Defence Industries in the 21st Century

A Comparative Analysis

Edited by Çağlar Kurç, Bilkent University, Turkey, Richard A. Bitzinger, S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies, Singapore and Stephanie G. Neuman, Columbia University, USA

This book explores the transformation in the global defence industrial production through examining the interaction between international and domestic factors. It shows that the defence industrial bases and arms export policies of emerging states display significant variance - a result of a unique balance between domestic and international factors that has shaped the defence industrialisation behaviour and policies of the less industrialised states. One of the most important conclusions is that the interplay between domestic and international factors clearly influences the variation in the emerging states' defence industrialisation policies, and their success or failure.

Challenging Inequality in South Africa

Transitional Compasses

Edited by Michelle Williams and Vishwas Satgar

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

In Challenging Inequality in South Africa: Transitional Compasses leading scholars of South Africa explore creative possibilities to challenge structures of economic, social and political power that produce inequality. Through concrete empirical examples of movements, workers' struggles, initiatives, and politics in challenging inequality, the authors illustrate 'transitional compasses' that go beyond protest politics to a 'generative' politics, a politics of building the alternatives in the interstitial spaces of capitalism.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal, Globalizations.

Beyond the Gatekeeper State

Edited by Sara Rich Dorman

Series: Third Worlds

Beyond the Gatekeeper State explores the dynamic changes occurring within and between African states, and the international system since the turn of the century. The chapters explore the political implications of Africa's new relations with the old super-powers, former colonial powers, and the emerging powers from the south. These new relationships reflect and affect changing technology, infrastructure and resource flows within and between African states. Drawing on both rich empirical cases and theoretical approaches, the book interrogates the implications of these changes on how we think about states and state systems.

American Antifa

The Tactics, Culture, and Practice of Militant Antifascism

Stanislav Vysotsky

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Since the election of President Trump and the rise in racism and white supremacist activity, the militant anti-fascist movement known as antifa has become increasingly active in the United States. This book analyses the tactics culture, and practices of the movement through a combination of social movement studies and critical criminological perspectives.

This book will be of interest to scholars and students in sociology, political science, anthropology, criminology, and history. A general audience would also be interested in the explanation of what drives antifa tactics and strategy in light of the high-profile conflicts between fascists and antifascists.

2nd Edition

American Government

Cal Jillson, Southern Methodist University Southern Methodist University, Dallas, USA

This text highlights the tension between our constitutional principles and institutions and the populist heat that roils our national politics at the current political moment. Our democracy has been under pressure for some time, but few would deny that fears for its fate have deepened in just the past few years. We assume our political institutions will limit populist impulses, but will they? A polarized electorate, urging representatives to fight and never to compromise, may be stressing Constitutional limits. This new edition helps American government teachers lead their students to an understanding of what is happening in the politics of their Constitutional democracy today.

America's State Governments

A Critical Look at Disconnected Democracies

Jennifer Bachner and Benjamin Ginsberg

This timely and important new work takes a critical look at government in the American states and illustrates the disconnect between state government institutions and their constituents. The text illuminates three basic political problems of state governments: weak constitutional and institutional foundations; a lack of civic engagement; and long histories of unchecked public corruption. For students and citizens of state politics, the book concludes with a proposal aimed at civic literacy and action.

China from a U.S. Policy Perspective

Eric J. Heikkila, University of Southern California (USC), USA

In this book, Eric J. Heikkila explores how the rise of China alters the context in which policies in the United States should be assessed. Here, the policy domain of the U.S. Government is divided into Economic Policies; Sustainability Policies; and Geopolitical Policies. Heikkila assesses the key policy issues and tradeoffs within each domain and examines how the balance of such tradeoffs shifts due to China's rise. In doing so, he demonstrates how a rising China exerts its gravitation pull on U.S. policy through the very nature of its being. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of policy analysis, US politics, Chinese politics and International Relations.

Interest Groups and Lobbying

Thomas T. Holyoke

Interest Groups and Lobbying shows how political organizations and their lobbyists play a crucial role in how public policy is made in the United States. This book cuts through the myths and misconceptions about interest groups and lobbyists with an accessible and comprehensive text that lays out the facts supported by the latest research. Pulling together the two areas of interest group scholarship – why advocacy organizations form and how they are able to influence Washington lawmakers – Thomas Holyoke shows students the inner workings interest groups in the United States, using case studies to bring into sharp focus the issues surrounding lobbying in Washington, DC.

Public Leadership in the Trump Era

Diane J. Heith

This book explores one of the most disruptive aspects of the Trump presidency. Comparing President Trump's communications apparatus as well as rhetoric (including Twitter) to previous presidents, Diane Heith demonstrates how Trump exercises leadership through adhering to some of the norms and expectations, but rejects, abandons and undermines most. She concludes that the loss of skill and capacity is a devolution of the White House institution dedicated to public leadership, especially in the legislative arena. This book will appeal to students and scholars of the presidency as well as general readers who quest for a deeper understanding of the Trump White House in particular.

Social Class and Voting Behavior in Contemporary America

Charles Prysby

This book examines the changing relationship between social class and voting behavior in contemporary America. At the end of the 20th century, working-class white voters were significantly more Democratic than their middle-class counterparts. By the second decade of the 21st century, that relationship had reversed. While Trump accentuated this trend, the change began before 2016, something that has not been fully appreciated or understood. In this study, Charles L. Prysby describes and explains the underlying causes of the change that has taken place over the past two decades, identifying how social class is directly related to partisan choice.

Gordon Friedrichs offers a pioneering insight into the implications of domestic polarization for US foreign policymaking and international relations. Friedrichs applies role theory to analyze three polarization effects for US leadership role-taking – a sorting effect, a partisan warfare, and an institutional corrosion effect. These effects are then deployed in two comparative case studies on the Iran nuclear crisis and the negotiations of the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement. U.S. Global Leadership Role and Domestic Polarization is a rich resource for scholars of International Relations, Foreign Policy Analysis, American Government and Polarization.

The Routledge Handbook of British Politics and Society

Edited by Mark Garnett, University of Lancaster, UK
 Series: Routledge International Handbooks

The Routledge Handbook of British Politics and Society conducts a rigorous, innovative and distinctive analysis of the relationship between British politics and society, emphasizing that the UK is now far from a monolithic, and unshifting, entity. Examining the subject matter with unrivalled breadth and depth, it highlights and interrogates key contemporary debates on the future of the UK, the nature of 'Britishness', and the merits of multiculturalism, as well as contemporary criticisms of traditional institutions and the nature of representative democracy itself.

British Prime Ministers from Walpole to Salisbury

Dick Leonard, Journalist, author, former Labour MP

This book surveys the lives and careers of all the 32 Prime Ministers from Sir Robert Walpole (1721-42) to Archibald Philip Primrose, 5th Earl of Rosebery (1894-95) in 32 succinct, informative and entertaining chapters. Bringing to life the political achievements and personal idiosyncrasies of Britain's rulers, the author recounts the circumstances which took them to the pinnacle of British political life, probes their political and personal strengths and weaknesses, assesses their performance in office and asks what lasting influence they have had. This book is also part of a 2-volume set with the companion Modern British Prime Ministers from Balfour to Johnson

Amateur Hour

Presidential Character and the Question of Leadership

Lara M. Brown

This book assesses the impact of presidential character on the popularity, productivity, and ethics of contemporary presidents. Through comparative analyses, author Lara Brown demonstrates that the character of a president's leadership does not change in office and that the success of future presidents can be evaluated before they step into the White House. She traces the rise of "amateur outsiders," like Donald Trump, and asserts the need for systemic reform and cultural reassessment of presidential character. Intended for students and scholars of the presidency, this book also holds appeal for general readers who seek understanding of past and future presidential elections.

Building Inclusive Elections

Edited by Toby S. James, University of East Anglia and Holly Ann Garnett, McGill University, Canada

This book defines the concept of inclusive voting practices to refer to policy instruments which can reduce turnout inequality between groups and mitigate other inequalities within the electoral process. Studies from around the world then examine how policies can affect inclusivity on election day. This includes research on enfranchising felons and migrant communities, compulsory voting, voter id requirements, voter registration practices, investment in electoral management, gendered electoral violence, accessible voting practices, overseas voting.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Policy Studies.

Democracy, the Courts, and the Liberal State

A Comparative Analysis of American and German Constitutionalism

David J. Miles

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

Reformulating a problem of both constitutionalism and liberalism, David Miles argues that constitutionalism cannot be seen merely as an institutional mechanism to limit government, as it also has a crucial civic dimension upon which the liberal state depends. Through an analysis of judicial interventions in the United States and Germany, Miles explores the role of civil society actors in transforming constitutionalism through legal challenges to oligarchical or exclusionary practices. Democracy, the Courts, and the Liberal State will be of interest to scholars, students, and practitioners interested in comparative politics, political theory, and constitutional law and history.

Political Management

The Dance of Government and Politics

Jennifer Lees-Marshment, University Of Auckland, New Zealand

Political Management lays out the core tools to manage government, campaigns and parties. The first book to combine management concepts with politics and government, it provides core theories for what Political Planning, Political HR, Political Organising, Political Leadership and Political Reviewing involve.

By offering a clear sense of what political management involves and providing the theoretical frameworks for empirical research, this book will stimulate significant future study. It will be invaluable to practitioners, scholars and students in politics, government, policy, leadership, management, public administration, and political management.

Environmental Federalism

Old Legacies and New Challenges

Luke Fowler

In Environmental Federalism, Luke Fowler helps to refocus much needed attention on the role of state governments in environmental policy creation and implementation in the United States. Examining patterns of pollution and case studies, Fowler explores two questions: has environmental federalism worked in managing legacy environmental problems and can it work to manage climate change? In order to answer these questions, Fowler extends James Lester's typology using political incentives and administrative capacities to identify four types of states, and assesses how they are linked to the success of federal environmental programs and conflicts in intergovernmental relations.

The Ethics of "Geoengineering" the Global Climate

Justice, Legitimacy and Governance

Edited by Stephen M. Gardiner, Catriona McKinnon and Augustin Fragnière

This book gathers contributions from leading political philosophers on the justice and legitimacy of engineering the planet on a global scale. It is widely recognized that geoengineering raises critical questions about who will control planetary interventions, and what responsibilities they will have. Central to these questions are issues of justice and political legitimacy. This book gathers contributions from leading voices and rising stars in political philosophy to respond.

Between Class and Discourse: Left Intellectuals in Defence of Capitalism

Boris Kagarlitsky, The Moscow School of Social and Economic Sciences, Russia

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

This provocative book addresses the ideological and political crisis of the Western left, comparing it with the problems facing leftist politics in Russia and other countries. The author presents a radical critique of the current state of the Western left which puts discourse above class interest and politics of diversity above politics of social change. This book speaks directly to the way the identity politics / class politics divide has been framed within the English-speaking world. British Fascism After the Holocaust

From the Birth of Denial to the Notting Hill Riots 1939–1958

Joe Mulhall, HOPE not hate, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book explores the policies and ideologies of a number of individuals and groups that attempted to re-launch fascist, antisemitic, and racist politics in the wake of World War II and the Holocaust. This book treads new historical ground and shines a light onto the most understudied period of British fascism, whilst simultaneously adding to our understanding of the evolving ideology of fascism, the persistent nature of antisemitism, and the blossoming of Britain's anti-immigration movement. It will primarily appeal to scholars and students with an interest in the history of fascism, antisemitism and the Holocaust, racism, immigration, and post-war Britain.

European Identities and Foreign Policy Discourses on Russia

From the Ukraine to the Syrian Crisis

Marco Siddi

Series: Routledge Studies in European Foreign Policy

This book examines the relationship between national identity construction and current foreign policy discourses on Russia in selected European Union member states in 2014–2018. It shows that divergent national discourses on Russia derive from the different ways in which the country was constructed in national identity. The book develops an interpretive theoretical framework and argues that policy makers' agency can profoundly influence the contestation between different identity narratives.

Lost Imperium

Far Right Visions of the British Empire, c.1920–1980

Paul Stocker, University of Northampton, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book examines, for the first time, the role of Britain's Empire in far-right thought between 1920 and 1980. Throughout these turbulent decades, upheaval in the Empire combined with declining British world power was frequently discussed and reflected upon in far-right publications, as were radical policies designed to revitalise British imperialism. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of British fascism, empire, imperialism, racial and ethnic studies, and political history.

Representation and Cohesion Dilemmas for a "sui generis" Polity

Edited by Maurizio Cotta, Università di Siena, Italy and

Pierangelo Isernia, Università di Siena, Italy

Series: Routledge Advances in European Politics

This book explores the mechanisms of political representation and accountability in the European political system, against the backdrop of multiple crises in recent years in the economic, financial, security and immigration fields, which have triggered strong tensions and centrifugal drives inside the EU and among its Member states. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union and more broadly to comparative European politics and international relations.

7th Edition

The European Union

Politics and Policies

Jonathan Olsen, Texas Woman's University, USA

Thoroughly revised, the seventh edition of this accessible and highly respected text provides a rigorous yet digestible introduction to the European Union. Additionally, it authoritatively explains developments that continue to bring challenges to this powerful institution in times of great political change. Key features include: sustained discussion of transformative and historical change in the upheaval of Brexit and its ramifications; thorough reflection on destabilising issues such as immigration and the years of refugee crisis in Europe, and the rise of populism; and increased coverage throughout of women or minorities within the EU.

An Intellectual History of the Rightward Shift in Dutch Politics

Merijn Oudenampsen, University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

In the past twenty years, a wave of right-wing populist movements has swept over Europe, changing the face of European politics. The Netherlands has been one of the more iconic countries to partake in this shift. Known internationally as an emblem of progressivism and tolerance, the country soon became a frontrunner in the revival of nationalist and anti-immigrant sentiment. This is the first study to offer an extensive engagement with the ideas behind the Dutch swing to the right.; This text will be essential reading for students and scholars in the fields of European Studies and Political Science, and Dutch politics and society more specifically.

Fighting for Abortion Rights in Latin America

Social Movements, State Allies and Institutions

Cora Fernández Anderson, Mount Holyoke College, USA

In this book, Cora Fernández Anderson examines the role social movements play in abortion reform to show how different interaction patterns with state actors have led to three different policy outcomes: comprehensive abortion reform in Uruguay; moderate abortion reform in Chile; and no legal abortion reform in Argentina. Synthesizing a broad range of literature and drawing on in depth field and archival research, she analyses the strength of the campaigns for abortion reform, their relationships with leftist parties in power and the context of church-state relations to explain this diverging trajectory in policy reform.

Women, Gender and Conditional Cash Transfers

Interdisciplinary Perspectives from Studies of Bolsa Família

Edited by Teresa Sacchet, Federal University of Bahia, Brazil, Silvana Mariano, State University of Londrina, Brazil and Cássia Maria Carloto, State University of Londrina, Brazil

In Women, Gender and Conditional Cash Transfers, a multidisciplinary group of feminist scholars use survey data analysis, in-depth interviews, and ethnographic and archival research to explore to what extent Bolsa Família in Brazil contributes to women's autonomy and improves gender relations. The authors captures perspectives from different regions of Brazil to explain these regional social inequalities and provide historical and up-to-date insights of this program from a feminist perspective. This book will be of great interest not only to scholars of Latin American politics, but also to students of development policy, public policy and gender.

Fundamental Feminism

Radical Feminist History for the Future

Judith Grant

In Fundamental Feminism, Judith Grant explores the evolution of feminist theory as well as the state of today's feminist thought. Pointing to the main problems within feminism, Grant calls for a substantial revision of the core concepts responsible for shaping today's feminist theory. Grant identifies and critiques three core concepts in feminist theory – "woman," "experience," and "personal politics" – from their origins in pamphlets and writings in the early women's liberation movement to their current construction in feminist thought.

Free Trade Agreements and Global Labour Governance

The European Union's Trade-Labour Linkage in a Value Chain World

Adrian Smith, Queen Mary University of London, UK, James Harrison, University of Warwick, UK, Liam Campling, Queen Mary University of London, UK, Ben Richardson, University of Warwick, UK and Mirela Barbu, University of Sussex, UK
Series: RIPE Series in Global Political Economy

Exploring the contentious relationship between trade and labour, this book looks at the impact of the EU's 'new generation' free trade agreements on workers. Drawing upon extensive original research, including over 200 interviews with key actors across the EU and its trading partners, it considers the effectiveness of the trade-labour linkage in an era of global value chains. This book will appeal to research scholars, post-graduate students, trade policy practitioners, policy researchers allied to labour movements, and informed activists.

Peace and Rural Development in Colombia

The Window for Distributive Change in Negotiated Transitions

Andrés García Trujillo

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

In Peace and Rural Development in Colombia Andrés García Trujillo investigates whether peace agreements geared towards terminating internal armed conflicts trigger rural distributive changes. García Trujillo shows that the peace agreement in Colombia opened an exceptional window for addressing rural inequality yet this change was severely constrained by opposing actors within and outside the government. The original theoretical framework and empirically rich analysis make this book an indispensable read to scholars and practitioners who wish to gain an understanding on the political economy of peace-making, policy change and rural development in

The Redesign of the Global Financial Architecture

State Authority, New Risks and Dynamics

Stuart P. M. Mackintosh, Group of Thirty, USA

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

More than ten years on from the most intense phase of the global financial crisis, and the collective international response in the G20 summit in London, a 'new normal' has emerged with systems in place to mitigate against further banking crises. This updated new edition analyzes this post-crisis international and national regulatory framework and asks whether the current paradigm is fit for purpose as new dangers gestate and develop. A Cultural Interpretation of the Genocide Convention

Kurt Mundorff

Series: Routledge Studies in Genocide and Crimes against Humanity

This book critiques the dominant physical and biological interpretation of the Genocide Convention and argues that the idea of "culture" is central to properly understanding the crime of genocide. This volume poses a forceful challenge to the materialist interpretation and calls into question decades of international case law. It will be of interest to scholars of genocide, human rights, international law, the history of international law and human rights, and treaty interpretation.

A Theory of Master Role Transition

Small Powers Shaping Regional Hegemons

Feliciano de Sá Guimarães

Series: Role Theory and International Relations

In this book, Feliciano de Sá Guimarães proposes a theory of master role transitions to explain how small powers can change regional powers master roles without changing the regional material power distribution. Master role transition is the replacement of an active dominant master role by a dormant or inactive role located within one's role repertoire. Guimarães argues that only a combination of four necessary conditions can produce a full master role transition: asymmetrical material interdependence, altercating, domestic contestation, and regional contestation.

Authoritarian Gravity Centers

A Cross-Regional Study of Authoritarian Promotion and Diffusion

Edited by Marianne Kneuer and Thomas Demmelhuber, Friedrich-Alexander-University Erlangen-Nürnberg, Germany

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

Employing a cross-regional approach, leading experts empirically test the concept of Authoritarian Gravity Centers (AGC). With an analysis extending across Latin America, the Middle East, Eastern Europe, Central Asia and Asia, these AGCs are shown to be effective as active promoter (push) or as neutral source of attraction (pull). The authors contend that the influence of exogenous factors, along with international and regional contexts for the transformation of regime types, are vital to understand and analyze the transmission of autocratic institutional settings, ideas, norms, procedures and practices, thus explaining the regional clustering of autocracies.

Human Rights Monitoring and Implementation

How To Make Rights 'Real' in Children's Lives

Edited by Andressa Gadda, Juliet Harris, E. Kay M. Tisdall, Elizabeth Millership and Ursula Kilkelly

Children's human rights are internationally recognised in the legally binding international treaty—the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the most ratified of all human rights treaties. This collection brings together the latest research on new approaches to embedding children's rights into national law and policies, with contributions from academics, practitioners and importantly young activists, from the UK and beyond.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Human Rights.

Ideologies in Action

Morphological Adaptation and Political Ideas

Edited by Mathew Humphrey, University of Nottingham, UK, David Laycock, Simon Fraser University, Canada and Maiken Umbach

Ideologies in Action: Morphological Adaptation and Political Ideas explores how political ideas move across geographical, social and chronological boundaries. Focusing on North American and European case studies ranging from populist tax revolts through parenting advice manuals to online learning environments, the contributors propose new methods for understanding how political entrepreneurs, intellectuals, and ordinary citizens deploy and re-define ideologies.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Political Ideologies.

Infrastructure Communication in International Relations

Carolijn van Noort

Series: Routledge Studies in Global Information, Politics and Society

Using a case study approach, Carolijn van Noort examines how rising powers communicate about infrastructure internationally and discusses the significance of these communication practices. The four case studies include BRICS's summit communications about infrastructure, Brazil's infrastructure promises to Africa, China's communication of the Belt and Road Initiative in East Africa, and Kazakh's news media coverage of China's Belt and Road Initiative. Infrastructure Communication in International Relations is a welcome and timely book of interest to students and scholars in the field of International Relations, global communications and the politics of infrastructure.

Institutional Transformations

Imagination, Embodiment, and Affect

Edited by Danielle Celermajer, Millicent Churcher and Moira Gatens

Formal and informal institutions structure our social interactions by giving rise to normative expectations and patterns of collective behaviour. This collection grapples with how affect, imagination, and embodiment can operate to either constrain or enable the justice of institutions and the experiences of specific social identities.

6th Edition

International Human Rights

Jack Donnelly, University of Denver, USA and Daniel J. Whelan, Hendrix College, USA

Fully updated, the sixth edition of this book examines the ways in which states and other international actors have addressed human rights since the end of World War II. It features substantial attention to theory, history, international and regional institutions, and the role of transnational actors in the protection and promotion of human rights. It has been substantially revised throughout, including new material on LGBTQ rights in Africa, Indigenous peoples' rights in Guatemala, the Rohingya crisis in Myanmar, and a new chapter on human rights and development.

International Relations from the Global South

Worlds of Difference

Edited by Arlene B. Tickner, Universidad del Rosario, Bogotá, Colombia and Karen Smith, Leiden University, Netherlands
Series: Worlding Beyond the West

This exciting new textbook challenges the implicit notions inherent in most existing International Relations (IR) scholarship and instead presents the subject as seen from different vantage points in the global South.

This book encourages professors and students in both the global North and the global South envision the world differently. In addition to general, introductory IR courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels it will appeal to courses on sociology and historiography of knowledge, globalization, neoliberalism, security, the state, imperialism and international political economy.

5th Edition

International Relations Theory

Cynthia Weber, University of Sussex, UK

The fifth edition of this innovative textbook introduces students to the main theories in International Relations. It explains and analyses each theory, allowing students to understand and critically engage with the myths and assumptions behind them. Each theory is illustrated using the example of a popular film. This breakthrough textbook has been designed to unravel the complexities of international relations theory in a way that gives students a clearer idea of how the theories work, and of the myths associated with them.

International Secretariats

Two Centuries of International Civil Servants and Secretariats

Edited by Bob Reinalda, Radboud Universiteit Nijmegen, the Netherlands

Series: Global Institutions

Providing a comprehensive overview of two centuries of international civil servants and international secretariats, this book reveals how international secretariats have emerged and evolved, focusing on both structures and the practitioners. The book fills a gap in the literature by exploring the full evolution of international secretariats, covering global and continental developments as well as regional integration practices.

Secretariats have become the leading actors in multilateral diplomacy particularly for dealing with complex issues and this book will be of interest to all scholars of global governance and practitioners working for a range of international organizations.

Intersectional Decoloniality

Reimagining International Relations and the Problem of Difference

Edited by Marcos S. Scauso, Quinnipiac University, USA

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

This book assesses diverse ways to think about "others" while also emphasizing the advantages of decolonial intersectionality. The author analyzes the struggles that emerge among Andean indigenous intellectuals, governmental projects, and IR scholars from the Global North. This book is aimed primarily at students, scholars, and educated practitioners of IR, but its engagement with diverse literature, discussions of epistemic politics, and normative implications crosses boundaries of Political Science, Sociology, Gender Studies, Latin American Studies, and Anthropology.

Liberal Ideals and the Politics of Decolonisation

Edited by H. Kumarasingham, Max Planck Institute of European Legal History, Germany

Liberal Ideals and the Politics of Decolonisation explores the subject of Liberalism and its uses and contradictions across the late British Empire, especially in the context of imperial dissolution and subsequent state-building. It exposes commonalities, contradictions and contexts of different types of liberalism that animated the late British Empire and its Rulers, Radicals, Subjects and Citizens as they attempted to forge new states from its shadow and understand the impact of imperialism.

Long Term Perspectives in Evaluation

Increasing Relevance and Utility

Edited by Kim Forss, Andante – tools for thinking AB, Sweden, Ida Lindkvist, Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (Norad), Norway and Mark McGillivray, Deakin University, Australia

Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

This book is the first to advocate the virtues of a long-term perspective for policy evaluation as well as to show how evaluations can take a longer time perspective than they usually do. Cases discussed include: education sector reforms in Sweden, local governance reforms in Denmark, policy interventions in southern Italy and Brazil and Paris declaration principles of aid effectiveness such as Swedish aid to Tanzania, Vietnam, Laos and Sri Lanka. Divided into three parts, and bringing together a rich collection of insights and a renowned group of experts, Long Term Perspectives in Evaluation: Increasing Relevance and Utility, constitutes a significant perspective in the field.

Neutrality and Vulnerable States

An Analysis of Afghanistan's Permanent Neutrality

Nasir Ahmad Andisha

This book offers a timely and concise academic and historical background to the concept and practice of neutrality, a relatively new phenomenon in foreign and security policy. The author approaches two key questions: under what circumstances can permanent neutrality be applied and, what are the main ingredients of success and the causes of failure, in applying permanent neutrality? An insightful book for all scholars, students and policy-makers working in International Relations, Security Studies, the history of neutrality and Afghanistan studies.

Non-Territorial Autonomy and Decentralization

Ethno-Cultural Diversity Governance

Edited by Tove H. Malloy and Levente Salat, Babes-Bolyai University, Romania

Series: Routledge Studies in Federalism and Decentralization

This volume describes and analyzes alternative and emerging models of non-territorial autonomy (NTA), particularly in relation to decentralization. With contemporary examples from Europe, the Middle East, Asia and South Africa, as well as theoretical aspects of the conceptualization of autonomy, this book offers a truly global perspective. It will be of great interest to policy-makers in countries experiencing adverse developments due to the pressure on public management, as well as advanced students and scholars questioning the ability of the Westphalian system to address cultural diversity.

Politics as a Science

A Prolegomenon

Philippe C. Schmitter, European University Institute, Italy and Marc Blecher, Oberlin College and Conservatory, USA
Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

In Politics as a Science, two of the world's leading authorities on Comparative Politics, Philippe C. Schmitter and Marc Blecher, provide a lively introduction to the concepts and framework to study and analyze politics. Schmitter and Blecher keep the text broadly conceptual and theoretical to convey their vision of the sprawling subject of politics. They map the process in which researchers try to specify the goal of the trip, some of the landmarks likely to be encountered en route, and the boundaries that will circumscribe the effort. This book is an ideal introduction for anyone interested in, or studying, Comparative Politics.

Political Violence and the Imagination

Complicity, Memory and Resistance

Edited by Mathias Thaler and Mihaela Mihai

Using a variety of theoretical reflections and empirically grounded case studies, this book examines how certain kinds of imagination – political, artistic, historical, philosophical – help us tackle the challenge of comprehending and responding to various forms of political violence. In doing so, this book opens up a forum for an inclusive and reflexive debate on the role that the imagination can play in unpacking complex issues of political violence.

River Basin Organizations in Water Diplomacy

Edited by Anoulak Kittikhoun, Mekong River Commission, Laos and Susanne Schmeier, IHE Delft Institute for Water Education, The Netherlands

Series: Global Institutions

Will tensions and disputes among states sharing international water courses and lakes turn into active conflicts? Addressing this question, the book shows that these concerns are more prominent due to the locations and underlying political dynamics of some of these large rivers and the strategic interests of major powers. Contributing to the academic discourse on transboundary water management and water conflict and cooperation, the book provides insights to policy-makers on which water diplomacy engagements can be successful, the strengths to build on, and the pitfalls to avoid so that shared water resources are managed in a cooperative, sustainable and stable way.

Solidarity and Public Goods

Edited by Avigail Ferdman and Margaret Kohn

In the wake of health and economic crises across the world, solidarity is emerging as both a moral imperative and urgent social goal. This book approaches solidarity as a political good, both a framework of power structures and grounds for moral motivation. The distinct approaches to public goods and social value demonstrate how social connectedness is intricately tied to the distribution of public goods, and the moral commitments that grow out of them.

The Routledge Handbook to Rethinking Ethics in International Relations

Birgit Schippers

Discussing cutting-edge debates in the field of international ethics, this key volume builds on existing work in the normative study of international relations (IR). It challenges established approaches and examines new perspectives on international ethics, and that appraises the ethical implications of problems occupying students and scholars of IR in the twenty-first century. Interdisciplinary in its scope, this book will be an important resource for scholars and students in the fields of politics and IR, philosophy, law and sociology, and a useful reference for anyone who wishes to acquire 'ethical competence' in the area of IR.

The Realpolitik of Evaluation

Why Demand and Supply Rarely Intersect

Edited by Markus Palenberg and Arne Paulson

Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

This book shines a light on the divergent demands for evaluation. Examining questions from both the demand and the supply side, experts analyze ten different global examples of the gap between demand and supply of evaluation information in different contexts. In an attempt to bridge that gap, they effectively expose the biases behind supposedly non-partisan sources of evaluation information and highlight the pros and cons of attempts to bridge the gap through a variety of methods. The Realpolitik of Evaluation is an important book that poses questions at multiple levels of thinking. It will be of great interest to policy-makers, program implementers, and project managers.

On Biopolitics

An Inquiry into Nature and Language

Marco Piasentier, University of Kent, Centre for Critical Thought

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

In On Biopolitics, Marco Piasentier discusses one of the most persistent questions in biopolitical theory: the divide between nature and language. Taking his cue from Foucault's exhortation to think philologically and biologically, Piasentier makes Biopolitical theory the center of gravity for an investigation that traverses the main theoretical and methodological frameworks which have informed the biopolitical debate on nature and language. Piasentier puts into question the command of language and the ends of nature: two vestiges of a 'human, all too human' worldview that preclude the possibility of thinking philologically and biologically about biopolitics.

Sheldon Wolin and Democracy

Seeing Through Loss

Lucy Cane

Lucy Cane presents the first full-length study of Sheldon Wolin (1922-2015), an influential theorist of democracy and prescient critic of "inverted totalitarianism" in the United States. She traces the development of Wolin's thinking over sixty years by offering an overarching interpretation of his central preoccupations and shifts in perspective. Framed around themes of loss and mourning, this is not only an intellectual biography, but also a critical engagement of Wolin's work with democratic theory more broadly and an assessment of its value for addressing contemporary crises of democracy.

Bodies, Minds, and Perceptions in an Accelerating World

Simon Glezos, University of Victoria, USA

This book provides a theoretical framework for understanding the micropolitics of speed; a rich, nuanced, and embodied account of life in an accelerating world. While drawing extensively on the work of contemporary theorists, Simon Glezos recognizes that social acceleration is not a purely recent phenomenon. He therefore turns to thinkers such as Nietzsche, Spinoza, Bergson and Merleau-Ponty, to ask how they sought to understand, and respond to, the rapid changes and unsettling temporalities of their eras, and how their insights can be applied to our own.

The Emergence of Illiberalism

Understanding a Global Phenomenon

Edited by Boris Vormann and Michael D. Weinman

This volume draws on the analytical resources of various disciplines and public policy approaches to reflect on the current standing of liberal democracy. Leading social scientists from different disciplinary backgrounds aim to examine the ideological and structural roots of the current crisis of liberal democracies, in the West and beyond, conceptually and empirically. Divided into two main parts, and featuring case studies from across the globe, The Emergence of Illiberalism will be of key interest to teachers and students of politics, sociology, political theory and comparative government.

The Sovereign

Stephen Eric Bronner, Rutgers University, USA

The Sovereign responds to pressing political issues of our time, like immigration and refugees, transnationalism and populism, the prospects for democracy, and the relationship between civil society and the state. The chapters trace the concept of sovereignty from its origins in political theory, providing perspective and insights that leave the reader with a phenomenological sketch of the sovereign. Bronner transforms our ideas about political power, what it is, how it has been used and how can be used. His new theory of sovereignty concludes with twenty-five provocative theses on the sovereign's role in modern capitalist society.

Wild Animal Ethics

The Moral and Political Problem of Wild Animal Suffering

Kyle Johannsen, Trent University, Canada

In this book Kyle Johannsen argues that we have a duty to research safe ways of providing large-scale assistance to wild animals. Using concepts from moral and political philosophy to analyze the issue of wild animal suffering (WAS), Johannsen explores how a collective, institutional obligation to assist wild animals should be understood. He claims that with enough research, genetic editing may one day give us the power to safely intervene without perpetually interfering with wild animals' liberties. Wild Animal Ethics is essential for students and scholars of political philosophy and political theory studying animal ethics, environmental ethics, and environmental philosophy.

City Sextons

Tales from Municipal Leaders

Staci M. Zavattaro, University of Central Florida, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Public Administration and Public Policy

City sextons are a dying breed and in this book sextons from throughout the United States share their experiences as a city's chief death expert. With a view to investigating their role in local governance processes, how they contribute to public engagement in cities and what are some misconceptions about this role, Staci M. Zavattaro sheds light on unique public servants that are rarely – if at all – discussed in public administration research. City Sextons as Municipal Leaders will be of key interest to scholars studying public management, emotional labor, and leadership.

Collaborative Performance Management for Public Health

A Practical Guide

Amanda E. McCarty, Sonja M. Armbruster and John W. Moran

Written by leaders in public health performance management and quality improvement, this book carefully explains what public health performance management is – and makes a strong case for why it is needed to tackle successfully the long-standing health issues plaguing communities and states. Notably, the book eschews the need to invest in technology or to learn a new performance management vocabulary. Collaborative Performance Management for Public Health is required reading for all public health leaders and employees concerned with maximizing the health impact of scarce resources.

Ethics for Contemporary Bureaucrats

Navigating Constitutional Crossroads

Edited by Nicole M. Elias and Amanda M. Olejarski

Ethics for Contemporary Bureaucrats is organized around three constitutional values: freedom, property, and social equity. These themes are based on emerging trends in public administration and balanced with traditional ethical models. Each chapter provides an overview of a contemporary ethical issue, identifies key actors, institutions, legal and legislative policy, and offers normative and practical recommendations to address the challenges the issue poses. Rooted in a respected and time-tested intellectual history, this volume speaks to bureaucrats in a modern era of governance.

Global Equity in Administration

Nervous Areas of Governments

Edited by Susan T. Gooden

Governments around the world face the challenge of espousing principles of fairness but practicing inequity in their administration. This volume explores and expands our understanding of the concept of nervousness in the administration of government services around the world, demonstrating the ways in which such an emotional and physical reaction can debilitate government actions that are needed to promote social equity and justice. Each of the chapters in this edited volume focuses on a single country and examines a specific nervous area of government, highlighting important historical and political considerations, as well as specific evidence of promising progress.

Public Sector Strategy Design

Theory and Practice for Government and Nonprofit Organizations

David McNabb and Chung-Shing Lee

In this book, authors David McNabb and Chung-Shing Lee examine five frameworks public sector organization managers have followed when designing public sector strategies. Its purpose is to serve as a guide for managers and administrators of large and small public organizations and agencies. Including chapters on game theory, competitive forces, resources-based view, dynamic capabilities, and network governance, the authors demonstrate ways that real managers of public sector and civil society organization have put strategic management to work in their organizations. This book will be of interest to both practicing and aspiring public servants.
