Interrelationships Between Sport and the Arts

Edited by Jonathan Long, Leeds Beckett University, UK and Doug Sandle, Leeds Beckett University, UK

Series: Sport in the Global Society – Contemporary Perspectives

This multidisciplinary collection examines different dimensions of the interrelationships between sport and the arts. It is a consequence of the Fields of Vision initiative that challenges their typical separation into distinct realms. The papers in this book shed new light on sport and the arts as representations of cultural identity and embodying processes of social change.

This book represents a valuable resource for researchers and advanced students of Sports, Visual Art, Literature, History, Sociology and Social Theory, and Cultural Studies. It was originally published as a special issue of Sport in Society

Leisure Myths and Mythmaking

Edited by Brett Lashua, University College London, UK, Simon Baker, University of Sheffield, UK and Troy Glover, University of Waterloo, Canada

This book centralizes powerful leisure stories that may otherwise be understood as myths—sometimes recognized, often less so—that circulate in the field of leisure studies and beyond.

As the chapters in this edited volume explore in further detail, leisure myths and mythmaking involve complex relations in the gaps between reality and imagination—from the shared myths of musical legends to myths of placemaking and communities, as well as from origin myths of sport practices to fantasy and festivals, to the importance of storytelling as mythmaking in tourism.

Leisure, Activism, and the Animation of the Urban Environment

Edited by I R Lamond, Leeds Beckett University, UK, Brett Lashua, University College London, UK and Chelsea Reid, Leeds Beckett University, UK

This book brings together chapters that address questions of leisure, activism, and the animation of urban environments.

Situated in a growing body of activist scholarship and social justice research, within the field of leisure studies, the contributions spotlight understandings, and disruptions of public spaces in cities. These range from overtly political practices such as protest marches to recreational practices such as skateboarding and bicycling that remake cities through their contestations of space.

Affect and Emotion in Tourism

Edited by Dorina-Maria Buda, Nottingham Trent University, UK and Jennie Germann Molz

Bringing affect and emotion to the forefront of tourism studies, this book presents a new generation of scholars who consolidate emerging affective approaches and establish a route for scholarship that examines the roles of emotion and affect in tourism. Along with the contributors, the editors make a case for thinking about emotions and affects through collective and individual practices as interrelated shaping tourism encounters in and with places. That is, to break it down as doing, and as shared between bodies and places through the doing. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Geographies

Developing Age-Friendly Communities in the UK

Re-creating Places and Spaces

Edited by Stephen J. Page, University of Hertfordshire, UK and Joanne Connell

The ageing population is a global societal issue. Policymakers, planners, and the public, third and private sectors must rethink the delivery of built environment and services to meet the needs of a changing demographic. This is the first book to systematically review the evolution, development and progress of age-friendly thinking in the UK. The book has interest for all communities engaged in age-friendly activity, offering exemplars of best practice, achievements in transforming local communities and views on the meaning of ageing. It offers a thought-provoking read for anyone with an interest in this expanding area of ageing, irrespective of disciplinary focus.

Diasporic Mobilities on Vacation

Tourism of European-Moroccans at home

Edited by Lauren Wagner

Series: Routledge Insights in Tourism Series

Diasporic Mobilities on Vacation is a nuanced exploration of the embodied and affective practices of Moroccans from Europe visiting Morocco for summer vacation. Rather than characterizing them as uncomfortably split between homelands, this book focuses on how their touristic leisure practices create their own space of diasporic belonging.

An expert on Moroccan diaspora communities and mobile lifestyles, the book draws on multi-sited and mobile ethnographic research to take the reader along on the journey 'home' and experience the daily lives of diasporic visitors.

Folklore, People, and Places

International Perspectives on Tourism and Tradition in Storied Places

Edited by Jack Hunter and Rachael Ironside, Robert Gordon University, Scotland

Series: Routledge Advances in Tourism and Anthropology

Folklore, People and Place is a contribution towards better understanding the complex interconnectivity of folklore, people and place, across a range of different cultural and geographical contexts. The book showcases a range of international case studies from different cultural and ecological contexts showing how folklore can and does mediate human relationships with people and place.

Folklore has traditionally been connected to place, telling tales of the land and the real and imaginary beings that inhabit storied places.

Gender and Tourism Sustainability

Edited by Claudia Eger, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark, Ana María Munar, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark and Cathy H.C. Hsu, PolyU, Hong Kong

This book examines the relationship between gender and sustainability in tourism. Whilst an extensive body of work exists in the areas of gender and sustainability, these two fields of knowledge are seldom combined to examine tourism phenomena. The aim of this book is to reflect on and rethink the intersection of gender and tourism sustainability through the lens of gender theory and feminist epistemology to stay with the trouble and devise pathways for sustainability gender knowledge. ## Intersections of Tourism, Migration, and Exile

Edited by Natalia Bloch and Kathleen Adams

This book challenges the classic—and often tacit—compartmentalization of tourism, migration, and refugee studies by exploring the intersections of these forms of spatial mobility: each prompts distinctive images and moral reactions, yet they often intertwine, overlap, and influence one another.

Tourism, migration, and exile evoke widely varying policies and popular reactions, as well as contrasting imagery. What are the ramifications of these siloed conceptions for people on-the-move? To what extent do gender, class, ethnic, and racial global inequalities shape moral discourses surrounding people's movements?

Migration, Tourism and Social Sustainability

Edited by Jaeyeon Choe and Peter Lugosi

The distinctions between tourism and migration are increasingly blurred. Tourism often drives various forms of mobility, and an international workforce is essential to maintaining functioning tourism economies. This book explores intersections of tourism and migration, considering their relationships with and impacts on social sustainability.

This book will be of great value to students, academics, and researchers interested in tourism, geography, migration/diaspora studies and sociology. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Geographies.

Peace Through Tourism

Critical Reflections on the Intersections between Peace, Justice and Sustainable Development

Edited by Freya Higgins-Desbiolles, Lynda-Ann Blanchard and Yoko Urbain, Soka University, Japan

Peace through Tourism considers the possibilities for tourism to contribute to efforts to unmask conflict and promote peace. This edited volume considers the intersections between tourism, peace, justice and sustainability through conceptual and empirical works surveying practices, problems and challenges all around the globe. It presents a complex and critical approach, arguing that peace through tourism is dialogic and not as simple as describing a few "good" niche segments of tourism. ## Platform-Mediated Tourism

Social Justice and Urban Governance before and during Covid-19

Edited by Paola Minoia and Salla Jokela

This book presents theoretical and empirical perspectives on platform-mediated tourism, with a special focus on Airbnb. The case studies included in this volume show that the impacts of short-term renting on neighbourhoods, residents and tourism operators are uneven, but increasingly significant. The authors explore issues of social justice in terms of residents' quality of life, working conditions, the housing market, urban structure, the morality of operators who navigate through normative loopholes, and the responsibility issues of platform companies holding data on short-term rentals. The chapters were originally published in the Journal of Sustainable Tourism.

Screen Tourism and Affective Landscapes

The Real, the Virtual, and the Cinematic

Edited by Erik Champion, Christina Lee, Jane Stadler and Robert Moses Peaslee

Series: Routledge Cultural Heritage and Tourism Series

This book explores ways in which screen-based storyworlds transfix, transform, and transport us imaginatively, physically, and virtually to the places they depict or film. Topics include fantasy quests in computer games, celebrity walking tours, dark tourism sites, Hobbiton as theme park, surf movies, and social gangs of Disneyland.

How physical, virtual, and imagined locations create a sense of place through their immediate experience or visitation is undergoing a revolution in technology, travel modes, and tourism behaviour.

From Production to Consumption

Edited by Peter Howland

Series: Routledge Critical Beverage Studies

Wine as commodity has received enormous academic attention, while wine as gift has largely eluded significant dedicated research and analysis. This book addresses this lacuna with insights from leading scholars from a range of disciplines exploring wine as gift in different moments of history, across a variety of production to consumption contexts, and across societies and cultures. The book draws on examples from Australia, China, Croatia, France, Italy, Moldova, United Kingdom and Aotearoa New Zealand. This book significantly enhances understandings of the intertwined economic, societal, political and moral aspects of wine and its production, exchange, and consumption.
