus, a country under British colonial rule for 82 years (1878-1960). The Cypriot left presents an interesting case study among scholars studying the European left movement due to its large electoral size, which has amounted to approximately to one third of the Cypriot population since the early 1940s. By surveying specific events, institutions and processes that form the untold history of the Cypriot labour movement, this book illustrates how the success of the left in Cyprus is based on a diverse and rich tradition which touches upon all aspects of Cyprus's social, political, economic and cultural identity.

The Psychopathology of Political Ideologies

Robert Samuels, UC Santa Barbara, USA

Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

Inspired by Freud's The Psychology of the Everyday, this book examines the unconscious processes shaping contemporary political ideologies. Addressing ten fundamental questions, Robert Samuels argues that belief in ideological structures is tied to triumvirates of institutions and ideals, concluding that this investment in universality shapes the ethics of modern globalization and democratic liberalism. The Psychopathology of Political Ideologies offer a rational and conscious comprehension of subjectivity and social organization. Bioviolence

How the Powers That Be Make Us Do What They Want

William Watkin, Brunel University London, UK

This book explores and exposes the many aspects of contemporary biopower and bioviolence: neglect, exclusion, surveillance, regulation, encampment, trolling, fake news, terrorism and war. As it does so it demonstrates that the very term 'violence' is a discursive construct, an effect of language, made real by our behaviours, embodied by our institutions, and dissemination by our technologies. In short, bioviolence is how the contemporary powers that be make us do what they want. Resolutely inter-disciplinary, this book is suitable for all scholars, students and general readers in the fields of IR, political theory, philosophy, the humanities, sociology and journalism.

Laws of Politics

Their Operations in Democracies and Dictatorships

Alfred G. Cuzán, University of West Florida, USA

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

Drawing on classic and contemporary scholarship and empirical analysis of elections and public expenditures in 80 countries, the author argues for the existence of primary and secondary laws of politics. Starting with how basic elements of politics—leadership, organization, ideology, resources, and force—coalesce in the formation of states, he proceeds to examine the operations of those laws in democracies and dictatorships. Written in an engaging, jargon-free style, this enlightening book will be of great interest to students and scholars in political science, especially those specializing in

Love and Politics

Persistent Human Desires as a Foundation for Liberation

Jeffery L. Nicholas, Providence College, USA

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

In this book Jeffery L. Nicholas argues that Eros is the final rejection of an alienated life, in which humans are prevented from developing their human powers; Eros, in contrast, is an overflowing of acting into new realities and new beauties, a world in which human beings extend their powers and senses. Love and Politics: Persistent Human Desires as a Foundation for Liberation presents a critical theory that synthesizes MacIntyre's Revolutionary Aristotelianism, Frankfurt School Critical Theory, and Social Reproduction Theory. Writing Politics

Studies in Compositional Method

Michael J. Shapiro, University of Hawaii, USA

Writing Politics is a methods book designed to instruct on politically focused literary inquiry. Exploring the political sensibilities that arise from the way literary fiction re-textualizes historical periods and events, the book features a series of violence-themed inquiries that emphasize forms of writing as the vehicles for politically attuned historiography. Each investigation treats the way the literary genre, within historiographic metafiction, enables political inquiry. Michael J. Shapiro has produced another original and sophisticated bookshelf staple; the only contemporary investigation in Political Studies that instructs on method in this way.

Psychoanalysis Under Occupation

Practicing Resistance in Palestine

Lara Sheehi, George Washington University, USA and Stephen Sheehi, William & Mary, USA

Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

Heavily influenced by Frantz Fanon and critically engaging the theories of decoloniality and liberatory psychoanalysis, Lara Sheehi and Stephen Sheehi platform the lives, perspectives, and insights of psychoanalytically-inflected Palestinian psychologists, psychiatrists, and other mental health professionals, centering stories entrusted to them over four years of engagement throughout historic Palestine. This book unpacks the intersection of psychoanalysis as a psychological practice in Palestine, while advancing a set of therapeutic theories in which to critically engage and "read" the complex array of conditions that define life for Palestinians living under Israeli occupation.

Ethical Governance of Artificial Intelligence in the Public Sector

Liza Ireni-Saban, Interdisciplinary Center (IDC) Herzliya, Israel and Maya Sherman, Interdisciplinary Center (IDC), Israel

Series: Routledge Studies in Policy and Power

This book argues that ethical evaluation of AI should be an integral part of public service ethics and that an effective normative framework is needed to provide ethical principles and evaluation for decision-making in the public sphere, at both local and international levels. This book will be of key interest to scholars, students and professionals engaged in public management and ethics management, AI ethics, public organizations, public service leadership, compliance and more broadly to public administration and policy, applied ethics and philosophy.

Foundations of Public Service

Douglas F. Morgan, Richard T. Green, Craig W. Shinn, Kent S. Robinson and Margaret E. Banyan

Designed to serve as a basic text for introductory courses in public administration, this pioneering work provides students with a clear-eyed understanding of the vital management functions covered in most standard textbooks with two important differences. First, is written to address the needs of both the experienced practitioner and the entry-level public servant. Second, the discussion of management practices is grounded in the political and ethical tensions inherent in the American constitutional form of governance. It is required reading for all introductory Public Administration courses with an emphasis on practice and real-world applications.

4th Edition

Handbook of Public Administration

Edited by W. Bartley Hildreth, Georgia State University, Atlanta, USA, Gerald Miller and Evert L Lindquist
Series: Public Administration and Public Policy

This fourth edition recognizes that the scholarship of public administration must reflect the diverse influence of an international orientation, embracing public administration issues and practices in governance systems around the world and illustrating just how practice can vary across jurisdictions. Every section identifies foundational principles and issues, shows variation in practice across selected jurisdictions, and identifies promising avenues for research. Each chapter revisits enduring themes and tensions, showing how they persist, along with new challenges and opportunities presented by digital technology and contemporary political realities.

Managing Diversity In Public Sector Workforces

Norma M. Riccucci

Public and private sector workforces in the U.S. look very different today than they did even 25 years ago. The changes are having a significant effect on how organizations manage their workforces. The old styles of managing heterogeneous workforces are proving to be ineffectual, and so management strategies aimed at embracing diversity and inclusion are essential. Managing Diversity in Public Sector Workforces, Second Edition examines demographic changes to the U.S. labor force and workplace and the ways in which government employers are managing the diverse populations that now fill public sector jobs.

Planning and Evaluation for Public Safety Leaders

A Toolkit

Shane Nurdyke, University of South Dakota, USA

This book presents field-tested techniques and tips to help public safety leaders effectively manage their organizations and overcome challenges. Organizations within the public safety sector are unique in many respects, which provides a different context in which planning, and performance measurement occur. Without recognizing this particular context, public planning texts can ignore crucial elements when it comes to effectively achieving and measuring public safety outcomes. The practical approach presented here will equip students with accessible explanations specific to the public safety context, and practical tools for public safety leaders to apply to their organizations.

Policy Making and Southern Distinctiveness

John C. Morris, Auburn University, USA, Martin K. Mayer, North Carolina at Pembroke, USA, Robert C. Kenter, Center for Policing Equity, USA and R. Bruce Anderson, Florida Southern College in Lakeland, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy

Policy Making and Southern Distinctiveness examines the uniqueness of southern politics. The book analyzes six different policy arenas comparing policy choices in states in the South with states in the non-South. The authors find that the South is distinct in several, but not all, of the policy arenas examined. They conclude that the South as a region is unique because of the degree of one-party control evident in the South, coupled with a long-standing preoccupation with partisanship and race-based politics. The book will be of interest to scholars of southern politics, state comparative policy, public policy, American politics, and federalism/intergovernmental relations.

Public Administration

Understanding Management, Politics, and Law in the Public Sector

David H. Rosenbloom, American University, Washington DC, USA, Robert Kravchuk and Richard M Clerkin

Public Administration: Understanding Management, Politics, and Law in the Public Sector, Ninth Edition grounds students in the fundamentals of public administration while embracing its complexity. It describes, explains, and analyses public administration through the lenses of three well-established perspectives: management, politics, and law.

Together these revisions reinvigorate the book yet retain its core structure, ideas, and familiarity for students and instructors alike. This time-tested and fully up to date textbook is required reading for all students of public administration, public management, and nonprofit management.

Public Service Ethics

Individual and Institutional Responsibilities

James S. Bowman, Florida State University, Tallahassee, USA and Jonathan P. West, University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida, USA

Public Service Ethics: Individual and Institutional Responsibilities, Third Edition introduces readers to this personally relevant and professionally challenging field of study. No matter the topic—intriguing human behavior experiments, new theories to understand ethical actions, the role of ethics codes, whistleblowing incidents, corruption exposés—there is no shortage of controversy. This book discusses these issues, explains how they arise, and suggests what can be done about them. The authors make the narrative user-friendly and accessible by highlighting dilemmas, challenging readers to resolve them, and enticing them to go beyond the text to discover and confront new issues.

The Frontiers of Public Diplomacy

Hegemony, Morality and Power in the International Sphere

Edited by Colin R. Alexander, Nottingham Trent University, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

This edited volume provides the foremost analysis of public diplomacy's relationship with hegemony, morality and power, through an analysis of the peripheries of the international system where power dynamics are most apparent. The Frontiers of Public Diplomacy is a landmark book for scholars, students and practitioners of the subject. At a practical level it provides a series of interesting case studies of public diplomacy in peripheral settings. However, at a conceptual level it challenges the reader to consider more fully the assumptions that they may make about public diplomacy and its role within the international system.

The Practice of Government Public Relations

Edited by Mordecai Lee, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, WI, USA, Grant Neeley and Kendra Stewart, College of Charleston, Charleston, SC, USA

Series: ASPA Series in Public Administration and Public Policy

Along with such traditional management tools as budgeting, HR, planning and leadership, The Practice of Government Public Relations, Second Edition demonstrates that the 21st century government administrator needs new tools to address the changing context of government communication. It provides public managers with an understanding of the uses of public relations as tools to advance the goals of public agencies, including media relations, an informed public, public branding, listening to the citizenry, and crisis management.

Pivot Cities in the Rise and Fall of Civilizations

Ahmet Davutoğlu, Future Party, Turkey

Series: Innovations in International Affairs

Based on the author's long experience in academic life and the public realm, especially in foreign policy, this book argues that a single categoric classification of cities is inadequate, and that cities have had different and varied impacts and positions throughout the history of civilization. Its clear language, rich content, deep and original perspective, interdisciplinary approach and rich bibliography will ensure that it appeals to students and scholars in a variety of disciplines, including cultural studies, political science, comparative urban studies, anthropology, history and civilizational studies.

The War on Terror and the Normalisation of Urban Security

Jon Coaffee, University of Warwick, UK

Series: Interventions

This book explores the processes by which, in the twenty years after 9/11, the practices of urban security and counter-terrorism have impacted upon the everyday experiences of the Western city. Drawing on over 25 years of research and practical experience the author utilises a range of international case studies, framed by conceptual ideas drawn from critical security, political and geographical theory. The book will be of interest to students and scholars of politics, war studies, urban studies, geography, sociology, criminology, and the growing market of security and resilience professionals, as well as non-academic audiences seeking to understand responses to terrorist risk.
